◆ President's Message

Growth and expansion for Phi Psi

Even more important than colonizing new campuses is re-founding dormant chapters

Dear Brothers,

I am happy to report that more than 300 undergraduates and alumni attended the extremely successful Woodrow Wilson Leadership School and District Council meetings in Indianapolis this past August. For the first time, the event focused directly on what it means to be a Phi Psi, and developing the leadership skills necessary to motivate undergraduates to operate their chapters successfully. Terry Harper, our Executive Director, Doug Pszczolkowski, our Director of Chapter Services and WWLS Coordinator, and the entire Headquarters staff are to be commended for a very professionally-executed and carefully planned Leadership School.

The academic year got off to a great start with the installation of Illinois Zeta, our newest chapter, at DePaul University in Chicago on October 9, 1993. The new chapter has already distinguished itself by producing many involved undergraduate leaders on campus and assuming positions of leadership in the DePaul Interfraternity Council. Illinois Zeta is setting high standards for all DePaul fraternities and sororities to emulate.

The installation was followed by the formation of our newest colony at San Diego State University. We are taking a new approach to colonizing chapters or re-establishing dormant chapters. As I have said before, alumni support is the key. It is the position of the Executive Council that no attempt will be made to return to a campus or colonize on a new campus until we first identify a dedicated group of local alumni. They must be committed to establishing a new chapter or re-establishing an inactive chapter at a nearby university, and then working with that group to ensure its success. Once that has taken place, staff assistance will be provided to recruit the undergraduate members. An alumni association was formed in San Diego during the summer. A chapter advisor and advisory committee members have been identified. A house corporation is in the process of formation, and the staff has recruited and established the California Lambda Colony which is committed to growing and obtaining a charter at San Diego State.

We believe that this is the proper approach to get new chapters off to a good start and ensure their success. We have had many chapters that obtained a charter and then struggled for years without alumni support. We want to prevent this situation in the future. Phi Psi should return to many campuses, and will, provided that there is a dedicated group of alumni committed to the chapter's return and success. With this commitment, South Carolina, UC-Berkeley, Oklahoma State, Arkansas, Rider, and many other campuses could proudly fly the Phi Psi banner once again. It all depends on dedicated Phi Psi alumni; YOU can make it happen.

Your Executive Council and Headquarters staff are looking forward to another great year for Phi Kappa Psi. Best wishes for a joyous and happy holiday season to each of you and your families.

Warmest Fraternal Regards,

Richard E. Ong, Oregon State '55

LETTERS TO LOCKERBIE

TO THE EDITOR:

A really great issue [Vol. 113, No. 3], and I'm sure it took a lot of courage for you to run the article "Alcohol Abuse: The Curse of the Greek System."

As a professional counselor who works in the field of substance and alcohol abuse, your contribution coming from the leadership of Phi Kappa Psi is all the more worthwhile.

Some of the undergraduates will object, I am sure, to the great pictures and the story line, but it is about time the leadership of Phi Psi acknowledge the existence of a really great problem for all college adults.

Again, as a professional counselor, thank you. And special congratulations to Jim Harmon!

SPENCER R. QUICK

Illinois '41 · Owensboro, Kentucky

TO THE EDITOR:

I just wanted to let you know how very impressed I was with the most recent issue of The Shield [Vol. 113, No. 3]. You have made the strongest, clearest statement yet about what appropriate behavior is for Phi Psis.

The piece which ran from RIT, and the accompanying photos, are vivid examples to us all of the worst of the image of the American fraternity. That the men were wearing Phi Psi wear shows us that we cannot turn our heads any longer: we have found the enemy, and it is us.

Honorable conduct follows by example what we are taught. Both the Ritual, and the way in which we live our lives as gentlemen and Phi Psis, give valuable insights into what we think of ourselves and each other. The use of the Fraternity's "bully pulpit" is no less a sacred trust than the oaths we take upon becoming members of this fraternity.

You are exercising clear and prudent stewardship of that trust. My congratulations on a job well-done.

REV. DAVID M. McDONALD

Beloit '82 · Dyer, Indiana

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to commend Jim Harmon through you for the outstanding job he did on the photographic essay of the dangers of alcohol abuse.

It was a very personal presentation that realistically shows the less-than-glamorous side of teenage drinking. Flannery O'Connor wrote in an essay: "To the hard of hearing you have to shout; to the almost blind you must draw large and startling images." Brother Harmon has provided us with the startling images.

The photographs remind me of my own time at Dickinson College. While the Fraternity and college during that period gave lip service to Pennsylvania's drinking age — 21 at that time — very little was done to enforce the drinking code.

While there were thankfully no fatalities during my era, I do know that unhealthy patterns of alcohol abuse were established among my colleagues. It is my understanding that the male adolescent's metabolism is underdeveloped sufficiently so that he become addicted to alcohol at a far faster rate than the male adult. Steady patterns of drinking carry on into post-graduate life and can have devastating results on career and family.

REV. JOHN A. MACDONALD

Dickinson '76 · Tegucigalpa, Honduras

TO THE EDITOR:

I wanted to write to congratulate you on the article written and photographed by Jim Harmon in your last issue [Vol. 113, No. 3]. Student behavior relating to alcohol consumption is a difficult issue to tackle, but you did so in a very real and gripping way. Presenting a mirror to behavior is often the best way to get people to re-examine their values. I am sure that Kevin Smith provided a sobering mirror for our members at RIT, unfortunately at the expense of his own life.

Kevin's story is tragic, but a story that needs to be told. I hope your article is the impetus for Phi Delta Theta to examine alcohol abuse in more depth than merely reviewing our risk management policies. If we cannot put aside our fear of bad publicity long enough to show the frightening realities of alcohol abuse, more students like Kevin Smith will surely be sacrificed to ignorance.

TO THE EDITOR:

Please find the enclosed check for the support of the [Woodrow Wilson] Leadership School. We are sending this on behalf of our son, John R. Harper, president of Louisiana Alpha at Louisiana State in 1989.

Phi Psi was such a motivating factor in John's life while at LSU — he loved his fraternity and his lasting friendships from that association. John is now in graduate school at Texas A&M but he will always be a Phi Psi!

ADVISOR PROFILES

Pennsylvania

Well into his sixth year of advising Pennsylvania Iota at the University of Pennsylvania, Bill Staples, Pennsylvania '82, enjoys the friendships he has made with several generations of undergraduates at Penn. He also wants to ensure that the chapter, which was chartered in 1877, and to which he was initiated more than 10 years ago, is around for many years to come.

Born and raised in Rochester, New York, Bill has lived in the Philadelphia area since he began his undergraduate career at the University of Pennsylvania in the late 1970s. Today, Bill works as a production manager for MG Industries, an industrial and specialty gas company. He is currently the vice chair of the Greek Alumni Council at Penn and has also served as house corporation president for Penn Iota.

"One of the biggest changes I see in students just since I started advising Penn Iota six years ago," Bill says, "is that they are under much tighter financial constraints." And because many of the students are paying for college themselves, Bill notes that "the kids seem more serious about their studies."

He is assisted in his advising duties by fellow Penn Iotans Matt Davis, Pennsylvania '84, as membership advisor and by Fred Beckley, Pennsylvania '83, as house corporation president.

Bill's wife Anne-Marie can also be found on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania as an advisor to the Delta Delta Delta Sorority. Bill and Anne-Marie Staples reside in Wayne, Pennsylvania.

Rico Hernandez

Stanford

In his twelfth year as an advisor to California Beta at Stanford University in Palo Alto, California, Enrico 'Rico' Hernandez, Stanford '78, continues to enjoy serving the undergraduate brothers at his chapter. In addition to serving as Chapter Advisor, he serves as the national Fraternity's Assistant Chaplain. A seminarian studying for the Roman Catholic priesthood, he currently ministers at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Mountain View, California. He is the parish's Youth Minister, he teaches in the parish grade school, and he serves the Hispanic community.

"Phi Psis have been very supportive of my vocation," he says. "In fact, it was a fellow Phi Psi, Tim Walsh, Mississippi '80, who helped convince me to enter the religious life. Many Phi Psis have offered me words of encouragement throughout the years. In fact, some of my parishioners in previous assignments are Phi Psis. One who has been very supportive is Carl Bialorucki, Toledo '62. I am ever grateful to those brothers who have supported me in this decision."

On the subject of advising, he says, "Other alumni have assisted me in serving the chapter, namely Alan Weindorf, Stanford '84, Russell Jong, Stanford '83, Anthony Espiritu, Stanford '85, and Kerry Dailey, Stanford '85. I want to thank these alumni brothers for their loyalty to Phi Psi and invite other alumni brothers to step forward to ensure that the Phi Psi banner flies proudly at Stanford." He concludes, "Alumni members of other fraternities may say that they were in the Greek organizations, but Phi Psis are brothers for life. So let us enrich our brotherhood and step forward to serve our chapters and colonies. In doing so, we cannot help but enrich our own lives."

Compiled by John V. Ciccarelli, Cal State Northridge '72, Coordinator of Chapter and Faculty Advisors.

DePaul hosts newest Phi Psi chapter

Two-and-a-half years later, the dream of twelve founding fathers has been realized in Chicago

by Patrick A. Smith, DePaul '93

History

Who knew that on April 20, 1991, when our founders: Nick Defina, Brian Spring, Robert Narrajos, John Pilsen, Lawrence Jones, Sanjay Jutla, Marc Dumas, Terence Heffernan, Jason Heine, Eric Maza, Randy Lockhart, and Chuck Stubbings, founded the Illinois Zeta Colony, that the experience of starting a colony and later having it chartered into a full-fledged chapter would be so rewarding?

Over the past two-and-a-half years, the once-colony of Illinois Zeta at DePaul University has worked diligently to fulfill the requirements of chartering—and beyond. Our now-chapter has established itself as the gentlemanly and scholarly fraternity that Brothers Letterman and Moore envisioned way back in 1852. Sometimes we've had to deal with many negative thoughts against us because we were the "new fraternity" and, because we came to DePaul, the already-established fraternities were losing ground. But we have managed not to let that slow us down.

One of the most unique aspects of the colonization at DePaul was that its founders were not Phi Psis who transferred from other schools; they came together as a group first and then searched long and hard for the "right" fraternity for them. I know that the following pledge classes were (and still are) grateful to the founders for bringing the "noble fraternity" to DePaul.

Installation

For months preceding the final membership exam, the members of Illinois Zeta read and re-read their Manuals in order to pass the test we had all heard about. The night for the test arrived, and we all passed, with most of our brothers answering more than 90 percent of the questions correctly! A much-deserved and long-awaited celebration occurred later that evening, but beforehand, we Illinois Zetans made it known to everybody in the surrounding area that we were on our way to becoming a chapter of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity. Our announcement went something like this: "High! High! High!" — okay, you know the rest.

After a reception on Friday night and the parties that followed, Saturday morning brought the formal installation — time to learn the mysteries of the Fraternity at last. We experienced the Ritual expectantly and were both amazed and grateful. One of the best parts of being chartered and then going through the Ritual was that national officers like President Dick Ong, Vice President David Woodrum, Secretary John D. Watt, Treasurer Greg Knapp, Executive Director Emeritus Dud Daniel, Endowment Fund Trustee John F. Buck, and many other officers and alumni could be there to perform and witness it. It was an experience none of us will soon forget.

Saturday evening came quickly after, allowing us time to mingle with the alumni, Headquarters staff, and national officers. The dinner and ceremony were great, and the view was spectacular! You can imagine what it was like to be on top of the Doral

What you can do for Phi Kappa Psi

Here are ten things you can do right now!*

Coordinator of Alumni & Insurance Services

Alumni are the foundation upon which the Fraternity and all its chapters are built. Phi Kappa Psi is a lifetime experience and alumni who want to renew their Fraternity ties can do so in a wide variety of ways. We are dedicating pages in the next several issues of The Shield to identify ways you can be involved and where we need involvement most. We want you to know that, no matter what your interests, or how much time or money you have (or don't have) available, there is a way for you to continue your Fraternity experience and help a chapter and Phi Kappa Psi.

Join, or help form, an alumni association or club

Continue college friendships, make new contacts, and help Phi Psi to become visible in your community through activity in a Phi Psi alumni group. As few as 5 members may form a club, 15 an association. Current groups and their contacts are listed in The Shield's directory or you may contact the Headquarters for information on alumni in your area.

Share your knowledge with undergraduates

From leading workshops to being a chapter advisor or house corporation member, your expertise is needed to strengthen our chapters. Alumni can share their knowledge and experience with undergraduates and with one another through a variety of business or counseling relationships. Mentoring and role modeling are the most important benefits chapter members can derive from alumni involvement.

Promote chapter and Fraternity programming

Attend and support homecomings and Founders Day celebrations. They are an excellent way to keep up with old friends and uncover new alumni contacts in your area. Regional and national leadership schools and Grand Arch Councils are the embodiment of Phi Psi leadership and governing programming and all alumni are welcome.

Show loyalty to your alma mater

Sometimes the most important help an alumnus can offer is the support he gives the institution that hosts his chapter. Most campuses have alumni groups that meet socially, generate funds, and help with recruitment. If you do participate, make sure it's known that you're also a good Phi Psi so they realize how important Greek alumni are!

Organize a reunion

Plan a pledge class reunion and enjoy reliving your college days. Reunions are most popular in conjunction with Founders Days and campus homecomings, but can also take the form of a family cookout, golf outing, or trip to some exciting destination.

Serve on an alumni IFC

An alumnus can participate in or support an Alumni IFC at a campus. This gives strength to the self-governance structure so important to the Greek system and provides extra leadership and counsel to the undergraduate IFC members as they seek to address important issues on their campus.

Include Phi Psi in your favorite events

If you enjoy service to the community, area travel, golf or tennis, or local sporting events, find a way to integrate Phi Psis into those activities. You will enjoy those interests a great deal more with brothers as your partners and, as Phi Psi becomes more visible, perhaps prospective rushees will have a better chance to know what Phi Kappa Psi has to offer.

Send rush recommendations

Help collegiate chapters by sending recommendations for young men attending a college or university where there is a Phi Psi chapter. Chapter addresses are listed in the Directory section of The Shield or you may write to the Headquarters and we will help forward your information. A form is provided on page 27 to assist you.

Read The Shield and stay in touch

You can stay up to date on Fraternity activities by reading The Shield. To ensure that you continue to receive the magazine, send any address changes to the Fraternity Headquarters. The address and phone numbers of the Headquarters are listed in each issue of The Shield.

Attend initiations

Be an example of lifetime membership and involvement in the Fraternity by attending an initiation ceremony of your (or a nearby) chapter. Like a cherished alma mater, the Ritual can bring back some of the fondest memories of our undergraduate experience. Some chapters even have opportunities for alumni to assist with the ceremony. ♦

Internship Opportunities Sought

As a first step in the Phi Kappa Psi career support network, we are gathering information on any internships available nationwide. If you or your company has internships available and is interested in disseminating that information to our chapters and undergrads, please let us know at the Fraternity Headquarters.

To register internships with the Headquarters, we need to receive the following information:

Scholarship & Award Winners

Outstanding Summerfield Scholar

The Summerfield Scholar program was created through a trust bequest to the Endowment Fund by the late Solon E. Summerfield, Kansas 1899. At the time of the gift, Brother Summerfield's donation was the largest ever made to an American college fraternity. Today, each of the Fraternity's chapters and colonies is given the opportunity to select one brother who exemplifies scholarship and leadership. The qualifications of the nominees are then reviewed by the Endowment Fund's Awards Adjudication Committee; the Outstanding Summerfield Scholar is chosen out of that pool.

The honor of being Outstanding Summerfield Scholar is granted to the Phi Psi member determined to be the most outstanding student nationwide in scholastic achievement and leadership ability. The recipient of this honor receives a $3,000 grant, the runner-up receives a $2,500 grant.

Both the winner and the runner-up Outstanding Summerfield Scholar this year were accepted by and matriculated at Harvard Law School in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Both boasted cumulative grade point averages [GPAs] of precisely 3.84 (out of 4.0) during their undergraduate years. Both were initiated into the Fraternity in 1991. Both scored in the 99th percentile on the Law School Admissions Test [LSAT]. And both are exemplary members of Phi Kappa Psi.

Eric M. Lanyard

A founding father of Massachusetts Beta, Eric Lanyard, Brandeis '91, graduated in May of this year with a BA in English. He served for two semesters as the chapter's vice president and was also a representative to the Inter-Greek Council. On campus, he was active as an orientation leader for members of the class of 1996, and he also volunteered for three years as a big brother in the Waltham Group Big Brother program. Eric received 177 out of 180 possible points on the LSAT and is now in his first semester at Harvard Law.

Writes Eric, "The award is an incredible honor because Phi Kappa Psi has given me so much already. The lessons I have learned, the friends I have made, and all the good times we've shared seem more than sufficient gifts. But with this award, I realize that Phi Psi will be as meaningful a part of my future as it was during my college days." Eric hopes to practice environmental law upon receiving his law degree.

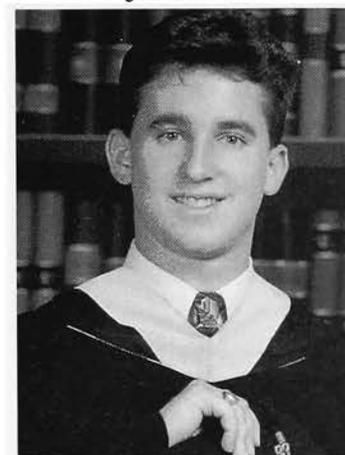

Eric Lanyard

Joseph J. Green

Joe Green, Virginia '91, graduated from the University of Virginia in May of this year as well, having earned a Bachelor of Arts with high distinction in foreign affairs. He too is now a student at Harvard Law School having scored 179 out of 180 (the 99.9th percentile) on the LSAT. While at UVa, Joe served as vice president of Virginia Alpha and chaired the governing committee; he was a member of the Sexual Assault Facts and Education team; and he worked as news editor for The University Journal, the student newspaper of UVa. His affiliation with the paper was particularly advantageous during the major drug bust of three fraternities at the university in the spring of 1991.

Saying he was "overjoyed" to have won, Joe described the award "as a wonderful culmination of my years at the University of Virginia and as a brother of Virginia Alpha. However," he continued, "it is also a joyous beginning of the rest of my life as a Phi Psi and a Virginia Alpha alumnus. Next year I will miss my Virginia brothers, but I am sure I will find fellow Phi Psis with whom I may experience Boston." After graduation, Joe would like to serve the United States, either in the State Department or the Central Intelligence Agency.

Joe Green

Eric Andrews

The Founders Fellows

The Endowment Fund annually honors brothers with plans to pursue graduate studies by naming them Founders Fellows. The award recognizes each student's superior scholarship and leadership in the Fraternity's chapters and colonies. Each Founders Fellow receives a $2,000 grant.

Eric T. Andrews

A 1991 initiate of Pennsylvania Lambda at Penn State University, Eric graduated last May with a 3.80 GPA in his finance major. He is now enrolled at Duke University's Law School. Eric served his chapter as a liaison to the interfraternity council and was also director of both public relations and legal affairs for the Undergraduate Student Government.

Citing the "prohibitive costs of a legal education," Eric says the Founders Fellowship is "sorely needed and greatly appreciated." In addition, he writes, "this scholarship shows me that Phi Psi will continue to help me face new challenges and demands, and for that I am especially thankful." Eric will study international environmental law at Duke and eventually hopes to enter the public service through an elected position.

Christopher A. Brown

A well-rounded young man, Chris Brown, Wabash '86, studied political science and theatre in addition to majoring in physics and minoring in mathematics and philosophy while at Indiana Gamma. He matriculated at the Indiana University School of Law for full-time study earlier this year.

After graduating in 1989, Chris went to work as an Educational Leadership Consultant for Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity. While working on staff, he became well aware of the rigors of competition for the Founders Fellowships. "I am, therefore," he writes, "very proud to be cited by the Endowment Fund for past academic achievement and the potential for future success." After graduating from law school, Chris and his wife Kristine hope to remain in the Midwest, with Chris working for the international division of a major corporation or large law firm.

Preston T. Dodd

After graduating from Duke University in 1990 with a BA in political science, Preston Dodd, Duke '87, headed for South-Central Los Angeles to fulfill his requirement for Teach for America. Three years later, he was still being challenged and motivated by interacting with the inner-city kids in a school just blocks from the majority of the rioting last year. Says Preston, "The potential of our children is one of this nation's greatest resources. To see this potential blunted has sparked a personal interest in researching teaching innovations."

Now he is pursuing a Masters degree at Harvard University's Education School. Writes Preston, "My graduate work, as I had hoped, is addressing many of the questions that I have struggled with for the last three years during my work in Los Angeles."

T. Chadwick Eustis

Now a second-year student at Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, Chad Eustis, Vanderbilt '87, has been saving lives for years. An emergency medical technician and Florida lifeguard since the mid-1980s, he hopes to complete his medical training in 1996 and then begin to specialize in trauma surgery. The winner of Phi Psi's Ruddick C. Lawrence Award for Public Service some years ago, Chad recognizes the value of a Fraternity scholarship.

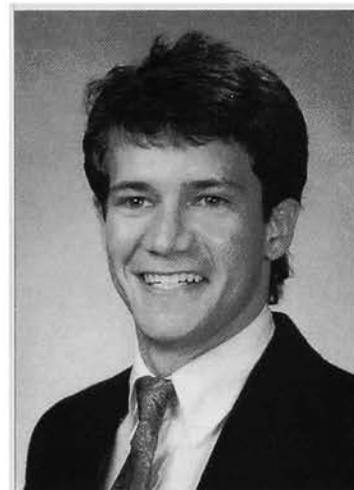

"This award exemplifies how the Fraternity fosters high achievement among its brothers," Chad writes. "Phi Psi not only offers its undergraduate members opportunities to develop skills and succeed, but also rewards the successes these skills bring."

Kevin C. May

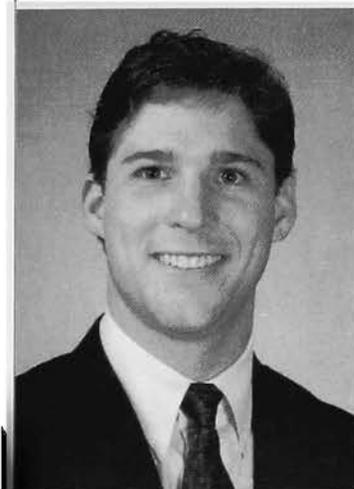

After serving his chapter as president, vice president, and scholarship chair, Kevin May, Iowa '90, graduated in May of 1993 and has now gone on to law school at the University of Pennsylvania. But Kevin doesn't plan to let his BA in philosophy go to waste — his long-term educational goals include earning a PhD combining law and philosophy with his sights finally set on teaching.

Chris Brown

Chad Eustis

Of the award, Kevin writes, "Although the work I did in college, especially that associated with Phi Psi, was quite self-gratifying, it is always nice to be recognized for one's efforts."

Jerry D. Perron

Jerry Perron, Butler '90, graduated summa cum laude from Butler University in Indianapolis last May with highest honors in economics and honors in French. A native of Minneapolis, he is now attending the University of Minnesota Law School concentrating on corporate and international law. While an undergraduate, Jerry made significant administrative improvements to Indiana Zeta as both president and vice president. On campus, he served on the Judicial Review Board, the Council on Presidential Affairs, and the Sexual Assault Prevention Group, among others.

"What I learned in my undergraduate years with the Fraternity was to always have faith in the brotherhood of Phi Kappa Psi," Jerry writes. With this award, "once again the Fraternity has supported me in a time of need." Jerry would eventually like to serve the US government on internal trade issues from a high-level cabinet position.

Ben King Scholarship

Designed specifically to benefit an undergraduate Phi Psi working his way through college, the King Scholarship also mandates that the recipient be majoring in engineering or a related field. The award carries with it a $1,000 prize and is given in honor of Ben King, Brooklyn Polytechnic '06.

Andrew C. Nix

An outstanding scholar, Andrew Nix, UMBC '91, currently holds a 3.94 GPA in mechanical engineering — the highest of 238 other mechanical engineers at the University of Maryland. Andrew will graduate in May of 1994 and hopes to move on to graduate school to study environmental science in more depth. To pay for his undergraduate education, Andrew works 25–30 hours each week as an atmospheric scientist for an environmental engineering firm. He suspects the firm will continue to offer him employment upon his graduation.

Says Andrew, "I thank both the Endowment Fund and my brothers at Maryland Beta for their help and support in achieving my academic goals."

George R. Hofmann Scholarship

Available only to members of New York Alpha, this scholarship is given in memory of George R. Hofmann, Cornell '14, to recognize superior achievement in scholarship and leadership within the chapter. Preference is given to seniors who will be attending graduate school.

Derek H. Ochiai

Another aspiring doctor, Derek Ochiai, Cornell '91, is now enrolled in the MD program at Case Western Reserve Medical School. Derek graduated from Cornell this past May with a BS in neurobiology and was identified by one of his professors as "the most self-motivated and self-disciplined undergraduate I have ever known." Derek has also distinguished himself as a world-class competitor in karate, twice being named national karate champion.

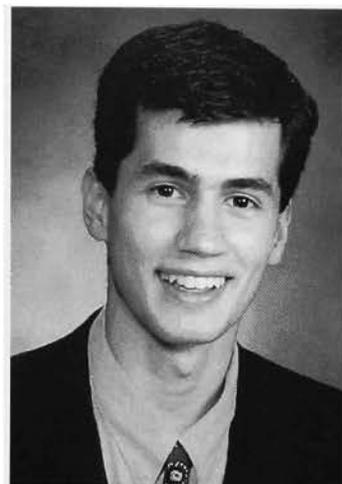

"The award means a great deal to me," writes Derek, "and it will also help defray some of the expenses in the medical school, for which I am grateful as well."

Ruddick C. Lawrence Public Service Award

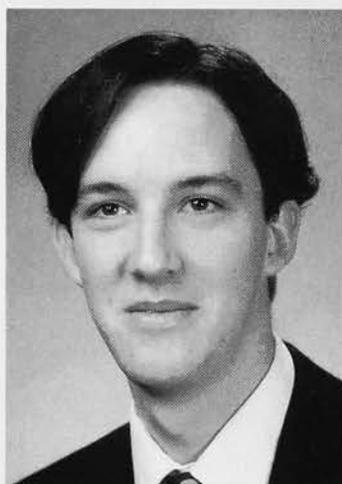

The Fraternity's public service award honors Ruddick Lawrence, prominent businessman and long-time philanthropist who joined Phi Kappa Psi in 1931 while attending the University of Washington. The winner of the award receives $1,500; the runner-up receives $1,000.

