◆ President's Message

Building a better Phi Psi

With a new national president comes a new era of action and excitement in the Fraternity

Dear Brothers,

The Grand Arch Council was held in Charleston, South Carolina in August, and it marked the end of a biennium that brought 'peace and harmony' to our Fraternity. Dick Ong, Oregon Beta '55, performed a yeoman's job (not bad for a retired Navy Captain) in visiting personally all of the chapters and colonies in Phi Kappa Psi. He also transferred into action many of the programs that had been planned at the end of the last biennium. All Phi Psis owe Dick a vote of thanks for a job well done.

The coming biennium has placed together a team of hard-working Archons plus elected and appointed officers. The spirit that prevailed from the past biennium has carried over into the current period with much work to be done. It is our intention to attempt to activate as much of the planning called for in past planning exercises and from the Grand Arch Council.

High on our agenda is the re-statement of the essence of Phi Kappa Psi's values and ideals into contemporary terms. Whereas the meaning and intent of "What is a Phi Kappa Psi?" is rather simple and straightforward, it has proven difficult to provide this essence in a format that can assist pledges, undergraduates, and alumni in coping with today's complex environment. The Fraternity's Mystagogue, David McDonald, Wisconsin Gamma '82, and the Fraternity's Chaplain, Flynn Brantley, South Carolina Alpha '72, are leading this effort.

The other effort that is carried over from the past two biennia is our capital campaign. Already received in pledges, insurance policies, and bequests is approximately $3.5 million, but little of this is in the form of cash. Greg Knapp, Illinois Delta '72, the Fraternity's vice president, is in charge of completing this campaign. The purpose of the campaign is to provide the financial basis through which future undergraduates can attain high scholastic achievement, develop leadership skills, and build personal standards.

All of this, of course, is possible through your personal stewardship in which you contribute your

- time and talents;
- financial support; and
- transfer your personal standards to succeeding generations.

We need you and your stewardship. Please join us in serving our Fraternity in order for future generations to enjoy what we know as the great job of serving within the Phi, the Kappa, and the Psi.

Fraternally,

David L. Woodrum

About the program

The Summerfield Scholarship program was created through a trust bequest by the late Solon E. Summerfield, Kansas Alpha 1899. At the time, Summerfield's donation was the largest ever made to an American college fraternity.

Summerfield was the founder and former head of the Gotham Gold Stripe Hosiery Company of New York. An enthusiastic supporter of the University of Kansas, of Kansas Alpha, and of the Fraternity, he established the Solon E. Summerfield Foundation. Its income is shared by many charitable and educational institutions, among them the Endowment Fund of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Each of the Fraternity's chapters and colonies is given the opportunity to select one brother who, through his daily life, best exemplifies scholarship and leadership. The brothers pictured here are the 1993-94 Summerfield Scholars as selected by their chapters. Summerfield Scholars receive a $100 grant and are eligible for the Outstanding Summerfield Scholar Awards presented each spring.

Unfortunately, despite repeated reminders, only 48 of Phi Psi's 91 chapters and colonies chose to name a Summerfield Scholar this year. Those 48 members are recognized here.

All Phi Psis are encouraged to support the Fraternity through tax-deductible gifts to the Alumni Support Program and the Endowment Fund. A gift envelope is conveniently located in the center of this magazine.

ADVISOR PROFILE

Ben Kessler

Indiana Gamma

"I have been chapter advisor for Wabash College for more than 10 years," says Ben Kessler, Indiana Gamma '71. "I feel very fortunate to have been associated with some of America's finest men."

Brother Kessler's approach to chapter advising has matured over the years; he believes strongly in creating an atmosphere where the undergraduates are in control and where they learn, both from their successes and from their mistakes.

Instead of telling chapter members what to do, Brother Kessler says he tries to "encourage the officers to come up with the proper solutions. I give my opinions on various ways they can solve a problem and they take the ball from there." He continues, "I strongly feel that being an officer in a fraternity is an educational experience. The best way is for them to learn is to be very hands on... it's a self-taught program for the students with guidance from written literature and from my counsel."

After ten years, Brother Kessler has also experienced a wide variety of chapter situations. "I've gotten past the age of panic," he says. "Often times the problem is not as extreme as some may feel. I'm also trying to find out all the facts before I start whipping out opinions," he laughs.

Unlike some advisors, one of Brother Kessler's favorite parts about his job is interacting with college administrators. "I have excellent rapport with the administration," he says. "They recognize that fraternities are an asset and not a liability to the campus."

A longtime Crawfordsville resident, Brother Kessler recently moved to Valparaiso, Indiana and retired from production agriculture. He is currently in pursuit of a new occupation, but is enjoying spending time at home with his wife Theresa's nearly-three-year-old son Eric.

LETTERS TO LOCKERBIE

TO THE EDITOR:

I have just returned from the Phi Psi Emergence of China Tour, June 23 – July 7, 1994. It was a spectacular success—a super tour. I say this with a somewhat extensive travel background as travel is our hobby. I have visited nearly every country of the world, extensive cruises, been around the world, etc., etc. This recent tour was a top-drawer performance by China Advocates.

One of the amazing aspects of this tour was that out of a membership of thousands, only four Phi Psis, their wives and friends, a total of nine in all, made up the group.

The China Tour was such a great educational and cultural experience that it is our hope you will again sponsor another China Tour. China is alive, thriving, and bursting at the seams. What a country! What a trip! The history of China, Modern China, and learning about future business opportunities in China are subjects which should be of much interest to more than four Phi Psis!

Thanks for sponsoring the trip. It was a superb experience.

TO THE EDITOR:

I just wanted to take a moment to tell you about something wonderful that happened last Christmas that involved a number of young men from Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity at the University of Mississippi.

In December of every year, The Christmas Store is open to parents of needy children to shop and select free toys. This year, we provided 700 children from 316 families with two free toys each. Once everyone leaves, however, there's still much that needs to be done and it's often hard to find volunteers to stay even later to help.

This year a wonderful thing happened — more than 30 young men volunteered to help! Not only were they there, but they were eager to get to work. The three-plus hour cleanup took only 30 minutes.

These men were delightful and, while many of them probably don't think they did very much, were an enormous help to us. We will indeed call on the men of Phi Kappa Psi to assist us once again next year.

"It was the best GAC in years!"

Widely hailed, the sixty-seventh national meeting of the Fraternity proceeded flawlessly

by David R. Murray, Pennsylvania Gamma '91

Charleston, South Carolina is a beautiful place by any comparison, boasting what seem like 360-degree sunsets behind picturesque, pastel vacation homes. For the city where the Civil War began, Charleston today is tranquil and serene.

Thankfully, the peacefulness of Charleston was barely interrupted this summer by the Sixty-Seventh Grand Arch Council, so harmonious was this year's national Phi Psi gathering.

It was a fitting conclusion to the biennium of Fraternitiy President Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55. At a rate of nearly one each week, President Ong visited more than 100 Phi Psi chapters, colonies, alumni associations, and clubs during his tenure. The good will engendered by his nonconfrontational, brotherhood-building visits will endure for years to come. At the same time, several pieces of important business were transacted at the convention, finally putting to rest some of the Fraternity's past and positioning us for specific action in the next two years.

Advisors Seminar

The convention began on Wednesday, August 10 at the Omni Hotel at Charleston Place, the city's première hotel and the site of most 1994 GAC events. Wednesday afternoon boasted a special alumni advisors seminar, led by Coordinator of Chapter and Faculty Advisors John V. Ciccarella, California Theta '72 and Coordinator of Alumni and Insurance Services Tom C. Pennington, Texas Alpha '80.

More than 35 alumni advisors were in attendance for plenary sessions on such topics as dealing with chapter concerns and setting up advisory committees. Advisors also participated in a Q & A roundtable about current campus issues; house corporation officers had a special session of their own; and all attendees were lavished with resources, handouts, and reference materials.

By Wednesday evening, a crowd of more than 400 Phi Psis and guests had gathered and the Grand Arch Council was ready to begin. The conference's kick-off event took place a short trolley ride away from the hotel at the historic Charleston Visitor Center. Alumni and undergraduates, officers and guests gathered there for a reception and sumptuous buffet. Conversations begun and friendships forged there continued well into the evening.

As a result, a throng of energized delegates returned Thursday morning for the traditional opening breakfast and subsequent first general session.

The business portion of the GAC began in the ancient manner and was followed by the installation of the GAC's permanent officers, including SWGP Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55, SWVGP David L. Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61, SWP Gregory C. Knapp, Illinois Delta '72 (Rhode Island Alpha '71), and SWAG John D. Watt III, North Carolina Alpha '75. The Archons, Robert J.

Partin, Tennessee Epsilon '91, and Joshua M. Mistler, Kansas Alpha '90—were chosen to be SWPhus.

Also empaneled at the first general session were the committee chairmen, whose role is critical to the successful completion of the business of the GAC. The standing committee chairmen were: Alumni Relations, Craig B. Johnson, Ohio Alpha '84; Constitution, Burns H. Davison III, Iowa Beta '79; Credentials, Augustus R. Theta '68; Publications, Richard B. Funk II, South Carolina Alpha '73; Scholarship, Thomas D. Myers, Ohio Zeta '58; and State of the Fraternity, Richard O. Regnier, Indiana Gamma '48.

In addition to the twelve standing committees, two subcommittees of the State of the Fraternity committee were chosen, as were two special committees, one for tribunal appeals and one for housing: Subcommittee on Philanthropy, P. David Evans, Arizona Alpha '77; Subcommittee on Planning, James R. Blazer, Ohio Delta '79; Special Committee on Housing, Steven E. Nieslawski, Illinois Delta '79; and Special Committee on Tribunal Appeals, Enrico A. Hernandez, California Beta '78. Recognition was also given to GAC Host Committee chairman John T. Kemper, Indiana Gamma '69, who served as local liaison and contact for the Fraternity Headquarters' convention planning staff.

"Renewing Our Image" was the title of a presentation made by Flynn E. Brantley, South Carolina Alpha '72, during the opening session. In his remarks, Brother Brantley discussed ways in which we can annul the Animal House image many Americans have of fraternity members. Robert F. Marchesani Jr., Indiana Zeta '94 (Pennsylvania Nu '79), also addressed the assembled delegates, describing the services and functions of the National Interfraternity Conference.

The first day of business concluded with meetings of the standing and special committees, the President's Reception for alumni, and district gatherings to prepare for Saturday's closing banquet song-fest extravaganza.

On Friday morning, the second day of the Grand Arch Council, a meeting of the Endowment Fund was called to order by Chairman James W. Emison III, Indiana Alpha '49 (see related story, page 11).

Awards Luncheon

That meeting was followed by the traditional Awards Luncheon at which outstanding chapters, undergraduates, and alumni were recognized for their contributions to the Fraternity. Winners of various awards are listed along the bottom of pages 8-10. Most impressively, Walter Lee Sheppard Jr., New York Alpha '29, was again presented the Eddie Knight Award for GAC attendance. Brother Sheppard has now attended 32 national conventions; Eddie Knight, Indiana Gamma 1893, attended 38 consecutive GACs between 1894 and 1970.

Friday evening, a new group of initiates was welcomed to the Ancient Order of the S.C., the unique "fraternity within a fraternity" that is open only to those Phi Psis who have attended seven or more Grand Arch Councils. 1994 marked the 37th biennial meeting of the Order of the S.C., and in addition to the 58 members present, seven new S.C.ers were inducted. They are Donald R. Bonine, Michigan Beta '60, Enrico A. Hernandez, California Beta '78, Thomas L. James, Texas Alpha '48, Bradley J. Mallow, Mississippi Alpha '78, Stephen A. McLelland, Michigan Beta '72, Thomas C. Pennington, Texas Alpha '80, and Norman W. Spain, Ohio Delta '33.

The business of the Sixty-Seventh GAC wrapped up on Saturday, August 13 as committees completed their reports and a new Executive Board was elected to lead the Fraternity through this biennium. The Board has only one new face, however, as last biennium's vice president, treasurer, and secretary all moved up one spot. Brother Woodrum was elected president, Brother Knapp was chosen as vice president, and Brother Watt acceded to the position of treasurer. Thomas D. Meisner, Pennsylvania Theta '68, was elected to be the Fraternity's national secretary. The four members of the Executive Board, along with the Saturday evening's gala closing banquet was memorable for its cast of characters, both Phi Psi and otherwise. Jeffrey D. "Clyde" Patterson, Illinois Delta '78, served as symposiarch for the affair, keeping things moving and frequently adding moments of jocularly to the proceedings. Entertainment was provided by the Washingtons, a husband and wife singing duo who filled the enormous ballroom with their powerful voices. They enthralled the audience with selections from George Gershwin's "Porgy & Bess," sang several African spirituals, and six Archons chosen at the District Council meetings in 1993, comprise the Executive Council, the supreme governing body of the Fraternity between GACs.

closed with a soul-wrenching rendition of "Old Man River."

During the banquet, not only was Brother Sheppard honored with the Eddie Knight Award for GAC attendance, but he was also named as the Fraternity's Distinguished Alumnus. The Grand Chapter was also named at the banquet; Ohio Lambda picked up that honor for the second GAC in a row.

District Songfest

A banquet highlight was the pairs singing competition, pitting Districts I & II vs. Districts III & IV and vs. Districts V & VI. The judges (Phi Psi spouses in attendance) chose Districts V & VI's rendition of "The Sweetheart Song" as their favorite. Districts I & II did a fine job with "Adam," however, as did Districts III & IV when they performed "Quimbambuli." Saturday night's revelry continued well into the following morning.

The last day of the conference, Sunday, began with the memorial address, delivered by the Fraternity's chaplain, the Rev. David M. McDonald, Wisconsin Gamma '82. The address, a traditional part of the Grand Arch Council, remembers those Phi Psis who joined the Chapter Eternal during the previous biennium.

At the conclusion of Brother McDonald's remarks, the last committee reports were heard by the general session, and then the room was sealed, allowing for the installation of the Fraternity's new officers. With newly-installed-President Woodrum behind the gavel, the Sixty-Seventh Grand Arch Council was officially adjourned.

In all, 386 Phi Psis registered for the GAC, more than 1992's total of 380 registered participants. An additional 48 spouses, guests, and local alumni were present for part or all of the 1994 conference, bringing the total attendance in Charleston to 434.

The next national meeting of the Fraternity will be the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School, to be held July 19-23, 1995 on the campus of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. The District Council meetings and Archon elections will be held simultaneously with the WWLS.

The site of the next Grand Arch Council has been announced as well... plan to spend July 24-28, 1996 with Phi Psi in Chicago at the Chicago Hilton and Towers. ♦

Changes add four new Trustees

Operations of the Endowment Fund are now overseen by seven talented and loyal Phi Psis

The Endowment Fund of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc. held its annual meeting during the course of this summer's Grand Arch Council in Charleston, South Carolina. The meeting was convened on Friday, October 12, by Chairman and Trustee James W. Emison III, Indiana Alpha '49.

On the agenda for discussion were several amendments to the Fund's Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws. Many of the amendments were procedural or technical, but one amendment merited significant discussion. Specifically, paragraph 3 of the Articles of Incorporation and Article 3, Section 1 of the Bylaws, which calls for the Fund's activities to be directed by a board of three Trustees. A proposal on the floor at the beginning of the meeting would have increased that number of Trustees to five. The specific wording of the proposed amendments was reported in the July 1994 issue of The Shield.

After lengthy discussion, the decision was made to increase the number of trustees instead to seven. A search for candidates was then undertaken, and the following brothers were ultimately chosen as Trustees. They are listed here in alphabetical order with the dates their terms expire in parentheses following their names.

Of those, Brothers Buck, Emison, and Nelson are continuing Trustees from the last biennium. Brothers Hagler, McMahan, Ong, and Wilson are new to the Endowment Fund helm. ◆

DONOR UPDATE

In the July 1994 issue of The Shield, the Endowment Fund recognized donors to the Alumni Support Program, The Shield Dues Program, and The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi capital campaign. Left out were those generous brothers who made special contributions or bequests to the Fund from March 1, 1993 – May 31, 1994. Such gifts go into the Endowment Fund's general scholarships and grants coffers. The funds are used to support the scholastic efforts of Phi Psis nationwide. These generous brothers, listed alphabetically, have our heartfelt thanks.

Scholarship & Award Winners

From this year's outstanding crop of applicants, fourteen honor themselves and the Fraternity

Outstanding Summerfield Scholar

Steven H. Kleinstein

The Summerfield Scholar program was created through a trust bequest to the Endowment Fund by the late Solon E. Summerfield, Kansas Alpha 1899. At the time of the gift, Brother Summerfield's donation was the largest ever made to an American college fraternity. Today, each of the Fraternity's chapters and colonies is given the opportunity to select one brother who exemplifies scholarship and leadership. The qualifications of the nominees are then reviewed by the Endowment Fund's Awards Adjudication Committee; the Outstanding Summerfield Scholar is chosen out of that pool.