Kevin P. Connors

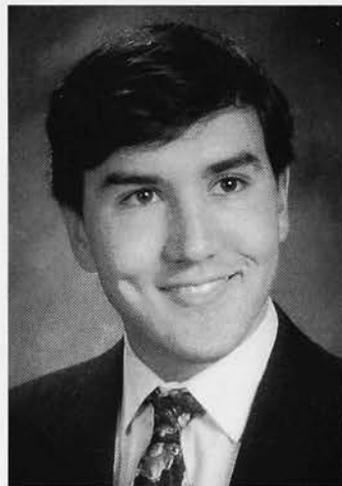

Now a Peace Corps volunteer in The Gambia, West Africa, Kevin Connors, Ohio Wesleyan '90, has been helping people all his life. His volunteer activities include coaching a youth soccer organization team, contributing to the development of a local youth through Wesleyan's Big Pal & Little

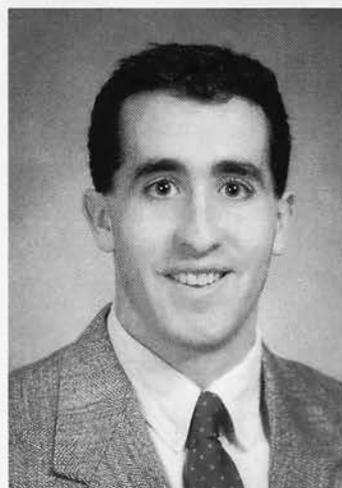

Jerry Perron

Andrew Nix

Derek Ochiai

Kevin Connors

Pal program, and academically assisting several children at a local elementary school

Writes Kevin, "I has begun to realize that by serving others I have served myself. My personality, morals, and ethics have been shaped and positively influenced through public service." He concludes, "Ohio Wesleyan University has given me four of the greatest years of my life, and much of it I owe to Phi Kappa Psi."

Jonathan T. Macy

Fluent in Spanish, Jon Macy, DePauw '90, has spent a great deal of time in Central America over the past three years. He spent time on a construction team building a church in Honduras and also served as the team's treasurer. The next two years found Jon in The Dominican Republic working in a medical clinic and using his language skills to translate American physician's orders and teach public health classes.

"It is important to realize," writes Jon, "that service is a two-way street. The Dominicans and Hondurans that I have worked with have given as much to me as I have to them. Their way of life, in many ways, makes more sense than mine. While I have taught them about worm prevention and sanitation, they have taught me about people and life."

Philip M. Cornelius Scholarship

The children of Philip M. Cornelius, Indiana '25 and a past national Fraternity President, have established a special fund in their father's name. In this, the award's inaugural year, a $1,500 grant was made to an undergraduate Phi Psi with financial need, at least a 2.75 GPA, and obvious moral character and leadership skills.

Michael J. Eagan

Constantly involved with the Fraternity, Mike Eagan, Akron '91 (UMBC '89), has served Ohio Iota as GP, VGP, AG, BG, and chair of the scholarship, finance, and fundraising committees. He was also Chief Justice of the Interfraternity Council for a term. He has maintained a cumulative GPA of 3.8 while maintaining a part-time job to help pay for his schooling. Now a University Honors Student pursuing a BS in accounting and a BA in English literature, Mike hopes to concurrently earn a JD and an MBA following graduation, eventually leading to a career in international corporate law.

"I can remember reading about the Endowment Fund and the scholarships available during my pledge education," Mike writes, "but never thought I would be the recipient of one of them. I have received many academic honors, but this award gives me more pride than any of them."

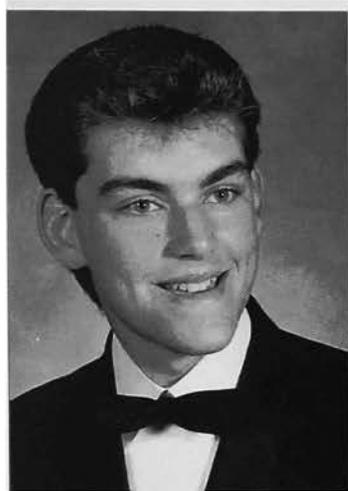

Mary Pickford-Rogers Memorial Scholarship

This $1,500 scholarship is presented through the generosity of Mary Pickford-Rogers' husband, actor Charles 'Buddy' Rogers, Kansas '23. This grant is intended to support the studies of a Phi Psi majoring in the performing arts, music, dance, television, or journalism. The student may be involved either as an undergraduate or as a graduate.

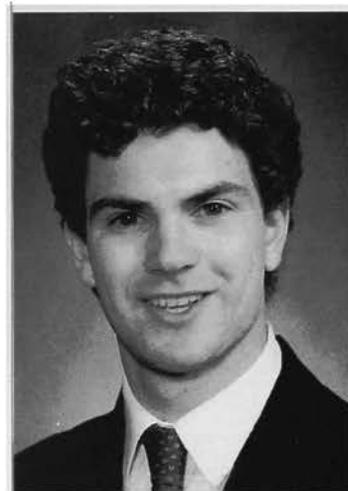

Kahlil V. Gunther

Already an accomplished composer and instrumentalist, Kahlil Gunther, Trenton State '91, will graduate in May of 1994 with a Bachelor of Music degree in piano performance. In fact, Kahlil credits music with interesting him in the Fraternity. "As a pianist for the College Jazz Band, which included three Phi Psis at the time, I was impressed by the support the Fraternity showed by coming out to our concerts and recitals." At Trenton State, Kahlil performs with the jazz band, chamber orchestra, and as both a pianist and harpsichordist with the symphony orchestra. He also composed and scored the soundtrack for the film "Innocent Bystanders."

After graduation, Kahlil hopes to earn a Masters degree in classical composition, eventually returning to academia, balancing the duties of professor of music with those of an active performing and composing career. ♦

Making a difference in kids' lives

by Douglas J. Pszczolkowski, Allegheny '87
Director of Chapter Services

On February 19, 1852, William Henry Letterman and Charles Page Thomas Moore founded Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity upon the principle of "the great joy of serving others." One hundred and forty-one years later, Phi Kappa Psi is renewing its commitment to serving others through many avenues. The pictures accompanying this article were captured during the recent Woodrow Wilson Leadership School in Indianapolis. Over 200 undergraduate Phi Psis entertained children from various Boys and Girls Clubs across the State of Indiana with different field games. The Kids-in-Need Field Day was filled with games and entertainment for the children and the hands-on work with underprivileged kids was quite rewarding for the Phi Psi members. This was the Fraternity's first national community service project and, as the pictures suggest, the event was a huge success!

But the Field Day is not the first, or only, way that Phi Kappa Psi is emphasizing volunteerism and community service. The fall 1991 and winter 1992 issues of The Shield (Vol. 111, No. 3 and Vol. 112, No. 1) featured a number of Phi Psi alumni who are making a difference in their local communities and are in the report titled The American Freshman: National Norms for Fall 1992.

This study shows that 63 percent of new college students "consider helping others who are in difficulty as essential or extremely important." According to the Campus Opportunity Outreach League (COOL), student involvement increased by 20 percent between 1986 and 1991.

Colleges and national service organizations have successfully implemented volunteer programs with student coalitions. COOL sponsors the nationally recognized Into the Streets Program which uniquely educates its volunteers by strengthening their relationships with the local communities and raising the students' awareness of community needs by involving them in multiple service projects. Adopt-A-School is a service initiative of the National Interfraternity Conference specifically designed to involve college volunteers with local schools as tutors and teachers' aides.

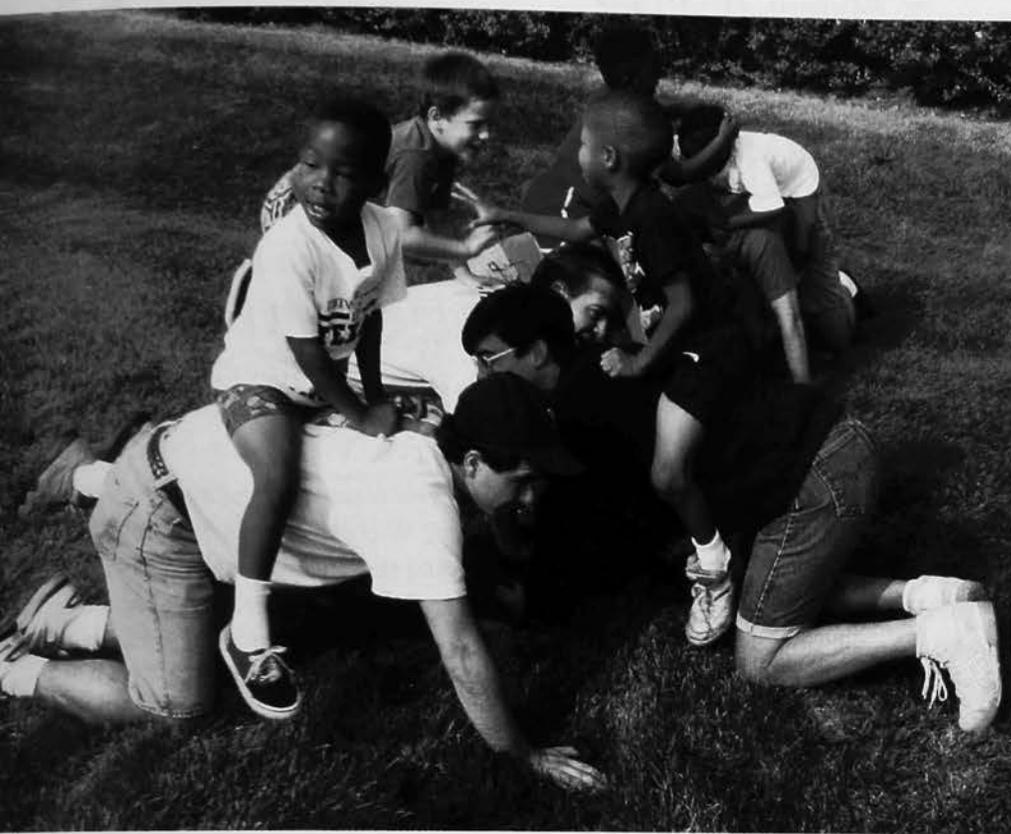

These programs are designed to take advantage of experiential volunteerism while maintaining the essential awareness element. From concept to completion, students are involved in preparing the background information and organizing the events. To ensure positive experiences for both participants and recipients, COOL has identified five stages of volunteer service which are essential to a comprehensive program. The first is listening to the community voice or investigating what the needs are in the local area. In the second stage, effective training and orientation are necessary to educate the volunteers about community service. As the third stage, meaningful action is the most important phase of a service project because it reinforces the commitment made by the students through constant communication. The reflection stage

And while Phi Kappa Psi charges ahead, the rest of the world seems to be getting with the program, as well. On September 21, 1993, President Bill Clinton signed into law the National and Community Service Trust Act. This program epitomizes the current metanoia, or shift of mind, sweeping across the nation... a change from the "me-centered" generation to one that is more concerned with helping others in need.

This community service mind-set is the result of a heightened public awareness. Most clergy and public officials encourage involvement in public service programs. There is a push to get more students involved with assisting agencies in their communities. It appears to be working. Each year, the University of California at Los Angeles and the American Council on Education conduct a survey of first-year students. The latest results involves workshops and recognition for the volunteers which provides the opportunity for the students to ponder their involvement. The final stage consists of an evaluation of the overall experience including logistics and whether or not the project met its objectives. This model has improved hundreds of community services projects across the country in the last few years.

The Great Joy of Serving Others continues to be the rallying call for Phi Kappa Psi... and the rest of the interfraternity world for that matter. Our students want it, our communities need it, and most of all, it's who our Ritual says we are. ♦

EDITOR'S NOTE: Phi Kappa Psi will continue to highlight community service in future issues of The Shield. Chapters will tell about their community involvement in the newsletter sections of the next two issues.

Two brothers who relish their job!

These Phi Psis bring miles of smiles to kids of all ages traveling the country inside giant hot dogs

by Chad Gretzema, Indiana '90

An all-expense-paid year to travel the United States, work as a public relations specialist, organize and implement your own special events, and work on live radio and network television. Sound great? Well, did we mention that you also are driving a 23-foot hot dog on wheels?

This is the life of a “Hotdogger.” Chad Gretzema, Indiana '90, and Brian Ullem, DePauw '90, were two of twelve people chosen to drive six Oscar Mayer Wienermobiles out of a nationwide search that included over 750 applications.

Chad and Brian are now on one-year tours of the country spreading miles and “buns of fun” wherever they go. Brian pilots his Wienermobile, “Big Bun,” in the great Midwest while Chad travels the West Coast in “Yummy.” Each has a female partner who shares Hotdogger duties.

They are on the road 345 days out of the year, taking time off for holidays and of course letting their “buns” cool off. Hotdoggers are responsible for coordinating their own events. The company designs a geographic guide to what city or state they need to be in and then it is up to the Hotdoggers to call all of the local media to come see the Wienermobile in action. The Jay Leno Show, USA Today, Time Life Books, The Discovery Channel, CNN, and thousands of local television stations and newspapers have highlighted the Wienermobile.

The Hotdoggers serve a one-year internship with Oscar Mayer; after the year is over they have the opportunity to interview for a job with Oscar Mayer or its parent company, Phillip Morris.

Inside, the Wienermobile looks like a “Weenie-bago.” Each Wienermobile boasts a microwave, refrigerator, cellular phone, inside and outside speaker system, CB, seating for seven, and of course plenty of storage room for wiener whistles.

Wienermobiles have a very rich history and have become an American icon since their introduction in 1936. They used to be piloted by a midget named Little Oscar who handed out whistles to the delight of children everywhere. Wienermobiles were taken off the road for twenty years but were brought back in 1988 by popular demand.

The Hotdoggers have collectively traveled more than one million miles since they began traveling again in 1988. Many of the Wienermobiles have more than 200,000 miles on them.

The life of a hotdogger isn't always a glamorous one; many nights are spent in cities where the only person you know is your Hotdogger partner. But according to Ullem, “the chance to drive a hot dog for a year is something you'll remember for the rest of your life!”

Brian and Chad are always looking to meet brothers across the nation. A home-cooked meal and brotherhood are always a welcome sight to them. In addition, the Wienermobile may be able to appear at your philanthropic event. The Wienermobile always brings a smile to kids' faces for whatever charity you may be assisting.

If you would like to “ketchup” with the Wienermobile, dial 1-800-966-7286. Then, if you're at a chapter in the Midwest, dial 36-2562 to contact Brian Ullem, or if you are in the West, dial 36-2552 for Chad Gretzema.

Life on the “Hotdog Highway” rolls on until June 1994 for these two brothers who truly are full of bologna! ◆

"I'd had considerable sports background in San Antonio so they asked me to be the spokesman for the group," Coleman explains. "I plan to travel a lot with the team," Coleman says. "I want to get around as much as I can: get to know people in the other franchises, see the other venues, know how the other facilities are."

While his attention is focused on basketball, Coleman's wife Ann is running the day-to-day operations at Texace. The company is today estimated to be worth $30 million and is held exclusively by Bob and Ann Coleman, but the Colemans are considering offering Texace stock on the common market. "The golf industry stocks have been doing very well," says Coleman, "but we're totally debt free so we don't really have to do anything."

Phi Psi involvement

Despite all his business and civic responsibilities, however, Bob Coleman has never forgotten Phi Psi. He credits longtime friend Pete Klentos, Oklahoma '54, with keeping him involved. Today, Coleman serves with Richard Bower, Oklahoma '56, on the house corporation board of Oklahoma Alpha, returning to campus for meetings several times each year. Coleman tries to help the chapter most where its needs meet his skills. Using his banking connections in San Antonio, for instance, he recently arranged for the refinancing of a chapter loan which reduced the interest rate the chapter was paying by three and a half percentage points.

He also remains involved with the University of Oklahoma, serving on the Board of Advisors and the Dean's Council for the College of Business Administration and endowing the Ann and Bob W. Coleman Leadership Student Fellowship. He is also president of the OU Club of San Antonio and has helped recruit National Merit Scholars for the university. In 1992, he was selected as a recipient of the University of Oklahoma Regents' Alumni Awards given to ten individuals "who have given generously of their time and services" to the university.

"I have often made the statement," Coleman says, "that I think belonging to Phi Psi contributed as much to my future accomplishments as getting my degree at the University of Oklahoma." By teaching him "manners, dress codes, gentlemanly graces," and other constructive skills, Coleman says, "the Fraternity boosted my overall confidence as I went out in the business world."

What does the future hold for Bob Coleman? "I want to try to cut back," he says earnestly. Now that the programs he started are well on their feet, Coleman hopes to hand the reigns to some younger go-getters. He has been chair of the Sports Foundation, the Alamo Bowl Association, and several other groups, all of which he hopes to slowly turn over to new blood.

"The thing that's suffered the most recently is my golf game," he laments. "So I'm just going to concentrate on my business and the Spurs and I'm going to try to play a decent game of golf." ♦

Southern Comfort

A city so charming, so beautifully preserved, and yet so dynamic, it could only be Charleston.

Take a horse-drawn carriage ride down centuries-old cobblestone streets lined with Southern jasmine and towering oaks. Visit magnificent antebellum mansions and plantations. Fascinating museums. And rows of antique stores each offering 300 years of America behind their doors.

Or head for the beach, because Charleston is a resort city. With its glorious semi-tropical climate, you can enjoy 65 miles of sandy white beaches. World famous golf courses. Tennis. Sailing. Deep sea fishing. And so much more.

March 1994

◆ President's Message

Funding the Fraternity's Future

The current capital campaign will solidify the financial future of Phi Kappa Psi

Dear Brothers,

These are exhilarating times for Phi Kappa Psi! As I mentioned in my very first message, the Fraternity undertook an exciting and far reaching project in April of 1992. The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi, a capital funding drive, was begun with the goal of increasing the corpus of the Endowment Fund by $7,000,000. When fully endowed, the Fund will generate hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to provide undergraduates and chapters with the kind of financial support they deserve, and should expect, from their Fraternity.

During the past 21 months, the Campaign has been conducted on a volunteer basis by W. Robert Goldman Jr., Miami '72 (Washington & Jefferson '64). Bob has taken his valuable time to travel the country, at his own expense, meeting with Phi Psis in small groups and individually seeking contributions. It will be some time before the Endowment Fund receives the full proceeds as many of the contributions are in the form of planned, or deferred, gifts. The campaign is described in detail in the article beginning on page 15. If you are already planning to give or wish to become part of this worthy effort, your brothers in Phi Kappa Psi welcome your support! We, and all future Phi Psis, owe Bob Goldman our sincerest gratitude for his exceptional efforts and his personal contributions to Phi Kappa Psi.

Phi Kappa Psi was founded upon the principle of "the great joy of serving others" and I believe that Phi Psis can and should do their best to make a difference by serving others. We have established a committee under the leadership of P. David Evans, Arizona '77, to look at the philanthropic and community service efforts of our chapters and alumni associations. The committee will provide its recommendations to the Grand Arch Council this summer as to how Phi Psis might better serve our communities.

The planning summit that was conducted in June of 1992 under the leadership of immediate past SWGP Robert E. Lazzell, West Virginia '42, led to the adoption of a strategic plan later that year which incorporated all of the GAC mandates and many of the committee recommendations. Considerable progress has been made toward accomplishing these goals and objectives. A second summit was held at the Illinois Alpha chapter house at Northwestern a few weeks ago to further refine the plan and better identify the standards that we expect of our members and chapters. This is a very positive step in improving our Fraternity.

I believe that if we are to continue to grow and flourish as a Fraternity, we must instill in our members the recognition that to be a Phi Psi is to be a gentleman of honor, integrity, and high moral character, and to continually strive for excellence. Too often, our chapters become entertainment clubs, instead of a brotherhood striving to live by the Ritual of Phi Kappa Psi. When this occurs, a disservice is done to the undergraduate whose Phi Psi experience is sometimes brief and who recognizes no commitment as an alumnus. Each of you dedicated alumni can make a difference by returning to Phi Psi, getting involved, and serving as an inspiration to our undergraduates.

As we celebrate the beginning of the 143rd year since our founding, let us all reflect on what it means to be a Phi Psi, and how we can improve ourselves, our Fraternity, and our country.

Happy Founders Day & Warmest Fraternal Regards,

CHAPTER NEWSLETTERS

Here we focus on chapters' commitment to community service. In this magazine are newsletters from half of Phi Psi's chapters. If your chapter, colony, or alumni association's newsletter is not here, it will appear in the next issue of The Shield. Newsletters have been edited for length and consistency. Enjoy!

ALLEGHENY

As summer approaches, the brothers of Penn Beta are completing another successful semester at Allegheny College. During rush, Penn Beta led all Allegheny fraternities with 30 pledges. This strong pledge class is sure to continue our chapter's 139-year tradition of academic achievement and community service. This academic achievement is highlighted by our chapter's fourth consecutive year of having the highest GPA for fraternities on campus. Also, our Fraternity's GPA remains above the all men's average.

But the brothers do more than just study. Under the direction of Philanthropy Chairman Kevin Bringe, the Phi Psis will continue to be busy with community service projects. One such project deals with the Hillside Home for Elderly Women of Meadville. During the fall semester, we adopted this organization as our special philanthropy. The brothers went to the home several times last semester, usually on informal visits, just to chat, or sing with these wonderful ladies. A luncheon was held with them on Valentine's Day.

Pennsylvania Beta takes great pride in welcoming our new chapter advisor, Toby Carlin, West Virginia '86. We are grateful to have Toby as our advisor; already he has proven to be a valuable asset to the chapter. We look forward to his advice and counsel in the upcoming years as we plan for a new chapter house.

Finally, Penn Beta wishes to congratulate the seven seniors who will graduate in May. Their contributions will never be forgotten, and they will be sadly missed.

Bart Elliott

BELOIT

The brothers of Wisconsin Gamma feel very enthusiastic about this semester. Last fall, we added to our already very diverse chapter eight new members from five different countries (Canada, Russia, India, Slovakia, and, of course, the States).

The chapter set three major goals for this semester and we are looking forward to accomplishing them. We have started a new community service project with the Old Folks Home where we are organizing evening events for the elderly and helping them with physical chores. We are also organizing a highway cleanup and a hockey tournament for kids. Our second aim is to improve our academic standing. To do this we are having study hours and a tutorial program.

Finally, we are hoping for twelve new members this semester. Our rush program is going very well and it is bringing many interested people to visit the chapter.

We know that this is not going to be an easy semester, but we have a positive attitude and are ready to reach our goals.

BUCKNELL

Another year has passed, and Penn Gamma has become stronger than it ever has been since its reorganization in 1991. We are growing, in size and in activities, and can branch out further into campus activities like Calvin and Hobbes, a group promoting alternative activities to alcohol use. We have brothers involved in many other areas as well, even the campus chapel choir. Philanthropically, our efforts are also becoming more focused and effective. We threw an "oldies" party/dance and sang Christmas carols for the residents of a nearby retirement home.

Socially, we are also gaining momentum and knowledge, because every one of our social events last semester was a terrific success, especially our Christmas Formal, where, amid the greenery and the red ribbon decorations, the pledges sang the Phi Psi Sweetheart Song to the brothers' escorts from the staircase landing. We anticipate another excellent semester, as we continue to capitalize on our growing experience and size, and we encourage the alumni to keep in touch.

D. Robert Cooley

UC-DAVIS

The warming breezes of spring are finally coming to Davis. You can feel the spring fever enthusiasm in the air. At Cal Iota, we are putting that enthusiasm to work.

As usual, "rush" is the buzzword at the chapter. Our new continuous rush program, which allows us to bid year 'round, has proven to be a wise move. We will soon be initiating three quality men, and our weekly rush events are drawing a steady stream of potential members. This is important, considering the dramatic loss of membership we experienced when nine brother graduated last June.

Although we have not yet secured permanent housing, we are still actively searching. Our current rental situation is adequate. We have learned that patience is just as important as perseverance.

Our doors are always open to travelling brothers and their friends. Last year, we enjoyed brothers visiting from New Jersey and Arizona. Visits like that strengthen our National Fraternity and are a strong reminder of what brotherhood is all about.

David T. Lupien

UCLA

Greetings, brothers! California Epsilon has made a sweeping comeback this last year, and continues to excel. In our first two quarters back at 613 Gayley, and back on campus, we have taken the lead in nearly all aspects of campus life. We initiated six new men and started ten new pledges on the road to brotherhood with a revamped and exciting Fraternity Education program. We are leading the row in IFC athletics with our recent first place finish in intramural football, and we continue to hold an exemplary chapter GPA. This quarter we are emphasizing philanthropy, and indeed we've already begun.

In response to the recent earthquake, Cal Eps went out to the badly damaged area of Northridge to help fellow Angelenos recover from the disaster.

With numerous other events scheduled, including clothes drives, food drives, and continuing work with the Santa Monica Boys Club, we're planning an exciting and fulfilling future here at Cal Ep. If any of you find yourselves in the neighborhood, come back to Phi Psi and see the newly renovated chapter house!

J. P. Nelson

CASE WESTERN RESERVE

Greetings! We are happy to inform you that Ohio Epsilon has had one of its best years in recent history. Now 33 brothers strong, we recently welcomed six new initiates. Not only is our membership on the rise but so is our campus presence. We had the second highest GPA of all fraternities for the fall semester.

Ohio Epsilon also made its presence known in intramural sports. We won our third consecutive bowling title. We consistently placed well in various events, but more importantly we had widespread participation and a lot of fun. Hopefully, the upcoming Greek Week activities will give us a chance to show the school Phi Psi unity at its best.

Ohio Epsilon has become increasingly involved in the Cleveland area, volunteering at shelters, working with Habitat for Humanity and other local philanthropic groups. Our diverse social calendar offered everything from semiformal date dinners to winter camping to paintball outings. Also, we would like to thank all of our alumni who attended our Founders Day celebration.

David J. Kubacki

CHICAGO

The new school year has been going well for Illinois Beta. We are currently growing and experiencing closer ties with our alumni. Striving to emulate the precedent of our Founders, the chapter has been very active philanthropically. We have raised money for both UNICEF and an area shelter in the last quarter, and are planning several future projects.

This quarter, we have inducted five men as pledges into the chapter, and anticipate another class in the spring. For over a year, we have included appeals in our newsletters for events or news in the lives of chapter alumni and this has yielded a great response. We do this to strengthen our ties to Illinois Betans around the country, a long-term goal of the chapter for some time.

The remainder of the year includes hopes for a strong alumni showing at the annual Interfraternity Sing and for continued academic success.

Pratik Dave

COLORADO

The snow is still falling here at Colorado Alpha and the skiing is great. With the election of new officers for this semester things are looking up; we already have several events planned. One event is our annual philanthropy, the Phi Psi hockey tournament, Fight for the Cup. With all the proceeds going to charity, the community of Boulder should prosper from our antics on the ice. On the subject of sports, our intramural basketball team finished second in its division. The brothers have also formed an intramural hockey team and hope to check our way to a championship.

To improve the chapter house, the brothers have started massive clean up and renovation projects.

Colorado Alpha's membership is slowly but surely increasing and, as it does, we become a more powerful force on campus.

CAL STATE NORTHRIDGE

Following the recent earthquake—whose epicenter was very close to Cal State Northridge—no chapter members were injured and the house sustained only minor damage. Nevertheless, the total necessary repairs to the house have been estimated at $8,000, well below the insurance deductible.

The Alumni Corporation is currently undertaking an alumni donation campaign to raise funds for necessary repairs. Anyone desiring to make a contribution may do so by check payable to California Theta Alumni Corporation in care of Steve Gilbert, 6536 Kelvin Avenue, Canoga Park, CA 91306. For more information, contact John Ciccarelli at (818) 700-1336.

CORNELL

Aside from the sub-zero temperatures and mobs of people swarming around Collegetown, the return to campus this fall has found the New York Alpha Chapter with renewed vigor and enthusiasm. A sense of urgency was beginning to mount as Rush Week approached, but thanks to Matt Beers, the process has gone as smoothly as we had hoped. When the University's rush process ended, 22 bids had been extended. Preparations have also begun for this year's Phi Psi 500. Chairman Doug Schillinger has contacted numerous local sponsors, reminding them to consider us when they budget in their advertisement expenditures for the new fiscal year.

FRANKLIN & MARSHALL

Despite some of the problems of last year, the F&M chapter is growing and changing. Although we don't have any seniors, the underclassman leadership has done a superb job in transforming the chapter. After inducting two brothers last semester, and taking pledges this semester, we are on our way with a very positive outlook for the future.

Last semester, the pledges and brothers participated in a clothing drive, as well as volunteering at the Homestead Retirement Community's annual fair. The experiences were both pleasurable and rewarding. Doing similar things this semester is also on our agenda. Already, there are plans to sponsor the Lancaster Police Department's safety magazine. We hope to continue helping the community as well as growing and improving ourselves and our chapter.

As always, if any brothers are in the area, we always welcome your company.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The 1993-94 academic year has been a good one, so far, for the District of Columbia Alpha Chapter. On January 15th, we initiated the Zeta pledge class into our ranks. After their initiation we drove straight into second semester rush, and on January 23rd, all of the five bids that we handed out were accepted. We look forward to another successful pledge period.

While these numbers may seem small to some of the larger Phi Psi chapters, it should be noted that the average fraternity size here at George Washington is only about twenty five members. We are especially excited with these numbers because we have only one senior in the chapter, and our membership loss at semesters end will be minimal.

Our chapter has continued its service to Habitat for Humanity as well as a local soup kitchen this year, and our swell in numbers should facilitate more community service projects in the semesters to come.

Washington is a great town, and we promise to show visiting Phi Psis a good time. DC Alpha congratulates all of our new brothers at Illinois Zeta at DePaul.

John W. Ames

GETTYSBURG

Pennsylvania Epsilon had a very busy fall semester which made us very proud and which we hope will make you proud also. We ran a canned food drive which brought in more than we could have hoped for the homeless in the surrounding Adams County vicinity. The chapter also participated in an all-school fraternity tree planting session on a cold morning in October around the railroad tracks behind the football stadium.

In November, we made the local newspaper when we fielded the entire chapter to clear a large portion of the infamous wheat field on the Gettysburg Battlefield. Everyone had a good time as we spent the afternoon whacking away the overgrown brush.

We had a busy year inside the chapter as well as out in the community. For the first time in recent history, we had a fall pledge class who are all now your new brothers. We are looking forward to the spring semester with the same optimism as the fall.

ILLINOIS

This past year has marked a new era at Ol' 911. Thanks to generous contributions and alumni support, the first phase of the Century Project has been completed. These renovations include a new hardwood floor for the cardroom and foyer areas, carpeting for the Mezzanine, and many improvements to the fire safety plans including fire doors and sprinklers. These renovations not only make the chapter house a safer place to live, but they also pave the way for further improvements planned in the renovation of the house.

In news relating directly to the brothers, earlier this semester we received a substantial infusion of new life with the initiation of 24 new brothers. Our congratulations go out to them.

Illinois Delta remains a stronghold for campus service and philanthropy. So far this semester, we have volunteered to help entertain at a home for the elderly and help relocate a local Salvation Army store. Our plans for later this semester include both of our annual charity fund raisers. These being the Phi Psi 5 on 5 basketball tournament, and our Mom's Day 5K Run/Walk which we team up with the women of Alpha Chi Omega to help raise some money for those less fortunate. Individually, many brothers are involved in worthwhile campus organizations, the Student Ambassadors and the Student Alumni Association.

As always, as Phi Psis, we will continue to live and flourish.

INDIANA

Hello! Indiana Beta is proud to report on its prosperity throughout the last year. We hope you all have enjoyed the same. We have had a great academic year here at Bloomington, receiving recognition from the university for being the chapter with the most improved grades on campus last semester, and for finishing fourth overall. In early fall, we surpassed the 2400 mark in membership when we initiated our spring '93 pledge class. This landmark has been achieved only through the hard work and sustained excellence of our membership since its chartering in 1869. On April 23rd, our 125th Anniversary Banquet will honor our alumni for their support of the undergraduate members. Invitations are already in the mail!

On a more serious side, Indiana Betans have continued in our vows to serve others, in both sponsoring philanthropy events, such as our Greek Cup Soccer tournament which in its 10th year has raised thousands of dollars for local charity, as well as participating in them, such as the IU Dance Marathon which this year helped raise over $50,000 for a children's hospital in Indianapolis. On top of this, several members have helped enrich the community with their involvement in organizations, as well as helping tutor underprivileged youths at the Bloomington Boys and Girls Club. Before closing, the chapter would like to extend an open invitation to all Phi Psis to visit the IU campus at any time, as well as to wish you all good luck in your endeavors throughout the next year.

IOWA

Iowa Alpha entered the spring semester under the ambitious leadership of GP Ted Walz, whose main goals were to remedy a recruitment problem (numbers are down throughout the University of Iowa's Greek system) and to capture first place in grades.

However, at 9 a.m. on January 20, the brothers woke to the smell of smoke and the sound of alarms. A fire caused by a shorted-out extension cord found its way into the walls, and ascended quickly towards the roof. Windows and the third floor balcony provided escape for most of the brothers. There were no fatalities and only three men sustained minor injuries. St. Thomas Moore Catholic Church, the University, Chapter Advisor Doug Parsons, the Red Cross, the Greek Community, and hundreds of Iowa City citizens immediately donated time, clothes, food, etc. to ensure that the members of Iowa Alpha had basic necessities. After more than twelve hours of fire, only the smoldering skeleton of the decades-old structure stood, which Iowa Alpha had called home since 1940.

Plans concerning the demolition and rebuilding of the house are under way and brother Walz's ambitious goals have not been forgotten. Iowa Alpha will run its chapter from a dormitory floor where the brothers now reside.

For information on how you may be of assistance, please contact Doug Parsons at (319) 338-7701 or write to 18 East View Pl. N.E., Iowa City, IA 52240. Iowa Alpha sincerely thanks those who have already offered their help, and thanks in advance those who will aid our rebuilding:

IOWA STATE

Iowa Beta was quite successful in 1993. We won the Grand Marshal award in the annual VEISHEA festival for our "Sailing the Seas of Tomorrow" float, built in conjunction with Theta Chi and Pi Beta Phi. We also held our most successful Phi Psi 500 in several years.

With 1994 now upon us, we are looking forward to changes and improvements within our chapter. Several brothers have begun spending their Saturday afternoons at the Boys Club of Ames. Whether it's shooting hoops or throwing the football around, both the kids and brothers have a great time.

We are also looking to hire a live-in housemother beginning next fall, in hopes that she will bring a woman's touch to the house. We encourage anyone to stop by and visit us here in Ames. We wish all of you good luck and a successful 1994.

Paul Quatmann

KANSAS

The Kansas Alpha Chapter has had another great year, thanks to the leadership of our alumni corporation, GP Clay Davis, and the brothers in the chapter. We have improved in both grades and athletics. During the past year, in the university's Rock Chalk philanthropy events, we did well in each of the Most Charitable award categories. We won the Most Charitable in ticket sales in which we donated over one third of what the United Way Foundation received. In the category of Most Charitable community service, we contributed close to 2,000 community service hours in the Lawrence area.

Our rush program is stronger than ever. At the moment, we are gearing up for our philanthropy, Phi Psi 500, in hopes of making it the best one we have ever had. That's all for now. So long from Rock Chalk Jayhawk Land.

Brian Pflomm

MICHIGAN

The Michigan Alpha Chapter has experienced many changes in the past academic year. The most notable "change" is our new house. Moving away from the cavernous 1811 Washtenaw house into the cozy 725 Oxford house may be the best move in our chapter's recent history. The smaller occupancy of our new house allows us to be more selective during rush and the brotherhood is more cohesive. Regaining the 1550 Washtenaw house would be nice, and definitely a future goal, but for the moment we are quite happy with our new house.

We are proud of the various achievements of our brothers in the past year. We are very active with philanthropies, and the efforts of Rich Mas and Martin Bel should be recognized. These brothers arranged for an impoverished 14 year-old cancer patient from Honduras to have her leg amputated and fitted with a prosthetic limb at the expense of the University of Michigan. A lot of food and clothing has been donated to the girl, who spent a month with the two. The time alone that Rich and Martin allotted to caring for this girl amounts to many hundreds of hours. We admire these brothers for their outstanding dedication to the ideals of our founding fathers.

Also worth noting are the graduation of several Michigan Alphas into law schools. Harvard, Michigan, and Chicago, among other schools, have received fine men. The entire graduating class as a whole has been successful; all have either found jobs or are enrolled in a graduate school. Michigan Alpha's strong academic tradition marches proudly on.

Vincent J. Roldan

MINNESOTA

Minnesota Beta kicked off the fall quarter in style by participating in homecoming festivities. Awards were won for the coveted house front competition, and an excellent showing of the founding principles of Phi Kappa Psi by nearly 100% participation in the philanthropic events. Phi Psis and fellow Greeks entertained disadvantaged children at the Ronald McDonald House, aided the elderly in the surrounding community, and provided a little elbow grease in improving some surrounding parks.

Our thanks are extended to Alumni Corporation President Eric Crandle for spearheading the fund raising efforts to replace the boiler and pave the back lot. Along with Eric, alumnus Rhys Perry has been an integral part in creating improved alumni support by heading up Founders Day efforts.

The U of M administration is showing increased support of the Greek system by making loans available to improve chapter houses and supporting the school spirit provided mainly by fraternity and sorority members.

OLE MISS

Greetings from Ole Miss! The new year is off and running here at Mississippi Alpha. On Founders Day, we broke ground for our long-awaited dream. The groundbreaking marked the start of our chapter house renovation and addition. We are very excited about the event and we thank all of our alumni who have contributed to the campaign, and we urge those who have not to do so.

We have been involved a great deal with the Oxford and Ole Miss community. Last semester, our brothers helped with the distribution of toys to needy children at The Christmas Store, an annual communitywide event in Lafayette County. It was good to see the smiles on children's faces as we helped ensure that they would have a happy Christmas this year. Mississippi Alpha looks forward to helping with this program next year.

The registration fee is $130 for undergraduates and $155 for alumni. The fees increase by $20 for those whose registrations are postmarked after June 30. The fee is non-refundable, but it is transferable to another attendee.

Lodging

Hotel reservations for the Grand Arch Council may be placed by calling Omni International toll-free at 1-800-THE-OMNI or dialing the hotel in Charleston directly at (803) 722-4900. Be sure to identify yourself as a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Room rates are $119 per night for a single or double room and $139 per night for a triple or quad.

Reservations must be made before July 9, 1994 to guarantee the convention rate (the regular rate is $210)... so call now!

Transportation

USAir and Delta are the two official carriers of the Sixty-Seventh Grand Arch Council and are providing special discounts for our members and guests attending the GAC. Arrangements for these fares are available exclusively through Litwack Travel Service by calling 1-800-777-6800 or their local number, (201) 992-4141. Be sure to identify yourself as a Phi Psi heading for Charleston.

Committees

All brothers attending the GAC are encouraged to take an active role in the work of a committee, for it is there that the Fraternity's agenda for the next two years is developed. The committees include: State of the Fraternity, Constitution, Finance, Extension, Membership, Scholarship, Alumni Affairs, Fraternity Education, and Publications.

Delegates

Each chapter elects three Grand Arch Council delegates: two undergraduates and one alumnus. Alumni associations in good standing are entitled to three GAC delegates also. Credential forms for delegates have been mailed to each group and must be filed with the Fraternity Headquarters.

Of course, elected or not, every Phi Psi is encouraged to attend the Grand Arch Council!

Guests & Spouses Program

There is no set registration fee for the guests program — individual activities are priced separately. Consider it a buffet from which guests may pick and choose the events in which they wish to participate. ing in the Mississippi Adopt-A-Highway program. The most recent cleanup was in mid January. It was a dirty, but unique and fun, experience.

We are very pleased to announce that out of 17 fraternities our brothers had the 4th best grades on campus, above the all-Greek and all-male averages.

If you have not visited the chapter in a while, please come by and see how the new house is coming. You are always welcome here.

Shannon Alexander

MISSOURI

What isn't new at Missouri Alpha? Things are moving and the men of this chapter are emerging as leaders and role models on campus.

We had a successful homecoming last semester with the women of Alpha Epsilon Phi, and carried several categories leading to a placing finish. Next, we look forward to Greek Week with the women of Sigma Kappa. Several brothers made the dean's list last semester as our reputation as a chapter that placed grades first was maintained. There was more good news with intramural sports as we finished first in our bracket of sixteen fraternities last semester.

Chapter house improvements are also going on internally.

We encourage every Phi Psi who is in the Columbia area to see the progress of the chapter. You may pickup a few ideas that may help your chapter!

Matthew Smith

NEBRASKA

The 1994 spring semester will have us here at Nebraska Alpha busy with community service-related activities. Most noteworthy, of course, is our annual Phi Psi 500 which will be held on April 23rd. All of the proceeds gathered from the momentous event will be donated to the Lincoln Red Cross.

Secondly, our philanthropy chairs have been innovative this past semester and organized an event named Greek Fast '94. In a nutshell, we are asking every Greek house on campus to forego one day's worth of meals, and to donate the money not spent on food to a local homeless shelter. In our rough estimates, we think that this event could raise nearly $15,000!

Finally, many active members, as well as pledges, donated their time and their blood to the annual blood drive on our campus.

We cordially invite all Phi Psis to stop by and watch the 500, or just to pay us a visit.

Ryan J. Pichler

NORTHWESTERN

It has been a great year at Northwestern University for Phi Kappa Psi. A strong pledge class was initiated last spring and brought great things to a growing chapter. We had our annual Heaven and Hell charity, successfully raising $1,000 for the Columbus Marysville Foundation, which is a children's hospice. The tradition of tutoring continues throughout each quarter at The Dewy School grade school.

Within the chapter, individual volunteerism continues in many different areas. We began the fall with the induction of the new chapter at DePaul. With a successful alumni/reunion function this fall, we moved our focus to winter rush. An amazing effort on the part of the rush chairmen produced a fabulous pledge class. An increase in diversity and strong unity are the signs they are showing. With a strong and reputable chapter, Phi Kappa Psi is well represented here in Evanston.

OHIO STATE

Greetings from Ohio Delta! It has been another eventful year here at Ohio State. A light fall rush has called us to actively participate in an aggressive rush program. Thanks to these tactics, we can expect one of the largest spring classes on campus. A renovated kitchen and other house improvement projects are upgrading the appearance of what is already the most attractive Greek structure at the Ohio State University.

Outside the chapter house, we are striving diligently to enhance our surrounding environment here in Columbus. A recycling program and cleanup efforts at the James Thurber Center are examples of our commitment to the community. After a rigorous fall and winter social calendar, we celebrated Founders Day with our annual alumni golf classic and the alumni/undergraduate dinner. Thanks to the brothers of Indiana Beta for an eventful evening in Bloomington, and good luck to all chapters of Phi Kappa Psi for the remainder of this academic year.

Jonathan H. Goodman

OKLAHOMA

During the fall semester the brothers of Oklahoma Alpha embarked on many community service projects. Our Phi Psi 500 was a great success with the proceeds going to the Battered Women's Shelter of Norman. Other projects included activities with Big Brothers and Big Sisters, as well as several beautification efforts in Norman and the Oklahoma City Metro area. We already have plans in the works to continue our efforts this spring term.

Fall rush went well and we initiated some fine men. We are eager as spring rush begins. We have already signed three men from the OU baseball team and plan for our best spring turnout ever.

Founders Day was a great success as the undergraduates and alumni from the Oklahoma City area welcomed Fraternity President Dick Ong as the featured speaker. We would also like to welcome our new housemother, Inez Asta. She has already made many contributions to Oklahoma Alpha.

Tony Arnold

OREGON

As usual, Oregon Alpha is riding high above the campus here at the University of Oregon. We are well represented all over the campus, whether it be through student government or intercollegiate activities. Our members include the ASUO student body president; members of the Bookstore Board of Directors; the Interfraternity Council Vice President; and the Police Liaison on the Greek Council. Also, Jordy Lyden, team captain, can be seen spotting up for three's at Duck basketball games.

Not only have we been active in Greek government, we also are continuing our success in intramural sports. Currently, we are in first place. We usually rack up all our points in the spring and winter, but this fall we cleaned house in most everything.

Even though fraternity and sorority numbers were down here at Oregon, we still managed to put together a very strong pledge class. The pledge class is planning to bring back a tradition of the house, the St. Bernard, Baron, for their pledge project.

To increase alumni support for the chapter, we are going through the process of starting an alumni association. If anyone wants to get more information, or if you have any questions about the alumni association, contact GP Thomas Olsen at (503) 344-3911.

Justin Cook

PENN STATE

It's been another successful year here at the Lodge. During the fall semester we had several Phi Psis excel throughout the campus.

With the beginning of spring, we were excited to see that we once again finished in the Top 10 in intramural sports. We had strong showings in football, softball, and cross country. We also learned that we had a strong showing among all fraternities academically. Several brothers made the dean's list.

The 27th Phi Psi 500 will again take place on the final weekend of the semester. We will be following the same format again this year by having a 2-on-2 Beach Volleyball setup. Once again, we will be making a donation to the Association for Retarded Citizens at the conclusion of the festivities.

This summer the chapter house will be undergoing some much-needed renovations. The second and third floor hallways are going to be repaired as well as a few other minor touch-ups.

We hope all alumni are able to stop in and see these changes in the Lodge.

PURDUE

The Indiana Delta Chapter at Purdue University has been extremely active on campus since they were founded on June 5, 1901. In the past year, members have achieved campus-wide recognition. This includes awards such as most improved grade point average, and first place in all-campus fast and slow pitch softball. Our members also hold various leadership positions on campus, including the Gimlet Honorary Society, the Interfraternity Council, and the Purdue Engineering Student Council. The chapter is also very active within the community by participating in many philanthropies, including a raffle whose proceeds were donated to AIDS research. Even Purdue Pete, the university mascot, is a Phi Psi this year!

Indiana Deltans are also heavily involved in varsity sports. The chapter is represented on the football, baseball, swim, tennis teams. As you can see, Phi Psis continue to be active on campus and in the community at Purdue University. We thank everyone who has supported us over the years.

Brian Altman

SYRACUSE

The brothers of the New York Beta Chapter have been very busy on campus and in the community this academic year. The chapter has just initiated five wonderful new pledges and is getting ready for spring rush, which is sure to bring many more promising prospects for our chapter.

Philanthropy is alive and well at New York Beta as we have just passed a proposal for a spring softball tournament. Each of the 16 sororities on the Syracuse campus, coached by members of our chapter, will be competing for fun and to benefit a deserving charity.

New York Beta has been very active in intramural sports and scholarship as well. Our chapter has especially rededicated itself to scholarship, with our chapter grade point average improving every semester.

The New York Beta Chapter is prospering this academic year. The house is looking great, the brothers are performing well academically and in all their other endeavors, and, of course, the brotherhood is as close as ever.

Joseph S. Rosen

TEXAS

Phi Kappa Psi here at the University of Texas at Austin has experienced great things over the last semester. Our membership is approaching 100 members and the outlook is excellent for our brotherhood.

We are proud to have had the opportunity to help the Austin community this past fall, as our philanthropy program continues to grow. The annual Phi Psi Field Day, a day-long competition among the sorority pledge classes, was highly successful in raising food for the needy. Texas Alpha was also well represented at many philanthropy projects of other campus organizations, and we look forward to continued service to the community.

Academically, our pledge class again placed near the top of the fraternity list in overall GPA, and our brothers continued to score above both the UT fraternity average and the all-campus average. Texas Alpha continued to increase its membership in the Texas Cowboys and the Silver Spurs, the two most prestigious service organizations on campus. Our intramural football team narrowly missed winning another IFC championship.

The brothers of Texas Alpha here in Austin wish you all a successful and safe spring semester, and please feel free to stop by the house if you are ever in Austin.

VANDERBILT

We are eagerly welcoming in the new semester after surviving a quieter than normal fall semester, during which we were placed on social probation. Although the probation put somewhat of a damper on campus social activities, Tennessee Delta managed to make the best of it and has learned from the experience.

In November, the Phi Kappa Psi Meals on Wheels Program was inaugurated. The service distributes food to Nashville's homeless on a weekly basis. The program is the only of its kind on campus, and, after a tremendous start, promises to grow larger involving many of the other fraternities and sororities on campus.

We recently inducted 20 new pledges for the spring semester. Once again the class is proving itself as the premier pledge class on campus, a fact we are quite proud of after consciously stepping up our rush efforts while on probation.

The whole chapter is excited about the new officer crew which has recently entered the house, and we are looking forward to a tremendous semester. Please feel free to join us for the fun if you happen to find your way down South.

Aaron Pulver

VIRGINIA

This year, the brothers of Virginia Alpha are once again off to a productive, yet festive start. This year's pledge class includes 11 fine gentlemen eager to join the ranks of Phi Kappa Psi. Virginia Alpha is also proud to claim the Interfraternity Council President as one of our own!

Besides sledding in the recently snow-covered Madison Bowl, brothers have been active in the community with a local Boy Scouts of America troop. Many brothers also act as Big Brothers to less privileged children, and the chapter sponsored a family during the Christmas season. An alumni and undergraduate luncheon is also in the works or this spring semester.

One of the major ongoing projects of Virginia Alpha is to raise sufficient funds to renovate the chapter house, which dates back to 1928, although much of the outside work and painting were completed this past summer. The long-standing traditions of leadership, scholarship, comradeship, and having a good time are alive and well at Virginia Alpha.

Joseph T. Blencowe

WABASH

The men of Indiana Gamma have ignored the arctic weather of the past few months in order to complete our preparations for the National Leadership Convention, which was held here in Crawfordsville the week of January 31 through February 4. The conference was a huge success and included many informative workshops and discussions.

In terms of local relations, we recently hosted the newly inaugurated President of Wabash College, Andrew Ford, as the first in a series of administration/faculty dinners. The chapter has kept its academic standing among the upper half of fraternities on campus, and has fielded at least one brother on every Wabash athletic team. Several brothers are involved in the upcoming Wabash Theater's One Act Plays, and the entire chapter has Indiana Gamma on the way to reclaiming the intermural crown.

DARWIN LELAND Colgate '23

Darwin Leland refuses to acknowledge that age implies anything. Now more than 90 years old, he still works 40 hours a week at Leland Paper Co., the business he founded in 1951 in Glens Falls, New York. And he still comes into the office on Saturdays, "just to catch up on things," he says. His firm provides paper towels, copy and computer paper, and janitorial supplies to dozens of companies in the surrounding region.

Leland's son Richard now serves as president of the company. When asked his father's secret, Richard says "the company is keeping him active, keeping him going, physically and mentally. Hard work is the source of his longevity."

THE 30s

JOHN J. KEVILLE Columbia '31

Fast becoming a fixture in From Here & There, Jack Keville will be honored again on June 9, this time when he is inducted into the Plastics Hall of Fame. He will join less than 100 other members, including the inventors of plastic and nylon. The Hall of Fame is located inside the National Plastics Center and Museum, a building conceived and constructed in part thanks to Keville's tireless lobbying on its behalf.

It is for that achievement, seeing the Plastics Center through to completion, that Keville is being honored. He will continue to serve as vice president of the Center, which opened in 1992.

DALE F. SHUGHART Dickinson '31

"How does one adequately summarize 46 years of judicial and academic leadership in a few brief pages," asked The Dickinson Lawyer recently. The partial answer: "An outstanding jurist, a top-notch legal administrator, and a dedicated legal educator." The subject of their attentions, the Hon. Dale F. Shughart, retired last year after 36 years on the Cumberland County bench and 31 years as president of The Dickinson School of Law. A perfect cap to his lifetime of commitment to Dickinson, the school recently christened The Dale F. Shughart Community Law Center.

Judge Shughart continues to teach a course at Dickinson on the specifics of the practice of law in Pennsylvania. His son, Dale F. Shughart Jr., Bucknell '66, also lives and practices law in Carlisle.

RALPH H. MILLER Kansas '38

One of Phi Psi's sports legends, Ralph Miller's place in the Basketball Hall of Fame is richly deserved. Inducted several years ago with 672 victories in 38 years of coaching, Miller places seventh on the all-time winningest list. He retired from coaching at Oregon State University in 1989 after 19 seasons there.

Nowadays, Miller continues to live in Oregon, but devotes a fair amount of time to helping his daughter, Shannon Jakosky, the coach of girl's basketball at Newport Harbor High in Newport Beach, California. "It's great to come down here and work with kids," he said. "I didn't quit because I got tired of coaching kids."