The honor of being named Outstanding Summerfield Scholar is granted to the Phi Psi member determined to be the most outstanding student nationwide in scholastic achievement and leadership ability. The recipient of this honor is awarded a $3,000 grant, the first runner-up a $2,500 grant, and the second runner-up $2,000.

Steven H. Kleinstein

With a high-honors GPA and a bright future, Steve Kleinstein, Pennsylvania Iota '92, is well-suited to be the Fraternity's Outstanding Summerfield Scholar. Steve will graduate from Penn next May with a bachelor of science in computer science and engineering. In graduate school, he hopes to continue exploring his chosen field: designing computer tools for use in medical research.

Darren M. Pierre

This academic year, for instance, he is involved with two projects: developing and implementing methods for constructing evolutionary models and designing graphical tools for aiding in the analysis of human hemoglobin genes.

Darren M. Pierre

Another extraordinary credit to our Fraternity, Darren Pierre, Ohio Epsilon '90, is this year's first runner-up Outstanding Summerfield Scholar. He is currently enrolled at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he has been named a National Defense Science and Engineering Fellow.

He is pursuing his Ph.D. in physics, a degree that follows naturally from the B.S. in physics he received when he graduated summa cum laude from Case in May 1994. He hopes to write his dissertation in some area of statistical mechanics or nonlinear dynamics and go on to teach at the university level.

Christopher M. Golden

Having returned from a semester of study at the University of Heidelberg in Germany, Chris Golden, Minnesota Beta '92, is tackling his final year as an undergraduate and as the Endowment Fund's second runner-up Outstanding Summerfield Scholar. Chris will graduate summa cum laude in May having majored in German and minored in history, foreign studies, and Western European area studies.

Chris plans to attend law school next fall, possibly again at the University of Minnesota, and pursue a career in international law.

The Founders Fellows

The Endowment Fund annually honors brothers with plans to pursue graduate studies by naming them Founders Fellows. The award recognizes each student's superior scholarship and leadership in the Fraternity. Each Founders Fellow receives a $2,000 grant.

R. Peter Boysen

Now studying for his M.Div. at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Peter Boysen, Texas Delta '91, credits Phi Psi with supporting him as he made the decision to go into the ministry. He particularly thanks John Klentos, Oklahoma Alpha '83, a divinity student and fellow Woodrow Wilson Leadership School attendee.

Southwestern is the largest theological school in the world and, while there, Peter will work in youth or college campus ministry. He hopes eventually to earn a Ph.D. and teach theology.

Jonathan P. Cohen

While Jon Cohen, Pennsylvania Alpha '91, won a Founders Fellowship for graduate study, he is not obligated to use the grant immediately. Thus, since he has chosen to defer enrolling in graduate school, his $2,000 check awaits him.

While an undergraduate, Jon served Penn Alpha as president and in several other positions. He was an active campus and community volunteer, a member of the varsity tennis team, and a resident assistant for freshmen. Jon plans to enter business school and earn an MBA.

Thomas D. Meisner II

Tom Meisner II, New Jersey Delta '90, has also decided to put off graduate school for at least a year, knowing that his Founders Fellowship will wait for him. A founding member of New Jersey Delta and the son of Thomas D. Meisner, Pennsylvania Theta '68, the current Fraternity Secretary, Tom comes by his love of the Fraternity honestly.

Before heading off to pursue an MBA, Tom will continue working in corporate finance, specializing in planning and analysis. Eventually he plans to pursue a career in corporate or international law.

Gregory T. Parks

A refounding member of Pennsylvania Gamma, Greg Parks, Pennsylvania Gamma '91, is in his element. In his first year at the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, Greg has found a community of like-minded scholars. Whereas Greg's previous experience was with the business end of the law (he served as legal assistant to the Union County, Pennsylvania, District Attorney) he is now enjoying the more theoretical and abstract aspects of jurisprudence.

Greg hopes to use his J.D. as a federal criminal prosecutor for the Justice Department, handling white-collar and organized crime cases. He'll also keep an eye on being appointed a District Court judge.

Stephen T. Sullivan Jr.

A native of coastal Tuckerton, New Jersey, Stephen Sullivan, New Jersey Delta '91, knew from an early age that he didn't want to be a fisherman like many of his neighbors and friends. He placed furthering his education as his highest priority and has succeeded admirably.

Now enrolled at the Villanova School of Law, Stephen aspires to eventually teach political science or law, but only after having spent several years working with a prominent Philadelphia-area law firm.

Christopher M. Golden

R. Peter Boysen

Thomas D. Meisner II

Ben King Scholarship

Designed specifically to benefit an undergraduate Phi Psi working his way through college, the King Scholarship also mandates that the recipient be majoring in engineering or a related field. The award carries with it a $1,000 prize and is given in honor of Ben King, New York Zeta '06.

Joshua T. Colvin

Josh Colvin, Kentucky Beta '92, is now in his third year of the engineering program at the University of Kentucky, and chemical engineering has become his chosen field of study. A regular on the Dean's List, Josh earned the highest grade point average in his pledge class two years ago. Since then, he has served Kentucky Beta as SG and Greek activities chair.

Josh appreciates the financial assistance the award gives, but is even more thankful for the Fraternity's recognition of his hard work and dedication to academic and fraternal excellence.

George R. Hofmann Scholarship

Available only to members of New York Alpha, this scholarship is given in memory of George R. Hofmann, New York Alpha '14, to recognize superior achievement in scholarship and leadership within the chapter. Preference is given to seniors who will be attending graduate school.

Michael L. Echols

Well on his way to becoming a media mogul, Mike Echols, New York Alpha '91, is currently studying at the S. I. Newhouse School of Public Communications at Syracuse University. Even though he just graduated in May, Mike will have earned his M.S. in television & radio by the end of the Summer 1995 term.

While an undergraduate at Cornell, Mike served New York Alpha as chapter president, Phu, Homecoming committee chair, and as a member of the governing committee. He was also active on the campus swim team and worked as a communications department teaching assistant.

Ruddick C. Lawrence Public Service Award

The Fraternity's public service award honors Ruddick Lawrence, prominent businessman and long-time philanthropist who joined Phi Kappa Psi in 1931 while attending the University of Washington. The winner of the award receives $1,500; the runner-up receives $1,000.

Eric R. Hauck

Fluent in Spanish, Eric Hauck, Indiana Alpha '93, has regularly traveled to Mexico and Central America over the past few years, volunteering his time and talents to assist local organizations. He has also contributed 5-10 hours of community service each week during his tenure at DePauw, a stipulation of his Bonner Scholarship. Such scholars are also expected to volunteer a significant portion of their time each summer.

Eric is involved throughout campus, too, having been elected Indiana Alpha's chaplain and serving on the governing committee. He is a varsity soccer player and an impressive scholar with a 3.8 cumulative grade point average. After graduation, Eric hopes to continue his education at medical school.

David R. Boulware

The Boy Scouts of America have been lucky recipients of the energy and ability of David Boulware, Indiana Gamma '93. An Eagle Scout himself, David has served for the past six years as a counselor and director of a Boy Scout summer camp. Over the years, he has touched the lives of nearly 15,000 scouts, and that's what keeps him coming back year after year.

Now a junior at Wabash, Dave has served

Stephen T. Sullivan Jr.

Joshua T. Colvin

Michael L. Echols

Indiana Gamma as BG and finance committee chair (where last year he implemented a new, computerized accounting system for the chapter). He's active with the Glee Club, the cross country team, and the sailing club. After graduation, he would like to earn a combined Ph.D.-M.D. and practice medicine, eventually moving toward a career in medical research.

Philip M. Cornelius Scholarship

The children of Philip M. Cornelius, Indiana Beta '25 and a past national Fraternity President, have established a special fund in their father's name. In this, the award's second year, a $1,500 grant was made to an undergraduate Phi Psi with financial need, at least a 2.75 GPA, and obvious moral character and leadership skills.

Jason W. Bryant

Funds from the Philip Cornelius scholarship have allowed Jason Bryant, California Epsilon '93, to travel to London this year. He is studying at Queen Mary and Westfield College, a part of the University of London, continuing his pre-med studies and experiencing a very different culture than that of Los Angeles. Jason's love for the sport of rugby hasn't changed, though — he and his British counterparts play regularly.

Once he returns to UCLA, Jason will complete his senior year and continue on to medical school. He is currently looking to specialize in either pediatrics or family medicine, but will go wherever the need is greatest.

Mary Pickford-Rogers Memorial Scholarship

This $1,500 scholarship is presented through the generosity of Mary Pickford-Rogers' husband, actor Charles 'Buddy' Rogers, Kansas Alpha '23. This grant is intended to support the studies of a Phi Psi majoring in the performing or fine arts, music, dance, television, or journalism. The student may be either an undergraduate or a graduate student.

Bo Krabbe-Clausen

A Danish exchange student, Bo Krabbe-Clausen, Indiana Zeta '92, is committed to a career in television and film production. In just two years at Butler, Bo has produced a rush video specifically for Indiana Zeta and a series of AIDS public service announcements called "What Do You Know About AIDS?" that airs on WTBU, Butler's public television station. He also produces and directs Nuestra Musica, a Latin American music show, and works on other WTBU broadcasts.

On campus, he currently serves as president of the International Club and is an active volunteer at the Lutherwood Children's Home, the frequent recipient of volunteer efforts from Butler Phi Psis. After he leaves Butler, Bo hopes to pursue his MFA at a Los Angeles-area university, eventually breaking into the world of motion picture directing for a major studio.

Awards Program Information

Scholarship and grant application and information packets are mailed to chapter scholarship chairs each October and February. The deadline for application for the fall awards is December 15; the deadline for spring awards is April 15.

The Founders Fellowships, as many as six $2,000 grants awarded each spring, are specifically reserved for graduate student Phi Psis and may be applied for by any undergraduate or alumnus member in good standing who has been accepted at an accredited graduate or professional school. For more information, contact the Awards Program Coordinator at the Fraternity Headquarters: (317) 632-1852.

“...one giant leap for McMahan-kind”

by David R. Murray, Pennsylvania Gamma '91

An unrelenting equal opportunity advocate for the disabled, D. Bruce McMahan, California Delta '57, spends several weeks each year lobbying his cause before legislators and business officials. His daughter Cristina, who was born with cerebral palsy in 1970, has been the primary recipient of his beneficence, particularly through the National Cristina Foundation, which McMahan and Yvette Marrin, one of Cristina's teachers, established to bring technology's benefits to disabled people. But Bruce McMahan isn't a one-cause guy.

He's also an astute, successful, increasingly-influential businessman. His firm, McMahan Securities Co. LP, recently co-underwrote the first direct listing of a Chinese company on the New York Stock Exchange, a transaction McMahan initiated. Not bad, but it's even more impressive when you consider that the other two underwriters were financial-industry behemoths CS First Boston and Merrill Lynch & Co. All told, the $333 million initial stock offering brought McMahan's firm more than $1 million in fees.

His family and his business interests aside, however, Brother McMahan still has time for Phi Psi. At this summer's Grand Arch Council, he was elected as one of seven trustees who oversee the Fraternity's Endowment Fund. He admits that until recently, he hadn't thought about the Fraternity in decades. But upon reflection, he realized the significant role his Fraternity experience had on his life. "That realization reawakened an interest in me," he says. He started by returning for Homecoming several years ago, and from there his involvement has snowballed.

Phi Psis at the dinner table

Now that he's back in the Fraternity loop, Brother McMahan is meeting Phi Psis all over. At an early-November directors meeting of the National Committee on US-China relations, he was seated with some of the nation's top China experts. Surprisingly, former Pennsylvania Governor Raymond P. Shafer, Pennsylvania Beta '35, reached across the table and gave McMahan the grip. "I knew Shafer very well," says McMahan, "but I never knew he was a Phi Psi."

Governor Shafer then went on to introduce Harvard professor and China authority Michael C. Oksenberg, Pennsylvania Kappa '57, as another Phi Psi at McMahan and Shafer's table. Also seated at the table was former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who noted that during his years as a Phi Gam at UC Berkeley, Phi Psi was the brother fraternity to his chapter. "We all had something to do with Phi Psi," marvels McMahan.

Bruce McMahan arrived at USC in 1956 as a very green 16-year-old. He had left high school halfway through his junior year and hoped to move directly to college, provided he could pass USC's entrance exams. By the time he did, and registered for classes, it was three weeks into the semester and the middle of fraternity rush.

A Delta Tau Delta legacy, McMahan investigated several fraternities, but settled on Phi Psi. "It was their iconoclastic attitude that I liked," he says. "They were very supportive of me in my situation. I really needed a lot of scholastic help, help on the campus to get oriented, and so on. I generally found it to be a supportive and uplifting experience." McMahan also has fond memories of Ralph Haney, California Delta '27, then the chapter's sole advisor. "He personally took me under his wing to round off some of my rough spots," McMahan says. "I'll never forget him for that."

The Cristina connection

Amazingly, Brother McMahan's recent business success with the Chinese power company's stock offering can be traced to the early days of the National Cristina Foundation [NCF]. In 1980 and '81, McMahan was excited by the ways in which just-emerging personal computer technology could help people like his daughter communicate and learn more effectively.

Indeed, in interacting with a computer, Cristina blossomed, inspired by teacher Yvette Marrin (now president of NCF). "Cristina became more outgoing, more adventurous. She suddenly took interest in things," McMahan recalls. The NCF was created to act as a clearinghouse for businesses to donate used computers to grass-roots organizations and for those groups to share successful software applications.

Because of his success with the NCF, McMahan was asked in 1985 to join President Reagan's National Advisory Board on Technology and the Disabled, a group that one day received a letter from Deng Pufang, son of Deng Xiaoping, the paramount leader of China. Deng Pufang was paralyzed many years ago when Mao Zedong's Red Guard tried to kill him by throwing him out a window. Now, he heads China's organization to help the disabled and wanted to know more about implementing the NCF technology-acquisition model in China.

McMahan took the younger Deng's proposal to US and Chinese officials, who reacted with such alacrity and excitement that 10 days later, McMahan had been invited to Beijing. In 1986, an 11-member team of NCF board members and technical specialists took some equipment and flew to China. They spent three weeks staffing a demonstration center and answering scores of questions from fascinated Chinese. The NCF had its foothold in the Far East.

His entrée to China

While Brother McMahan has never made any money off the NCF, and doesn't use it to promote himself or his businesses, the contacts he made in China proved valuable. He began investing in China, and eventually found himself allied with the Huaneng Group, a multi-billion dollar conglomerate with 11 major subsidiaries in everything from eel-farming to power generation.

Huaneng and the Chinese government were looking for ways to expand US investment in China, and Brother McMahan had the answer. They'd privatize a Huaneng power generation company and sell shares of its stock on the open market. It would be the first Chinese company listed directly on the New York Stock Exchange. After 18 months of bickering and politicking within China, the deal was done.

So eight years after McMahan's first contact with the Chinese government, on June 27 of this year, the prospectus was registered with the US Securities and Exchange Commission. And right there on page one was the McMahan name, alongside the two big banks: CS First Boston and Merrill Lynch.

So much more to do

As you might guess, Bruce McMahan also doesn't plan to rest on his laurels. "We are developing additional projects in China to take advantage of that growing economy," he says. "And we're setting up an international direct investment fund that will take advantage of the ability to create market share in key sectors of the Chinese economy."

At the same time, the National Cristina Foundation continues to flourish in eight countries worldwide, especially in China where Deng Pufang's Chinese Disabled Persons Association now employs 28,000 and helps thousands more. NCF's namesake, McMahan's 24-year-old daughter, is currently enrolled at Santa Rosa (Calif.) Community College. She staffs the NCF booth at computer trade shows.

"We're in a time of massive change here," McMahan says about the current US and world culture, "and it's not that to change or not to change is a choice anymore. Change is going to come our way whether we like it or not." He concludes, "Change requires leadership because the directions for many people need to be pointed out by a few. I think that Phi Psi should be training the few who are going to be pointing that direction in the future." Apparently, it already has. ♦

ANCHORAGE ALUMNI CLUB

Editor's note: The following are excerpts from a letter received with the above photograph. The author is George R. Schmidt, New York Gamma '38.

Enclosed are a couple of snaps taken at our recent Founders Day banquet. Not many this first year, but it was a delightful evening. Fred Machetanz, Ohio Delta '27, had celebrated his 86th birthday a couple of weeks earlier. In spite of the generation gap (wide gap!), we got along famously. Fred told us of his first coming to Alaska in the '30s; I came in 1948. It turned out we knew a lot of people in common, as my work took me all over the Territory (State since '59). Kurt and Hugh were born, or at least raised, in Anchorage and had been classmates all through grammar and high school. As you know, Fred is Alaska's foremost living artist, and has a large, devoted following. That made the occasion quite an honor for the other three of us.

Both Fred and I were delighted with the 50 year certificates and pins. It was quite a surprise when Hugh brought them out. I'm looking forward to wearing the latter next year at the annual (we all hope) banquet.