STAFFORD G. DAVIS Northwestern '42

Stafford Davis has been granted the highest possible honor by the Boy Scouts of America: the Silver Beaver Award. The award was given in recognition of Davis' work with Explorer Scouts: boys and girls aged 14-21. He created several new posts to teach Explorers about career options, including posts for public relations, journalism, and television.

Davis is not the first Phi Psi to be recognized with the Silver Beaver, however. Previous recipients include John R. Donnell, Case Western Reserve '59, and Thomas D. Myers, Bowling Green '58.

Davis is a corporate communications consultant for Oklahoma Natural Gas and lives in Tulsa.

WARREN G. MORGAN Dickinson '43

In the tradition of Judge Dale Shughart, another outstanding Phi Psi jurist, Judge Warren Morgan, recently retired after 23 years on the Dauphin County, Pennsylvania bench. Described as "a staunch defender of courtroom propriety and decorum," Judge Morgan is best known for his administrative skills and has spent nearly 20 years streamlining the court to meet the ever-increasing case load demands.

Morgan will continue handling cases in the county as senior judge, a traveling post. He resides in Harrisburg.

WILLIAM L. STEARMAN

Indiana '47

Columbus North High School in Columbus, Indiana, has been Bill Stearman's professional home for 42 years. In that time, Stearman has coached more than 1,000 boys basketball games, and recently recorded his 700th victory. His 700-366 record places him third among Indiana boys high school coaches.

Now 70 years old, Stearman can reflect on his teams' 25 sectional titles, 12 regional championships, and two trips to the high school Final Four. How long he'll keep coaching is anybody's guess.

JOHN F. MURPHY

Arizona '48

Another Hall of Famer, Jack Murphy was recently inducted into the Arizona Broadcasters Hall of Fame. He anchored the first television newscast in Arizona on December 4, 1949. In addition to his illustrious career with KPHO-TV and KTSP-TV in Arizona, Murphy worked as Senior Television Advisor for the United States Information Agency in South Vietnam in the early '70s. He has also served as administrative assistant for Senator Barry Goldwater and in several positions at NASA.

Murphy retired in August 1990 and returned to Arizona, where he and his wife chose Wickenburg as home.

JAMES M. ROGERS

Indiana '53

Jim Rogers has been elected president of the College of Arts and Sciences Alumni Association for Indiana University. A former president of Phi Psi's Indianapolis Alumni Association, Rogers had been on the IU Alumni Association's board for three years prior to his current position.

He is president of Rogers & Co., a marketing and public relations firm in Indianapolis where Rogers says he's lived "forever."

DONALD E. ARENS

Indiana '54

Donald Arens, who has earned three degrees from Indiana University (including a DDS in 1959 and an MS in 1972), has been selected to win the fourth annual International Louis I. Grossman Award medallion for excellence in teaching. The award is presented by the French Society of Endodontics. Arens has been director of the continuing education program at the Indiana University School of Dentistry, located in Indianapolis, since 1987.

RICHARD E. ONG

Oregon State '55

Currently Phi Psi's national president, Dick Ong is also committed to serving the interfraternal community. He was recently elected to a four-year term on the board of directors of the National Interfraternity Conference. After only three months on the board, he has been chosen to chair the NIC's national scholarship committee.

The NIC is the federation body of 63 national men's college fraternities. It provides services and programs for member fraternities to help them succeed in such areas as membership recruitment, scholastics, and community service.

Brothers Helping Brothers

The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi

Cherished friendships. Leadership training. Self-confidence. Moral strength. Character. These are the major concepts related by brothers asked to distill the essence of our Fraternity into words. Noble concepts to be sure, but are they worth preserving? Many of our brothers think so, and they have given generously to the Fraternity's currently-underway capital campaign. Their contributions, and yours, will help give the Fraternity the resources it needs to thrive well into the next century.

Money from the campaign will be used by the Endowment Fund to support Phi Psi's mission in several key areas. Nearly half of the $7 million goal will be earmarked for chapter housing concerns. The rest will be split between scholarships & grants, leadership development, and computing & communications, with some funds available for unrestricted use, as indicated on the accompanying pie chart.

All of the campaign's programs will be restricted to using the interest income from the funds only, never invading the principal. The Endowment Fund will continue to be audited regularly by an independent accounting firm.

The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi

Specifically, $3,250,000 will be used to guarantee loans made to various alumni corporations by lending institutions. Those funds then obtained by the corporations can be used to renovate and repair chapter houses, and in some cases build new homes. Funds of this nature are needed at the vast majority of our chapter houses across the country today.

To support the scholarship aims of the Fraternity, $1.3 million of the $2.1 million allotted to scholarships and awards would be used to support and enhance current grant programs. Additionally, $300,000 would be used for chapter-specific scholarships, and $500,000 would endow a 'resident advisor' program, providing a stipend to support the graduate study of a qualified Phi Psi to live with each chapter. There, he would initiate study programs, track academic performance, and make quarterly reports on the chapter's progress.

Campaign Objectives

To maintain our preeminence in offering leadership development opportunities on campus, $1 million from the campaign will be allocated to create new leadership training programs and sustain current ones. Such programs include the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School, national advisors' workshops, and numerous regional conferences for both undergraduates and alumni. As the costs of attending such gatherings grow, income from the leadership development funds will be used to underwrite travel and other expenses.

Finally, $250,000 will provide a computer, printer, and modem for every chapter house in the nation. Chapter reports and membership information can then be filed electronically with the Headquarters, and even more importantly, the computer system will allow chapters to communicate with each other, their own alumni, and the brotherhood in general. Chapters and their alumni corporations will also be able to use the technology to maintain their own member databases, streamlining the process of communicating with alumni.

Why give?

Recently, The Shield asked some questions of members who have already pledged their support to Brothers Helping Brothers, The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi. Their responses reveal a variety of reasons for giving and opinions on which campaign focus areas deserve most attention, but the donors are unanimous in their belief that the Fraternity is worthy of our support.

According to Ruddick C. Lawrence, Washington '31, his gift was actually "an investment in America's future—in the young men who will have the knowledge, the character, and the moral strength to lead our nation." D. Bruce McMahan, Southern California '57, agrees, saying he's received "the powerful psychic satisfaction of knowing that I have actively contributed to a stronger and more successful future for America through building her future leaders."

Adds Brian D. Thiessen, Duke '57, "our nation can not survive without leadership development of today's youth that instills and reinforces moral values which will give our family, our community, and our nation the raison d'être for a future that overcomes today's apparent overwhelming challenges."

Many donors feel supporting the Fraternity is their duty: "My family are my brothers, the Fraternity my home," writes Executive Director Emeritus Ralph D. Daniel, Arizona '47. "My gift, in a small way, returns what Phi Psi has given me." Similarly, Mark Boeck, Iowa State '87, says "Because Phi Psi enhanced my undergraduate experience so much, I feel a strong responsibility to do what I can to help maintain its excellence."

"Brothers help brothers because that is the foundation of any family, isn't it?" asks Brian Thiessen. "The Fraternity is a family of the heart, where those who can must help those in need." Mark Boeck adds, "In order to reap the benefits of Fraternity membership, we must expect to give something of ourselves in return. Fraternity involvement is not meant to end upon graduation." That theme is echoed by W. Lyle Jones, West Virginia '27, "Phi Kappa Psi is not just for the young undergraduates, but for all our years. And I would like to remain involved."

"Everyone wants to be associated with a winning organization," adds Steve O'Rourke, Missouri '74. "And so it is with Phi Psi. I hope this money will help recruit, teach, and retain members desirous of the true principles and philosophies of our Fraternity. I benefit by association with these members."

Ralph D. Daniel

Ruddick C. Lawrence

What am I giving to?

The Endowment Fund was established 80 years ago to support the charitable and educational functions of the Fraternity. Today, the Endowment Fund's asset base totals just over $1.1 million, with about $400,000 of that total in cash and investments. The remainder of the assets are in the form of real property.

According to Kevin Sullivan, Valparaiso '84, a Senior Tax Consultant for Coopers & Lybrand, having an educational foundation is good for both the Fraternity and our donors. "A foundation is good because it's created to provide scholarships and for other fine and noble purposes," Sullivan says, "and because it's exempt from paying federal and state income tax." Plus, unlike contributing to a local Phi Psi chapter or to the general Fraternity, donations to the Endowment Fund (which is classified by the IRS as a 501(c)(3) organization) are tax deductible to the fullest extent allowed by law.

The Endowment Fund of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is designated by the U. S. Treasury Department Internal Revenue Service as a charitable organization as described in sections 509(a)(1) and 170(b)(1)(A)(vi) of the Code. All gifts to the Endowment Fund are tax exempt under section 501(c)(3) of the Code, and the Fund's Federal Tax Identification Number is 36-6130655.

Send in your pledge today!

Gifts to the campaign can be made outright, or through bequests, income producing trusts, or gifts of life insurance. Life insurance is a great way to make a large gift with a small outlay of cash. Once ownership of the insurance policy is transferred to the Endowment Fund, subsequent premium payments by the donor are viewed as donations to the Fund. They are, therefore, tax deductible as well.

Please take a moment now to fill out and mail the form stapled in the middle of the magazine. Your contribution today will help allow a new generation of Phi Psis to experience the joys of Fraternity. If you have any questions or comments about the capital campaign, don't hesitate to call the Fraternity

brothers HELPING brothers

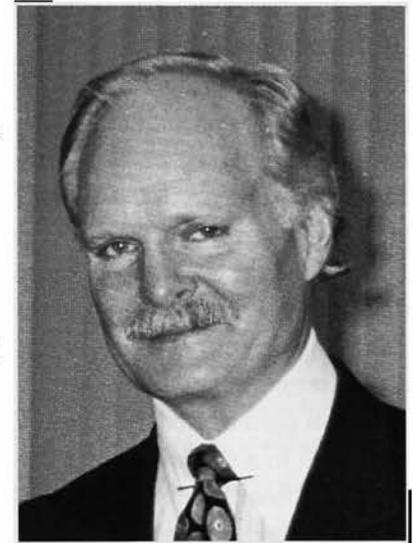

Headquarters at (317) 632-1852.

Brothers Helping Brothers, the Fraternity's first capital campaign in many years, was chaired in its initial phase by W. Robert Goldman, Jr., Miami '72 (Washington & Jefferson '64). Under his leadership thus far, we have come within striking distance of the $7 million goal. When all is said and done, Goldman projects that approximately ten percent of the total goal will be received in cash, with the rest coming in as deferred gifts.

All travel and related solicitation expenses throughout the campaign's preliminary phase were borne by its chair. Indeed, throughout the last few years, Brother Goldman has given generously of his time, his talents, and his money in an attempt to better the Fraternity he cares so much about.

Concludes Bruce McMahan, "Phi Kappa Psi and its importance to me only became clear after I had been separated from my chapter for many years. Upon reflection, I realized what an important part of my life had been molded by my Fraternity experience. I think many brothers would feel the same if they ever found a peaceful moment to examine how they have become who they are. Once that insight is achieved, helping support our Fraternity into the next century is an easy decision."

Remember, Brothers Helping Brothers: it's all up to you.

U. of Iowa chapter house gutted by fire

by David R. Murray, Bucknell '91

No one was injured as flames swept through the Iowa Alpha chapter house the morning of January 20. The house, located at 363 North Riverside Drive in Iowa City, had been the chapter's home since 1940. Although the concrete foundation and field-stone outside walls remain intact and can be used in reconstruction, all inside walls and floors were destroyed. Nearly $1.5 million will be required to rebuild the structure.

More than 40 firefighters from six surrounding towns were called in to fight the blaze, which burned for nearly 12 hours. Investigators later determined a short-circuited light duty extension cord caused the blaze. The cord was connected to a 45" television set and extended across the floor of a heavily-traveled first floor walkway. The short circuit ignited combustibles in the area, and the fire spread quickly through the walls of the house.

Also destroyed, in addition to the personal belongings of the 25 house residents and all common area furnishings, were memorabilia celebrating football great and 1939 Heisman Trophy winner Nile Kinnick, Iowa '38.

For the remainder of this semester, the displaced group is living together in the U of I's Mayflower Residence Hall.

Chapter Advisor Doug Parsons, Iowa '75, believes money from insurance claims will cover approximately two-thirds of the cost of rebuilding the house. Chapter alumni plan major fund-raising to make up the difference. The new house is scheduled to be constructed within the old walls and ready for occupancy by summer 1995.

To make a donation, or for information on how you may be of assistance, please contact Doug Parsons at (319) 338-7701 or write to him at: 18 East View Place N.E., Iowa City, IA 52240.

ADVISOR PROFILES

Don Cadley

Ashland

Don Cadley, Ashland '66, became involved with Ohio Theta during his second year as a faculty member at Ashland University. When the group affiliated with Phi Kappa Psi in 1966, Don was initiated as a charter member of the first pledge class. He has worked as a chapter advisor for most of his thirty years at Ashland.

As a faculty member, Don has directed Ashland University's Speech and Hearing Program, taught in special education, served as Faculty Senate President on four different occasions, and tried to assist Ohio Theta in its ups and downs.

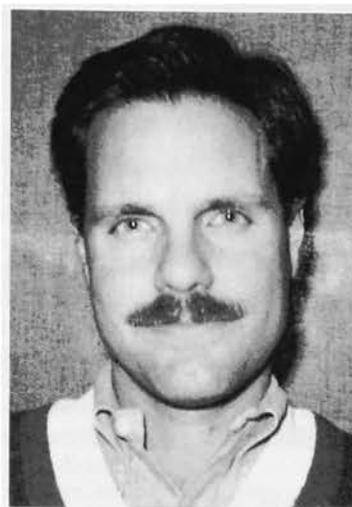

He is married to Gail, the sister of Ohio Theta member Gary Wiepking, Ashland '66, and they have one daughter, Kimberly, who will graduate from Ashland University in May, 1994.

Says Don, "I think of my tenure with the chapter having been enlightening and rewarding and as an extension of my responsibility to the community as a whole. In recent months, I have been especially pleased to see how the chapter has taken initiative and ownership for imperative changes and growth, even in the face of difficult odds.

"My job is made more rewarding by the willing efforts of such local alumni as Ohio Thetans Jerry Dunlap '66, Ralph Thauvette '66, Mark Miller '67, Bill Vacha '90, and Tony Battaglia '89, as well as recent graduate and former GP Bill McCullough '91." Don concludes, "Any successes I may claim as Advisor must be shared with these concerned brothers."

Doug Parsons

Iowa

The advisor to Iowa Alpha, Doug Parsons, Iowa '75, has had his work cut out for him. As reported on the preceding page, the Iowa Alpha chapter house was destroyed by fire on January 20. Since then, Doug has been coordinating the efforts to re-locate more than two dozen undergraduates, raise money to rebuild the house, work with the insurance carrier, keep alumni informed, and still run his business and spend time with his family.

Doug has been active with the chapter off and on since his graduation in 1979, but became directly involved in the last five years serving both as Alumni Corporation President and as Chapter Advisor. For a while, he and a core group of local alumni handled any situation that arose, but now the fire has spurred other alumni to action as well.

Doug now supervises new insurance, construction, and fundraising committees and more Iowa Alphans volunteer their time, talents, and dollars each day. Many of those interested alumni are not local to Iowa City, but says Doug, "It's not where you're located, necessarily. It's more the attitude of the person taking the job."

Doug and his brother run an office supply and contract design business in Iowa City; a company founded by their grandfather. With his business, his brother, his chapter, his wife, his seven-year-old son, and his five-year-old daughter all vying for attention, it's a wonder Doug survives. If you would like to contribute time, talent, or resources to Iowa Alpha, contact information for Doug is on the preceding page.

WASHINGTON

This year, Washington Alpha will celebrate its 80th year of existence, but there is much more to celebrate than a successful 80-year history. Increased enthusiasm and pride have taken all aspects of chapter life to new-found heights.

First of all, the initiation of 14 new brothers puts our membership count above 80. Also, the chapter will probably reach the 1,500-member mark with next fall's pledge class.

Socially, the Phi Psi name has greatly improved in the Greek system. In fact, our fall quarter included events with the Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Kappa Delta sororities. The pinnacle of our social events continues to be our Red Rose Ball, which is held annually at the top of the Columbia Tower. Furthermore, the hard work of our officers has greatly improved the efficiency and organization of the chapter. This is clearly shown in the increased participation in the Phi Psi 500 contest and in a much cleaner house.

Our two proudest accomplishments are in scholarship and philanthropy. For the first time in several years, our chapter GPA is above a 3.0. This shows our chapter's dedication to academic excellence. Philanthropy is also becoming a major focus of the chapter. During the fall quarter, there were three Greek system philanthropy events, Homecoming, Pi Beta Phi Arrow-games, and the Zeta Tau Alpha soccer tournament. The chapter placed second in them all. Also, we continued our way program by cleaning a two-mile stretch of I-5. In addition, our chapter became a member of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce which is another big step for us in community involvement.

In short, Washington Alpha is realizing that there are no limits to what it can accomplish. The time and energy spent by brothers over the past 80 years has shaped Washington Alpha into what it is today. All brothers who have been involved in this rich tradition are strongly urged to stop by and see what your hard work has accomplished. The best part is that as incredible as the past has been, our future looks even better.

WASHINGTON & JEFFERSON

The men of Pennsylvania Alpha wish to welcome Daniel Smith into our pledge class. We are certain that he will continue the progress at Penn Alpha and uphold the high ideals of Phi Kappa Psi.

Pennsylvania Alpha is most proud of the renovation of its chapter room and computer lab. With the help of all the brothers, and alumni support, we now have the best looking chapter room on campus. Pennsylvania Alpha also continues to be actively involved in many campus activities such as intramural sports and IFC. The IFC President is a member of Penn Alpha.

As the year progresses, the brothers of Penn Alpha will continue to strive for excellence and maintain the strong commitment to Phi Psi pride.

WASHINGTON & LEE

The Virginia Beta Chapter has had another banner year. The brothers at Washington and Lee University welcomed 13 new pledges who have added to its wide diversity and strong unity.

Phi Psis continue to act as leaders both in the university and the surrounding community. Accordingly, Phi Psi is represented in almost all of the varsity sports, government, community service projects, and events around which the university revolves. Two brothers serve on the school's Executive Committee another is president of the Interfraternity Council. Beyond this, Virginia Beta continues as one of W & L's social leaders as the brothers enjoy their second year in the newly renovated house.

A final bright spot for the Fraternity is the brother's participation in the local community both as coaches for children's athletics and peer counselors. All of the brothers extend an invitation to come see the new house.

A MEDITERRANEAN JOURNEY
ABOARD THE AZUR

SEPTEMBER 30-OCTOBER 9, 1994

There are perhaps no regions as rich in history, beauty, and culture as the lands that border the Mediterranean and Aegean Seas. This fall, we invite you to join fellow alumni brothers aboard the 660-passenger Azur for a voyage to the lands where Western civilization was born and flourished.

The first port-of-call is Corfu, where an evening ashore may be spent exploring the lively town and its colorful cafes and shops. At the magnificent mountainside Sanctuary of Apollo at Delphi, follow the Sacred Way to the Temple of Apollo. Then, sail on to the island of Rhodes, where you will have an opportunity to enjoy the spectacular view from atop the acropolis at Lindos and explore the medieval town of Rhodes. From the charming port of Kusadasi, travel to the ancient site of Ephesus, once the most important city in Asia Minor. Sail through the Cycladic Islands to lovely Mykonos for an evening ashore to wander the charming narrow streets. In its history, Athens has been perhaps the city most blessed with the masterpieces of Western culture. You'll visit the most famous of these, the Parthenon, as well as the other noble structures that grace Athen's Acropolis. The journey concludes with one night in glorious Venice, a city uniquely rich in palaces, basilicas, and famed art collections.

Throughout the journey you will be accompanied by a distinguished guest speaker who will present a series of lectures that will greatly enhance your experience.

Prices begin at only $2,695 per person, double occupancy, and include airfare from selected gateways, the seven-night cruise, one night at a hotel in Venice, and all meals during the cruise.

We hope you will join fellow alumni brothers and friends on this idyllic voyage to Venice, the Greek Islands, and Turkey.

For further information about this travel program, please contact Travel Dynamics toll-free at (800) 367-6766 (Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Eastern Time).

Planning the Fraternity's future

After nearly two years of hard work, the goals of the planning document have almost been reached

By James R. Blazer II, Ohio State '79

Phase II: Implementing the plan

During the last eighteen months, the Executive Council and its appointed officers have paid particular attention to the mandates of the 1992 Grand Arch Council and how they relate to the strategic plan of the Fraternity. Phi Kappa Psi now has, for the first time in its history, a mission statement, a vision statement, and a strategic plan.

In a constant effort through the support of the Executive Council, I am proud to announce an unprecedented implementation of the elements of the strategic plan through new programs and refinements to our organization. Each appointed officer has begun to help our chapters realize and live by the mission and vision statements of Phi Kappa Psi.

Below you will find many of the accomplishments of the last eighteen months vis à vis the plan. It has now begun its evolution, and as designed, is setting the course for the future of Phi Kappa Psi.

Phase II of our strategic plan is currently in progress as we go to press. The Illinois Alpha Chapter at Northwestern University hosted a planning summit in mid-February with the goal of solidifying the remaining elements of the plan and identifying new areas of refinement for Phi Kappa Psi. The outcome of the summit has been put into programming and was approved by the Executive Council at its March 12 meeting.

Specific accomplishments in each of the seven areas of the strategic plan are outlined below.

Implement and maintain standards of excellence...

Dr. Thomas D. Myers, Bowling Green '58, Director of Scholarship, has presented a plan to help chapters refocus on scholarship and then monitor and enforce the Fraternity's scholarship goals. The program will recognize chapters who have achieved excellence and improvement within the Fraternity and on their own campuses. Director of Fraternity Education Dallas F. Horvath, Bowling Green '63, has reviewed Fraternity Education programs from across the country and has begun circulating examples of exemplary programs for review and implementation by chapters. Finally, Director of Membership Thomas D. Meisner, Lafayette '68, has been appointed to chair a committee to develop and implement an accreditation and certification program for the Fraternity. This program will clearly outline basic expectations of membership, thereby outlining a uniform standard against which all chapter and alumni groups can be measured.

Maximize membership involvement at every level...

Undergraduate involvement is being reviewed by an ad hoc committee charged with examining the problem of "inactive" chapter members. Also being considered is the concept of honorary membership and reviving the tradition of live-in adult supervisor, i.e. house mothers or resident directors.

Coordinator of Chapter and Faculty Advisors John V. Ciccarelli, Cal State Northridge '72, has helped implement the chapter advisory committee model for chapter advising, replacing individual advisors with a team concept. A comprehensive manual has also been produced and distributed to serve as a resource guide.

Tom C. Pennington, Texas '80, Coordinator of Alumni and Insurance Services at the Fraternity Headquarters, has taken on several tasks. He has targeted specific geographic regions for establishing new alumni associations, in addition to broadening the network of active alumni by identifying opportunities for involvement. And he has created a series of "boiler plate" programs, events, and newsletters for use by chapter and alumni associations alike. Tom is also developing a training program to help associations assimilate recent graduates as alumni.

Additionally, there is now a ceremony for each of the major steps in a member's life: pledging, initiation, and graduation. The Alumni Induction Ceremony, drafted by Kent C. Owen, Indiana '58, is now being implemented across the country to reinforce that being a Phi Psi is a lifetime commitment.

Promote and instill traditional values of Phi Kappa Psi...

A special commission chaired by the Rev. David M. McDonald, Beloit '82, has been formed to translate the values and ideals that are the foundation of Phi Kappa Psi into programming that will focus on the positive aspects of Fraternity membership and strive to eliminate unbrotherly behavior.

Reinforcing that chapter advisors and alumni corporation officers also serve as role models for undergraduates will be a key component of the programming.

Improve communication in the Fraternity...

The Executive Council has purchased and installed a computer system at the Fraternity Headquarters that enables Educational Leadership Consultants to file reports and update member information from the road directly into the Fraternity's database. Plus, the Headquarters is now able to begin tracking employment data for development of a future career referral system. There is also an electronic mail distribution list allowing all Phi Psis to be linked via computer. New financial software improves the tracking of financial data.

Develop a Fraternity housing policy...

With the involvement of the Endowment Fund and The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi, the Fraternity and Endowment Fund's $7 million capital fund drive, we hope to be able to provide funds in the way of loans and loan guarantees to chapters and their alumni corporations. These funds will be used to renovate and improve chapter homes, adding to the total living educational experience.

Assess all chapters, corporations, and alumni groups...

Each year, the Headquarters' chapter services team will identify the strengths and weaknesses of each of Phi Psi's chapters, colonies, alumni corporations, chapter advisory committees, and alumni associations and clubs. Areas of analysis will include membership strength, financial stability, educational programming, scholarship (for chapters and colonies), and property and asset evaluation (for alumni corporations).

Improve and maintain the financial position of the Fraternity...

The Endowment Fund and Permanent Fund are crucial to the continued success of our Fraternity. It is imperative that the well-being of these funds be secured. Checks and balances continue to be implemented to protect the corpus of the funds.

But, the future of the Fraternity, according to the strategic plan and the consensus of the 1992 GAC, cannot rely on the current balance of these funds. Therefore, The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi was designed to fortify the Endowment Fund.

Additional issues currently being addressed...

The Commission on Unit Rule, chaired by past president Tom James, Texas '48, submitted its final report to the Executive Council last fall. The commission's report has been enhanced to address the many applications of the Unit Rule within Phi Kappa Psi. The final report has been approved by the Executive Council and will be submitted to the 1994 Grand Arch Council for review.

Another committee has been formed to make recommendations on improving community service and philanthropy at all levels of the Fraternity. P. David Evans, Arizona '77, has been appointed to the Executive Council as the Coordinator of Community Service and Philanthropy Projects and will oversee the work of the committee. The committee is currently gathering feedback from chapters and is expected to make its report to the GAC this summer.

Conclusion...

Being a member of an organization such as Phi Kappa Psi carries with it the burden of being constantly judged by our many publics, sometimes unfairly. And it is important for us to remember why the Fraternity was founded.

It is apparent, then, that our strategic plan should be fairly simple. All we strive for is the opportunity to fulfill the lofty goals set for us by Founders Letterman and Moore and the Ritual. When each of us commits ourselves wholeheartedly to being a gentleman, then we will truly know what it means to be a member of Phi Kappa Psi. ♦

MISSION STATEMENT

The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is an association of men of integrity who strive to develop the individual in his intellect, in his involvement in the community, and in his faith. Recognizing and valuing the diversity of all, the Fraternity unites the principles and traditions of our past with the resources and creativity of our present to provide an environment in which our members can realize their highest potential. To this end, we offer a lifelong experience, guided by our faith in a power greater than ourselves, in contributing to the betterment of both the individual and the community.