ATLANTA ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Following the fantastic celebration of Founders Day in early March, with 43 brothers in attendance including the recognition of three brothers, all from Penn Gamma, who have passed the fifty-year mark as Phi Psis, the Atlanta Alumni Association has been hard at work to provide opportunities for all brothers. The steady growth of participation at the monthly luncheons (now held on the last Friday of every month) reflects an average attendance of 15 to 20, representing 12 to 15 different chapters. Under the direction of Bob Beal, West Virginia Alpha '49, our communication network with Phi Psis in the Atlanta area has been vastly improved. If you are not hearing from us, contact Flynn Brantley, South Carolina Alpha '72, at (404) 325-0595 to be added to our monthly mailing list.

In addition to the monthly luncheons, the brothers have enjoyed getting together for an annual pool party at the home of Liz and John Bair, Pennsylvania Epsilon '47, in August, and again on November 5 in Athens at the first annual Phi Psi Classic City Golf Tournament, organized by Craig Stephens, Ohio Delta

'65, and Jason Terry, Alabama Alpha '90, in conjunction with our Georgia Alpha chapter. We are proud of the efforts being made at Georgia Alpha, who left the GAC in Charleston with several high honors for chapter improvement and scholarship—congratulations to all.

If you missed these opportunities, be on the look out for our annual Holiday Kickoff Drop-In in early December, and also mark your calendar now for the grand Founders Day event, February 17, 1995; we anticipate at least 75 brothers this year. We may seem to be growing fast, but we are growing strong as well.

ARKANSAS ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Little Rock chapter of the Arkansas Alumni Association would like to welcome any Phi Psi alums living in the Central Arkansas area to join us for lunch the first Friday of each month. We will begin meeting at a new location: Bennigan's at 104 S. University in Little Rock at 11:30 a.m., starting on November 4, 1994.

New officers elected for the Alumni Association are as follows; all are Arkansas Alphans: President Alan Dobbins '81;

Maryland Alphans gather after their biennial pilgrimage to West Point, New York for the Johns Hopkins vs. Army lacrosse game.

ALUMNI GROUP NEWSLETTERS

Vice President Derrick Rose '84; Secretary Greg Garland '79; and Members-at-Large Dave Ferguson '83 and J. D. Crow '82.

The 1994 Founders Day was a big success and was held this year at Cock of the Walk in Maumelle. For the first time, alumni wives and girlfriends were able to attend. Our guest speaker was none other than brother David Evans, Kansas Alpha '42. Once again, Greg Garland was gracious enough to allow an after-dinner party to be held at his home. We will be making plans soon for the 1995 Founders Day and Golf Tournament, any suggestions and comments are welcome by calling Brother Dobbins at (501) 225-0050 or Brother Garland at (501) 221-1666.

We will begin a new newsletter for our alums soon with the help of the newly-elected officers. Please send any information on Arkansas Alpha alums or alums living in Arkansas to 21 Brooklawn Dr., Little Rock, AZ 72205.

CALIFORNIA DESERT ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The 1994 California Desert Phi Psi Alumni Association's Founders Day was a success. Many Phi Psis discovered neighbors, friends, and business associates who were also fellow Phi Psis.

Mack Lewis, Washington Alpha '44, celebrated his fifty-year anniversary as a Phi Psi and is still going strong. John Johnson contributed his accounting talents. Pharmaceutical sales were represented by Roger Martin and Chris Hodes. Del Cyr and Jim McKillen maintained their perfect attendance at the Desert Alumni Association's Founders Day celebrations.

John Ciccarelli from Northridge gave a great update on our Phi Kappa Psi national emphasis and direction. He has been active for many years since graduation, so he was very informative... and the news is positive!

The only weak spot was our singing talents... "Amici" and "Noble Fraternity" need some help, but the spirit was there! Perhaps next year we'll have some Phi Psis with singing talent. Contact me for more information: (619) 773-1082.

1992-94 Fraternity President Dick Ong models his 10-gallon gift from the North Texas Alumni Association, presented to him at the group's 1994 Founders Day festivities in Dallas.

CENTRAL JERSEY & SHORE ALUMNI ASSN.

Greetings from the Garden State! I am pleased to report that the club's membership has grown to include brothers from all New Jersey chapters and surrounding areas. For Founders Day, 35 of us gathered on the 20th of February for the third annual brunch. Elected as officers for the 1994-95 term were three New Jersey Deltans: President Christopher Hammer '91, Vice President/Treasurer Marc Baskin '90, and Secretary Mark Kadetsky '90.

Those in attendance included District I Archon Rob Garagiola, New Jersey Gamma '91, Tom Meisner, Pennsylvania Theta '68, Director of Membership and now Fraternity Secretary, and Bob Fives, New Jersey Alpha '90, who has been pursuing the goal of reorganizing a colony at Rider University.

Our plans for the summer included a visit to Yankee Stadium for Old Timers' Day in July, a summer barbeque, and a leadership retreat for undergraduates in August. If you would like to become a member of the Alumni Association, please contact me at 96 Gimbel Place, Ocean Township, NJ 07712 or call me at home: (908) 493-3784.

HIGH COUNTRY ALUMNI GROUP

We organized last Founders Day at a dinner held at the Prescott Country Club. We are now in a "planning to plan" stage. A current mailing list of brothers living in northern Arizona is being compiled. When completed, invitations to a luncheon will be sent to all.

Sedona is a midpoint for most living in the Flagstaff or Prescott areas. There are several brothers who live in Lake Havasu City and Bullhead City, both located on the Colorado River. We hope distance will not keep them from attending our luncheons and dinners. By the way, wives and/or significant others are always welcome at our festivities. Ideas and suggestions are welcome too. Contact C. L. Underwood, 10802 S. Singletree Tr., Dewey, AZ 86327 or call (602) 772-4119.

MARYLAND ALPHA ALUMNI GROUP

What happens every other year and is open only to Maryland Alphans? It's their biennial gathering for the Army vs. Hopkins Lacrosse Game at the U. S. Military Academy in West Point, New York. On April 9, 1994 twelve Maryland Alphans and eight wives met along the Hudson for the seventh time in 14 years. Previous reunions have ranged in attendance from seven to 20, but all have been attended by John Defandorf '52, the originator of the idea, and Ed Hahn '54, our local host and arranger.

ALUMNI GROUP NEWLETTERS

A pattern has developed over the years: most travel on Saturday morning and gather in the parking lot at Michie Stadium for a tailgate lunch. Off to the game at 4 p.m., where we sit as a group with a contingent of the Blue Jay Band. The Blue Jay Stickmen are usually victorious, this year's score was Hopkins 15, Army 8. Then we gather at a local motel where rooms have been reserved for a victory celebration! Of course, reliving college days is high on the agenda also. Dinner at a local restaurant follows and then the reunioning continues.

The next morning, we gather for breakfast and make our fond farewells. But we all promise to be back two years hence. Some attend church services at the West Point Chapel before returning home. There is something very special about the feelings this group of brothers from Maryland Alpha has for each other. It keeps us coming back every second year to renew the friendships started so many years ago!

NORCAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

For the last six months, the NorCal Alumni Association has been spending most of its efforts supporting the local chapters. The majority of this time has been spent looking into the feasibility of reestablishing the California Gamma Chapter at UC Berkeley. The remainder of the time has been used to help the undergraduates at California Beta increase the number of pledges. I am happy to report that the students have done a superb job and the chapter continues to strengthen its membership.

As for Cal Gamma, the road back will not be easy. Currently the Greek system on campus is having great difficulty attracting members and many chapters have had to close. This situation has caused us to reevaluate the manner in which Phi Psi should position itself on campus. A group of Cal Gammans, including Ken Perscheid '78, Mat Lorence '78, Terry Horn '67, Hal Sonte '59, and Jim Williams '78 have been working to understand how to restart the chapter so that it will remain strong and viable for many years to come.

An area where each of our alumni can help is with the names of Phi Psi legacies who are currently attending the University of California at Berkeley. These men could be the nucleus for restarting the Cal Gamma chapter. In addition, we always welcome your recommendations of men who may be interested in joining our Fraternity. Please contact Jim Williams at (707) 935-7237 work or (707) 765-5629 home if you wish to recommend someone.

Upcoming events: Big Game Luncheon at John's Bar & Grill on Nov. 18, 1994; Founders Day at Gordon Biersh in San Francisco on Feb. 18, 1995; Golf Tournament at Alameda Municipal Golf Course in May 1995.

SAN DIEGO ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The Alumni Association's recent goal has been to support the fledgling group of California Lambda colony members at San Diego State University. We do so in a variety of ways, including quarterly luncheons, annual strategic planning sessions, tailgate parties at the home football games, colony vs. alumni softball games, and a host of other social activities. The Alumni Association worked hand in hand with the colony in putting on a successful, albeit relatively modest, Founders Day celebration this past year... and plans are already underway for 1995. We have a very strong alumnus in Monte Wise, Colorado Alpha '88, who has stepped up to serve, along with W. Scott Kelley, Indiana Beta '87, as colony advisors.

For its part, the colony has identified the challenges that remain for it prior to chartering, and a definitive plan of action has been adopted. Colony AG Patrick E. Zacharias reports that the members are focusing on three goals: scholarship, membership, and community service. Suggestions for success in those areas were gathered by colony members present at the Grand Arch Council this summer in Charleston.

All of us who are active in the Association are excited by the prospect of the colony earning its charter and are encouraged by the members' speedy progress towards that goal. The process has been a lot of fun and we are all anticipating great results shortly. Any other alumni in the San Diego area who would like to take part should contact me at (619) 595-4282. You will definitely benefit from getting involved. There's great interfraternal fellowship, as well as the opportunity to be of service to your Fraternity in a very tangible way — providing much-needed assistance to the colony.

WESTERN NEW YORK ALUMNI ASSN.

The Western New York Alumni Association celebrated the University at Buffalo Homecoming this past October 8th with a Pig Roast, and the UB Bulls blessed us all with a win over Colgate, 27-17. Fun was had by all. We also sponsored a 4th of July picnic this year. Founder's Day weekend is scheduled for February 17-19, 1995 with many events planned. It's sure to be a good time. Any ideas or suggestions may be directed to Mark Vroblefski at (716) 839-0585.

BRADFORD B. LAIDLEY West Virginia Alpha '11

Considered for many years the oldest living Phi Psi, Brad Laidley died September 26, 1994 near his lifelong home in Morgantown, WV.

Initiated in 1911 while William Howard Taft was president of the United States, Brother Laidley attended his first GAC in Cleveland in 1914. He was initiated into the Ancient Order of the S.C. at the 1968 Grand Arch Council.

His funeral was attended by former national Fraternity President Robert E. Lazzell, West Virginia Alpha '42 and current President David L. Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61.

LT. GEN. GLEN W. MARTIN, USAF (RET.) Indiana Delta '35

Brother Martin died June 23, 1994 in San Antonio, Texas, after a battle with cancer. A career military man, Martin started early, graduating from Purdue in 1937 as ROTC Corps Commander. He joined the Army Air Corps in 1939 as the nation began to prepare for World War II.

He was first stationed in San Antonio as a flight instructor, and there met and married his wife of 51 years. He flew B-17 and B-29 aircraft throughout the U.S., Europe, and Asia.

As the Air Force became a separate service, General Martin served as the assistant executive, and then as executive officer, to the first and second Secretaries of the Air Force. Through the rest of his career, he was entrusted with many critical assignments, culminating in his position of Vice Commander-in-Chief of the Strategic Air Command.

Brother Martin retired from his Air Force career in 1973. In his leisure time, he wrote a regular column for the local newspaper, and devoted the years after 1985 to caring for his wife after she suffered a severe stroke. She died in 1993. Brother Martin is survived by two sons and three grandchildren.

ADAM DOUGLAS BRODY New York Theta '92

A charter member of New York Theta at Rochester Institute of Technology, Adam Brody died Saturday, October 29, after falling six stories from a hotel balcony. He was standing on the balcony while a friend, Joseph Castillo, not a Phi Psi, sat on the railing. When Joseph began to fall backwards off the edge, Adam grabbed for Joseph in an attempt to save him. The two young men fell together. Adam broke his friend's fall, but was killed instantly. Joseph survived and is beginning the long process of rehabilitation.

The Fraternity's Burial Ritual was performed at Brother Brody's funeral. Memorial contributions are being solicited: contact Toby Metcalf, New York Theta '92, at (617) 787-6133.

◆ President's Message

Re-examining Phi Kappa Psi

A massive effort is underway to improve the Fraternity at all levels

Dear Brothers,

Phi Kappa Psi membership is not an event that is attained at a certain point in life and then the individual moves beyond. Rather, Phi Kappa Psi is a life-long combination of individual and collective experiences that allows the individual participants to grow and flourish.

With that as a preamble, Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity has launched a massive effort to re-examine itself from every aspect in an attempt to build a Fraternity that will actuate the values and ideals of our Founders. Elsewhere in this issue of The Shield is a re-statement of the essence of Phi Kappa Psi's values and ideals into contemporary terms. This re-statement does not replace The Ritual or any of the various works of the Fraternity that are in current use. Rather, it is intended to assist alumni, undergraduates, pledges and prospective pledges to cope in today's complex environment. David McDonald, Wisconsin Gamma '81, the Fraternity's Mystagogue and Flynn Brantley, South Carolina Alpha '72, the Fraternity's Chaplain, co-authored this work. Although the statement is brief in length, every word was examined by the Fraternity's leadership before adoption.

The re-examination of Phi Kappa Psi has been divided into four tasks:

Ethics, Values, and The Ritual - Among the activities within the task are: An analysis of the Fraternity Education program including an analysis of The Manual of Phi Kappa Psi; development of statements of mutual expectations of the Fraternity and chapter with the pledge, undergraduate and alumnus; a review of the need for a memorial service for individual Fraternity members; a complete review of The Ritual in preparation for submission to the 1996 Grand Arch Council; and the review of the Fraternity's Constitution, Bylaws and Rules;

Role of the National Fraternity - Among the areas to be examined are: The role of the National Fraternity vis á vis its relationship to the individual chapters; housing; communication; and the Education Leadership Consultant program. Already completed and instituted is an audit of the Fraternity publication The Areopagus, which is sent to the Fraternity's undergraduate leadership. Mike McCoy, Indiana Beta '58, completed the communications audit assignment;

Fund Raising - Greg Knapp, Illinois Delta '72 (Rhode Island Alpha '71), Fraternity Vice President, has launched the second phase of the Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi with the development of a work plan. Close cooperation between the Fraternity and the Endowment Fund Trustees and a coordinator approach is the linchpin to this effort. A series of luncheons and meetings will be launched nationwide during the spring and summer of this year. Dick Ong, Oregon Beta '55, Past National President and Endowment Fund Trustee, is heavily involved;

Membership - The areas to be examined and re-crafted are: Membership standards, chapter extension, rushing, membership retention, programming for the chapter, membership services, the Fraternity's recognition program, leadership development at the chapter level, scholarship, alumni and information services. In addition, a Sesquicentennial Commission has been impaneled.

The intended output of this re-examination effort is "that members of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity will develop lifelong, meaningful relationships that enrich society and improve the quality of life." Results of individual work within this framework will be reported to you.

In closing, I wish to commend the current Archons whose terms will expire at the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School. Robert J. Garagiola, New Jersey Gamma '91; Brian D. Bontempo, Pennsylvania Gamma '91; Kurt C. Knackstedt, Indiana Beta '91; Jerome F. Diskin, Virginia Zeta '92; Daniel H. Canova, Iowa Beta '91; and Gregory D. Blackwood, California Beta '91, have served their Fraternity well. This has been the most well-balanced, involved Archonate in a long time. Thank you for a job "well done."

Fraternally,

David L. Woodrum
West Virginia Alpha '61

P.S. Don't forget to attend the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School and District Councils at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, July 19-23, 1995.

Phi Kappa Psi: Shaping Men to Shape the Future

by Flynn E. Brantley, South Carolina Alpha '72
and Rev. David M. McDonald, Wisconsin Gamma '82

Editor's Note: The first task in the Continuum of Development, the Executive Council's work plan for the biennium, was to create a definition of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity in contemporary terms. The sum of the essence of The Ritual plus how it is applied daily by the members in today's environment defines that which is Phi Kappa Psi. The essay that follows was adopted by the Executive Council on January 1, 1995 as the cornerstone of its work throughout the biennium.

Historically, American colleges and universities came into existence for the purpose of preparing men for the ministry and for other professions. Initially, these men would return to their hometowns to begin their careers, frequently remaining among their family and friends for their entire lives. In time, this pattern changed, and with that change, the nature of collegiate life also changed. In 1852, on a western Pennsylvania campus, two young men, William Henry Letterman and Charles Page Thomas Moore, realized the need for an organization that fostered the development of a complete individual, balancing the intellectual, the social and the spiritual aspects of life. Having survived a typhoid epidemic, Letterman and Moore formed a special bond and founded the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, a social fraternity, with the idea that instilling the principles of balance during the years of education would provide an opportunity to serve the community of the present and the future. Today, Phi Kappa Psi upholds those same ideals: academic excellence; active and compassionate participation in the community; and commitment to faith.

Scholarship lies, of necessity, as the cornerstone for the Fraternity. With the tradition of undergraduate control in the governance of Phi Kappa Psi, members must demonstrate higher-than-average academic performance. Recruitment of young men who are scholars (as well as those who have yet to realize that potential), the retention of those individuals in the Fraternity and the recognition of academic excellence are integral to our purpose. In arts and sciences, in business and various professional fields, Phi Kappa Psi acknowledges the wealth of contributions made by those who continue to strive for excellence.

Interpersonal relations is an ever-increasing challenge to be faced. After defining ourselves individually, we then must determine our role of interaction with others. While rules of etiquette seem antiquated, simple courtesy and consideration for others rarely give offense. Dogmatic positions on socially acceptable behavior tend to restrict what should emerge from a solid foundation of value and beliefs. As a social fraternity, Phi Kappa Psi enjoys the full range of activities that are available, but participation must be moderated to avoid action that leads to the detriments of the individual or of the community. Our commitment to ourselves and to one another is to be responsible and accountable for our conduct, aware of the diversity within our own brotherhood and in the world and appreciative of the new perspectives that can be gained from that diversity. Honor, integrity, courtesy and compassion must be more than recited words: They must be embodied in our very actions, in our very selves.

Another area of challenge to Phi Kappa Psi has been the issue of religious belief. While decidedly Christian in its origins and values, the Fraternity imposes no specific doctrine, but rather acknowledges the personal nature of belief and seeks to encourage that belief, in confidence that such faith provides the basis for balance. The texture of our brotherhood is enriched and strengthened by such variety, providing new insights into ourselves and our world. The result is not compromised position of belief, but rather an interweaving of commitment to a being greater than ourselves.

As Phi Kappa Psi approaches its 150th year, we can look back upon a heritage of honorable men who have been our brothers-men who have shaped our present world. Traditions abound in Phi Kappa Psi, but "we are linked to tradition, not bound by it." Our best years are in the present and future, shaping the lives of young men in a brotherhood that is based on scholarship, attuned to the principles of our founders and guided always by the eternal truths of our faith. ◆

ADVISOR PROFILES

Alabama Alpha '68

Jay has been involved with the Alabama Alpha Chapter since 1976 as the Chapter Advisor. From time to time he has also participated on the board for the Alumni Corporation. Jay's involvement at the National level includes attendance at 10 GACs, membership in the Order of the SC, attendee at several of the Woodrow Wilson Leadership Schools and part of the Chapter Advisor Outreach program.

Jay's professional life has been as the Assistant Oil & Gas Supervisor for the Alabama Oil & Gas Board for the past 20 years. In his spare time, he enjoys playing tennis, being involved with the First Methodist Church, participates on the board of the local country club and is Chairman of the John F. Ramsey (California Gamma '28), Scholarship Fund at the University of Alabama. Jay has been married to his wife, Sally, for the past 20 years. They have one son, John, age 9. Between family, community involvement and Phi Psi, Jay keeps rather busy.

Jay stays involved with advising because he enjoys working with undergraduates. He enjoys watching the men grow and mature from experiences had as undergraduate members. Alabama Alpha was one of the first chapters to utilize the Chapter Advisory Committee concept. Jay was a tremendous help in assisting the Fraternity develop the program. Jay feels that "the team advising is of more assistance to the chapter than just one advisor." Other members of Alabama Alpha's Chapter Advisory Committee include James Newman, '88, Fraternity Education Counselor; Rusty Spruell, '88, Finance Counselor; Jeremy Norrell, '88, Membership Counselor; Bart Patrick, '91, Greek Relations; and David Miller, '87, Alumni Relations.

GREGG C. WADDILL III
Texas Alpha '64

Gregg's involvement as a leader with Texas Alpha began as an undergraduate when he served as Treasurer during a very difficult time. He continued his involvement while in law school and has been well-informed over the years.

In 1988, while living in Florida, Gregg became one of the initial supporters of a capital campaign to provide a strong financial future for the chapter. In August, 1993, he moved back to Austin and became aware of the need for more involvement and organization on the part of alumni. After working with the alumni during the next two years, it became evident in September of 1995 that financial difficulties within the chapter had brought about the need for a Supervisory Committee. With the assistance of several alumni, an Advisory Committee has also been formed to work with the undergraduates in the areas of rush, Fraternity Education, financial management and overall leadership.

Gregg currently serves as House Corporation President, President of the Texas Alpha Endowment, Chairman of the Supervisory Committee and Chapter Advisor. The increased alumni involvement and supervision has put the chapter on the road to recovery. At the 1995 Founders Day celebration, Gregg was awarded the Outstanding Alumnus award from the undergraduates, an honor he feels reflects the supportive relationship he enjoys with the undergraduate members.

Currently the legal counsel for Healthcare America in Austin, Texas, Gregg is a member of the Texas Bar and holds insurance licenses for property, casualty, life, and health lines. When he isn't spending time working with Texas Alpha, he enjoys the company of his children. His two sons, ages 16 and 11, are involved with all types of sports which occupy a lot of Gregg's free time. His hobbies include sailing and scuba diving.

By working with the officers to develop a strategic plan, Texas Alpha is moving forward. Future changes for the group include a house mother and a functioning commissary. Gregg summarizes alumni involvement in this way: "We are building a new culture at Texas Alpha, one that looks to the brothers to take responsibility and to be held accountable for their actions, chapter operation and overall house maintenance. One that invites the pledges to participate and enjoy, not do all the work. Phi Psi is still relevant to all of us, not just undergraduates." Gregg feels the challenge for the Fraternity is to find avenues for alumni involvement and participation other than just giving money. He takes a hands-on approach to risk management by being involved.

E.C. Approves New Program Initiatives

by Terry Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85
Executive Director

Action! That was the operative word at the spring meeting of the Executive Council that took place on March 4, 1995, at the Newport Beach Marriott Hotel in Orange County, California. Armed with an agenda the size of the New York City Yellow Pages, the Executive Council spent the better part of a Saturday reviewing and adopting several new initiatives for the Fraternity.

CHAPTER STANDARDS ADOPTED

Chief among those new initiatives was the adoption of a set of minimum standards for Phi Psi chapters. The Chapter Standards cover eleven basic areas of chapter and Fraternity life, from The Ritual and academic excellence to finances and community service (see inset). A self-survey was also adopted for chapters to complete to determine which areas of the chapter need to be improved. A handful of chapters are being selected now to participate in a pilot program with the Chapter Standards. The pilot program will allow the Executive Council to tweak and fine-tune the standards and survey prior to Fraternity-wide implementation later this year. Director of Membership John V. Ciccarelli, California Theta '72, who chaired the committee that drafted the standards, said, "The Fraternity finally has a program that gives chapters clear guidance on what Phi Kappa Psi expects of her chapters. The Chapter Standards and Self Survey will highlight a chapter's strengths and where improvement is needed."

An accreditation program is currently on the drawing board and will be presented to the Executive Council later in the biennium. The basic concept is that the Chapter Standards will be used to encourage each chapter to excel in all areas of chapter management and operations. Using the self survey and an accreditation team made up of volunteers and staff, each chapter will be classified as having met minimum standards, exceeding minimum standards or achieve below standards. Chapters meeting minimum standards would be notified that they are in good standing while chapters that exceed the standards would receive special recognition. Chapters falling below minimum standards would develop a plan for corrective action with a timeline for completion and subsequent visit from the accreditation team. The accreditation program will undergo testing in the field prior to full-blown implementation.

NEW ARCHON APPOINTED

Matthew J. Shaw, California Kappa '93, became the new Archon of District VI, filling a vacancy created by the departure of Archon Gregory D. Blackwood, California Beta '91, from the District. A 1994 graduate of Stanford University, Blackwood moved to Georgia in January to pursue career interests. In accordance with Fraternity Law, a vacancy in the office was declared by the Executive Council. Shaw was already serving as Deputy Archon for District VI and was recommended by Blackwood to complete the unexpired term. Shaw will serve as Archon through the 1995 Woodrow Wilson Leadership School and District Councils to be held July 19-23 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

THREE CHAPTERS CLOSED

The Executive Council reluctantly suspended the charters of three chapters during the meeting: California Theta at the California State University, Northridge; California Iota at the University of California, Davis; and New Jersey Gamma at Rutgers University. The suspensions of all three chapters were made at the request of the undergraduate chapters themselves and was not done for any specific incident. In all three cases, low membership was the driving force behind the closures. Unable to attract sufficient numbers of new members, the chapters could not to maintain viable organizations. It is hoped that the chapters can be reinstated at some point in the near future. Said Fraternity President David L. Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61, "It is always regrettable when a chapter has to close, but sometimes the best approach is to cease operations for a few years and come back with renewed enthusiasm on the part of the alumni and the Executive Council."

CAL GAMMA TO RETURN

Alumni of the California Gamma Chapter at the University of California, Berkeley attended the Executive Council meeting and announced plans for the reorganization of the chapter. The alumni in Northern California have been busy since the chapter was closed in 1991 due to low numbers, and an alumni advisory committee has been formed. The house corporation is being reactivated and ads have been placed in the campus newspaper to attract Phi Psis who have transferred to Cal and legacies who may be interested in joining the chapter. A full-blown recruitment effort by the Fraternity staff will take place later this year.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE STRESSED

Dr. Thomas D. Myers, Ohio Zeta '58, Director of Scholarship and Vice President for Student Affairs at Eastern Kentucky University, presented some new scholarship initiatives to the Council. Two new brochures are currently under development and will be in the hands of the undergraduates in the next few weeks. The first brochure talks in general about Phi Kappa Psi's commitment to academic excellence while the second brochure will be geared to chapter scholarship chairmen with ideas for improving a chapter's overall academic standing. Additionally, a scholarship track is being developed for use at regional leadership conferences. Said Myers, "Academic excellence must remain at the forefront of all we, as Phi Psis, do. Fraternity life must complement the missions of our host institutions, not detract from it."

CONTINUUM OF DEVELOPMENT

The Continuum of Development referenced in the President's Message on page two of this issue was reviewed thoroughly by the Council. Reports were received from committees working on the following areas: Values, Ethics and Standards; Fraternity Education; Chapter Housing; the aforementioned Chapter Standards and Self Survey; Extension; Member Recruitment; Membership Services; and the Fraternity's Sesquicentennial Anniversary. A revised extension policy was adopted by the Executive Council that better defines Phi Psi's criteria for expansion and guidelines for earning a chapter charter. A new model Fraternity Education program will be presented at the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School this summer.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

All meetings of the Executive Council are open to any initiated member of the Fraternity. The spring meeting of the Executive Council was special in this respect as four of Phi Psis past presidents donned their past president's medallions and gave up a sunny California day to sit in with the Council. J. Kenneth Potter, Ohio Alpha '51, President from 1976-1978; George W. Humphries, Oregon Alpha '50, 1984-1986; J. Robert Meserve, California Beta '34, 1988-1990; and Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55, 1992-1994, joined in the deliberations. In addition to the past presidents, a number of area alumni and undergraduates were in attendance, some dropping by for a few hours, some staying for the duration.

Minutes from any meeting of the Executive Council are available to any member from the Fraternity Headquarters upon request. In accordance with Fraternity Law, the minutes are mailed to all chapters, chapter advisors, and house corporations. The next regular meeting of the Executive Council will take place on Wednesday, July 19, 1995, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. ♦

ANNUAL MEETING NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc., will be held at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 20, 1995, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, exact location to be determined.

The purpose of the meeting is to transact the business of the Fraternity as required by its articles of incorporation and the Indiana Nonprofit Corporation Act.

Thomas D. Meisner, Secretary

CHAPTERS STANDARDS

I. The Ritual

Each chapter should strive to live up to the lofty ideals of Founders William Henry Letterman and Charles Page Thomas Moore as presented in The Ritual of Phi Kappa Psi.

II. Scholarship

In accordance with Fraternity Law, each chapter shall maintain a collective grade point average equal to or better than the all-men's average for its particular campus, or the equivalent of a 2.5 on a 4.0 scale, whichever is higher. Except in exceptional circumstances, each chapter officer should meet personally the standard for chapters.

III. Membership

Each chapter should strive to maintain a minimum number of members and pledges at least equal to the campus average of all men's fraternities, or 35, whichever is higher.

IV. Community Involvement

Each chapter should strive to maintain a strong presence on campus and in the community through programs and endeavors that stress personal commitment to and contact with the surrounding community.

V. Chapter Operations

Each chapter should strive to maintain a strong internal organization capable of perpetuating itself in the best Phi Psi tradition.

VI. Fraternity Education

Each chapter shall conduct a Fraternity Education program of the highest caliber that stresses assimilation and tradition.

VII. Financial Management

Each chapter shall strive to maintain a sound financial position.

VIII. Alumni Involvement

Each chapter shall recruit an active chapter advisor, faculty advisor and chapter advisory committee. Each chapter should seek to involve as many local alumni as are willing to lend assistance. Each chapter should strive to maintain regular contact with its alumni.

IX. Housing and Alumni Corporation

Each chapter should strive to maintain adequate and competitive housing relative to its particular campus. Regardless of housing status, each chapter shall, in accordance with Fraternity Law, have a legal alumni corporation in existence for the benefit of the chapter.

X. Risk Management

Each chapter shall ensure the safety and well-being of all of its members and guests through a sound program of risk management and physical plant maintenance.

XI. Code of Conduct

Each chapter shall develop a code of conduct and member expectations for its members. These rules of conduct and expectations should complement these Chapter Standards.

ALUMNI SUPPORT PROGRAM

For Gifts Received Between March 1 and December 31, 1994

We gratefully acknowledge the following members and friends who contributed to the Fraternity through the Endowment Fund's Alumni Support Program during the 1994 giving year. To appear in the list below, an individual must have made a gift during the giving year. The giving year was shortened three months this year as the Fund moved in sync with the calendar year. An individual's giving category, however, reflects the sum of all his gifts since the program's inception.

Contributions to the Alumni Support Program help strengthen our chapters, provide leadership training for undergraduates and alumni and provide vital funding for programs like the Educational Leadership Consultants and the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School. Gifts to the Endowment Fund, classified by the Internal Revenue Service as a 501(c)(3) educational foundation, are fully tax deductible to the extent allowable by law.

Donors to other Endowment Fund programs are listed elsewhere in this issue.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR PHI KAPPA PSI

Recognizing Gifts Made Through December 31, 1994

Brothers Helping Brothers: The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi is an ongoing capital campaign with a total dollar goal of $7 million to be raised by the 1996 Grand Arch Council. The campaign was detailed in the March 1994 issue of The Shield and includes among its many goals additional funding for scholarships and awards, extensive leadership development, chapter housing assistance and educational computer technology for chapters.

To date, more than $4.7 million of the $7 million goal has been donated or pledged. We are tremendously grateful for the magnanimity of the brothers listed below, as their gifts to the Endowment Fund will help perpetuate the Fraternity through the next century and beyond.

If you would like additional information on how you can participate in the Campaign, please contact Executive Director Terry Harper at the Fraternity Headquarters, 510 Lockerbie St., Indianapolis, Indiana 46202, (317) 632-1852.

Note: A planned gift is indicated by a cross(†).

SPECIAL MATCHING GIFT CHALLENGE

Near the end of 1994, an anonymous donor emerged with a challenge for Phi Kappa Psi: A dollar for dollar match of all "new" contributions before the end of the calendar year up to $100,000. Alumni Support Program gifts and existing Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi commitments were excluded. All gifts in response to the challenge had to be unrestricted. The brothers listed below responded to the call by donating nearly $44,000 in just a few weeks.

Combined with the anonymous donor's gift, an additional $87,600 was added to the Endowment Fund's unrestricted fund. Income from these additional funds will be used to support vital educational programs of the Fraternity and the Endowment Fund's scholarship and awards program.

The Fraternity is very grateful to those brothers who dug deep and made an extra gift to the Endowment Fund in 1994.

THE CALIFORNIA EPSILON SCHOLARSHIP FUND

In 1993, alumni and undergraduates of the California Epsilon Chapter at the University of California, Los Angeles decided they wanted to set up a special scholarship fund within the Endowment Fund that would provide scholarships and grants in perpetuity to deserving members of Cal Epsilon. To date, the brothers listed below have contributed more than $200,000 this special fund.

Each and every chapter in Phi Kappa Psi is encouraged to create a similar fund within the Endowment Fund. Unlike gifts made directly to a chapter, gifts to the Endowment Fund are tax deductible. Typically, a committee of alumni will be established to recommend award winners to the Endowment Fund Trustees.

For complete details on how to set up a Chapter Scholarship Fund, contact Executive Director Terry Harper at the Fraternity Headquarters, 510 Lockerbie Street, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202, (317) 632-1852.

◆ Endowment Fund Update

Matching Funds Made Available for Chapter Scholarship Funds

The Trustees of the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc., are pleased to announce that an anonymous donor has made $100,000 available in matching funds to encourage chapters to start their own chapter-specific scholarship funds within the Endowment Fund.