EDWIN A. MESERVE

Oregon '32

Edwin Meserve died on February 8, 1994 in Los Angeles. He served as GP of Oregon Alpha and president of his senior class. His brother, J. Robert Meserve, Stanford '34, and late father, Shirley E. Meserve, UC Berkeley '08, are past Presidents of the Fraternity.

FRANCIS L. DALE

Duke '42

A former president of the Music Center of Los Angeles County, publisher of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner and the Cincinnati Enquirer, president of baseball's Cincinnati Reds, and a US representative to the United Nations, Francis Dale died November 28, 1993 while visiting Victoria Falls, Zimbabwe.

Dale served as GP of North Carolina Alpha from 1942-43. He is survived by many family members, including Phi Psi brother C. Shelby Dale, Duke '34.

ROBERT E. LEBER

Gettysburg '46

Past Fraternity President Robert E. Leber, Gettysburg '46, died on January 11, 1994 while vacationing in Florida.

Bob was elected to the Executive Board of the Fraternity at the 1960 Grand Arch Council as Secretary, becoming Vice President in 1962, and was elected as Phi Psi's 39th SWGP in 1964, serving until 1966.

Bob attended 23 consecutive Grand Arch Councils between 1948 and 1992. He was initiated into the Ancient Order of the SC in 1960. Most recently, Bob served on the Nominating Committee prior to the 1990 GAC.

Bob spent his professional career as a sales manager with the Sun Chemical Corporation in New York, Chicago, and, finally, Los Angeles. Until his death, Bob made his home in Culver City, California.

THE EMERGENCE OF CHINA

LAST CHANCE!

A look at the new business and cultural climate with Yangtse River cruise. Time is running out!
June 23 – July 7, 1994

This 15-day tour combines the best of two fascinating worlds: insights into an emerging Chinese economy and a chance to experience the wonders of China's history and beauty.

Phi Kappa Psi is proud to have chosen this special tour from China Advocates as a unique experience to make available to our members, families, and friends.

The price is $3390 per person, double occupancy, and includes all China airfare, meals (except lunches), China transport (including Yangtse River cruise), and more.

Also, as the tour incorporates a focus on the Chinese economy and business opportunities, a portion of the trip may be eligible as a business expense for deduction from state and federal income tax.

☎ Call immediately! The trip will be cancelled if not enough people express interest.

◆ President's Message

Advancing to the next level

After 4½ years of growth, the Fraternity enjoys stability, security, and promise for the future

Dear Brothers,

This is my last message to you as your President. It has been an exciting and challenging biennium. The Fraternity has continued to improve and grow in strength. My thanks to the hard work of the many involved alumni, the hard-working, highly motivated and dedicated staff, and Terry Harper, our outstanding Executive Director. All have committed to improving the Fraternity and the undergraduate experience and our chapters.

The past five years have been difficult ones for Phi Kappa Psi, due to the discovery of improper actions on the part of our former Executive Director, Gary B. Angstadt. When Angstadt's actions were discovered in December of 1989, then-President J. Robert Meserve and the rest of the Executive Board took swift and decisive corrective action.

Angstadt was asked to resign and a search committee of distinguished alumni was formed to conduct a nationwide search for a replacement. A special audit was conducted by the accounting firm of R. J. Pile & Co., and Coopers & Lybrand was hired as the Fraternity's new independent auditor.

After examining many highly qualified applicants, the Executive Council selected Terry Harper as our new Executive Director. Terry has proven to be an excellent selection. The Executive Board that was elected in 1990, under the leadership of Robert E. Lazzell, continued actions to install checks and balances and to implement accepted business practices. The Executive Council commenced actions to recover the large outstanding debt owed the Fraternity by many chapters.

The current Executive Board and Council have continued those practices. I am pleased to report to you today that your Fraternity is in sound financial condition. Phi Psi once again has adequate cash and insurance reserves, and is operating in a responsible, businesslike manner.

With regard to Gary Angstadt, he pled guilty to Federal charges of income tax evasion and served eight months in a prison camp and two months in a halfway house. He is under a supervised release program for an additional three years. The Fraternity was able to recover some of the items that had been purchased at Fraternity expense for Angstadt's personal use. A civil suit filed by Phi Kappa Psi and the Endowment Fund has been settled out of court with Angstadt agreeing to reimburse the Fraternity in the amount of $100,000.

In accordance with Fraternity Law, charges were filed by Past President Lazzell against Angstadt for committing an "offense against the Fraternity." Through his personal representative, Angstadt admitted to the charges and apologized. The Executive Council met on May 21, 1994 in accordance with Article I of the Rules of Phi Kappa Psi and expelled Gary Angstadt from the Fraternity, thus bringing to a close this sad chapter in our history.

Meanwhile, the Endowment Fund has taken the following actions to prevent its corpus from ever being invaded again. No member of the Fraternity staff has check-signing authority for the Endowment Fund accounts. Any moneys transferred from the Fund to the Fraternity require the approval of the Fund's Treasurer and the signatures of two appointed Assistant Treasurers who reside in Indianapolis. The previous money manager has been replaced by Paine Webber who now manages the investments for the Fund. The Trustees of the Fund have proposed increasing their numbers from three to five.

With this divisive issue now behind us and our finances once again in good shape, Phi Kappa Psi is on the move. The Endowment Fund corpus is growing. We now have an ongoing strategic plan for charting our future. This includes a formalized plan and policy for expansion, many new alumni initiatives, and a very effective and active chapter advisor, advisory committee, and house corporation program. There is also a revitalized and active scholarship improvement program, and a new focus on community service and "The Great Joy of Serving Others."

Come to the Charleston GAC, be a part of your Fraternity in action, and renew your bonds of brotherhood. I encourage each of you to participate in this wonderful celebration: August 10-14 at the Omni Hotel at Charleston Place.

It has been a distinct honor and privilege to serve as your President. May God bless you all.

Fraternally,

Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55

The Significance of Scholarship

SLIPPERY ROCK UNIVERSITY

Dr. Robert N. Aebersold
Ohio Wesleyan '54

At one time, fraternity and sorority members consistently held higher grade point averages than non-affiliated students. Unfortunately, that's no longer the case.

At one time, fraternities were literary organizations whose meetings were debates of classical literature. Today, we plan homecoming floats, vote on t-shirt designs, and debate which sorority to pair-up with for Greek Week.

In the Northeast, faculty senates are voting no faith in their Greek systems. Screams of anti-intellectualism haunt annual meetings of boards of trustees. "Look at the evidence," some faculty members cry, "these grades are abysmal!"

But not all denizens of academe are quite so pessimistic. The Shield recently spoke with five Phi Psi alumni who are also university presidents. We asked them to discuss the higher education community's views on Greek life, the prospects for change in the next ten years, and the most pressing problems facing national Greek organizations. John Schlegel, president of the University of San Francisco, believes that "fraternities can be viewed as positive resources for community building, for the building of team effort, and for the development of individual self-esteem." And when run correctly, he says, "a healthy Greek system complements and is of value to a university community; however, when it is undisciplined or irresponsible it has no place on a college campus."

Charles Vest, president of MIT, agrees that fraternities have made progress in recent years, "shedding their image as purely social clubs. They have begun to acknowledge the importance of exhibiting exemplary behavior and developing responsible attitudes toward diversity and gender issues." He also believes that educational programs — instituted by Phi Psi and other fraternities — are working to solve problems with risk management and fraternity education.

Vest's opinion about the importance of embracing many types of nontraditional students is shared by several of his colleagues, including University of Cincinnati President Joseph Steger III. To survive, he believes "fraternities must look to the changing, diverse population coming to universities and welcome them to the Greek system."

As we reach out to new constituencies, however, we must not forget the founding tenets of the Fraternity. Penn State President Emeritus John Oswald accurately concludes we must "emphasize that Phi Psi encourages scholastic achievement, the development of leadership skills, and dedication to service on the part of its members," perhaps through the use of new programs and national awards.

To that end, Phi Psi recently unveiled a new program reinforcing our commitment to academic excellence. Called 3RQ, the initiative focuses on securing academically-capable men from the outset, giving them the tools, resources, and support necessary to succeed, and then recognizing them for their accomplishments. Or, more mnemonically, Recruit Quality, Retain Quality, and Reward Quality: 3RQ.

Recruit Quality The Fraternity should only recruit prospective members who have good academic records. These records may in terms of high school grade point average, class rank, ACT & SAT scores, or college grade point average.

Retain Quality An exerted effort will be made to see that every member reaches his optimum academic potential, and members will be expected to complete all requirements for a college degree. This begins with assigning a mentor who oversees the accomplishment of goals. Time management and study skill seminars are to be conducted on a regular basis. Each chapter will have educational chairmen with a committee assigned to the above task.

Reward Quality Rewarding quality begins with a commitment on a national level. The Executive Council will annually present a banner designating, in each district, one Chapter of Excellence. Individual chapters that show improvement on a designated level in annual grade point average will be presented a plaque. Individual chapters will be encouraged to present certificates, cash awards, and other methods of recognition to members who excel academically.

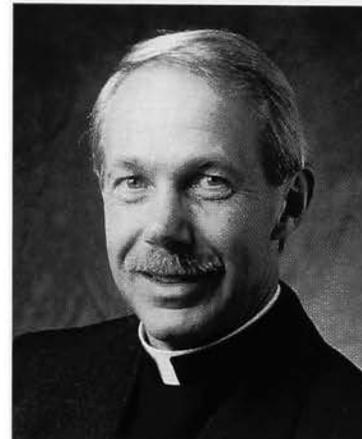

So what can a chapter do to improve academic performance and ensure 3RQ-level performance and recognition? Aren't a student's grades his own responsibility? Yes, members must be responsible for their own grade point averages. However, the chapter should have basic expectations of its members. If someone isn't meeting minimal academic expectations, then the chapter should hold him accountable. Students are in school to acquire an education, and parents and lending agencies are paying hefty prices to ensure a brighter future for today's college students. Because Phi Kappa Psi believes strongly in the development of the mind, it is not an unbrotherly act to confront a member having academic problems. It is unbrotherly to ignore a dangerous situation by excusing someone's performance as "It's his business."

Many people wonder how we can enforce academic requirements for our members, but the Fraternity already requires each chapter to maintain a GPA above the all-male average or 2.5 (on a 4.0 scale), whichever is higher. Every chapter member's personal performance is directly linked to the group's success. Thus when a man is pledged to the Fraternity, he must understand the expectations Phi Kappa Psi has of him as a gentleman and a scholar. Our Ritual clearly explains that. Honoring oneself honors our Fraternity... disgrace affects her the same way. Therefore, membership standards articulated to prospective members at the beginning of pledging must spell out our academic requirements.

There are numerous ways for brothers to assist one another with scholarship. As Phi Psis, we owe it to one another to ensure each Brother maximizes his potential while in school. A strong academic record is a superb indicator of the importance the chapter places on prioritizing its programming. Every entity wins in this situation: members benefit from higher grades in employment searches and enrollment in graduate school; the chapter statistics reflect the shift in approach to scholarship; Phi Kappa Psi enhances the status of all campus Greek organizations; faculty, administrators, and parents recognize our efforts and are more apt to lend their support toward fraternities. And as in all chapter activities, success breeds success!

The Future

By John W.

Editor's Note: This article was adapted from Brother Burkhart's speech to the 1993 Phi Kappa Psi Old Gold Day Symposium at DePauw.

The year 1776 marked the birth of America, the publication of Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations, and the founding of the first fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa at the College of William and Mary.

The human race has a strong interest in groups and organizations that bring people together with others who have similar interests. Examples are the church, the lodges (which were very important when I was growing up), and clubs like Rotary and Kiwanis.

Thus, it is not surprising that this desire for affiliation led to the formation of the first collegiate fraternity. The word "fraternity" itself defines its mission. It is derived from frater, the Latin word for 'brother.'

Of course, there were those who felt fraternities to be a threat—such as some members of college faculties—but generally they were well received. Nevertheless, Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, stated that "learning to be clubby is not the highest learning." And another critic said "men who join fraternities suffer an insidious vanity, based on notions of superiority and exclusiveness."

But Milton Eisenhower, somewhat unusual in that he served as president of three different universities—Kansas State, Penn State, and Johns Hopkins—had a different view. He described fraternities as "workshops in understanding and cooperation... anvils upon which the character of individuals may be fashioned for service beyond self."

When I attended DePauw, the Phi Kappa Psi chapter fulfilled its mission. We were taught good manners, we had strict rules of conduct, and it was constantly made clear that we were in school to get an education. As pledges, we had a paddle with which the president could smack us once, or even several times, when we disobeyed rules or failed to carry out our assignments.

Pledges also had the responsibility to keep the house completely clean, a task that generally took up the major part of each Saturday morning. It was the Golden Era for fraternities! But then, very slowly, a change came about, one beyond the understanding of my generation.

The New York Times, in a story appearing in 1988, summed it up well. "Fraternities," the columnist wrote, "have in recent decades gained notoriety for so-called date rapes and gang rapes, for rowdy drunkenness, and for the humiliating, often dangerous, initiation practices known as hazing. The happenings of recent years have reversed the admiration formerly expressed for the fraternity system. The permissiveness that has been reflected in so many schools, and in society in general, has led to inexcusable and intolerable practices in fraternities from coast to coast."

Not very long ago here at DePauw, the Phi Psi house and many others were so damaged by alcoholic parties that widespread and very expensive renovations had to be undertaken. Many alumni disavowed any further relationships with their chapters.

My impression is that we are now in the process of restoring old values and rebuilding our chapters. Much still needs to be done, or to put it even more properly, much must be done.

We are living at a time when all our institutions are being questioned. Obviously, the fraternity system needs to re-examine itself. It needs to have goals and standards that are consistent with today's world, that can contribute to the establishment of a better world. Once the goals and standards have been delineated, our next responsibility is to see that they are achieved.

Fraternities

What are some of the things a fraternity must keep in mind? First, the fraternity must never forget that the primary purpose of college is to educate, for its members to learn something that is useful and enriching.

Second, to keep in mind the significance of the term 'brother.' One writer has described this concept very well. Speaking of a new member, his observation is that "he develops a responsibility for the well-being of something outside himself.... He thus learns to lend his strength to those who have less, thus fulfilling an educational goal other than which there is no higher. The best pledge training is given when the elder brothers furnish the correct example for the beginner. Bonds are formed which last a lifetime...."

At the end of the Middle Ages, we had a rebirth of art, letters, architecture, and learning. We need such a rebirth today! We need to develop what I would call modern Renaissance men. We have always needed them but never as much as we do now.

A global economy, an information age, an even bigger role of government, problems of AIDS, crime, drugs, illegitimate children, ethnic and racial conflicts, militant religious groups, the population explosion—we could go on almost indefinitely with a recital of the problems.

If we are to survive such challenges, we are going to need both leaders and followers, people who are not focused on one or two special interests, but who see and sense the whole world scene and who have depth of knowledge and understanding to tackle an array of problems beyond anything our world has ever known.

We are all beneficiaries of wisdom from the past. We need to ourselves become transmitters of wisdom to those who will be in charge tomorrow. The fraternity can be a major conduit for such action. In the area of citizenship, the fraternity brother of today needs to understand how government works. He needs to understand a precinct worker as well as the president of the United States. He can't allow his business or profession to occupy his complete attention. The key words for democracy are citizen participation.

Another arena of need concerns the family, where we must again realize its key importance. The fraternity itself is a family of sorts and provides an ideal training center for implanting an understanding that there is no satisfactory replacement for the family.

Finally, we must see to it that we never forget the supreme injunction of all the great moral teachers is to serve our fellow man.

My purpose here today is not simply to sound the alarm but to send out the fire department, to accent the voluntary and private approaches for which the fraternity is the perfect medium. Billy Graham has reminded us that "God has given us two hands—one with which to receive and the other with which to give. We are not cisterns for hoarding; we are channels made for sharing."

Simone de Beauvoir wrote the following: "Life is occupied in both perpetuating itself and in surpassing itself; if all it does is maintain itself, then living is not only dying, and human existence is indistinguishable from an absurd vegetation."

So it is with our fraternity. We can leave it like it is, or we can give it our guidance and our enthusiasm and our talents to see that it surpasses itself. ♦

CHAPTER NEWSLETTERS

Here we continue our focus on chapters' commitment to community service. In this magazine are newsletters from more than half of Phi Psi's chapters. If your chapter or colony's newsletter is not here, it appeared in the March 1994 issue of The Shield. Newsletters have been edited for length and consistency. Enjoy!

AKRON

This year has seen vast improvements made at Ohio Iota. To begin the year, the chapter held an excellent fall rush, eventually initiating eight new men. Scholastically, the chapter dramatically improved its GPA, leading to the chapter being recognized as the Most Improved Chapter by the University. Improvements continue to be made on the chapter in large part due to the hard work of Brother Bob Higgins. Ohio Iota continues to grow, improve and represent Phi Psi well at the University of Akron.

ALABAMA

Over the past year, we've had many visits from our alumni coming to see the house on its new location. The house move led to one of our largest Founders Day celebrations to date. As we celebrate our 30th anniversary on campus, we recognize and thank all of our alumni for their support of the chapter.

Last November, the chapter hosted the Greek Advisor's Council meeting for the University with University of Alabama President Roger Sayers as the guest speaker. We had representatives and advisors from all the fraternities and sororities on campus.

In the fall, the chapter won the IFC award for the pledge class with the highest GPA. We won third place in the "Paint the Town Red" event during Homecoming; a couple of the brothers (pool sharks) won first place in the Homecoming pool tournament.

We would like to welcome two recent transfers and our 10 newest initiates. As all chapters do, we are currently keeping our eyes open for prospective rushees. If you have any recommendations, or would like to stop by and see the renovated house, just do it!

David Walls

ARIZONA STATE

We are pleased to announce that things are on the upswing for Arizona Beta. After several semesters of failing grades and poor rushing, our alumni helped us make a change for the better. This change came in the form of a membership review. Some brothers will remain on alumni status, but there is a stronger bond between the remaining undergraduates.

We are looking forward to a strong fall rush and positive steps forward in the coming semester. With the implementation of a committee system in cooperation with alumni advisors, we are trying to build a strong foundation for future growth. Our work is cut out for us in the coming semester, but we know this is for the good of the chapter.

Rick Carter & Chad Ibello

ASHLAND

Ohio Theta is back stronger than ever! The 1993-94 academic year was a tough one, but we struggled through and came out on top. We have tripled our numbers and we have our house back.

During the school year we had two large pledge classes, won Ashland University's Greek Week with our partners, Phi Mu, had the highest GPA for fraternities on campus, and celebrated Founders Day with golfing, initiation, and a dinner. Undergraduates and alumni both enjoyed the day.

Chad Webb

ARIZONA

Howdy and a loud "High, High, High!" from here in Tucson, home of the final four Arizona Wildcats and the Arizona Alpha chapter. Winding this semester out with a clothing drive for the Salvation Army, our chapter sponsored five philanthropies this semester.

These philanthropies also included service to the local Ronald McDonald House, Campfire Boys and Girls of Tucson, Casa de los Niños home for abused and displaced children, and our new annual Phi Psi & U of A blood drive with the help of the Red Cross.

Arizona Alpha was also very pleased with the turnout of our alumni for Homecoming weekend and the winning of the Fiesta Bowl by our Wildcat football team. We would like to recognize our five newly initiated members and our two graduating seniors. Also, thanks to the brothers from Indiana State and Eastern New Mexico for their visits, and to UCSB for their hospitality over Halloween.

Mark R. Willne

BOWLING GREEN

The past year has been busy and exciting for Ohio Zeta, mostly because of our effort to focus on contributing to the community—an effort that met with great success. Along with our annual philanthropy, the Bath Tub Races, we participated in a marathon sponsored by the BGSU Advertising Club. Our chapter's job was to set up, clean up, and direct the racers along the route.

We also spent time sprucing up Bowling Green City Park, and we received front-page newspaper coverage for repairing damage done by vandals to tombstones in the city cemetery.

Chad N. Moore

BRANDEIS

Mass Beta has undergone some momentous changes this past semester, with the emphasis on securing a healthy and sound financial future at Brandeis. With our large junior class anticipating their final year in the chapter, we have focused on integrating and assimilating our younger brothers into leadership roles. Our strong spring pledge class is eager to take an active role in the fraternity too.

Philanthropy has been at an all-time high this past semester. Our members have had active roles in the numerous on- and off-campus philanthropy organizations in Waltham. A highlight was our White Ribbon Campaign, helping to prevent physical abuse against women. The majority of our members were intensely involved in this campaign.

Robert Epstein

BROWN

Rhode Island Alpha had another great year, initiating 22 new brothers and completing another successful rush with 21 new pledges.

We were also very involved once again on campus and in the Providence community. We sponsored two major outreach programs. The first, which was covered by Newsweek, focused on rape awareness. The second was a talk delivered by Gideon Applegate, a star baseball Community service was another important part of our calendar with active involvement in a Big Brother-Little Brother program, Habitat for Humanity, and Special Olympics. We also hosted Trikes for Tykes, our annual Phi Psi 500 fund-raiser, a tricycle race that helps us raise money for the Olneyville Boys and Girls Club. This year, the chapter raised more than $1,000 for these children.

Currently, we are making major renovations to our house, including re-doing our library and purchasing a new pool table. We have also just started an endowment fund to ensure a strong financial future for the chapter.

Joe Ruffolo II

BUTLER

Once again, the brothers of Indiana Zeta can look back on another enjoyable and successful semester of fraternity life. Due to the recent change in Butler University's policy, deferred rush was instituted and Phi Psi rose to the challenge. Under the guidance of dedicated undergraduates and alumni, Phi Psi was rewarded with 22 new pledges.

As a chapter, Phi Psi was very active in and out of the classroom by participating in "Into The Streets," Geneva Stunts, and Spring Sing, and volunteering at Lutherwood Home for Children, as well as many other projects. On campus, many brothers achieved recognition for their efforts in student government, IFC, Blue Key, and intramural sports. Phi Psis hold high positions in both IFC and SGA. And once again we finished first in grades among fraternities and third overall on campus.

Christopher Sutcliff

CAL POLY

We began the year with a visit from founding father John Macy '66. He counseled us on the importance of tradition and was pleased with the direction the chapter is heading.

This April, Cal Eta reinstated its Open House (formerly Poly Royal). Brothers sold the traditional Smoothy Special and donated all profits to a local charity.

We also welcomed 13 new initiates: 10 from the fall and three this spring.

Dave Huntley

CAL STATE NORTHRIDGE

California Theta is back on its feet again after the January earthquake. The Fraternity house suffered considerable damage, but thanks to the help of our alumni, the housing corporation, and donations from our brothers across the country, our house is slowly recovering. We expect renovations to be completed by the end of the summer and are looking forward to have the house ready by fall.

We recently initiated two new brothers and said good-bye to two graduating Phi Psis. Congratulations too to Brother John Batchlor, who played on the team that won the intramural basketball championship. We anticipate more events this fall as the school's facilities again become operational.

Ricardo Reyes

CREIGHTON

This was a great rebuilding year for Nebraska Beta. Our chapter placed in 5 of 7 categories in the Order of Omega Greek Excellence Awards. We initiated 22 new brothers. And Alumnus of the Year was awarded to G. Thomas

Next year we plan to hold our Phi Psi 500 philanthropy event in the spring, while the fall will boast a new Parents/Alumni weekend event being planned for late September. Look for complete details in the summer issue of Phi Psighting.

Keith Pieper

DEPAUL

We have been busy on campus and in the university community since our installation on October 9, 1993 as Phi Psi's 133 chapter. We inducted six new men, and this spring we celebrated the arrival of three new pledges.

Illinois Zetans are well represented on campus. Our members hold leadership positions on executive boards of the Greek Council, the Student Government, and the DePaul Ambassadors group. In addition, members serve as resident advisors, delegates to the Residence Hall Council, peer ministers to University Ministry, and staff of The DePaulia. Brothers were named Fraternity Pledge, Freshman, Junior, and Senior of the Year, and Fraternity Most Greek Spirited.

We are also very active in Greek sports. The Illinois Zeta chapter has just won the Greek trophy for the second year in a row. Beginning in the fall, brothers participated in Greek football, basketball, hockey, and softball.

Illinois Zetans have continued to serve others within the DePaul community through various philanthropy events. In the fall we participated and aided University Ministry with a blood drive on campus. Also, we held our first annual campout in the quad, to benefit the Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago. Brothers collected donations for the children's recreation fund of the hospital, which provides toys and games for terminally ill patients. Also, we just held our fourth annual Beach Bash at North Avenue Beach. Money was raised to benefit children and their families at the Ronald McDonald House.

Special thanks to our graduating seniors. These men have diligently worked towards making our chartering a reality.

DEPAUW

This year has seen continued success at Indiana Alpha. Rush was outstanding with the chapter initiating nineteen freshmen this year. Equally impressive was the chapter's scholastic achievement. Indiana Alpha's GPA was third among DePaul University fraternities. The chapter's Alumni Mentor program has met with success with close to forty alumni members showing interest in the pro-

COLORADO

The Colorado Alpha Chapter at the University of Colorado-Boulder is currently on hiatus. Membership had dropped to the point where it was questionable whether the group could maintain the chapter house. Faced with an uphill battle to increase membership and improve internal operations, the undergraduates made the decision to take alumni status and allow the Fraternity staff to recruit a new chapter. The chapter charter will remain intact during this brief dormant period. As The Shield was going to press, it had yet to be determined when the reorganization would occur. Alumni recruitment is taking place now.

If you live in the Boulder area and would like to serve on a chapter advisory committee or the alumni corporation for Colorado Alpha in the next year, please contact Tom Pennington at the Fraternity Headquarters at (317) 632-1852. DICKINSON

The men of Pennsylvania Zeta continue to proudly carry the Phi Psi banner at Dickinson College. The chapter has been involved with a local battered women's home in conjunction with another campus fraternity, and chapter members continue to be involved in campus activities. Rush went well for the chapter this year, and the chapter hopes to duplicate its success this fall. The chapter has recently been awarded two more years at its current campus-owned house, and this ideally located chapter house should be a tremendous asset in rush. Phi Psi continues to enjoy success at Dickinson.

DUKE

A small fire in the chapter's section early this semester brought recurring headaches and an appearance before a disciplinary board. Preliminary reports are that the chapter will emerge relatively unscathed.