The Chapter Scholarship Fund is a relatively new program of the Endowment Fund that allows donors to restrict their gifts to the benefit of a particular chapter. Each year, the Trustees of the Endowment Fund will designate a portion of the total value of the Chapter Scholarship Fund, typically about five percent, that will be made available for scholarships and awards. A committee of alumni from the chapter will be established to make recommendations for scholarships to the Trustees.

As with all restricted gifts, the Endowment Fund receives five percent of each donation and ten percent of the annual income for unrestricted use.

Based on a chapter's current size and strength, $30,000 are available on a $1 for $2 match; $30,000 are available on a $1 for $1 match; and $40,000 are available on a $2 for $1 match. Information and eligibility requirements were mailed to all chapters, chapter advisors and house corporation presidents in mid-March. Given the limited amount of funds available, only the first several chapters to respond will receive matching funds. In the two-for-one category, up to 12 chapters can qualify; in the one-for-one category, up to six chapters can qualify; and in the two-for-one category, up to four chapters can qualify.

Here's how the program works: Once the chapter has determined that it wants to participate, it has until December 31, 1995, to raise a minimum of $5,000 in gifts made payable to the Endowment Fund of Phi Kappa Psi. Chapter are encouraged to solicit parents, alumni or even earmark a portion of the chapter's dues for the program. Parents and alumni will be glad to know that, since their gift is received by the Endowment Fund, the gifts are fully tax deductible to the extent allowable by law. Chapters have been instructed not to cash any donations, but forward them directly to the Fraternity Headquarters to the attention of the Executive Director. An acknowledgment will be sent by the Endowment Fund to each individual donor. Matching funds are available on the first $5,000 only. It is expected that chapters will conduct additional fund raising activities on a regular basis to continually increase the size of its Chapter Scholarship Fund.

For more information, or to receive a copy of the policies and procedures governing the Chapter Scholarship Fund program, please contact Executive Director Terry Harper at the Fraternity Headquarters, 510 Lockerbie St., Indianapolis, Indiana 46202, or call (317) 632-1852, ext. 12. ◆

Share the Benefits of a Greek Experience

- Do you know any college-bound students who would value a Greek experience?
- Do they have the information they need to consider joining?
- Have you recommended them to your chapter or to your fraternity?

You can provide these students and their parents with an information kit designed to answer all the questions they might have about Greek Life.

This Greek Life information kit contains a 7-minute fast-paced Greek life overview video entitled Where Friends Become Family and information brochures for prospective members and their parents.

Each kit costs only $10 including shipping and can be ordered today for immediate delivery by calling the National Interfraternity Conference at 317-872-1112.

Willis Lyle "Casey" Jones, the 33rd President of Phi Kappa Psi, joined the Chapter Eternal on January 8, 1995. Brother Jones also served as District III Archon, Attorney General, and Vice President before being elected SWGP at the 1954 Grand Arch Council in Atlantic City. A member of the Ancient Order of the S.C., Jones attended 28 Grand Arch Councils between 1928 and 1988. Jones remained active at West Virginia Alpha, serving on the house corporation until his death. In civilian life, Jones was a senior partner in the Clarksburg, West Virginia law firm of Jones, Williams, West, and Jones. He also served on the West Virginia State Court of Claims. He is survived by his wife, Jean, two daughters, one son, one step-daughter, and two-stepsons, one of whom is a member of West Virginia Alpha, John R. Fowler, '61.

Dr. John W. Oswald

Indiana Alpha '35

Dr. John W. Oswald, President Emeritus of the Pennsylvania State University and former President of the University of Kentucky, died at his Philadelphia home on February 1, 1995. He was 77. An All-American athlete at DePauw and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Oswald served in the Navy before beginning his distinguished career in higher education. A plant pathologist by training, Oswald rose through the ranks in the University of California system before being appointed as the sixth president of the University of Kentucky in 1963, a post he held for five years. He returned to the University of California system in 1968 before accepting the presidency at the Pennsylvania State University in 1970. He retired in 1983, but continued as President Emeritus until his death. Oswald was a longtime member of the Endowment Fund's Scholarship and Awards Committee and served a six-year term as a Permanent Fund Trustee from 1988-1994. He is survived by his wife, Rose, two daughters, and a Phi Psi son, John Jr., New York Alpha '75.

George W. Veale IV

Ohio Epsilon '41

George W. Veale IV, retired senior vice president of the Alco Standard Corp., died on January 31, 1995, at the age of 72. Brother Veale was at Alco Standard for 32 years, beginning his career there as an engineer. In addition to being a veteran of World War II, Veale served as a Trustee of Lynchburg College in Virginia. A long-time supporter of the Fraternity and Endowment Fund, Brother Veale was a member of the President's Forum recognizing his nearly $20,000 in gifts to the Fund. Brother Veale was also a contributor to the Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi, the Fraternity and Endowment Fund's capital fund drive. He is survived by his wife, Gloria, two sons, a sister, and a Phi Psi brother, Tinkham Veale II, Ohio Epsilon '34.

FRATERNITY INSURANCE PURCHASING GROUP (FIPG) RISK MANAGEMENT POLICY

The Risk Management Policy of the Fraternity Insurance Purchasing Group included the provisions which follow and shall apply to all fraternity entities and all levels of fraternity membership.

ALCOHOL AND DRUGS

The possession, sale, use and/or consumption of ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES, while on chapter premises, during an official fraternity event, in any situation sponsored or endorsed by the chapter, or at any event an observer would associate with the fraternity, must be in compliance with any and all applicable laws of the state, province, county, city and institution of higher education.

No alcoholic beverages may be purchased through the chapter treasury, nor may the purchase of same for members or guests be undertaken or coordinated by any member in the name of or on behalf of the chapter. The purchase and/or use of a bulk quantity of such alcoholic beverages, e.g., kegs, is prohibited.

No chapter members, collectively or individually, shall purchase for, serve to, or sell alcoholic beverages to any minor (i.e., those under legal "drinking age").

The possession, sale, and/or use of any ILLEGAL DRUGS or CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES at any chapter house, sponsored event, or at any event that an observer would associate with the fraternity, is strictly prohibited.

No chapter may co-sponsor an event with an alcohol distributor, charitable organization, or tavern (tavern defined as an establishment generating more than half of annual gross sales from alcohol) where alcohol is given away, sold, or otherwise provided to those present.

No chapter may co-sponsor or co-finance a function where alcohol is purchased by any of the host chapters, groups, or organizations.

All rush activities associated with any chapter will be a DRY rush function.

OPEN PARTIES, meaning those with unrestricted access by non-members of the fraternity without specific invitation, where alcohol is present, shall be prohibited.

No member shall permit, tolerate, encourage, or participate in "drinking games."

No alcohol shall be present at any pledge/associate member/novice program or activity of the chapter.

HAZING

No chapter shall conduct hazing activities. Hazing activities are defined as:

"Any action taken or situation created, intentionally, whether on or off fraternity premises, to produce mental or physical discomfort, embarrassment, harassment, or ridicule. Such activities may include, but are not limited to the following: use of alcohol; paddling in any form; creation of excessive fatigue; physical and psychological shocks; quests, treasure hunts, scavenger hunts, road trips, or any other such activities carried on outside or inside of the confines of the chapter house; wearing of public apparel which is conspicuous and not normally in good taste; engaging in public stunts and buffoonery; morally degrading or humiliating games and activities; and any other activities which are not consistent with fraternal law, ritual or policy, or the regulations and policies of the educational institution."

SEXUAL ABUSE

The fraternity will not condone any form of sexually abusive behavior on the part of its members, whether physical, mental or emotional. This is to include any actions which are demeaning to women including, but not limited to, date rape, gang rape, or verbal harassment.

FIRE, HEALTH AND SAFETY

All chapter houses shall, prior to, during, and following occupancy, meet all local fire and health codes and standards.

All chapters must have posted by common phones, emergency numbers for fire, police, and ambulance and must have posted evacuation routes on the back of the door of each sleeping room.

All chapters shall comply with engineering recommendations as reported by the insurance company.

The possession and/or use of firearms or explosive devices of any kind within the confines and premises of the chapter house is expressly forbidden.

EDUCATION

Each student member, associate member and pledge shall be instructed annually on the Risk Management Policy of the Fraternity Insurance Purchasing Group.

Revised 1/94

Editor's Note: FIPG is a risk management consortium made up of nearly 40 men's and women's fraternities. While its original purpose was as an insurance purchasing cooperative, FIPG has evolved into an organization that focuses on education and risk reduction to protect the health and safety of our members and guests. As a condition of membership, each member fraternity is obligated to make all members aware of the risk management policy.

1995 Woodrow Wilson Leadership School & District Councils

July 19-23, 1995

Miami University
Oxford, Ohio

This summer, Phi Psi leaders from across the nation will gather to share ideas, hear popular speakers, discuss chapter problems and solutions, meet national officers and staff, and to experience the camaraderie and brotherhood that is Phi Kappa Psi.

Registration has begun for the 1995 Woodrow Wilson Leadership School & District Councils. Hosted at one of the most beautiful campuses in the midwest—Miami University in Oxford, Ohio—this year's school promises to be both affordable and immensely productive. Make plans now to attend!

THE SHIELD

OF PHI KAPPA PSI

The Phi Kappa Psi Creed

I believe that Phi Kappa Psi is a brotherhood of honorable men, courteous and cultured, who pledge throughout their lives to be generous, compassionate, and loyal comrades;

I believe that I am honor bound to strive manfully for intellectual, moral, and spiritual excellence; to help and forgive my Brothers; to discharge promptly all just debts; to give aid and sympathy to all who are less fortunate;

I believe that I am honor bound to strengthen my character and deepen my integrity; to counsel and guide my Brothers who stray from their obligations; to respect and emulate my Brothers who practice moderation in their manners and morals; to be ever mindful that loyalty to my Fraternity should not weaken loyalty to my college, but rather increase devotion to it, to my country, and to my God;

I believe that to all I meet, wherever I go, I represent not only Phi Kappa Psi, but indeed the spirit of all fraternities; thus I must ever conduct myself so as to bring respect and honor not to myself alone, but also to my Fraternity;

To the fulfillment of these beliefs, of these ideals, in the noble perfection of Phi Kappa Psi, I pledge my life and my sacred honor.

◆ President's Message

Taking Personal Responsibility

College life often equals freedom for many students, but also carries with it a tremendous responsibility

Dear Brothers:

"Personal responsibility" is a concept that seems to be lacking today. When something goes wrong or someone commits an offense, the errant behavior or event is quickly blamed elsewhere.

When I was a student, the University played a role entitled in loco parentis (translated loosely as "in place of the parents"). This took different forms including female students being in a locked dormitory after 11 p.m. on weekdays and midnight on weekends. When Brad Laidley, West Virginia Alpha '11 (one of the oldest living Phi Psis at his death in late 1994), wanted to ask a woman for a date when he was in school, he had to write a letter to the University and request permission to take a specific woman out on Saturday night and state where they were going, what they were going to do, and the times leaving and returning. Today, the universities have relinquished that role, and when parents send their children to universities, they send them into an emancipated environment. The same is true with fraternities who have done away with house mothers and many living restrictions. The results have been less than satisfactory.

When my three children were growing up, it usually took me one weekend day to repair the damage to our residence from the previous week. If you assume my experience is a "normal" level of wear and tear on a house in a controlled environment, then you can imagine what 30 to 50 young, healthy men can do to a fraternity house in an unsupervised environment. Couple that with the fact that the annual operating budget for many chapters exceeds $100,000 and is controlled by newly emancipated men who never owned a checking account until very recently, the ingredients for failure are ever present.

The constant call for alumni donations to renovate or upgrade fraternity houses is a thing of spotty success on the local level. As a result, some house corporations and chapters are moving back to the concept of a "house mother" (versus house manager) in which the personnel working within the house are supervised by the house mother—and table manners are emphasized again. Mississippi Alpha at Ole Miss just accomplished the transformation with the complete renovation and expansion of the chapter house. Indiana Beta at Indiana University has a house mother, and the decorum at dinner is pleasant.

The National Fraternity is reviewing the desirability of encouraging the return to the "house mother" concept, because the newly emancipated man, added to the current lack of the concept of personal responsibility, just is not working in most cases. The belief is that if the Fraternity did not act in loco parentis that the liability of the Fraternity for the acts of individuals would somehow be lessened. This has not proven true. Perhaps the answer lies somewhere between a high level of control and total access to freedom.

To reinforce the idea of "personal responsibility," the Fraternity has embarked on the idea of personal responsibility in the discipline process. In the past, the administration of social probation, the imposition of a supervisory committee and the idea of a membership review for an entire chapter had as its root the concept that "the whole will be punished for the few." Now, when an individual(s) breaks the law, an FIPG risk management requirement, or commonly accepted social standards, it is the individuals who will respond to the charges or to the offense against the Fraternity. This is a return to the disciplinary practice of the Fraternity in the past.

From this, hopefully, the undergraduate will learn the concept of "personal responsibility"—or when your parents, university and Fraternity delegate to you the authority to live and interact as an emancipated adult, the commensurate responsibility accompanies the delegation.

Fraternally,

David L. Woodrum

Adopted by the 1964 Grand Arch Council, Denver, Colorado
August 29, 1964

More than thirty years ago, the Executive Council decided Phi Kappa Psi needed to make its principles clear. Dr. Louis D. Corson, West Virginia Alpha '34, concluded from his broad experiences in higher education that the purposes of college fraternities had been misunderstood and distorted, even by their own members. He thought a useful way to help mend these defects would be to create a declaration of what the Fraternity stood for, one that would derive its authority from the Ritual as well as from its traditions.

At Lou Corson's request the E.C. invited two of Phi Psi's wisest and most respected elders, John Henry Frizzell, Massachusetts Alpha 1898, and Andrew Gehr Truxal, Pennsylvania Eta '16, to compose something for the Fraternity's adoption. John Henry—his Amherst chums called him Jack—was then serving as the Mystagogue, a position he had held with remarkable effect. As professor of speech and rhetoric at the Pennsylvania State University, John Henry had taught many generations of young Nittany Lions to express themselves intelligently and, more important, to persuade others with clarity and precision. His academic colleagues admired him for his courtesy and gentle wisdom, and he was generally revered at Penn State as the very model of the kindly college professor.

Slight, lean, lamed by a clubfoot, he carried himself with halting grace. Well into his nineties, John Henry kept a certain boyishness, a suggestion that he understood young people and, moreover, that he sympathized with them. Without lessening his own dignity he seemed open to everyone who sought him out, listening attentively and treating each person with concerned acceptance. His presence was instinct with encouragement and reassurance and he could also be firm-willed, even mildly flinty in the manner of his Yankee upbringing, but always without self-righteousness. If you learned that he was the only Phi Psi in the world, you would have wanted to join his fraternity.

When John Henry was invited to become the University's chaplain, he declined, explaining that he was not very churchy. He later said Phi Kappa Psi was about all the religion he had until he was nearly forty and at the time of the invitation he wasn't sure that was sufficient. The Penn State president considered that absence of conventional religion not disqualifying: "Professor Frizzell, I want you to arrange the chapel programs and preside over them; I'll find somebody else to lead the godly life." So he accepted, hesitantly.

As it happened, John Henry became an exemplary Episcopalian (but, as he said, "with Christian leanings") and took part as a lay reader in worship services. He found he had a gift for composing prayers for various occasions, and the State College newspaper regularly carried them, which were later collected and published as a small book. Although the prayers he wrote for Penn State and others were usually non-sectarian—John Henry was strong for religious breadth and tolerance—they echo the majestic language of the Anglican Book of Common Prayer, touched with the craggy idiom of his New England boyhood. In a sense his rich, simple words evoke the presence of the man: radiantly honest, straightforward, alertly sympathetic, and authentically reverent. He wore his humility handsomely.

John Henry's collaborator was Andy Truxal, retired president of Hood College and founding president of Anne Arundel Community College, former dean of Dartmouth College, former Rhodes Scholar, and professor emeritus of psychology. Andy came from a Pennsylvania background in the Evangelical Reformed Church, having been ordained as a minister of that denomination, although I'm not sure he ever held a pastorate. Actually, he didn't need to, because he carried out his ministry as a preacher and orator with a compelling presence and a bold command of language.

Andy had served the Fraternity in many capacities, most notably as S.W.G.P. from 1940 to 1942 during the outbreak of World War II. As a transitional figure between the inspirational college president of an earlier era and the business-minded university executive of the present-day, he brought vital elements of intelligence, energy, and understanding to engage the challenges of higher education. To meet him was to experience an immense vigor and an engulfing force of nature. When he was in full flight, organ notes resounding from his plummy baritone and lofty gestures sweeping before him, Andy was a wonder. With his sleek silver hair, robust physique, and leonine features, his appearance alone could win the day.

Evidently, John Henry and Andy decided to set off on separate courses to complete the task Lou Corson had assigned them. After several months of work they compared notes, and neither was pleased with the results. Andy thought everything the Fraternity ought to be about was properly presented in the Induction ceremony, and that nothing more was likely to be helpful. He asked the Executive Council to relieve him of the task and withdrew from the project. Nonetheless, Andy's conviction that one's loyalty to the Fraternity should help to reinforce other loyalties, especially to one's own college, remained a telling influence. As did his belief that every fraternity man was, in effect, representing the spirit of all fraternities and should keep that responsibility clearly in mind. Like the far-reaching nature of his own academic career, his expectations for Phi Kappa Psi moved beyond the boundaries of the Fraternity to encompass other attachments and commitments. For him Phi Psi was never meant to be narrow or small.

So it was left to John Henry to submit his own draft, lamenting that he thought it inadequate to the task and antiquated in language. He, too, wrote that he had struggled long enough with the problem and asked to be relieved. At its March 1964 meeting in Cleveland the Executive Council received the efforts and regrets of Brothers Frizzell and Truxal, and granted them honorable dismissal with the thanks of the Fraternity. They had done their level best.

But as John Henry's draft lay on the conference table before Dud Daniel, the Executive Secretary, there was one Executive Council member unwilling to let the matter rest. As the youngest and most junior appointive officer, I was then serving as Director of Fraternity Education, a post Lou Corson had asked me to accept, possibly to distract me from the requirements of graduate school. Lou

Louis Damarin Corson

Past President of Phi Kappa Psi

Kent Christopher Owen

Co-author of the Phi Kappa Psi Creed

Nothing much had been done to advance that endeavor, aside from Lou's own recommendations, since Henry Griffing introduced The Manual in the early 1930s.

Come to think of it, it must have been Lou who retrieved John Henry's manuscript and handed it to me with the sly suggestion that I have a look at it.

Dud Daniel may have regarded that subversive gesture with one of his forbearing glances, supposing that the most callow appointive officer was being hazed. After all, who in the world would try his hand at a project that two of the greatest Phi Psis had pronounced beyond their capacities? Of course, he may have figured that only a bumptious Hoosier, fresh from the editorial staff of The Saturday Evening Post and a college English teacher soon to be, would be brash enough to have a go.

So, while the Executive Council went about its business of solving problems and governing the Fraternity, a second-year graduate student in comparative literature got out his blue pencil and settled down to the simple matter of rewriting his elders and betters. Somewhere in the musty archives of the Fraternity there may still be the discolored pages on which I redrafted John Henry's words and thoughts. This was hardly as momentous a document as Mr. Jefferson's Declaration of Independence, although the last sentence does make a rather portentous allusion to it. Mostly, it was a question of finding the proper style into which to translate what I thought John Henry had in mind.

Then, too, there was the problem of form. I had been brought up and confirmed a Presbyterian with that denomination's reliance on the Westminster Confession and the Apostles' Creed. But I also had enough of my father's Quaker heritage to be wary of creedal dogma. Could one make a solemn profession of faith, that is, "I believe that Phi Kappa Psi is ...," when one could bring to mind any number of discomfiting exceptions? Could one be honest about asserting virtues and obligations that were supposed to be characteristic of thousands of men over more than a hundred years?

It occurred to me then, and seems more so now, that "I believe..." really means "I hope my brothers are..." or "I think my brothers have the capacity to become..." Likewise, "I believe that I am honor bound to..." is a hopeful expectation of one's best potentialities, not a literal-minded declaration or a counsel of perfection. Understood in that way, The Creed is a statement of belief in high ideals worth striving toward with the whole of one's being.

The version of The Creed I handed to Lou Corson after about two hours of reflection and rewriting more directly incorporates the Ritual's essential elements, Tom Campbell's "eternal principles," than did John Henry's draft. My draft included fewer of the precepts advanced in the Induction ceremony, but made sure to retain his customary phrase, "...to respect and emulate my Brothers who practice moderation in their manners and morals..." That admonition was for him central to right conduct, as it was for those noble pagans, Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, and Marcus Aurelius.

To my surprise Lou Corson was immediately taken with the effort. (He could be a man of exacting standards, often difficult to please.) As I recall, it was he who moved that it be accepted without amendment and recommended to the 1964 Grand Arch Council for adoption. What had started out as a plain editorial exercise turned into a greater occasion than I could have imagined.

Even so, I was still sheepish about having to write John Henry to tell him I'd had the temerity to complete the job and in pretty humdrum circumstances. When I got around to talking with him about it, he told me it didn't exactly require an act of divine revelation and he didn't mind at all what I'd done to disfigure his prose. Andy Truxal said about the same, but more exuberantly, thankful that somebody had had the nerve to get the damned job done.

Despite my view to the contrary, Andy insisted he didn't want his name on the fool thing because

Andrew Gehr Truxal

*Early collaborator on the

he hadn't done enough of the work. I still have my doubts about that, but he was a decisive fellow, who said exactly what he intended. Hence, whenever I'm asked who wrote what, I say that John Henry wrote the music, I wrote the words, and Andy whistled much of the tune.

of character, is what distinguishes Phi Kappa Psi from those associations that organize themselves on some combination of moralism, sentimentality, and legalism. It is our willingness to "be obedient to the unenforceable," as a minor English writer put it years ago, that sustains our sense of principled brotherhood.

Just as the word "gentleman" is absent from the words but not the meaning of The Creed, so, too, is the Fraternity's outward motto, "the great joy of serving others." But that sentiment, the source of our founding, is also present throughout the expression of what we owe not only to our own brothers, but to the men and women with whom we share this troubled world. Nowadays it may be harder to recognize that principle as governing our conduct and to act on it with courage and generosity. Still,

Whether The Creed has served the purpose Lou Corson intended for it is not for me to say. I doubt that the same statement could be composed today with similar expectations, because 1964 was the end of an era for the American fraternity movement and for Phi Kappa Psi. Although, oddly enough, the word "gentleman" is never mentioned in the text, it is implicit throughout, particularly with the consistent emphasis on the idea of honor. Thereafter, it may have become hard to use the word without feeling self-conscious or downright foolish. And yet, the idea of honor, like virtue or integrity the ideal remains ever before us, giving credence to "The Noble Fraternity."

And there is another word missing. Neither "friend" nor "friendship" is mentioned, although that relationship surely underlies and informs the most nourishing experiences we can gain from the Fraternity. However, for Phi Kappa Psi it is the greater fellowship of principled men who aspire to the ideal of brotherhood that defines what we are called to affirm. Friendship necessarily inheres in the personal, mutual connections of one man to another, men who are often present physically as well as emotionally, men who share common experiences for at least some part of their lives. The idea of brotherhood transcends those limitations to connect men of one generation with those of earlier and later generations. In effect, the sense of brotherhood that Phi Kappa Psi tries to impart extends from Letterman and Moore to the latest initiates, uniting us all in a lengthening fellowship of common principles and ideals.

But for all these remarks about ideals, hopes, and expectations, my own sense of what The Creed is about is based on observation and experience, on the personal histories and the real lives of men who have called themselves Phi Psis. In an era when many fraternities are ready to accept their members according to a kind of "come as you are" ethic, the Phi Kappa Psi I have experienced for more than thirty-five years retains the power to ask men of talent, ambition, and character to make the best of their gifts for the good of others. As I have written elsewhere, Phi Kappa Psi prevails as a moral order for the conduct of life.

Throughout my life it has been my good fortune to know such men, some now dear to my memory, many still vital to my sense of well-being. Over the years I have enjoyed the pleasure of fellowship, the privilege of friendship, and the sustenance of brotherhood. Time and time again, all this has proved to me that Phi Kappa Psi is authenticated by the actual lives of those loyal brothers who seek to live by its principles. This is, after all, the true and best expression of the Fraternity's enduring significance. ♦

Matthew C. Michelsen California Lambda Colony

Matt Michelson, Rhode Island Beta '91, began his involvement with Phi Psi clear across the country at the University of Rhode Island, where he was an integral part of the reorganization of Rhode Island Beta in 1990. Today, Matt and his fiancée, Jennifer, are enjoying their home in Southern California, along with their new Dalmatian puppy. He is working on his golf game and trying his hand at surfing. Matt is employed as a junior accounts manager with Vanguard Capital in Del Mar, California. He is fortunate to be learning the trade under the direction of his future father-in-law, who has been managing money successfully since 1968. Matt feels that working in a family business has distinct advantages, namely the vested interest in his success.

Although Matt has only been an advisor for six months, he has looked to Bruce Tavares, Rhode Island Beta '74, his undergraduate chapter advisor and big brother, for advice and guidance. By surrounding himself with a supportive and diverse group of leaders, utilizing the Chapter Advisory Committee structure, and learning from the mistakes of others, Matt is well on his way to becoming a well-seasoned advisor. Monte Wise, Colorado Alpha '88, Wally Lang, North Carolina Alpha '60, Deitmar Schott, New York Alpha '77, Doug Griffin, California Zeta '68, Thomas Sayer, New York Alpha '78, all serve as counselors on the advisory committee. This committee seems to have its hands full as the colony is planning on relocating in the fall and has been extremely successful in their membership recruitment. Matt sums up his philosophy on advising this way, "Everything in life has a learning curve—as the colony is given challenges, the longer they work at them, the shorter the learning curve will be."

Matt sees Phi Psi as a vehicle by which young men can develop into successful leaders. He has learned much from his experiences with the Fraternity and in the U.S. Army Airborne. He says, "You can not make someone a leader. However, if you lead by example, you may be able to give someone the tools they need to become a leader." Monte Wise has been this type of person for Matt in San Diego. Monte's organization, determination, and willingness to stay involved as the president of the San Diego Alumni Association has shown Matt that membership in Phi Kappa Psi goes well beyond the four years as an undergraduate.

Matt has a great deal to look forward to in the upcoming months as the colony's advisor. California Lambda plans to successfully petition for their charter at the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School this summer.

Ernest F. Thompson Pennsylvania Rho

It was déjà vu for Pennsylvania Rho advisor Ernie Thompson, Pennsylvania Nu '70.

When Ernie became advisor for the fledgling York College colony almost five years ago, it was like returning to his own chapter.

"When I was first contacted and met the brothers of Penn Rho, I was really impressed that they were so much like my chapter at Penn Nu. Both chapters have a diverse group of individuals. When I pledged at IUP, I chose Phi Psi because of that reason—but more importantly, it was my family at school."

Ernie tries to model himself after Penn Nu's former advisor of 25 years, "Uncle" Bert Smith, Nebraska Alpha '39. "Uncle Bert" was highly respected by the brothers of Penn Nu. Each year, he and his wife, Doris, would have an outing for Penn Nu at their Indiana Lake summer home.

"As advisor to Penn Rho, I have instituted a similar tradition with an annual picnic at the swim and tennis club where my family belongs. It gives both the undergraduates and alumni an opportunity to get reunited and have an enjoyable time."

Ernie tries to keep a high profile with the chapter. "I attend the chapter meeting each week, and I have encouraged an open, honest communication with all the brothers. They keep me informed of everything that is happening, and I try to give input at all times. They know my phone line is always open, and many brothers call often with anything from Fraternity business to personal advice. My wife and I also make it a point to attend the spring formal each year."

Overall, Ernie is impressed by the progress of Penn Rho. In the short time since it was installed as a chapter, Penn Rho has become the largest chapter on campus. "I am especially proud of their reputation on campus. One administrator told me that he wished all the fraternities at York were like Phi Psi. The chapter has organized many community activities, one of which is the York City Adopt-a-Block program which Penn Rho organized. That's why I was especially proud of them when they received the Amici Award at last summer's GAC."

Ernie and his wife, Barbara, who is a Kappa Delta, live in York where they both teach in the York Suburban School District. They have two daughters. Jill will be attending IUP in the fall where she will be majoring in art education. Elizabeth will be a junior in high school.

Ernie would like to invite any Phi Psis to Penn Rho's picnic this summer on July 29. "That way, everyone can see why I'm proud to be a Phi Psi at Pennsylvania Rho." ♦

Scholarship and Leadership Awards

SCHWEITZ WINS WARNOCK SCHOLARSHIP

A former chapter president and winner of Oregon Alpha's Justin Parker Leadership Award, Josh Schweitz, Oregon Alpha '91, was selected by the Oregon Alpha chapter as the recipient of the 1994-1995 winner of the $1,500 Maurice J. Warnock Scholarship.

Josh Schweitz

Since his initiation in 1991, Schweitz has held numerous elected and appointed offices at Oregon Alpha, including philanthropy chairman where he organized a boxing tournament to benefit the Children's Miracle Network. His community involvement is impressive, too. He has served as the fund raising co-chairman for Greeks Against Rape, as well as serving as a Special Olympics volunteer and junior high boys basketball coach.

Schweitz graduates this June with a B.A. in Psychology and a minor in Planning Public Policy Management. His long-term goal is owning his own business. He also has his sights set on starting a healthy fast food restaurant that is also environmentally safe. He is the son of Joe Schweitz of Tigard, Oregon.

The award was created by a grant from Maurice J. Warnock, Oregon Alpha '23, former chairman of Armstrong World Industries. Warnock was a founding member of Oregon Alpha and later served as an Endowment Fund Trustee. He was also honored as the first Outstanding Alumnus of the University of Oregon.

The Warnock Scholarship is presented each year to a member of the Oregon Alpha chapter based on financial need, academic achievement, leadership skills and high character.

TOMER GARNERS PESTIGIOUS DANIEL LEADERSHIP AWARD

His admissions counselor at West Virginia University called him an "inspirational leader." His chapter advisor says he "attempts to lead by example, with the idea that, 'if I do it, perhaps others will follow.'" A former employer says he "exemplifies what youth should be for the next generation." All of these phrases were used to describe Wesley M. Tomer, West Virginia Alpha '91, who was selected to receive this year's $4,000 Ralph D. Daniel Leadership Award. The award is given annually in honor of former Executive Director Ralph D. Daniel, Arizona Alpha '47, to recognize an undergraduate for his outstanding leadership contributions to his chapter, his university and his community.

"Since becoming a Phi Psi, I have strove, through the use of my leadership skills, to achieve the beliefs and ideals written in The Phi Kappa Psi Creed," wrote Tomer in his essay on leadership. "By following The Creed, I have tried not to be bound only to the Fraternity, but also to West Virginia University and to the community of Morgantown."

In keeping with this philosophy, Wes organized the first annual Phi Kappa Psi Volleyball Tournament during the spring of 1994. As West Virginia Alpha's first major philanthropy effort in 10 years, the tournament raised a tad under $1,600 for WVU's Children's Hospital. A 3-on-3 basketball tournament was organized last fall by Wes to benefit the Children's Hospital, as well.

During his undergraduate days at West Virginia Alpha, Wes chaired many important committees with the chapter including risk management, philanthropy, Founders Day, rush, finance, and alumni relations, among others. Wes feels, however, that one of his greatest achievements at West Virginia Alpha was his election to the chapter's presidency. "It exemplified the respect amongst the brothers I had earned through my hard work and devotion," Wes writes.

To date, Wes' greatest reward has been serving as a panelist at the Regional Leadership Workshops hosted by Pennsylvania Beta at Allegheny last fall and by Ohio Lambda this spring. Wes sat on the panels with university faculty and administrators and discussed the future of the American college fraternity movement with Phi Psi undergraduates and alumni from Districts II and III.

Said Wes, "I was able to relay to other Phi Psis what I had already learned from my chapter, thus enabling them to improve their chapters on their campuses in the future. The theme Brothers Helping Brothers will continue to guide me now and in the future."

Wes graduated in May with a B.A. in Arts and Sciences and a minor in Business Administration. He is looking to enter the job market, but does have plans to return to earn a graduate degree at some point in the future. Wes is the son of Kenneth C. Tomer of Vienna, West Virginia. ◆

The Program

The Summerfield Scholarship program was created through a bequest from the late Solon E. Summerfield, Kansas Alpha 1899. At the time of Summerfield's death in 1947, the bequest was the largest ever made to an American college fraternity.

Summerfield was the founder and former head of the Gotham Gold Stripe Hosiery Company of New York. An enthusiastic supporter of his alma mater, the University of Kansas, and the Fraternity, he established the Solon E. Summerfield Foundation. Its income is shared by many charitable and educational institutions, among them the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Each of the Fraternity's chapters and colonies is given the opportunity to select one brother who, through his daily life, best exemplifies scholarship and leadership. The brothers pictured here are the 1994-1995 Summerfield Scholars as selected by their chapters. Summerfield Scholars receive a $100 grant and are eligible for the Outstanding Summerfield Scholar Awards presented each spring.

Unfortunately, despite numerous reminders, only 43 of Phi Psi's 88 chapters and colonies chose to name a Summerfield Scholar this year. Those 43 are recognized here.

All Phi Psis are encouraged to support the Fraternity through tax deductible gifts to the Endowment Fund. Gifts may be sent to: The Endowment Fund, 510 Lockerbie Street, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202. If you would like more information, please contact Terry Harper at the above address or by calling (317) 632-1852, ext. 12.

Congratulations to these outstanding Phi Psi scholars and leaders.