The celebrity auction, a long-standing North Carolina Alpha tradition, continues to bring credit to the chapter. Recently renamed the Jimmy Valvano celebrity auction, the event garnered almost $10,000 for charity. The event was strategically organized to coincide with parent's weekend at Duke. While the chapter could have enjoyed greater participation from its members, the event was successful. Plans will be undertaken soon for next years auction.

EAST CAROLINA

NC Beta made it through another successful year. We are still young but are building traditions every year. In the fall we had our first annual "Anniversary Ball" to celebrate our chartering date. We had an outstanding formal with alumni in attendance. Plus, as tradition has it, we traveled to Virginia Tech for our rival football game. Even though we lost we had a great time and look forward to hosting the next game.

This past spring we had our annual Cool-Aid event to benefit the homeless shelter in our town. We more than doubled our donation from last year and gave Phi Psi great exposure to the community. In intramurals we made it to the championship game in 3 on 3 basketball (losing by 1 point), and the playoffs in 5 on 5 basketball. The year ended with a heart-breaking loss in the softball playoffs, but we look strong for next season.

EASTERN NEW MEXICO

We have just celebrated our 25th anniversary here at Eastern and the brothers and alumni are very proud to be part of Phi Kappa Psi! The members of New Mexico Alpha welcomed Fraternity President Richard E. Ong, Oregon State '55, as keynote speaker at our anniversary banquet held April 23. We also had the pleasure of greeting two of our founding fathers, Charlie Hamilton '69 and Gary Klaehn '70. Congratulations go to Keith Jayne '90 for being named Distinguished Alumnus. We're delighted that communication between alumni and undergraduates at New Mexico Alpha is getting better by the minute, and we intend on continuing our efforts.

This spring our rush efforts were rewarded when we initiated five and pledged six new gentlemen. We're very pleased that we have members active in the student government, in sports, and in scholastic honor societies.

Some recent community service activities have included a Halloween Childrens Walk, a party with proceeds benefiting the ASPCA, and the adoption of a child through Children's International.

EDINBORO

We at Penn Xi had a great year, with the addition of two of our biggest pledge classes in a long time. In addition to increased membership, the chapter has finally gotten its financial problems under control. Homecoming was a blast, and Greek Week turned out better than planned. Finally, Penn Xi graduated four of our most active brothers; congratulations guys, we'll miss you, and thanks for all your hard work.

FLORIDA STATE

This past year has been an outstanding one here at Florida State University. Successes in the areas of campus leadership, athletics, community service, membership, and academics have put us far above the other fraternities on campus. And to top everything off, our housing corporation has purchased a new house located at 415 W. College Ave.

"Improving the Area" has been our theme for a long time, implemented recently by adopting a stretch of US 90 we clean at least five times a year. Several fundraisers held by our chapter have also helped several non-profit organizations around campus get a head start towards helping others. And, many brothers volunteer once a week teaching and coaching elementary school children in all sports.

At the same time, our athletic program maintained its reputation as a leader in all sports, resulting in our winning the Gold division championships in intramural sports. Phi Psi has surpassed many in campus involvement, too. This past year, many brothers have been involved in all sorts of campus activities, ranging from FSU varsity athletics to student government.

GEORGIA

Georgia Alpha Phi Psis continue to stake their claim as one of the most progressive, and widely respected fraternities on campus. Though small in comparison to many of the older organizations on campus, Georgia Alpha is growing steadily in numbers and experience. Despite some key members graduating, the chapter is returning great men to build on this year's success.

ILLINOIS STATE

Our tenth year came to a close as one of the beset ever, proving again that Phi Psi's determination and hard work breeds excellence. This past year Illinois Epsilon earned a grade point average above the all-Greek men's average on campus, maintaining our academic superiority. We also participated in nearly every campus philanthropic competition.

Our annual Mona Loa Luau and Homecoming festival delivered a weekend of good times for undergraduates and alumni alike, despite the chilly temperatures. Then on April 16, we proudly brought back GoKart races from a two-year absence to make our 10th Phi Psi 500 the most successful one yet. An ISU favorite, almost every chapter on campus participated, and as a result we were able to donate more than $1,000 to the United Cerebral Palsy Foundation of Central Illinois.

Erik C. Zoeller

INDIANA STATE

Despite a tough year, all is well at Indiana Epsilon. The chapter is in the process of purchasing the chapter house and lot from the University which will allow the chapter greater freedom with regard to use of the chapter property. Although rush numbers were down this year, the chapter has thrown its efforts into membership recruitment and anticipates a large sophomore rush in the fall. On campus, Indiana Epsilon continues to excel on the athletic field and in the classroom. Phi Psi continues to enjoy a position of prominence at Valparaiso.

IUP

This was a productive year for Pennsylvania Nu. The chapter's efforts in rush continue to meet with success, and the chapter was able to initiate a fine group of men. This coming year, Penn Nu will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary, and preparations for the festivities are already underway. Chapter members continue to represent Phi Psi well on campus, with three individuals being recognized at the University's Greek awards night. Penn Nu continues to uphold the principles of our Fraternity at IUP.

JOHNS HOPKINS

Our chapter is coming off a building year, initiating a pledge class of 15 men. Currently there are more than 45 active brothers in the chapter, and with very few graduating seniors this year, we are looking forward to a stellar 1994-95.

Last year's Phi Psi 500 raised more than $1,500 for Santa Claus Anonymous charities. This year, with excellent organization and high motivation, we have set our goals even higher. In addition, we are also considering involving ourselves with Habitat for Humanity and the Charles Village Clean Up project.

In the coming year the brothers of Maryland Alpha are hoping to improve relations with other fraternities on our campus, play a more active role in the Interfraternity Council, and with our 15 newly initiated brothers, we are looking forward to a large spring rush.

KENTUCKY

Given its strength in numbers and the character of its members, Kentucky Beta is a chapter falling short of its potential. While the chapter is doing many things well, a few nagging problems jeopardize the long and short term well-being of the chapter. With advice coming from the likes of Alumni Corporation President Tom Edgett, though, the chapter should fare well this next year. Tom Edgett has taken great initiative with the House Corporation and the Kentucky Alumni Association. Tom is in constant contact with the chapter and frequently serves as an unofficial advisor.

LAFAYETTE

Penn Theta has updated the chapter house from top to bottom with new flooring in the foyer, new carpeting on the stairs and hallways, and a new roof. Six men were inducted into the chapter over the course of the year. Service initiatives with the local Boys & Girls Clubs included an Easter Egg Hunt and regular recreation night visits. The chapter participated in the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash, the Kappa Delta Rho/Pi Beta Phi Dance Marathon, and the Alpha Phi Field Day. The Easton Police Department and Easton Fire Department also benefitted from funds raised by the chapter.

LOUISIANA STATE

Great news from our Louisiana Alpha brethren: As of this writing, the alumni corporation was putting the final touches on the purchase of a chapter house. Formerly the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house, the large dwelling has served Louisiana Alpha chapter well as a rental property. Despite the lack of a functioning kitchen, the house is structurally sound and will continue to improve with the scheduled repairs. Chapter members are sure rush numbers will swell with the news of stable future housing.

LOYOLA

The small Greek system at Loyola University continues to make a positive name for itself. Unlike many Greek system which bear pressure and criticism, Loyola Greeks appear to enjoy widespread support from students and faculty members alike. Fraternity rush numbers are holding steady, perhaps enjoying slight growth. The three fraternities on campus have created separate niches for themselves, with Phi Psi standing out as the chapter offering the most traditional fraternity experience.

As one of Phi Kappa Psi's newest chapters, Louisiana Gamma has established a name for itself as an enthusiastic, optimistic group of men. The chapter hopes to maintain its unique character through a discriminating, but aggressive, continuous rush process.

MANKATO

This year marks Minnesota Gamma's 25th year at Mankato State, celebrated at our formal on May 7. Special thanks to founding father Thomas McCammon '69 who was in attendance.

It has been a very busy year featuring two successful philanthropic events. Our annual Rock Squat was held in the fall—brothers and pledges sat for 48 hours collecting petition signatures for a new POW-MIA stamp. A new event for us this year was the adoption of a camp for underprivileged children who normally would not be able to afford to go to camp. We have agreed to take care of general cleanup including picking up trash from the beach, painting the cabins, chopping wood for the fire pit, and whatever else needs to be done.

We are in the process of renovations to our chapter home. Our winter pledge class helped by installing a tongue and groove wood ceiling on the third floor. We currently are in the process of starting a housing corporation. For more information, please contact Brian Rosenberger '88 at (612) 474-5631.

MIAMI

The year started off with another Greek Week victory for Phi Psi, making five victories in six years. The brothers continued to stick together throughout the year and ended up third in the All Sports race. The brothers' hard work also showed when we placed fifth in grades and won three awards at the annual Greek Awards Banquet: for philanthropy, membership development, and campus leadership.

Another great year of philanthropy was begun with an arm wrestling tournament in the fall to raise money for The AIDS Foundation. Then in the spring we held our annual Down Hill Derby during Kids Fest Weekend and Parents Weekend—it was also a great success.

The house itself went through a lot of changes this year, finishing the upstairs bathroom and completing the deck. We also refurbished the formal living room.

MICHIGAN STATE

The year began at Homecoming as many alumni and parents gathered at our newly-renovated house. This fall, Michigan Beta will be celebrating its 40th anniversary on campus. We encourage all alumni to join us here at MSU to celebrate the completed renovation of the second and third floors. Please call us for details: (517) 332-5039.

Our contributions to the community seem to have grown over the years. Earlier this year, we held our fourth annual rock painting contest with only the sororities on campus. Each chapter paid a $50 entry fee and the winning sorority and Phi Psi donated the money to Muscular Dystrophy. We also organized a blood drive with our neighbor fraternity, Sigma Nu, to benefit the American Red Cross. And recently, we participated in various Greek Week activities which helped generate over $50,000 for Special Olympics.

This year marked the 25th Anniversary of Minnesota Gamma at Mankato State University as well. They celebrated in style at the Mankato Ballroom and welcomed one of the chapter's founders.

CHAPTER NEWSLETTERS

TEMPLE

The Pennsylvania Pi Chapter at Temple University surrendered its chapter charter to District I Archon Robert J. Garagiola, Rutgers '91, on April 6, 1994. Flagging numbers, financial problems, and a recent lawsuit were contributing factors to the chapter's demise. The alumni who stood by the chapter right up to the end are to be commended for their efforts in trying to bolster the group.

With the assistance of area alumni, the chapter had been making improvements in last several months. Last November, however, the chapter and alumni corporation were served with a lawsuit for breach of contract relating to the lease of the chapter house. The chapter had made the ill-advised decision to break the four-year lease after only two years. Although the outcome of the suit is still pending, the situation threw the chapter into a tailspin from which it could not recover.

At this time, there are no plans to re-colonize the chapter. Pennsylvania Pi received its charter on September 12, 1987 and had initiated 113 men.

MONMOUTH

New Jersey Beta Phi Psis have effected a complete turnaround! Only last year New Jersey Beta faced some of its bleakest moments in its history. Morale was slipping, hope was nowhere to be found, and membership of less than a dozen men threatened the closure of the chapter. Under the stewardship of Chapter President Galal Chater, the chapter pledged 12 men, representing instant growth over 100%! More importantly, the men are excited for membership in Phi Kappa Psi, and are anxious to step into important leadership positions. The forthcoming fall rush period promises to be even more fruitful.

OHIO WESLEYAN

The men of Ohio Alpha are working hard to stay on top. Overall, the chapter boasted 55 members this year; we remain the largest fraternity at 17 men above the average. The house still looks fantastic from the 1991 renovations. Alumni will be glad to know we have lured back our former house parents, Barb and Leroy Stuits.

During the past year, Ohio Alpha participated in its busiest community service program ever. We are most proud of our continued success in devoting a minimum of 500 hours of service per term to local non-profit organizations. In total, we contributed 1,012 man hours this year and raised $4,090. Examples include: Big Pal-Little Pal program, Columbus Initiative Mentoring Project, building a playground for the local elementary school, working with Habitat for Humanity building a local house, planting trees for the city of Delaware, completely moving the offices of the Delaware County Courthouse to its new location three blocks away, the Papa John's-Phi Kappa Psi 3 on 3 basketball tournament benefiting a battered women's shelter, selling miniature Christmas trees for a local food bank, our third year supporting a child in the Dominican Republic through Save the Children, and organizing Evening of Elegance II—a faculty/student dinner that has raised over $2,400 for faculty travel and research grants.

We ended the year with the Phi Psi 500. The four-day event wrapped up with more than $2,000 being raised for the American Diabetes Association. We look forward to seeing alumni at Fallfest Weekend, October 21-23.

OREGON STATE

The brothers at Oregon Beta have made great strides in the last year to rank among the strongest fraternities out of Oregon State University's twenty-four chapters. The Interfraternity Council named Oregon Beta Fraternity of the Year.

Our successful year stemmed from a strong formal rush and a good informal rush that brought in an additional six men during the year. Hard work also improved our grades to third overall and first in live-ins during winter term.

Campus involvement has also increased throughout the chapter. Currently we have several members serving on IFC committees in elected positions. At the same time, we have six members in Thanes, a sophomore honorary, and two members in Cardinal Honors, a junior honorary that only takes thirty people a year. The chapter also maintains athletic involve-

The chapter has also dedicated its time toward serving the community. We participate in the highway clean-up program, where we clean a two-mile stretch of road four times a year. We also lift the spirits of the elderly by singing at a local nursing home. This year, we started a new philanthropy to benefit cystic fibrosis. The Phi Psi 500 is a 2 on 2 basketball tournament.

PENN

A fresh membership recruitment campaign garnered University of Pennsylvania Phi Psis six fantastic pledges. A combined effort of undergraduates and alumni, the campaign resembled procedures used to colonize Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity on college and university campuses. Eschewing more conventional practices, the chapter's gamble on advertising and interviewing candidates prior to pinning as a pledge paid off.

RHODE ISLAND

Rhode Island Beta is very proud that we captured first place in Greek Week for the third consecutive year. We have also added a regulation-size beach volleyball court and a 3 on 3 basketball court.

We are also quite proud of the fact that our chapter was recognized with the prestigious Most Improved Fraternity award at the University of Rhode Island by the Interfraternity Council. We attribute this to strong leadership from our elected officers as well as an enthusiastic brotherhood. Our membership is as high as ever after having an extremely successful fall and spring rush.

Rhode Island Beta's philanthropic activities were a success this year. Once again, we raised thousands to help fight cancer through our annual bounce-a-thon. We also helped our community with Project Sunrise, during which we helped the elderly with yard work.

We are forever indebted to this year's seniors for it is they who brought our chapter back just three years ago. Next fall our goals include another productive rush and an improved chapter GPA.

Joshua Barrett

RIT

As another academic year concludes, the brothers of New York Theta can look back upon this year and stand proud. Our goals of increasing our membership, gaining academic achievements, and contributing more to the community were all accomplished.

The year started out with a tremendous victory for our chapter's sports program: our team regained the championship football trophy.

Our chapter started out the year with a tremendous pledge class of eight fine gentleman. The following quarter after their initiation, seven of the eight took leadership positions within the fraternity, while the eighth assumed a leadership role in our Interfraternity Council. Spring rush was our most successful yet. Eleven gentleman pledged our chapter, and all show great promise. Brother Nate King was named Greek Man of the Year.

New York Theta has gained an impressive academic record. As we end this year the chapter is ranked second among fraternities at RIT. Three brothers achieved 4.0 GPAs for the winter quarter.

Brothers helped the Ronald McDonald house in Rochester on a variety of projects... and we cohosted a fundraising event with a sorority colony. Members of both groups raised money by rollerblading or cycling 28 miles to another college.

John Pironti

RUTGERS

With five new initiates and a great increase in brotherhood morale, we became more active in Rutgers' Greek community this year. We participated in Keller Sports and in a neighborhood street cleanup. We also gave our time to a program called Adopt-A-School in which some of our brothers went to a New Brunswick elementary school during their free time to tutor students.

Our annual canned food drive with the sisters of Alpha Chi Omega was very successful. Together, we collected over 5,000 items of food to donate to New Brunswick's poor and needy.

Our annual Founders Day celebration was also a success; many alumni came to Rutgers on February 19th to join us.

Teams of experts now advise chapters

Gone are the days of the solitary chapter advisor, but the reward of shaping young lives remains

by John V. Ciccarelli, Cal State Northridge '72

Over the years, they have become legends. Their wisdom, first imparted decades ago, continues to guide behavior today. Indeed, they helped shape the growing minds of thousands of young Americans. They are Phi Psi's chapter advisors, and over the years hundreds of them have earned the admiration of a grateful Fraternity.

These days, the active involvement of alumni in advisory roles is even more critical to the success of our chapters. Without exception, the Fraternity's most outstanding undergraduate groups boast strong, committed alumni participation. Conversely, when a chapter runs into trouble, nine times out of ten it does so in a void of mature, level-headed guidance.

But we can no longer ask or expect an individual alumnus to take on the challenge of advising all the undergraduate members of a chapter. Not only do our alumni have more demands on their time than ever before, but the challenges facing an advisor and his chapter are much broader and more significant than they were even 10 years ago.

No one advisor can be an effective jack-of-all-trades any more. Instead, specialization is becoming the norm, with advisors concentrating their efforts on a specific concern. Some of today's hot topics are risk management education, multiculturalism, membership standards, and chapter, university, & community relations, in addition to the everyday chapter concerns of membership recruitment, fiscal management, and fraternity education. Furthermore, as college students seek answers to moral and ethical questions in their own lives, they solicit seasoned, impartial input as they set their goals and priorities.

New Approach

Collectively, therefore, not only do advisors need a way to handle today's complex challenges but they must also be able to balance their own lives and workloads with their commitment to the Fraternity. Therefore, Phi Kappa Psi recently developed and adopted a new model for local volunteer advisorship. Known as a chapter advisory committee, this new structure supports the chapter advisor, chapter officers, and committee chairs, while involving more alumni and providing more specialized attention.

An advisory committee includes several alumni counselors, working as a team with the chapter advisor, who cover each important area of chapter operations, including finance, membership, fraternity education, and scholarship. Ray Volpe, Butler '78, serves as the fraternity education counselor for Indiana Zeta at Butler University. "By assisting in one specific area of chapter operation," he says, "I am better able to focus my efforts on a positive fraternity education program and other directly related activities."

A chapter advisory committee distributes the challenges of advising across a number of volunteers. "Instead of having one advisor do everything, which could require him to spend 20 hours per month," notes Washington Alpha Membership Counselor Craig Nishizaki, Washington '88, "we now have 10 to 15 volunteers involved and specialized so they can accomplish the same tasks in only one or two hours each."

The advisory committee format helps bring student leaders together with interested alumni in a mutually beneficial relationship. It also helps create defined volunteer roles, encouraging alumni with various interests and expertise to become involved. “The advisory committee’s team approach presents a series of opportunities for alumni brothers to give something back to the Fraternity,” says Chapter President Brad Campbell, Miami ’93.

These alumni provide the knowledge, experience, and skill to inform and guide our undergraduates, to provide mentors and adult role models, and to inspire our undergraduates to a lifetime of involvement in Phi Kappa Psi.

Flexible Model

The chapter advisory committee model is designed to be flexible and can be tailored to help meet the needs of each chapter. Additional counselor positions may be assigned for community service, homecoming, special events planning, or any other area of chapter concern.

According to Alabama Chapter Advisor Jay Masengill, Alabama ’67, “the chapter advisory committee provides an opportunity for more alumni to interact with the undergraduate membership in addressing problems and accomplishing tasks.” Bob Goldman, Miami ’72 (Washington & Jefferson ’64), advisor to both Ohio Lambda and Penn Alpha, agrees: “[an advisory committee] allows the chapter to be exposed to various viewpoints as opposed to just one. The additional counselor positions help make additional resources and solutions available to the chapter membership.”

From an undergraduate leader’s perspective, an advisory committee provides a more intuitive and accessible connection to alumni. If an undergraduate member is serving as the finance committee chair, for instance, he knows that the alumnus serving as finance counselor is his resource. The participation of advisory counselors enables various chapter officers and committee chairs to draw upon valuable support. This cooperative effort has led to quicker generation of better ideas.

Getting involved with a nearby chapter is a great way to reinvolve yourself with the Fraternity. A commitment of no more than an hour or two each month will go a long way toward ensuring a quality undergraduate experience for our members. And, it’s a great way for recent graduates to stay active. “We see the advisory board at Washington Alpha as the next logical step for undergraduate leaders to maintain their involvement,” adds Brother Nishizaki.

New advisor support materials, including the Chapter Advisory Committee Resource Manual, are available from the Fraternity Headquarters and are designed to assist chapter officers and interested alumni in the development of an effective chapter advisory committee. Once formed, ongoing support is available from the Fraternity Headquarters and a nationwide network of veteran advisors.

As an aside, there are potential crises brewing at a number of campuses—not because of undergraduates who are incapable of making their chapters the best they can be, but because there are few or no alumni helping to support their efforts. These chapters need alumni volunteers to act as chapter advisors, counselors, and house corporation officers. If you are near one of these chapters, please consider investing some of your time toward the long-term success of these groups. It is an investment whose dividends are immeasurable.

In need of advising support: Brandeis, UC Irvine, UCLA, UC Santa Barbara, Cornell, Dickinson, Edinboro, Franklin & Marshall, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, UMBC, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon, Rutgers, SUNY Buffalo, Syracuse, and West Virginia.

In need of house corporation volunteers: Akron, Brandeis, Duke, Edinboro, Franklin & Marshall, George Washington, Illinois State, Johns Hopkins, Mankato State, Monmouth, RIT, and Rutgers.

For more information about any of these groups, please call Tom Pennington at the Fraternity Headquarters, (317) 632-1852.

◆ Alumni Involvement

56,000 locations — one near you!

You'll be amazed how many Phi Psis live just down the street. Why not plan a get-together?!

by Tom C. Pennington, Texas '80

Recently, I was asked by an alumnus to explain why he should be involved in the Fraternity. This particular alumnus was in his mid-30's, had moved far away from his chapter of initiation, and really hadn't heard much from his chapter or any other alumni for some time. It seemed a simple question and my initial impulse—because of my experience—was to talk about the fulfillment and personal reward of working with undergraduates.

On reflection, I realized that this would be a bit like trying to explain "brotherhood" to a rushee; if one hasn't experienced it, one can't really understand its rewards. So, my response focused on the most important theme in this man's life; his young son. I asked him if he hoped his son would one day attend a good college and, perhaps, join Phi Psi. His response was an enthusiastic "Yes!" I then asked who should make sure the chapter at that college would be founded, populated, and managed for the next 16 years until his son reaches college age? He thought for a minute and then said, "touché!"

The fact is, while undergraduates may keep the doors open from year to year, the long term success of this Fraternity is directly linked to the efforts of alumni to support it. If you have a son, nephew, or grandson who will be attending college, and would like him to have the opportunity to be a Phi Psi, you have an interest in the success of the Fraternity.

This interest can be actualized in any number of ways—through contributions to the Endowment Fund, your chapter, or university, by serving as a chapter advisor or alumni corporation officer, or with attendance at Grand Arch Councils or Woodrow Wilson Leadership Schools. The majority of involvement, however, is through our many alumni associations and clubs. While not designed specifically for chapter support, their activities and influence promote Phi Kappa Psi and make our alumni leaders more visible to the community. They generate a base of activity from which potential advisors may emerge and by which we may be better able to identify and promote opportunities to expand to new campuses. These are all bonuses, however.

The most successful and popular efforts of alumni groups are social and recreational events designed to bring together alumni from different generations, regions, chapters, and professions. Particularly for alumni new to an area, an active alumni group can instantly pull them into the community, giving them Phi Psi contacts in a variety of professions, introducing new acquaintances for them and their spouses and families, providing options for social events, and giving them important and helpful information about the community. These remain the most important roles for alumni groups to play.

Since the last alumni relations article in The Shield, a number of you have called to ask about starting or rejuvenating alumni associations or clubs in your areas. Each of you have been surprised to find so many other alumni in your cities, towns, and neighborhoods.

The map which follows color-codes the counties of each state by the number of good alumni addresses in our database and identifies the chartered associations and clubs. The goal is to have an active association in each area where there are 400 or more alumni and an active club where there are 200 or more alumni. In this way the vast majority of alumni will have some opportunity to be involved once again with their Phi Psi brothers.

If your area is served by an association or club, check the directory on the following pages for the contact person and give them a call to find out what Phi Psis in your area are up to. If there is no group close to you, please consider starting one—alumni associations require only 15 members, alumni clubs only five. The Fraternity Headquarters even has a startup kit to make it easy for you. Give us a call at (317) 632-1852. ◆

Dave Chilkowitz

SOUTHERN METHODIST

The brothers here at Texas Delta have enjoyed unprecedented success in all areas of Fraternity life this year. Again, Phi Psi set the standard in academics at SMU with a 3.23 cumulative GPA, placing first out of 12 fraternities. We also ranked third overall in intramurals and placed third in Delta Gamma's annual Anchor Splash.

Last October, Texas Delta sponsored its second-annual Phi Psi 500, benefiting the Children's Medical Center of Dallas. Turn-out was much greater than expected and our donation increased dramatically over last year's.

Texas Deltans and the North Texas Alumni Association also hosted an exciting Founders Day celebration, welcoming President Richard E. Ong to the festivities. A sincere "thank you" to the many alumni who attended the event—we hope to see you all next year.

Many thanks to the brothers who organized our rush activities this year, as the number of our fall and spring initiates totaled 18, effectively doubling the chapter's size.

William E. Jackson

STANFORD

It's been a busy year here in Palo Alto—one of community service, fun, and brotherhood. This year we began a series of new projects including a local Phi Psi e-mail service for news and communication, cleaning and maintaining a stretch of highway 280 right outside campus, and several trips to the local Ronald McDonald House at Stanford Hospital to do volunteer groundskeeping and cleaning work.

Additionally, we initiated and ran a campus-wide food drive during winter quarter to benefit the Second Harvest Food Bank and raise awareness of the problem of hunger in the Bay Area.

These projects are in addition to holding two rushes, fall and spring, both of which were successful in bringing in new members.

Brian David McBeth

SUNY BUFFALO

New York Eta continues to thrive at the University of Buffalo. The chapter has the distinction of being the only fraternity on campus to own housing, and improvements continue to be made to the chapter house. Phi Psi is a force on campus with members actively involved in the Inter Greek Council and Student Government. Chapter members continue to command the respect of students and faculty alike for their dedication to community service and campus involvement. Alumni support and involvement at the chapter continues to be strong.

TENNESSEE

Tennessee Epsilon is a chapter that has gained momentum in the past year with no sign of slowing down. In fact, a recent string of small successes may indicate that the chapter has yet to reach top speed.

Most recently, Tennessee Epsilon has distinguished itself through visible homecoming participation which garnered awards and kudos from its peers. More important was the chapter's work at a local food bank which attracted local television coverage. It is only the most recent example of Tennessee Epsilon's great joy in serving others. The chapter's philanthropy chairman of three years deserves credit for spearheading the continuing service to the community. The most important goal in the chapter's near future is the establishment of written standards for all brothers and pledges. A document clearly enumerating member expectations will go far in providing brothers with an idea of what it means to constantly live up to Phi Psi standards.

TEXAS TECH

Our chapter's number one concern going into this semester was reviving the Phi Psi Phandango, a concert featuring three recording artists or groups from the Lubbock area. Thankfully, this year's Phandango was a huge success thanks to the hard work of Texas Betans. All proceeds from the Phandango were donated to the Ronald McDonald House. Our other major philanthropy project was a series of garage sales that benefited the Lubbock Rape Crisis Center.

Texas Beta also saw the initiation of fifteen new brothers. These men have already had a tremendous effect on the governing of the chapter.

On February 15, the brothers were pleased to welcome Phi Psi President Dick Ong. Brother Ong's encouragement has made us work even harder to remain the best fraternity on campus.

Texas Beta felt a sense of rejuvenation over the past year. Our rush program took in more pledges than any other fraternity in our division, our scholarship is still among the best on campus, and we do more philanthropy projects than any other social fraternity at Texas Tech.

Gregory Ragland

TOLEDO

This past year we've tackled many challenges, including remodeling our basement, filling the house for the fall of 1994, completing philanthropic events, and celebrating the recognition of a prominent alumnus. Many brothers were involved in our Phi Psi 500, a bike race to raise money for the Special Olympics, and in a pizza assembly line we organized to benefit a local mission.

Finally, we celebrated with Brother Edward C. Schmackel '50 as a room at the University of Toledo's Alumni Center was named in his honor. Brother Schmackel was a member of Sigma Beta Phi, our fraternity before we affiliated with Phi Psi.

Damian Tomczak

TRENTON STATE

New Jersey Delta Phi Psis are full of energy! The chapter boasts a young membership compared to other Phi Psi chapters and the men are creating what many regard as the best fraternity experience to be had on this state college campus. Despite its position on solid ground, the chapter is starting some important new initiatives to further solidify its presence. These include retreats, an overhaul of the chapter's financial structure and a focus on improving inter-fraternal relations.

staff reports

UC IRVINE

We have been blessed this year with more success than we've ever experienced. Our first and most important accomplishment was the acquisition of our new house. We also took our first championship in one of the largest sorority philanthropies on campus.

Later, at the Greek awards, Cal Kappa received awards for Excellence in Chapter Management, Excellence in Community Relations, Outstanding Fraternity Sportsmanship, the Member Development Medallion, and the Alcohol-Free Program Medallion. The chapter's individual awards included Matt Shaw's Outstanding Greek Sophomore and Paul Davidson's Outstanding Greek Senior.

Still not satisfied, we aimed at UCI's fifteenth-annual Greek Songfest philanthropy, which pairs sororities with fraternities to organize synopses of Broadway musicals. Our cast of eight Gamma Phi Beta sisters and eight Phi Psi brothers took first place out of nine with a winning rendition of "Les Misérables."

Unfortunately, we also said good-bye this year to Lester A. Holmes, UCLA '52, a former Greater Orange County Alumni Association president, and Frank D. Stiefel, Southern California '64, former GOCAA secretary. Both passed away unexpectedly and we are forever grateful for their support and encouragement as we built our chapter and moved into our new house.

Huy A. Nguyen

UC SANTA BARBARA

The chapter is embracing a year-round rush program. Membership recruitment and retention remain the top priorities for Cal Zeta. A game room and new chapter room have been added to the chapter house. A new alumni coporation is in the works. The chapter's academic average has improved slightly and Cal Zeta now ranks sixth among the UCSB fraternities.

staff reports

UMBC

Of the 25 seniors in the chapter, only four are scheduled to graduate at the end of this academic year. This should will ensure a numerically strong chapter for the 94-95 school year. The overall character of members is very good,

ALUMNI SUPPORT PROGRAM

FOR GIFTS RECEIVED BETWEEN MARCH 1, 1993 AND FEBRUARY 28, 1994

We gratefully acknowledge the following members and friends who contributed to the Fraternity through the Endowment Fund's Alumni Support Program. To appear in the list below, an individual must have donated during the giving year. An individual's giving category, however, reflects the sum of all his gifts since the program's inception.

Contributions to the Alumni Support Program help strengthen our chapters, provide leadership training for undergraduates and alumni, and support the Fraternity financially. Gifts to the Endowment Fund, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation, are fully tax deductible.

Donors to other Fraternity programs are recognized elsewhere in this issue.

THE 1993 SHIELD DUES PROGRAM

The Shield Dues Program was created in 1993 in an effort to offset the rising cost of publishing the Fraternity's journal. Brothers were asked to make a minimum contribution of $10. The initial appeal was mailed to every Phi Psi alumnus who had never before made a gift to the Fraternity or the Endowment Fund. Nearly 1,000 loyal Brothers, listed below, responded to the call.

All Phi Psis will continue to receive a life subscription to The Shield regardless of participation in the Dues Program. A reply form for the 1994 Dues Program is included at the end of the donor listing. Gifts to The Shield Dues Program are received by the Fraternity and, therefore, are not tax deductible.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR PHI KAPPA PSI

FOR GIFTS RECEIVED THROUGH MAY 31, 1994

Brothers Helping Brothers: The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi is an ongoing $7 million Endowment Fund capital campaign. The campaign's goals were detailed in the last issue of The Shield and include $3.25 million for chapter housing concerns, $2.1 million for scholarship programs, $1 million for leadership development, and $250,000 in computer technology for chapters.

We are tremendously grateful for the magnanimity of the brothers listed below, as their gifts will perpetuate the Fraternity through the next century.

If you would like to support The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi with your tax-deductible contribution, call Terry Harper at (317) 632-1852.

Endowment Fund to add two Trustees

A significant change to the Endowment Fund's bylaws is planned for this year's GAC

During a meeting held on May 11, 1994, the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc. approved amendments to the Fund's Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws that will expand the number of Trustees from three to five. In expanding the Board, the Trustees reasoned that it was in the best long-term interests of the Fraternity, as well as the Endowment Fund, to increase membership involvement and broaden the Board's expertise. Before the Board can be expanded, however, the amendments must be approved by the biennial meeting of the members of the Endowment Fund. The membership meeting will take place on Friday, August 12, 1994 at the Omni Hotel at Charleston Place in Charleston, South Carolina in conjunction with the Grand Arch Council.

The Trustees are currently seeking nominations of qualified candidates for the two new seats on the Board. Nominations, along with a curriculum vitae for each candidate, should be sent to the Fraternity Headquarters at 510 Lockerbie Street, Indianapolis, IN 46202-3694. Nominations will be taken from the floor, as well.

The current Trustees, with term expiration dates, are: John F. Buck, Indiana '75 (1994); Jerry Nelson, UCLA '48 (1996); and James W. Emison III, DePauw '49 (1998).

The Endowment Fund is registered with the Internal Revenue Service as a 501(c)(3) educational foundation and can receive gifts on a tax deductible basis. For more information, contact Executive Director Terry Harper at (317) 632-1852. ◆

Proposed Amendment to the Articles of Incorporation of the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc.

3. The management of the aforesaid Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity shall be vested in a board of ~~three~~ FIVE trustees whose terms of office shall be six years or until their successors have been elected and qualified and ~~one~~ ONE OR MORE OF whom shall be elected every two years at the time of the Grand Arch Council of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, OR A MEMBERS' MEETING WITHIN 60 DAYS AFTER THE ADJOURNMENT OF SAME.

A) AT THE MEETING OF THE CORPORATION IN AUGUST, 1994, THREE OF THE FIVE TRUSTEES SHALL BE ELECTED FOR TERMS OF SIX, FOUR, AND TWO YEARS IN THE ORDER OF THEIR ELECTION.

Proposed Amendment to the Bylaws of the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Article III. Board of Trustees.

Section 1. Number, Term of Office, and Vacancies.

The property, business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and controlled by a board of ~~three~~ FIVE Trustees, each of whom shall be an alumnus member of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Editor's Note: Additional amendments to the Bylaws were also approved and will be circulated to all 1994 Grand Arch Council participants and to any member upon request. Write The Endowment Fund of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc., 510 Lockerbie Street, Indianapolis, IN 46202-3694 or call (317) 632-1852.

U.Va.'s Gore wins top Fraternity honor

by David R. Murray, Bucknell '91

Fraternities must always walk a tightrope. They must balance students' desire to have fun with the campus community's need for peace and quiet. They must impress faculty with their commitment to academics and the administration with their commitment to moderation. Rarely does an undergraduate leader hold that balance as effectively as did Jeffrey S. Gore, Virginia '91, recipient of this year's Ralph D. Daniel Leadership Award. The $4,000 grant recognizes a Phi Psi who has demonstrated outstanding service and leadership to his chapter, his campus, and his college community.

"I did not come to U.Va. with the intent of becoming a leader," writes Gore. "Instead, I have evolved into one, and the key has been my involvement with Virginia Alpha." Gore accumulated many admirers during his tenure at U.Va., among them the university's liaison to fraternities and sororities and the president of the local neighborhood association.

Gore's accomplishments are many and wide-ranging, and include serving the chapter as kitchen manager—where he established a retirement fund for the chapter's cook of more than 30 years—and social chair.

Moreover, Gore led the university's entire greek system through a difficult period of transition. At a time when the U.Va. greek system was under extreme scrutiny (following the seizure of three fraternity houses there in 1991), Gore was elected to serve as vice president of the Interfraternity Council and chair its judiciary committee. He helped legitimize the internal adjudication process and give the committee real respect among both fraternity and university leaders.

When the IFC president failed to do his job effectively and later resigned, Gore jumped right in and assumed the responsibilities of president. "He has earned the widespread respect of his fellow students as well as fraternity alumni, faculty, and administrators," said V. Shamim Sisson, U.Va.'s assistant dean of students.

One specific area that received Gore's attention was the annual ritual of rowdy behavior during the first two weeks of the academic year, prior to fall rush. Gore helped design a new program that preserved weekend activities at fraternity houses while also addressing the concerns of the faculty and administration. As a result, many in the U.Va. community declared it the best first two weeks in recent memory, and the subsequent rush period was highly successful.

Individually, Gore was actively involved in the Big Sibling initiative, serving as mentor to a seven-year-old inner-city child. After discovering the project's value, Gore recruited eight Phi Psis to help either other children the following year.

Gore received his BA in history last June from U.Va., where his senior thesis focused on Southern Black politics. Because of his continued commitment to academics in addition to his extracurricular endeavors, Assistant Dean Sisson says Gore has been "a wonderful example to others for ordering priorities."

Kansas '38

Bill's longtime dream has been to become a published author, and his dream came true earlier this year when Experiment in Liberty hit the shelves. A 421-page economic history of the world since 1492, the text focuses on how the economic freedom enjoyed by Americans has contributed to our growth and development.

The book is being promoted by fellow Phi Psi DEAN S. SIMS, Kansas '42. The book is available to Phi Psis for $25, $5 off the retail price, by calling (918) 583-5816.

Washington & Jefferson '42

Another published author, Lee North currently has seven books in print and four in the works. His subject matter varies widely, from the detailed history of every county in West Virginia to futuristic fiction about a killer hurricane striking Long Island in 1998.

A catalog of available texts by Brother North can be obtained by writing Books, Box 422, Brightwaters, NY 11718.

RICHARD A. ZIMMERMAN

Penn State '51

Recently profiled in Delta Airlines' Sky Magazine, Brother Zimmerman is chairman and CEO of Hershey Foods, overseeing operations of Hershey Chocolate USA, Hershey Pasta Group (which produces such recognizable brands as San Giorgio and Ronzoni), and several international subsidiaries.

He also serves on the board of directors of the Hershey Trust Company, United Theological Seminary, and Eastman Kodak, and is a trustee at his alma mater, the Pennsylvania State University.

CHARLES V. FLEMMING

Purdue '53

Charles was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree by Purdue University last month in recognition of his contributions to the pharmaceutical industry. He is currently employed as vice president and director of technical operations for Hoffman-LaRoche Inc. The divisions he leads generate about $1.2 billion in annual revenue.

Charles continues to support Purdue University as well, chairing 'Vision 21,' a campaign for the School of Pharmacy, and serving on the school's Dean's Advisory Council and the university's President's Council.

GERALD J. COLANGELO

Illinois '59

In a follow-up to last November's cover story on San Antonio Spurs chief Bob Coleman, Oklahoma '55, The Shield has learned that another Phi Psi is president and CEO of an NBA team: Jerry Colangelo and the Phoenix Suns. Plus, like Coleman in San Antonio, Colangelo is admired as the most influential businessman in Phoenix and architect of that city's downtown revitalization.

Colangelo was profiled in a recent issue of the Illinois Quarterly and was named the 1993 Varsity "I" honoree.

MICHAEL R. BLOOMBERG

Johns Hopkins '61

A May 23, 1994 article in USA Today warned "never underestimate Michael Bloomberg." At age 52, he has built an estimated $370 million business providing, among other things, real-time financial information terminals. Similar to Dow Jones Telerate, Bloomberg terminals provide up-to-the-minute stock quotes and industry news, as well as the Oxford English Dictionary and the Official Airline Guide.

Bloomberg has also launched a news service with 250 reporters in 45 bureaus, a business magazine, an all-news New York radio station, and an business news television channel available by satellite.

When Mark, his wife, and their four children moved back to his hometown of Hillsboro, Ind., recently they were disappointed by the lack of a local library. So the McGradys decided to create a new lending library right in Hillsboro.

The new library shares space with Mark's law office, and features 4,000 donated tomes. More than 100 of the town's 500 residents have already become library patrons, and donated books are continuing to pile up.

SHAWN R. "CAL" MCALLISTER

Ohio State '89

At the ripe young age of 24, Cal has been named editor of StreetWise, the Chicagoland newspaper sold by homeless men and women to earn money and build a sense of empowerment and accomplishment. He is the nation's youngest editor of a large-circulation paper.

StreetWise first appeared in fall, 1992 and since then has generated more than $125,000 for Chicago's homeless. Currently a monthly publication, StreetWise will be published biweekly under Cal's guidance starting in September.

USC

California Delta wrapped up another banner year, finishing in the top ten for scholarship average with several outstanding brothers on the Dean's List.

Our hopes of bringing home another Iron Man trophy (given to the top fraternity in intramural competition) weren't realized this year, but we finished a very close second. Nevertheless, we took first place in racquetball singles and doubles, hot shots basketball, and softball.

The Phi Psi 500 was another big success, as the sororities battled it out for the 20th year in the name of charity. All proceeds went to Orthopedic Hospital's Children's Brace Fund, and having witnessed first-hand the incredible work this program does for disadvantaged children, we are confident that our money will be very well spent.

We continue to adjust to the new "fraternity forum" system of rush instituted last year by the IFC, and pledged a number of outstanding young men. This year's pledge class included members of the baseball team and also a member of the varsity crew team. We also count among our ranks a pledge who was awarded the trustee scholarship, the highest honor the university bestows on an undergraduate.

With renovations to the house soon to begin, the brothers of Cal Delta are excited for next year.

Jon Hartmere

VALPARAISO

We continued our tradition of academic excellence this year as we obtained the second-highest GPA on campus, and we again received the all-sports award for intramurals. As always, the men of our chapter are emerging as leaders and role models for campus and community organizations, including student government. We had extensive participation in Christmas in April, food drives, and a highway cleanup. Our chapter is also the only fraternity on campus to participate in the recently-established recycling program.

We finished many house improvement projects, including a back patio and extensive landscaping, but there is still much to do. New to our chapter this year was an alumni golf outing that involved alumni and undergraduate brothers. We hope many more alumni come next year to have fun with the brothers of Indiana Epsilon.

Todd Varness

VANDERBILT

Following a series of hazing and alcohol abuse allegations and a university investigation, the Tennessee Delta Chapter was placed on disciplinary probation by the Vanderbilt administration.

The Fraternity is preparing to conduct a membership review and needs to recruit local alumni to serve on a supervisory committee. Nashville area alumni and all Tennessee Delta alumni will receive a detailed mailing over the summer.

If you are willing to help the Tennessee Delta Chapter, please contact Tom Pennington toll-free at the Fraternity Headquarters: (800) 486-1852.

VIRGINIA TECH

Virginia Zeta's semester was very productive, as we won awards, raised a lot of money, and welcomed eight new initiates. This past semester, we were awarded the Most Improved Scholarship award by the IFC. We worked very hard to achieve outstanding scholarship and it was great to be recognized.

With all of the ice storms that plagued the east coast last winter, we have our work cut out for us with our highway cleanup campaign. A three-mile stretch of Route 460 is under Phi Psi care.

The beneficiary of our philanthropies, Easter Seals, was given a substantial check as a result of our first annual Bowl-A-Thon.

Congratulations too go to District IV Archon Jerome F. Diskin '91 who was elected by the chapters and alumni associations of District IV to represent our chapter and the rest of the District. The election was held during the 1993

Woodrow Wilson Leadership School. Brother Diskin's term will continue through the summer of 1995.

WEST VIRGINIA

West Virginia Alpha's ability to adapt to the a sweeping change in rush procedures is the concern at this time. West Virginia University is moving to a Fraternity Forum style of rush. This process, used to great advantage by many universities nationwide, has been slow to take hold at WVU. Initial reactions from the chapter range from vaguely negative to vaguely positive. The prominent chapter house overlooking Morgantown has been a perennial draw for pledges, and the chapter must adopt a new philosophy to remain competitive with its peers.

WITTENBERG

Ohio Beta has enjoyed another successful year at Wittenberg. The chapter continues to excel scholastically, regaining its top ranking on campus. Chapter involvement is at an all time high. The chapter continues to fill the house, and live-in and out of house brothers alike continue to pack the dining room at lunchtime on a daily basis.

Ohio Beta commands respect on campus and is blessed with a core of dedicated alumni on its House Corporation. The Phi Psi banner continues to fly high at Wittenberg College.

YORK

Greetings from the White Rose City! The chapter has grown by leaps and bounds and so have our activities in the community. This past fall the chapter accepted its largest pledge class ever, and the largest in York College history.

This year, Rhoians have been hard at work on campus and in the surrounding community. We have coordinated new service programs through Greek Council, the administration, and civic leaders. With the strong support of all the greeks, we initiated a blood drive to benefit a local hospital.

In addition, the chapter brought the administration, faculty, and students together to collect an as-ounding number of coats this winter for the homeless population of York. In another event benefiting the homeless, Rhoians worked with a local soup kitchen. This program has been an eye-opening experience for us all.

Through the Adopt-A-Block program, we have opened the once-closed lines of communication between students and local residents. The program was created during the founding of our chapter and has grown into the largest community service project on campus. With the leadership of the chapter, in cooperation with the administration and city officials, over three hundred students and residents unite twice a semester to clean the streets of York.

James McFadden

COLONY

SAN DIEGO STATE

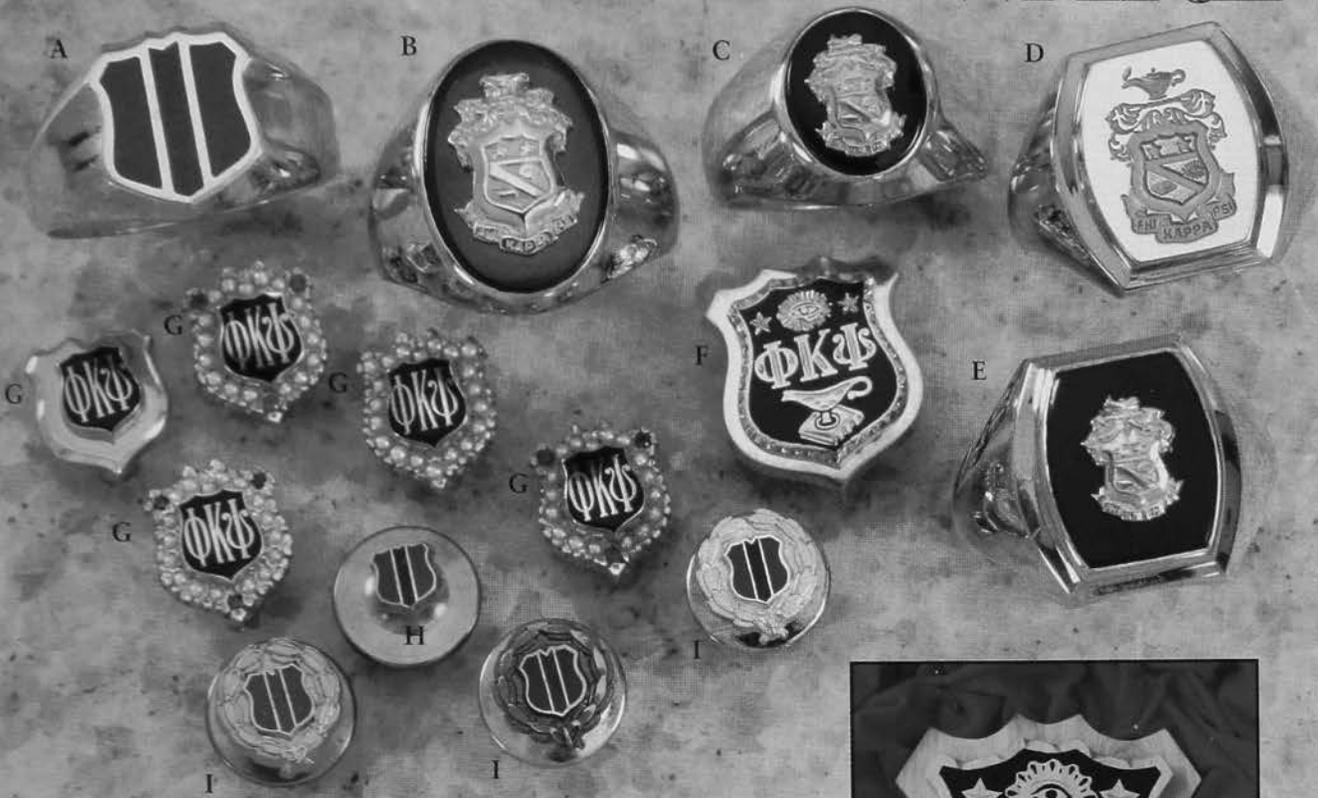

October 12, 1993 marked the founding of the California Lambda Colony at San Diego State University by seven men devoted to the ideals of the Fraternity. Over these past seven months, we have instilled those beliefs in the seven new brothers and two pledges who have joined in hopes of becoming a part of something new and different on campus.

We have devoted our time to scholarship, brotherhood, and community service while striving to gain our Charter. We have completed many steps toward achieving that goal. Among our accomplishments were getting our house in December, having great alumni support, building our numbers, increasing our GPA from the fall to the spring semester, and helping out in the community.

Philanthropy was a major area of concentration for us. We assisted the United Way by packaging and delivering information packets to members of the campus community. We participated in two Project Smudge Outs, where we picked up trash and painted over graffiti. Five of our brothers were involved in a six-week tutoring program at the elementary school next to campus; one continued with his pupil in a mentor program for four additional weeks.

A MEDITERRANEAN JOURNEY
ABOARD THE AZUR

SEPTEMBER 30-OCTOBER 9, 1994

There are perhaps no regions as rich in history, beauty, and culture as the lands that border the Mediterranean and Aegean Seas. This fall, we invite you to join fellow alumni brothers aboard the 660-passenger Azur for a voyage to the lands where Western civilization was born and flourished.

The first port-of-call is Corfu, where an evening ashore may be spent exploring the lively town and its colorful cafes and shops. At the magnificent mountainside Sanctuary of Apollo at Delphi, follow the Sacred Way to the Temple of Apollo. Then sail on to the island of Rhodes, where you will have an opportunity to enjoy the spectacular view from atop the acropolis at Lindos and explore the medieval town of Rhodes. From the charming port of Kusadasi, travel to the ancient site of Ephesus, once the most important city in Asia Minor. Sail through the Cycladic Islands to lovely Mykonos for an evening ashore to wander the charming narrow streets. In its history, Athens has been perhaps the city most blessed with the masterpieces of Western culture. You'll visit the most famous of these, the Parthenon, as well as the other noble structures that grace Athen's Acropolis. The journey concludes with one night in glorious Venice, a city uniquely rich in palaces, basilicas, and famed art collections.

Throughout the journey you will be accompanied by a distinguished guest speaker who will present a series of lectures that will greatly enhance your experience.

Prices begin at only $2,695 per person, double occupancy, and include airfare from selected gateways, the seven-night cruise, one night at a hotel in Venice, and all meals during the cruise.

We hope you will join fellow alumni brothers and friends on this idyllic voyage to Venice, the Greek Islands, and Turkey.

For further information about this travel program, please contact Travel Dynamics toll-free at (800) 367-6766 (Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Eastern Time).

Fraternity cofounder Charles Page Thomas Moore's last direct descendant died May 11 at age 88. Robert Linn Bland Jr. was one of the most respected educators in the history of Lewis County, West Virginia, his lifelong home. Brother Bland taught civics classes to junior high and high school students there for more than 40 years.

Brother Bland's father, Robert Linn Bland, was a prominent Lewis County lawyer. He was admitted to the Lewis County Bar in 1894 and later served as prosecuting attorney of Lewis County. He was also a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates, and was elected 'special judge' in several counties' circuit courts. Brother Bland's mother, Rebecca Frances Moore, was the second of four daughters of Fraternity cofounder Moore.

Lewis County, noted as "Where Stonewall Jackson Grew To Manhood," welcomed Brother

Bland to the world on October 6, 1905. After graduating from Weston High School (where he would later return to teach), Brother Bland matriculated at West Virginia University. He was initiated by the West Virginia Alpha chapter in 1924 and graduated in 1927, whereupon he joined his sister Urilla (a teacher of French, English, and drama) in a Lewis County classroom. Brother Bland retired from teaching in 1971 after more than 40 years, but was honored in May 1990 when the Weston Junior High School was officially renamed Robert L. Bland Middle School. The school's mascot was changed as well, to the Patriot, in honor of Brother Bland's love for his country.