CHAPTER NEWSLETTERS

A round-up of the goings on in Phi Kappa Psi's broad domain, the chapter newsletter section is always a favorite with readers of The Shield. Chapters were asked to focus on their community service efforts, among other things. Despite numerous reminders, nearly half of Phi Psi's chapters neglected to submit a newsletter. If your chapter is one of them, please contact the corresponding secretary and urge better participation in the future. Newsletters have been edited for length and consistency. Enjoy!

AKRON

No newsletter submitted

Ohio Iota, at Akron University, has just finished celebrating its 25th anniversary in grand style. With the participation of over 75 alumni, the chapter held a weekend-long reunion/celebration for the members of this proud chapter. While celebrating its past, however, the chapter has been keeping a sharp eye on the future, hoping to establish Phi Psi at the top at Akron for the next 25+ years. A special thank you to all brothers and guests who joined the chapter on its anniversary!

ALABAMA

I hope all of y'all had a very successful year. Here at the University of Alabama everything is going fine. We are currently third in intramural sports for the entire school. This is the first time that Phi Psi has ever been this high in the ranking. We won overall in the soccer and horse-shoe doubles events.

However, we have had small problems on the academic field. These have been addressed with the addition of an active study hall.

We are trying to give back to the community with a Lift-a-thon to benefit either the YMCA or The Boys and Girls Club of Tuscaloosa. Our goal is to raise close to $1,000 to help the needy kids of the area.

We are looking forward to next year because we are going to have a very youthful, excited group of guys ready to spread the Phi Psi name. This group comes from a great seven man pledge class initiated last fall and the six spring pledges. That about wraps up the year here in Alabama.

Pennsylvania Beta has made tremendous progress during the last year! The new chapter officers provide outstanding leadership and guidance for the Phi Psis at Allegheny. The officers, who assumed their respective positions last November, have made drastic changes in the internal operations of the chapter. For instance, the chapter now enforces standards among all members. No longer is mediocre or destructive behavior tolerated. In fact, the members must now adhere to standards that allow only the attainment of excellence by each member. The enforcement of such standards has played a tremendous role in the chapter's relinquishment from its probationary status with the school and the subsequent approval to begin construction on the long awaited new chapter house.

ARIZONA

In December, we pledged seven men: John Canella, San Francisco; Jason Stolar, Potomac, MD; Evan Willner, Shorewood, MN; Dave Temkin and Brian Vrtis, Los Angeles; and Dave Goldfarb, Detroit. For the spring semester, two men have pledged: Todd Galinski, Wheeling, WV and Lorenzo Rubio, Chicago. We look forward to their contributions to the chapter.

Founders Day was observed on February 25, 1995. A strong turnout of alumni made this event a great success, and we thank those who came back to Phi Psi, many for the first time in decades. We hope that their involvement will continue, as we recognize the importance of alumni support.

The best news from the chapter is that we have found an enthusiastic and supportive new chapter advisor in Col. Terry Thompson, Tennessee Epsilon '67, commander of the Air Force ROTC detachment in Arizona. His capabilities will be a great asset to us.

We have just concluded Spring Fling, the largest student-run carnival in the nation. Our Domino's Pizza booth brought in $1,200 for the chapter. We will use these funds for our fall rush and for minor renovations to the chapter house. If any alumni would like to contribute time or money to these efforts, please contact the chapter.

ARIZONA STATE

Due to the great high jumping abilities of Corresponding Secretary Michael Jamieson, who is now in the hospital having knee surgery, we have been picked to write this newsletter.

"Hola," as they say at Casa de Florencia in Cabo San Lucas, where seven of us spent Spring Break with 30 plus brothers and pledges from USC. The rest of the brothers headed off here and there.

With Spring Break ending as abruptly as always, it's back to business at school and the chapter. With nine new initiates after our membership review last spring, the reassembled Arizona Alumni Association, and the Arizona Endowment Fund efforts, the chapter has been reborn! Future events are being planned well in advance to lock down times, dates, venues and sponsors. On an extended outlook, we are preparing to host the 1998 GAC here in Scottsdale. With that in mind, rush is our main priority. Anyone and everyone who has suggestions on rush feel free to lend a hand.

ASHLAND

The brothers of Ohio Theta are back in full force for the 1994-95 school year. Our numbers have tripled from the fall of 1993. The men of Phi Kappa Psi at Ashland had a tremendous showing at the annual Greek Awards. We are proud to hold the highest GPA of all of Ashland's fraternities. Don Cadley was presented with the award for Outstanding Chapter Advisor. Our dedication to Members of the Ohio Theta chapter at Ashland College participate in team-building exercises at a "ropes course" near campus. Chapter Advisor Don Cadley, Ohio Theta '66, is at the far left.

CHAPTER NEWSLETTERS

Ashland University and Phi Psi was displayed as we brought home the award for Outstanding Campus Involvement.

We are proud to have added six new members in Joel Braun, Brian Calvert, Vaughn Hopson, Jeff Kaplan, Bill Sagy and George White. A second group of men have decided to pledge Phi Psi this spring. They are: Ashley Bailey, Michael Comings, Josh Davis, Jason Pierce and James Wright.

Our involvement in the Ashland Community is growing at a rapid rate, and we are glad to announce the return of the Kit Carson Run on May 6, 1995 to raise money for a Carson's children to attend college after his tragic death.

We are looking forward to another successful year in the 1995-96 school year.

BELOIT

Wisconsin Gamma has had a year filled with ups and downs. Last fall, the chapter had the highest level of membership in quite some time which had everyone excited. As the year progressed, the chapter had some discussions with the college and there was some confusion about the chapter's housing status for the coming fall. Despite the difficulties, the chapter has been under capable leadership and has significant involvement from alumni which should provide it with ample resources to come back strong next fall.

Other notable successes this year include a strong financial position, the end of probation for the chapter, and all members being in good academic standing with the college.

BOWLING GREEN

Ohio Zeta has assumed a new vitality within the past year. The chapter realized the crossroads at which it found itself and decided change must occur. A newly-found energy seems to motivate each member. A major strength for the chapter lies in its leadership. Each officer provides a great deal of continuity for the chapter. Chris Gajewicz, the chapter advisor, maintains a strong "hands on" approach that allows him to make a tremendous impact. Furthermore, the chapter continues to develop leadership within the younger members, as well. This should ensure many future successes for the Phi Psis at Bowling Green.

BRANDEIS

Tragically, a few weeks ago, the sister of our Recording Secretary was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Disease. She has been in all our prayers and our chapter dedicated a philanthropic project to her. All our brothers got involved and we raised almost $600 for the American Cancer Society in a school-wide daffodil sale. We had 100% brother participation in this worthwhile project and raised more money than ever before raised at Brandeis in similar projects. This is only one of many successful projects for our chapter, but we feel it is the one of which we are most proud.

We're also proud to announce that on Tuesday, April 11, we initiated eight new brothers into our chapter. The names of the brothers are as follows: Bryan Baker, Huntington Beach, CA; Alex Khasin, San Jose, CA; Daniel Liebovich, Rockford, IL; Brian MacFarland, Waltham, MA; Aaron Rosenbaum, Massapequa, NY; Drew Seibert, Allentown, PA; Alan Steber, Oakland, CA; and Liang Zheng, Shrewsbury, MA.

As the 94-95 school year comes to a close, Rhode Island Alpha continues to make great strides and put itself at the top of the Greek System at Brown University. The members have put forth a great effort in rush this past spring and are proud to have such a fine group of men ready to prove themselves worthy of the Phi Psi Badge. Keeping in the tradition of "the great joy of serving others," this year's Trikes for Tikes was one of the most successful in recent memory. This fall looks to be the beginning of yet another banner year for the Red and Green!

BUCKNELL

Our new initiates and their hometowns are: Brant K. Bandiere, Lutherville, MD; Sean M. Gray, Barrington, NH; Todd A. Jasko, Chatam, NJ; Thomas P. Kelly, Warminster, PA; Brian W. McCallister, Wilmington, DE; Michael M. Moore, Barrington, IL; Timothy J. Reilly, Ridgefield, CT;

Jason A. Stevens, Jay, ME; Christopher I. Tassone, Ridgefield, CT; William J. Vogt, Dix Hills, NY; and Ryan J. Zollner, Murrysville, PA.

Our spring philanthropy project was Battle of the Bands. This annual event pits campus bands against one another to raise money for charity. The entrance fee was a donation of $1 to Haven Ministries, a charity dealing mainly with homeless children. This event was a tremendous success this year, raising $1,100.

Most of our focus turns to rush. The lifeblood of the Fraternity, each year's rush determines how strong the Fraternity will be in the future. Searching for quality men is the goal of our chapter, not just quantity. In many ways our chapter has begun to grow towards the chapter it once was, gradually increasing its numbers from its recent reorganization. The brotherhood is as diverse as always, bringing many different viewpoints and allowing us to learn the arts of compromise and open-mindedness. As we look to next years rush, we hope to be able to continue this growth and look forward to seeing a lot of good sophomores come up in the fall.

BUTLER

Indiana Zeta has continued another year of excellence. Again, we have continued our scholarly greatness amongst all the fraternities on campus by being first in grades. Our brotherhood came together for a first place finish in Butler's Spring Sports Spectacular.

It has not been the events that has put our Fraternity on top at Butler University, it has been the character of the men individually. We all know what makes a strong brotherhood, it is the character of the men involved. The trend of recruiting men of character has continued with an incredible spring pledge class. These men will be the future leaders on campus, as well as in the Fraternity.

Indiana Zeta's events for the year have been the Phi Psi 500, which is our all-campus event. We also had another incredible Jacqueminot Rose Formal at the Columbia Club in Indianapolis. We have continued on with the community service by holding events with our philanthropy, the Lutherwood Home for Children. Phi Kappa Psi continues on with our traditional events and stable brotherhood.

The men of California Eta are proud to say through the dedicated efforts of the brothers and alumni, along with some great fund raising, the chapter has eradicated the financial difficulties which have plagued the chapter this year. With a renewed sense of enthusiasm, the chapter is planning for the upcoming rush period. Although rush numbers are down this year, the chapter has thrown its efforts into membership recruitment and anticipate a large rush in the fall.

CASE WESTERN RESERVE

Ohio Epsilon took the CWRU Greek community by storm in 1994. After graduating a quarter of our membership last spring, we made up for our losses with strong fall and spring rushes. We boosted our campus image in academics, intramural activities, and community involvement.

For the third straight semester, Ohio Epsilon has been second in all-fraternity GPA standings. We continued our intimate relationship with the Bellflower Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse, hosting a Thanksgiving dinner and a trip to the Cleveland Children's Museum. We improved our intramural standing, taking second in the all-sports competition this year. We were the champions in Wallyball as well as Bowling, a sport we have dominated for years.

Ohio Epsilon and individual brothers were recognized at the CWRU and Greek Award ceremonies. As a chapter, we garnered the IFC Chapter Sportsmanship Award, the Outstanding Rush Flier Award, and the Outstanding Chapter Program Award for our work with the Bellflower kids. To top everything off, Ohio Epsilon took home the Most Improved Chapter Award for 1994.

Our new initiates are: Scott R. Jauch, Eric L. Kinzey, Dennis T. Le, Justin P. Mikula, Joseph A. Talarico, Michael J. Victor, Mark C. Brighton, Dean E. Brainard, and Daniel V. Di Carlo.

working hard to continue the proud tradition of Phi Kappa Psi at the University of Chicago. They are continuing to focus on their rush efforts as that is the best way they can continue to maintain their presence at the University of Chicago.

Recent efforts to contact alumni and reinvolve them in the Fraternity have had a better response lately, and for this the chapter is grateful. The chapter will continue to put out the Illinois Betan and, more and more, the alumni are giving feedback. With the support of more alumni involvement, the chapter should benefit greatly!

CORNELL

Here at Cornell, times are changing. With the graduation of a large class in 1994, along with the upcoming graduation of this year's dedicated seniors, New York Alpha looks to its new brothers for help in filling these vacancies.

The addition of 16 new brothers to the strong but small core remaining in the chapter has shown all involved ready to step up and do their part. President Doug Schillinger along with co-rush chairmen Mike Finger and Dave Cole have worked hard this semester to integrate a new rush program. Fraternity Educator Matt Bennett is following this new approach to rush with an innovative big brother-oriented pledge program.

Also don't forget to keep those addresses coming in for the New York Alpha mailing list. Please note an error in the latest NYAlpha. The correct name of the list is nyalpha-1 (as in list), not nyalpha-1. For more information, or to subscribe, send a message to Matt Street at mws1@cornell.edu.

CREIGHTON

The brothers of Nebraska Beta have been very active this year. We started off the year by winning the trophy in the Greek Week competition for the third year in a row. We then continued through the rest of the year with numerous different community service projects. We worked at a local church's spaghetti feed, helped with the medical school's annual Make-A-Wish run, rang bells for the Salvation Army, cleaned up another church, and worked with the homeless and poor in the St. Vincent House, a soup kitchen.

Another big area that the brothers took on was the initiation of a new scholarship program. This new program was put together by our chairman, Brent Prosser, and several advisors. The program will help members and pledges find help in their classes and raise the GPA of the Fraternity. This year also brought us three new actives and thirteen new pledges.

The new initiates are: Brett Crosby, Peosta, IA; Phil Midden, Palm Harbor, FL; and Dave Schurten, Oklahoma City, OK.

The pledges are: Michael Brock, Bettendorf, IA; Benjamin Bushnell, Ryan Kearney, and Brent Catlett, Omaha, NE; Patrick Chaney, Auburn, NE; P.J. Chavanu, Kearney, NE.

James Eynard Bartlesville, OK; Craig Ferguson, Colorado Springs, CO; Aaron Ford, Cairo, NE; Matthew Goettsch, Ralston, NE; Christian Lewis, Casper, WY; Jeffery Parker, Cheyenne, WY; and Gregory Snyder, Aurora, CO.

DEPAUL

Greetings from the Windy City and DePaul University. Once again, Phi Kappa Psi has been heavily involved in community service at DePaul University. We started the year with the Phi Psi Blood Drive, which collected more than 120 pints of blood. The event is held in conjunction with the American Red Cross. Phi Psi has also been involved in the Chicagoland area. The Chapter helped the Chicago Parks District register children in the Lincoln Park area for summer day camp.

On an international note, on of our brothers was involved with human rights education while studying in Mexico.

There are also a few continuous programs going on within the chapter. We have adopted a couple of streets to clean periodically throughout the year through the Adopt-A-Street program here on campus. We are also continuing our work with the Ronald McDonald House through Beach Bash V. Beach Bash is a volleyball tournament that is being co-sponsored with Evian this year. If any brothers are interested in playing in the tournament, please contact Timothy Weaver at (312) 348-3827. This tournament will cap off our fifth year in Phi Kappa Psi and the end of another great year.

DEPAUW

Indiana Alpha has had yet another successful year in all aspects at DePauw University. We are most proud of our quota-filling pledge class of 26 fine young men, who were initiated on April 8 of this year. In a year that has been plagued with reported hazing incidents on campus, we feel our Fraternity Education program has been quite constructive and effective in producing good brothers, and in setting an example for the rest of the Greek system.

Academically, Phi Psi finished fourth on campus, and with our recently-implemented mentor program, we expect to finish even higher in the current semester.

In early April, we were recognized by the university for outstanding community service with nearly 80% involvement.

Keeping up our traditionally strong athletic reputation, we have numerous varsity athletes in soccer, football, basketball, tennis, and swimming. On the intramural fields, we are currently in first place with only softball remaining.

On April 22, Phi Psi turned in an unexpected, yet well-earned, second place finish in the annual Little 500 bike race. In overall campus leadership, we are proud to have the student body president, as well as the Interfraternity Council President for Rush. We plan to continue our hard work and carry our successes over into the fall semester.

Membership recruitment remains the single most dominant concern for the chapter; new members must be recruited from an increasingly anti-Greek community and the college neither promotes nor permits continual recruitment by any chapter. Thus, Pennsylvania Zeta finds itself forced to address artificial constraints as well as the more common problems associated with recruiting new members. Overall, however, the chapter continues to recruit outstanding men. One advantage enjoyed by the Dickinson Phi Psi's is the fact that several members of the chapter serve as resident advisors and play on various sports teams.

North Carolina Alpha continues to excel within the Greek communi-

The chapter recently realized the necessity of effective strategic planning, and should now address problems and determine solutions for such problems. The chapter officers are very eager to guide the chapter in its endeavors to assess itself and attain its goals. Chapter members also seem to realize the necessity of such internalization, especially given the problematic relationship the Greek system has experienced with the university.

EAST CAROLINA

This past year has been one of great achievements. In the fall of 94, we initiated our largest pledge class to date. This was a needed boost. These new men helped us in continuing our goal of excellence at ECU. They are: Gary Bennett, Micah Retzlaff and Randy Currin Jr., Warrenton; Wayne McLauren and Greg Thomas, Fayetteville; Tim Muller, Morehead City; Colin Molhmann, Louisburg; Stephen Lewis, New Bern; and Chris Dozier, Greenville.