When he began teaching, Brother Bland earned $10 per day, which he split with the regular teacher. "I love the children," Brother Bland said during the school dedication ceremony in 1990. "I hope the standards will be the very highest [at Robert L. Bland Middle School]. I shall never forget this day."

During World War II, Brother Bland served his country as a classification specialist and occupational counselor in both reception and separation centers. He was a past Commander and Historian of American Legion Post 4 of Weston. At the time of his death, he was the oldest member of the Weston Lions Club. He was also a past president and recipient of the prestigious Melvin Jones Award from Lions International. Until a month before his death, he held a perfect Lions Club attendance record (except for his service during World War II). He was a faithful member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Weston. He served as Vestryman and sometime Junior Warden and Registrar, was a 57-year member of the church choir, and served many years as a lay reader.

Brother Bland is survived by one cousin, George Linn Bland Jr., West Virginia Alpha '35, also of Weston, West Virginia. His two brothers, Charles and Theodoric Bland, were also West Virginia Alphans, both initiated in 1921. Charles died in 1966, Theodoric in 1984.

Like his sister (Founder Moore's granddaughter Urilla Moore Bland) who died in 1988, Brother Bland remembered Phi Psi in his will. A $50,000 bequest will help keep Fraternity programs on track for years to come.

In addition, many items of historical Fraternity significance from the Moore-Bland family are on display at Heritage Hall, the Fraternity's headquarters and museum. Included are Founder Moore's original Fraternity badge, his wedding band, and an ornate gold pocket watch. Heritage Hall in Indianapolis is available for guided tours during the business day.

THE STATE OF THE FRATERNITY

by Terrence G. Harper
Oklahoma Beta '85
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

“May peace and harmony ever be with us...” These words begin each official meeting of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, whether it be a chapter meeting, District Council meeting, Executive Council meeting, or the Grand Arch Council. During the biennium that ended with the close of the 67th Grand Arch Council on August 14, 1994, restoring peace and harmony to Phi Kappa Psi was a major goal. I am very pleased to be able to report to you that we have been successful in this regard. In any organization, as in life, you cannot please all of pants was pared down from the nearly 50 who were invited to and attended the initial summit held in June 1992. About 20 of Phi Psi's elected and appointed officers, staff, undergraduates, and alumni volunteers gathered to further define the goals and objectives of the Fraternity and design an implementation strategy. The work that sprang from that gathering will be the cornerstone of the new Executive Council's work plan, headed by newly-elected Fraternity President David L. Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61. You'll be hearing more about that in the months ahead.

The driving force behind building goodwill within the Fraternity during the last biennium was Fraternity President Richard E. Ong.

The annual report contained in the following pages recaps the fiscal year that ran from June 1, 1993 through May 31, 1994. In telling you about the year that was, we also attempt to keep you posted on our plans for the year, and years, ahead. Your feedback is important to our continued success. Please take a few minutes to pick up a pen, or turn on your word processor, and let us know how we are doing. Are we meeting your needs? More importantly, what are your needs from Phi Kappa Psi in 1994? We need to hear from you. So does your chapter. Homecoming dates are again listed on the back cover. Make time this fall to return to your alma mater and recharge your Phi Psi batteries.

the people all of the time, but in Phi Kappa Psi, a sense of pride and esprit de corps has reemerged that has not been felt in some time. By focusing on the things we do well, and accentuating those positives, the Fraternity has empowered itself to be a key player in the American college fraternity movement.

During the biennium, the driving force behind building goodwill within the Fraternity was Fraternity President Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55. During his tenure, President Ong visited each and every active chapter in Phi Kappa Psi, and that includes a handful of chapters that have since ceased operations. More than simply face time, his visits reopened lines of communication between the chapters and the leadership of the Fraternity. Undergraduates were able to put a face with the name and voice their hopes and concerns for our Fraternity. We still have room for improvement in reaching out to our members, but the gap that had existed has been greatly diminished and the stage has been set for greater accomplishments in the years to come.

Strategic planning continued to evolve and develop during the last year. Another “planning summit” was held in February at the Illinois Alpha chapter house at Northwestern University. The number of partici-

CHAPTER SERVICES

Chapter services are at the heart of the Fraternity's operations. The Fraternity staff's primary purpose is assisting the undergraduate chapters and their members to realize their full potential. With education and leadership development as our primary goals, the Educational Leadership Consultant program is the Fraternity's most visible and most utilized resource in our chapter services arsenal. The Educational Leadership Consultants are educators, facilitators, and motivators. Under the direction of the Director of Chapter Services, the three ELCs visited each chapter and colony at least once during the report year. Many groups received a second visit to focus on specific goals and challenges. The Consultants are pro-professionally trained to assist chapters with leadership development, academic excellence, member recruitment, financial management, and loss prevention, among other things.

Each year, an ELC is assigned a number of "client" chapters and is responsible for those groups throughout the academic year. This system enables both the chapter members and the ELC to become familiar with one another and provides the chapter with an all-important, constant link to the National Fraternity. In addition to personal interaction with the various officers and committee heads, the ELC also meets with the chapter as a whole to address topics of concern to the chapter. These tailor-made workshops have included presentations on recruitment, the Ritual, chapter organization, risk management, and scholarship.

Undergraduate Membership

As reported last year, many chapters are still struggling to report new pledges and new initiates in a timely manner. Even though the Bylaws of the Fraternity state that pledges and initiates must be reported immediately with the proper fees, many chapters still do not grasp this basic tenet of fiscal responsibility. Progress is being made, however, and the Fraternity staff continues its concerted efforts to ensure that each duly pledged and initiated member receives his membership benefits promptly.

During the report year, June 1, 1993 through May 31, 1994, 1,239 members were reported and entered onto the Grand Membership Roll. This number represents a 21% decrease over the prior year. And while the decrease is a concern, last year's figure of 1,566 included initiates that were "caught up" from chapters that had not reported any new members for as many as two or three years! Pledges to the Fraternity were down 6% at 1,570.

Membership recruitment must once again become a top priority for Phi Kappa Psi's undergraduate chapters. The National Interfraternity Conference's 5-Step Recruitment Process has been fully embraced by the leadership of Phi Kappa Psi: 1) Meet him; 2) Make him a friend; 3) Introduce him to your friends; 4) Introduce him to your fraternity; and 5) Invite him to join. Recruitment must take place year 'round, not just during a few weeks at the beginning of each semester. We need to continue to push for open recruitment at all of our host institutions.

The average chapter size in Phi Kappa Psi remained at 45 members and pledges. The "average" chapter pledged 17 men and initiated 14 of them. As of May 31, 1994, the total number of men initiated into the Fraternity since founding was 91,717.

Chapter Installation

Illinois Zeta at DePaul University in Chicago was granted the Fraternity's 133rd charter on October 9, 1993. Twenty-nine outstanding young men signed the chapter charter in the presence of many national officers and local alumni.

Scholarship

Academic excellence is one of the cornerstones of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity. In 1988, the Fraternity's Bylaws were changed by the Grand Arch Council to require that each chapter maintain a group average at least equal to or better than the all-men's average at their host institution, or in excess of a 2.5 (on a 4.0 scale), whichever is higher. Furthermore, each chapter officer is required to personally meet that standard to demonstrate his individual commitment to academic excellence.

During the year under review, several Phi Psi chapters exceeded this standard, but there is a lot of room for improvement. Phi Kappa Psi, as well as every other fraternity, must make academic excellence a high priority and a minimum expectation.

Phi Kappa Psi is in the process of developing a new program called 3RQ. 3RQ means: Recruit Quality, Retain Quality, and Reward Quality. The brainchild of Director of Scholarship Thomas D. Myers, Ohio Zeta '58 and Vice President for Student Affairs at Eastern Kentucky University, 3RQ is so simple, it's brilliant. If chapters will take a little more time in the recruitment process to determine the academic history and leadership abilities of each prospective member, their worries about meeting minimum academic standards will be greatly diminished. Start with a quality individual, create an environment in the chapter that will nurture his abilities, and the result is a quality chapter.

Eleven chapters were the top chapter on their respective campuses in grades during the report year. They were: California Theta, Colorado Alpha, Georgia Alpha, Indiana Zeta, Louisiana Alpha, North Carolina Beta, New York Theta, Ohio Beta, Pennsylvania Beta, Pennsylvania Gamma, and Texas Delta.

Chapters Closed

Two chapters in Phi Kappa Psi ceased operations during the report year: Pennsylvania Pi at Temple University surrendered its chapter charter on April 6, 1994. And Colorado Alpha at the University of Colorado-Boulder is also temporarily inactive although the charter remains intact. Complete details on both of these chapter situations appeared in the July 1994 issue of The Shield.

In March, the Executive Council reviewed the accounts receivable from the undergraduate chapters and gave any chapter showing a balance 60 days to bring their obligations current or their charter would be suspended. On May 11, 1994, the charters of eight chapters were suspended for failure to meet their financial obligations to the Fraternity. As of press time, all eight chapters were either paid in full or had made arrangements to do so in short order.

Expansion

One colony was installed last year at San Diego State University. California Lambda was established in the fall of 1993 and continues to grow and develop. The San Diego Alumni Association has been very active with the fledgling group and will continue to be instrumental in the colony's success.

A number of expansion possibilities have emerged for the coming year. Alumni are organizing in the Trenton, New Jersey area with the hope of returning the New Jersey Alpha Chapter at Rider University to good standing. The Fraternity is currently in negotiations with the Rider administration to determine a mutually acceptable time to conduct recruitment activities. Alumni are also organizing in Columbia, South Carolina where recruitment is slated to begin in the spring for the reinstatement of the South Carolina Alpha at the University of South Carolina.

In order for expansion to occur at a given campus, the Fraternity must first identify interested alumni who will make the commitment to support a new chapter. History demonstrates that alumni support and guidance are crucial to the success of any chapter, newly-formed or well-established.

ALUMNI AFFAIRS

The last biennium's broad discussion of alumni services generated a great many ideas for changing and improving the services we provide. We have re-dedicated ourselves to supporting and cultivating alumni involvement while helping bring numerous alumni back into the fold. In the process, we have made all alumni more aware of the crucial role alumni play in the success of our Fraternity.

A start-up kit has been designed to send to any alumni interested in forming associations or clubs in their areas, or just to give them ideas on getting alumni together informally. As a result, several new alumni associations and clubs have been formed, though we are still having difficulty reenergizing some groups in larger metropolitan areas. Aside from a detailed outline on creating and supporting a successful alumni organization, the kit includes a directory of area alumni, mailing labels, and demographic information.

The Alumni Induction Ceremony was approved as an official ceremony of the Fraternity last year. This year, an Induction Ceremony booklet was designed to introduce the ceremony and provide ideas for its use. These booklets were mailed to every chapter, chapter advisor, alumni association, and club. Many groups performed the ceremony this past spring.

We have helped a number of groups mail special announcements and publicize alumni-related activities. This ranged from templates for newsletters, flyers, and alumni directories to the actual design, production, and mailing of several alumni-related publications.

The Shield was also used more effectively during the report year to reach alumni. We have used space to promote alumni involvement by offering ideas, identifying rewards of involvement, showing where Phi Psi alumni are located, and highlighting areas of need.

Additionally, a program has begun involving alumni in group travel. Response from participants in our China trip has been excellent and we hope the program will grow to provide a wide variety of travel options.

The program continues to develop, grow, and respond to the needs of alumni. In the next year, the program will seek to meet the recommendations of the GAC Alumni Relations Committee:

- » An alumni association in each county with 400 or more alumni residents
- » An alumni club in each county with 200 or more alumni residents
- » Assistance in renewing failing or faltering alumni groups
- » Assistance to chapters in locating alumni to act as advisors and corporation members

Phi Psi's wealth is in the knowledge, experience, and interest of its alumni. You are our strength and longevity. Please consider becoming involved personally in the future of your chapter and the Fraternity.

INSURANCE AND RISK MANAGEMENT

Phi Kappa Psi's insurance program continues to offer coverage that is among the most complete in the interfraternity world. Our chapters, alumni volunteers, officers, and staff are covered by a variety of policies which ensure that, when accidents occur—and they are inevitable—our members are protected.

For the past year, all entities of the Fraternity have been covered under commercial liability, property, and directors and officers policies. Our coverage has been broadened in the last year to include a fidelity bond for chapter and corporation presidents and treasurers, and association and professional liability (APL) coverage.

The Sentry, our risk management newsletter, was recognized by the College Fraternity Editors Association as the best newsletter of any fraternal organization.

Changes to the risk management program have been approved, including the design of a new risk management publication, stronger support for chapter education, and adjustments to chapter liability premiums based on performance.

Response to chapters and alumni volunteers on issues of insurance, risk management, and crisis management has been greatly increased. More groups are seeking ideas and insights from the Headquarters as they design their activities or respond to incidents.

Our records and information on housing and alumni corporations are improving to give us more detailed information on the conditions and needs of our chapters.

The insurance and risk management program will continue as one of the most important services we provide to our chapters and volunteers. In this day and age, where litigiousness abounds, complete and affordable insurance remains an invaluable asset.

PUBLICATIONS

As we conclude Volume 114 of The Shield with this annual report issue, we look back at the year's three previous editions. In the 128 pages that make up this year of The Shield we featured San Antonio Spurs owner Bob Coleman, the Fraternity's $7 million Brothers Helping Brothers capital campaign, and Phi Psi's commitment to academic excellence through the eyes of our five brothers who are presidents of major universities.

Volume 114 also saw a feature on the Fraternity's first national community service project, held during the 1993 Woodrow Wilson Leadership School. We learned of a devastating fire that gutted the Iowa Alpha chapter house. We printed a highly-detailed map of the United States showing the concentration of alumni in every individual county in the nation. And as we do every year, we highlighted the Endowment Fund's scholarship and award winners and we provided a newsy update on every active Phi Psi chapter.

The Shield will continue to address a wide variety of topics, keeping alumni up to date and communicating major Fraternity initiatives and programs. Our quarterly mailing schedule allows us to mail at special reduced postage rates so keep watching for issues around November, February, June, and September. And remember, The Shield is your magazine! Let us know what you like and don't like about its content, focus, and design.

In addition to the official alumni magazine, Fraternity periodicals this year included The Roundtable for chapter advisors and advisory committee members, The Sentry for risk management concerns, and The Areopagus for chapter officers and leaders.

FRATERNITY HEADQUARTERS

Indianapolis, Indiana has been the home to the Fraternity's Headquarters since June 1, 1978. Located at 510 Lockerbie Street in Historic Lockerbie Square in downtown Indianapolis, Heritage Hall houses one of the most impressive collections of Victorian-era arts and antiquities in the area. Hundreds of Fraternity members and tourists alike tour the Fraternity's Headquarters and Museum each year. The vast collection of Fraternity memorabilia and archives could keep even the casual observer occupied for hours. The Fraternity established a central office in 1930 in Cleveland, Ohio where it remained until the 1978 relocation.

As reported last year, the Fraternity upgraded its information management system during the report year with the installation of a PC network and the Fraternity Management System (FMS) membership software. For the computer literate, FMS runs on a Unix platform while the Fraternity's DOS and Windows programs (WordPerfect, American Fundware, WordPerfect Office, etc.) run from a Novell server. The Educational Leadership Consultants have been outfitted with notebook computers that allow them to file their reports electronically and also enable them to update chapter records during each visit. The new system has increased our ability to serve the membership by making member data available to chapters and alumni associations in a variety of formats.

Another technological addition to the Fraternity Headquarters came after the report year ended when a new telephone system was installed incorporating voice mail and an automated attendant.

Fraternity Staff

During the year under review, the Fraternity Headquarters was served by the talents of ten staff members. The primary mission of the staff is to meet the needs of the Fraternity's membership. Terrence G. Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85, was appointed as the Fraternity's fourth Executive Director in June 1990, having served on the staff since November 1, 1986 in other capacities. As the Fraternity's chief operating officer, Terry is responsible for managing and directing the staff in implementing the policies established by the Grand Arch Council and the Executive Council. Terry is also editor of The Shield.

Serving as the Director of Chapter Services during the report year was Douglas J. Pszczolkowski, Pennsylvania Beta '87, who has been on the Fraternity staff since June of 1990. Doug's responsibilities include managing the Educational Leadership Consultant program, overseeing membership reporting, and planning the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School.

Tom C. Pennington, Texas Alpha '80, served as the Coordinator of Alumni and Insurance Services. In this capacity, Tom was responsible for managing the Fraternity's national property and liability insurance program and working to develop new ways for alumni to become involved with the Fraternity. Tom began

David R. Murray, Pennsylvania Gamma '91, is the Director of Publications. As such, David is responsible for the production of the Fraternity's many publications, including The Shield. David also coordinates the Endowment Fund's scholarship and awards program. David joined the staff in August of 1992.

Sandra E. Leddy, a graduate of Purdue University, has been the Staff Accountant since April 1992. Sandi is the staff's chief financial officer and is responsible for carrying out all the accounting functions for the Fraternity and Endowment Fund.

The support staff included Joy E. Bump as the System Administrator where she is responsible for the Fraternity's data processing needs and manages the day-to-day functions of the Endowment Fund's Alumni Support Program. Joy is the most senior member of the Headquarters staff, having joined the staff in March of 1985. Joining the staff in July, L. Monique Bonner has assumed the responsibilities as Membership Coordinator.

Three Educational Leadership Consultants served the Fraternity during the year under review. James D. Boyle, Washington Alpha '88, and Marc E. Bruffett, New York Eta '89, wrapped up two years of service in May and Jared D. Beeson, California Kappa '91, completed one year on the road. All three ELCs moved on to other pursuits at the end of the report year. Christopher R. Partin, Tennessee Epsilon '91, Joshua M. Mistler, Kansas Alpha '90, and Mark M. Eckert, Ohio Delta '89, are the three ELCs who will be visiting chapters during the 1994-1995 academic year.

Other staff changes that came after the report year ended included the departure of Doug Pszczolkowski to try his hand in the for-profit world of retail management. On September 12, Tom Pennington assumed the duties as Director of Chapter Services. Returning to the staff to fill the vacancy in the alumni and insurance services area is James M. Acton, Indiana Epsilon '88. Jamie served as an ELC from 1991 to 1993 and started his new post on the Headquarters staff on September 19.

FRATERNITY FINANCES

General Fund revenue in excess of expenses increased from a net loss of $1,062 last year to a net gain of $98,668 this year, despite a decrease in initiation and pledge fee revenue. This dramatic increase is due to an adjustment last year to recognize an "allowance for doubtful accounts" totaling $171,261 (which was recorded as an expense). Although the allowance was also included this year, it was adjusted to reflect our estimated receivables and did not have last year's dramatic effect.

General Fund

The General Fund is just that, the general operating fund of the Fraternity. The General Fund receives income from initiation and pledge fees, chapter service fees, grants from the Permanent and Endowment Funds, conference registrations, and other sources. These monies are used to publish The Shield, fund the Educational Leadership Consultant program and other chapter services, pay employee salaries, and conduct the Grand Arch Council and Woodrow Wilson Leadership School, among other things.

General Fund revenues exceeded expenses by $17,868 during the report year. This excess — in addition to a transfer of fixed assets from the Permanent Fund — was the source of a $152,121 increase in net assets. Increased Chapter Services Fee revenue was offset by a reduction in the Insurance Fund reimbursement. The General Fund was able to recover a net amount of $3,587 from last year's accounts receivable allowance for doubtful accounts. Finally, the office operations expense increase is due to the purchase, installation, and training related to our new computer system.

Insurance Fund

The Insurance Fund was created by the Executive Council to fund the necessary insurance and risk management programs of the Fraternity. Any income received in excess of premiums is used to fund the Fraternity's self-insured deductible and to offset any sudden increase in premiums that may occur during a given year. Once the reserve guidelines are met, chapters and house corporations should see a decrease in their annual premiums.

The increase of revenue in excess of expenditures from a net loss of $61,117 last year to a net income of $17,049 this year is due to the adjustment to the allowance for doubtful accounts. This non-cash expenditure decreased from $115,751 last year (the first-ever adjustment) to $27,464 this year. In addition, insurance expense savings were passed on to the chapters and alumni corporations as lower premiums.

PERMANENT FUND

In 1938, the Fraternity created the Permanent, Scholastic, Educational, Charitable, and Fraternal Fund to provide life subscriptions to The Shield for all members of Phi Kappa Psi. Back then, the Permanent Fund started with about $43,000 in assets. Today, the Fund has grown to $2.3 million. Up until the mid-1980s, the Fraternity used the income from the Permanent Fund to publish The Shield, however, a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service said that The Shield had no educational value and, therefore, could no longer be published using Permanent Fund dollars. Income from the Permanent Fund is now used to support the educational programs and activities of the Fraternity, such as the Educational Leadership Program and the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School.

The Fund's assets are entrusted to a board of three Trustees, appointed by the Fraternity President, for safekeeping and investment. Harris Investment Management of Chicago is the professional investment manager that is responsible for the day-to-day management of the Fund.

able securities which have been historically split in roughly equal portions of equities and fixed-income issues. In recent years, however, the Trustees have responded to the Fraternity's need for greater current income and have temporarily increased the fixed income portion to approximately 64% of the total. The Trustees believe, however, that a prudent long-term investment strategy requires that the investment mix be restored to a more balanced position with a larger equity portion, in order that the principal can continue to produce at least in line with inflation.

In the year under review, the Permanent Fund showed a net loss with expenses exceeding revenues by $70,502. In actuality, the investment portion of the Fund had revenues over expenses totaling $63,751, however, for many years, the Permanent Fund has been holding a number of fixed assets in the form of some art and antiquities in the Fraternity Headquarters. The Trustees decided to transfer the fixed assets of the Permanent Fund to the general Fraternity for management and safekeeping. The assets had a net book value of $134,253 at the time of the transfer.

The three Trustees of the Permanent Fund serve without compensation and give generously of their time and professional expertise to help the Fraternity achieve its financial objectives. Serving during the report year were John R. Donnell Jr., Ohio Epsilon '59, William M. Batten, Ohio Delta '29, and Dr. John W. Oswald, Indiana Alpha '35. After the report year ended, Jack Oswald announced that he would be retiring from the Board of Trustees upon the expiration of his term in August 1994. Fraternity President Dick Ong appointed former Fraternity Treasurer Fred H. Clay Jr., Alabama Alpha '67, to fill the third seat on the Board. Clay will serve a six-year term until the Grand Arch Council in 2000. Batten's term expires in 1996, while Donnell's term runs through 1998.

In fiscal year 1994, the Permanent Fund's investment account balance grew 4% after grants to the Fraternity and expenses were deducted, although the total assets of the Fund at May 31, 1994 decreased to $2,300,980 from $2,371,482 a year ago due to the aforementioned fixed asset transfer.

The Fraternity's unaudited, consolidated balance sheet and income statement can be found on the following two pages.

ENDOWMENT FUND

by Terrence G. Harper
FRATERNITY EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

The Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc. is the Fraternity's educational foundation. It was chartered in 1914 and incorporated in the State of Illinois in 1922. The Fund is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as a 501(c)(3) charitable and educational foundation, and, therefore, may receive tax deductible gifts from donors. The Fund was originally created to help deserving, but needy brothers complete their undergraduate or graduate studies. The objectives of the Fund have evolved greatly since those early days, but it continues to exist for the benefit of the Fraternity by promoting academic excellence, leadership, and moral responsibility among brothers. Another important function of the Endowment Fund is the support it gives to the Fraternity in the form of an annual grant to help underwrite the Fraternity's educational programs.

During the year under review, June 1, 1993 through May 31, 1994, the affairs of the Fund were overseen by three Trustees, each serving a six-year term. They are: James W. Emison III, Indiana Alpha an improvement over 1993 of $130,841.*

'49, Chairman; Jerry Nelson, California Epsilon '48, Vice Chairman; and John F. Buck, Indiana Beta '75, Secretary-Treasurer. Like their counterparts on the Permanent Fund's Board of Trustees, the Endowment Fund Trustees serve without compensation and generously donate their time and talents.

At the 1994 Grand Arch Council in August, after the end of the report year, the members of the Endowment Fund amended the Articles of Incorporation and approved amendments to the Fund's Bylaws that increased the number of Trustees from three to seven. The current Board of Trustees, with term expiration dates in parentheses, are: John F. Buck, Indiana Beta '75 (2000); James W. Emison III, Indiana Alpha '49 (1998); James E. Hagler, Tennessee Delta '58 (1998); D. Bruce McMahan, California Delta '57 (1998); Jerry Nelson, California Epsilon '48 (1996); Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55 (2000); and Wayne W. Wilson, Michigan Beta '59 (1996).

As of May 31, 1994, the assets of the Endowment Fund totaled $1,252,261, an improvement over 1993 of $130,841. The assets of the Fund are in the form of cash, marketable securities, and real estate. As owner of Heritage Hall, the Fraternity's Headquarters and Museum, the Fund collects rent from the Fraternity. The unaudited, consolidated balance sheet and income statement of the Endowment Fund can be found on the following pages.

The Alumni Support Program is the annual fund drive of the Fraternity and Endowment Fund. Gifts are solicited and received by the Endowment Fund to allow donors to make their contributions on a tax deductible basis. Target Development in St. Louis, fund raising specialists in the interfraternity market, coordinate and conduct the Alumni Support Program through consultation with the Fraternity's professional staff. From June 1, 1993 through May 31, 1994, generous brothers made 3,684 gifts totaling $187,080.61 to the Alumni Support Program. The Alumni Support Program is the source of the Endowment Fund's grant to the Fraternity. In the year under review, the Fund made grants to the Fraternity totaling $84,000. The expenses for the Alumni Support Program are approximately $50,000 each year.

The Fund also makes scholarships and grants available to deserving brothers each year. Through the Solon E. Summerfield Scholar Awards, the Founders Fellowships, the Outstanding Summerfield Scholars, the Ralph D. Daniel Leadership Award, and other awards, the Endowment Fund made scholarships and grants totaling more than $45,000 during the year under review. Many of those awards are funded by brothers, both living and deceased, who have set up special "accounts" within the Endowment Fund to fund scholarships for certain areas of achievement, such as academic excellence, public service, and demonstrated leadership abilities.

The Endowment Fund is currently searching for ways to increase its support of the Fraternity. The Fund's support of the Fraternity, however, is directly dependent upon the support it receives from the membership through outright gifts and planned gifts. For more information on making a gift to the Endowment Fund, please contact Executive Director Terrence G. Harper at the Fraternity Headquarters.