We are near the top in athletics. We finished strong in football and basketball, and our softball team finished first. We are in second place for the Chancellor's Cup and are closing in fast.

In philanthropy, we have had a successful year with our annual benefit to the Community Shelter. This year we raised nearly $1,000 in donations alone. We are also looking to establish a Phi Psi 500 and an event which will give $5,000 to families who need the money at Christmas time.

If you live in Greenville and would like to be a chapter advisor, please let us know. We need someone in our community to help us.

Many of the brothers are looking forward to participating in the annual Bowling For Kids Sake event held at a local bowling alley. Bowling For Kid's Sake is an event that raises money for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters organizations. In addition, the IFC of Franklin & Marshall College is organizing a Greek Games competition and the brothers of Penn Eta are looking forward to being active participants. Greek Games will be a day for the various fraternities to get together in a competitive and fun atmosphere with much of the proceeds going to charity.

ILLINOIS

This past year has been an outstanding one here at the University of Illinois. Successes in the areas of community service, membership, and house renovation have put us far above the other fraternities on campus—something with which we are familiar.

"Improving the Community" has been our theme this year and was backed up by five Phi Psi community service projects. Brothers volunteered to work at such places as the McKinley Homeless Shelter, the Salvation Army, and the Champaign Nursing Home, not to mention our Christmas party for the Matthew House Orphanage. The year was topped off with a 5 K run on Mom's Day Weekend to benefit Easter Seals.

This past year was productive in other aspects of fraternity life also. Twenty-five new brothers have initiated this year, making Phi Psi one of the biggest chapters on a campus of 47 fraternities. Our Century Project, which includes refurbishing parts of the house, new furniture for the public areas and re-sodding the front lawn, has Illinois Delta looking sharper than ever. We encourage all alumni to come down and see all the great things that are happening at 0' 911.

ILLINOIS STATE

Our chapter is coming off our most successful building year since founding, initiating pledge classes numbering 13 and eight, for the fall and spring, respectively. These numbers have propelled us into the lime-light here at Illinois State, and have proven us to be one of the more influential fraternities on campus. And, with the help of the National Interfraternity Conference rush consultant, we hope to continue our growth on this campus.

This year's 11th Annual Phi Psi 500, our ever-popular go-kart race, was again a big hit on campus. We raised over $1,000 for United Cerebral Palsy. Also, we are volunteering in the first Kewanee 500, which is a celebrity go-kart race to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

As our chapter sets forth into a new age of leadership on campus, we have set some goals to be attained now and for the years to come. These goals include improved scholarship, continuing the improved alumni relations, and working with the other chapters on campus to strengthen Greek relations at Illinois State.

Indiana Eta has had a very eventful year and one that the chapter will always remember. We initiated four new members at the beginning of the semester and have six more who are ready for induction. The chapter is very proud of its improvement.

Another exciting thing that has happened to us is our second place finish in the all-university tandem race. One of our brothers was dubbed "Hot Wheels" because he had the fastest laps around the track during qualifications.

JOHNS HOPKINS

This year, Maryland Alpha has continued its legacy as one of the strongest fraternities on the Johns Hopkins campus. This year's Phi Psi 500, held on October 22, 1994 raised over $3,000 for Santa Claus Anonymous. Just think of all the toys that needy children received this year because of the efforts of Phi Psi! The 14th annual event ignited the helping spirit of Hopkins undergraduates, and more than 100 people came out to support a good cause and have some fun, too!

In an era of declining interest in the Greek system at Johns Hopkins, Phi Kappa Psi remains as strong as ever. Our pledges are quality freshmen and sophomores from all walks of life. Not only are they interested in becoming brothers of Phi Kappa Psi, they are also involved in campus activities and helping their fellow classmates.

Look for Maryland Alpha to be a strong fixture on the Johns Hopkins campus for many years to come.

KANSAS

Greetings from the land of the Jayhawks. Once again Kansas Alpha has had another banner year under the direction of past GP Cary Jones and new GP Andrew Fedoravicius.

The brothers were extremely pleased that our fall pledge class finished fourth overall in grades. The chapter as a whole finished in the top 10 in grades, once again.

On the athletic field, Phi Psi has proven to be a very strong contender to the hill title. The Green Wave finished third on the hill in football, our soccer team finished second, and the basketball team lost to the eventual hill champion.

On January 21, the brothers had the pleasure of initiating 25 young men into the mysteries of the Fraternity. These young men are: Phil Algrim, Michael Baca, Kirk Bocox, Kirk Drozd, Brad Fenwick, Grant Gibson, Matt Gross, Ramy Hanna, Kip Higgins, Justin Isham, James Kirk, Chris Kovac, Brad Looney, Marty Mayer, Doug Mills, Rick Ouimette, Chris Price, Shane Rooney, Jon Shelton, Doug Slaughter, Aaron Smith, Jay Soldner, Matt Swain, Steve Toelkes and Chad Travers.

Due to the generous donations from our faithful alumni, the chapter house will receive an addition this summer. The men of Kansas Alpha invite all brothers to visit the house and meet the members of the chapter.

KENTUCKY

Since our last correspondence, Kentucky Beta has advanced to the forefront of Greek life at the University of Kentucky. At this year's Greek banquet, our chapter was recognized for its various achievements of the '94-'95 school year, allowing us to stand above the other 23 fraternities on campus. We were honored with the most prestigious Greek award, the Dean's Cup, which is presented to the chapter that has most improved their standing on campus. We also received second in Overall Chapter Achievement by placing first in Campus Individual Leadership, first in Greek Activities Points, second in Campus Participation, third in Community Service, third in Scholarship, and third in Alumni Relations. Along with these great accomplishments, we received awards for the most money raised for and the most participation in the 1995 Greek Activities Dance-a-Thon.

Throughout the spring semester, our brothers were hard at work supporting Shea Chaney's Student Government Association presidential campaign. Brother Chaney became the second SGA president from our chapter in the last five years.

In addition to Chaney, many of our brothers were honored for their hard work. Ted Jones and Bill Brassine were inducted into the Order of Omega, while Chris Schulz received the Greek Activities Steering Committee Scholarship.

Furthermore, next year's Inter-Greek Programming Assembly will be led by Ted Jones as president, Bill Brassine as press release chair, and Tom Hayes as philanthropy chair.

With an incredible semester behind us, the brothers of Kentucky Beta look forward to an even more successful fall semester.

Pennsylvania Theta has made some substantial improvements during the past few months. For instance, the chapter has elected new officers who seem very willing to implement the changes necessary to ensure the chapter will continue to improve. The officers have effectively motivated the chapter to address such issues as risk management and standards of membership.

Also, the chapter is making substantial improvements by setting standards of conduct to which each member is expected to abide. These standards address everything from alcohol consumption to a minimum amount of community service that must be performed by each member. Each member recently signed a new code of conduct, as well as the Fraternity's risk management policies.

LOYOLA

Greetings from the unbearably humid and polluted cesspool that is home to the Louisiana Gamma chapter of Phi Kappa Psi. The 1995 spring semester has been an exhausting, but pleasurable, balancing act between important chapter activities and the limitless cultural attractions of New Orleans. Thankfully, the ten members of the spring pledge class have provided a much needed focus for the majority of our chapter functions. Following a productive retreat in the rolling pine-covered hills of Folsom, Louisiana, the chaotic festivities of Mardi Gras took center stage.

When Ash Wednesday finally arrived, the tourist-dominated revelry of Mardi Gras gave way to more wholesome brotherhood activities such as the St. Patrick's Day parade and an alumni crawfish boil. Regretfully, lack of funds and the Napoleonic code stand in the way of obtaining a chapter house, but our noble endeavor continues.

Also, the brothers here are participating in a state-wide highway clean-up project call Adopt-a-Highway.

We are in the process of planning a day of golf with our alumni this summer. We hope this will bring back those with which we have lost touch over the years, and most importantly, renew and build upon the relationship with our alumni. Without them, we are lost. The Michigan Beta chapter is proud to celebrate its 50th year in East Lansing. Looking back on our history has made us proud to be Phi Psis and even prouder to be Spartans. We had a great turnout at our annual alumni homecoming banquet. It was a splendid time for alumni of all ages. One thing we have learned is how much stronger the chapter is when the undergraduates and the alumni work together.

Academically, it has been a banner year for Michigan Beta. Brothers who had been doing consistently well pulled together to help the others and last semester we had one of the highest GPA's on campus.

Philanthropically, we have been very active this year. We were also involved in Toys for Tots and we organized a can drive with proceeds going to Habitat for Humanity. We held our annual painting contest where each sorority paints a mural on the face of the boulder in front of our chapter house. Half of the proceeds go to the philanthropy of the winner's choice, while the rest going to Habitat for Humanity.

Mississippi Alpha has always been proud to participate in community service activities. In December, we helped with the Christmas Store, an organization which helps needy parents get Christmas gifts for their children. Also, we just finished a blood drive with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority which went extremely well.

MISSOURI

Missouri Alpha is currently celebrating its 125th year at the University of Missouri-Columbia! To celebrate, we held a special 125th Anniversary Weekend. The weekend combined both parents weekend and alumni weekend and was held on April 7 & 8, 1995. We focused on some of the great things we have done in the past and talked about our plans for the future.

Missouri Alpha has had a very successful year so far. After coming in 25th out of 31 fraternities in grades last spring, we bucked down and jumped to 13th last fall. Our all chapter average jumped almost .2 points on a 4.0 scale. We have also taken measures to attain a top 10 place this semester.

In January, we initiated seven worthy men into our chapter: Timothy Suter, Michael Scaggs, Travis Wolz, Cesar Lipka, Justin Manford, Rick Connolly, and Eric Edholm. Currently, we have seven pledges who we hope to initiate in August. They are: Kenneth Jefferis, Christopher Cooper, Cenk Toroslu, Kevin Beyer, Sean Dreeste, Dennis Curtis, and Travis Decker.

Currently, we are in the final stages of a multi-thousand dollar renovation and addition to our chapter house. We have also developed a new rush program in which we have turned the Rush Chairman's position into a year-long elected office. This has come about as a result of the importance that should be placed on rush. We held a rush clinic recently in order to help train all members in the correct way to rush.

With our goals for the future clearly defined as scholarship, rush, and improving alumni relations; Missouri Alpha looks forward to a successful 1995-1996 school year.

Doubling its size, New Jersey Beta experienced a growth explosion last semester. The chapter expects to do even better in the future. With several members participating on school athletic teams, the chapter attracts many athletes each semester. This year, as many as 20 men on the football team have expressed interest in the chapter.

New Jersey Beta had another successful fund-raiser last fall. Mr. Monmouth, which is a body-building competition, has now become the largest fund-raiser at the college. The chapter expects it to be bigger than ever this year. If all goes well, the chapter will raise enough money to donate a substantial amount to charity.

NEBRASKA

Go Big Red! This year's Football National Championship brought a lot of excitement to the chapter. We are also contending sportsmen, with our intramural program having a chance to place at the top of the Greek system. Along with all this excitement came 16 new initiates: Jason Benson, Jeff Scoular, Matthew Traudt, Michael Chatterton, Gary Rief, Ryan Hermes, Ryan Sewell, Darren Summer, Michael Suberly, Tim Fries, Steve Festner, Michael Morgan, Todd Vogel, and Dreith Sommer. With the addition of these new initiates comes our 100th anniversary next fall.

The alumni association and we are planning to celebrate this event September 15-16, 1995 (weekend of the Nebraska-Arizona game). We would like to extend an invitation to any local Phi Psi alumni of any chapter to attend the event. There are a variety of activities planned for the weekend. For information, please contact the chapter. This event will be nothing less than a first-class affair, and we hope to see many alumni there.

OHIO STATE

This year has been an exciting and busy year for Ohio Delta. Our house improvement project for this year was painting the entire interior of the house. Thanks to the hard work put in by all the undergraduates, this task was completed by Thanksgiving and in time for our formal. We have also done a lot of volunteer work this year. We participated in the campus-wide cleanup campaign as well as volunteering over 200 hours to the OSU library program The Thurber House was also once again the beneficiary of our work as we spent a day helping them clean and do yard work.

Within the Greek community, we continue to excel in all areas of campus life. Our house GPA has been in the top five among fraternities, as well as being above the all men's average. Our athletic teams have had repeated success on the fields as well. Our softball and soccer teams have repeated as intramural and philanthropic tournament champions for the fourth and third years, respectively. We look forward to seeing everybody at the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School this summer.

OHIO WESLEYAN

Exciting things have been occurring within our chapter in 1995. Academically, we have made progress by improving our grade point average. Our fall semester's GPA increased from 2.73 to 2.89. Currently, this is higher than the non-Greek GPA.

In the past, we had a small computer room that contained two computers and a laser printer, but this spring we converted our old pool room into a new computer room. A wall was installed to close off the room and secure our computers. Inside the room, new tables and lighting were installed; and, due to the amount of space available, we will be purchasing more computers in the near future. Our pool table and big screen television connected to our new satellite dish now reside in a portion of our basement.

Our chapter has dedicated time this spring working for Adopt-A-Highway, Habitat for Humanity, and the Columbus Zoo; and, at the end of April, we celebrated our 500 hours of community service with the Phi Psi 500.

We are also proud to say that we have initiated 24 new members into our chapter this spring: John Allotta, Sylvania, OH; Brent Bauer, Mansfield, TX; Sean Brady, Cape Elizabeth, ME; Joseph Beshara, Brecksville, OH; Steven Bradney, Painted Post, NY; Kurry Commins, Cincinnati, OH; Jeffrey Ellerton, Simsbury, CT; Nicholas Eugster, Edina, MN; Andrew Fricek, Minneapolis, MN; Jason Gantt, Bay Village, OH; Brett Hampson, West Chester, PA; Richard Holmes, Riverside, CA; Ryan Jankowski, Upper Arlington, OH; Theodore Johnson, Lake Forest, IL; Jess Knox, York, ME; Heath Krida, New Orleans, LA; Cesar Mason, Providence, RI; Douglas Reed, College Park, GA; Michael Renga, Glenhead, NY; Josh Whichard, Washington, NC; Aaron Wilson, Clyde, OH; Steven Ziegler, Saint Marys, GA; Jeffrey Hayes, Dayton, OH; and Jeffery Finn, Hinckley, OH.

OKLAHOMA

The semester is coming to a close and the brothers of Oklahoma Alpha are gearing up for summer rush. As we put a rough year behind us, morale is high and the outlook is promising.

The brothers have become leaders on the Sooner campus by putting forth a contract with the university's new president. In the contract, we pledge to expand even further our activities on campus and in the community. In doing this we and the university have made Phi Psi the model after which Greek and non-Greek organizations will be shaped. Other fraternity and sorority chapters will soon follow suit.

We have held spring initiation and would like to welcome our new brothers. We also congratulate Zac Cooper for his induction into Phi Beta Kappa.

On the international front, we would like to recognize our brothers studying overseas: Randy Cartwright in Scotland and Sam Ball in France. As always, we are proud to be Phi Psi.

OREGON

Oregon Alpha is looking forward to an exciting spring term. Our annual philanthropy, The Smoker Boxing Tournament, is in its 17th year. This year's tournament looks to be bigger and better than ever. All proceeds will go to the Children's Miracle Network.

Phi Psi have taken many leadership positions on campus. We have a strong showing in the Student Senate, Interfraternity Council, and the Bookstore Board of Directors.

The highlight of spring term each year is our annual trip to Lake Shasta. Everyone is looking forward to this year's trip, especially with the wet weather we had this year in Eugene. Please stop by 729 East 11th Street, if you ever find yourself in Eugene.

OREGON STATE

Oregon Beta would like to say hello and thanks to all of the alumni who made the trek back to the chapter house for the homecoming and Founders Day festivities. Homecoming was a blast for the undergraduates who had the opportunity to meet over 40 alumni who showed up for a heartbreaking loss to Stanford.

We started the year with the Oregon State Fraternity Chapter of the Year Award in our possession, after a strong year of growth and development. During that time and throughout this year we had several undergraduates in numerous scholarship honoraries, and currently have a member that is the Vice President of Oregon State's Interfraternity Council.

This year, our live-in members have been constantly in the top five scholastically, out of 25 fraternities, while also maintaining over OSU's all men's average of 2.8. During this time, we have also fielded playoff teams in football, volleyball and bowling; we even tried our luck with table tennis, but could not quite make the cut.

We invite and encourage all of our Phi Psi brothers, young and old, to stop by and visit the Oregon Beta chapter of Phi Kappa Psi. Thanks again to all of the alumni who have supported our endeavors.

PENN

This year for Penn Iota has been a productive one. We have continued our tradition of the Foosball Tournament for the Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund, an event which got us on a local news broadcast. Penn Iota also participated in Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week Mocktail event to promote fun alternatives to alcoholic beverages.

Plans have been made for the renovation of the basement this summer, but as always donations are cheerfully accepted. Last year with alumni support, we were able to buy a pool table in the chapter room for the use of the brotherhood and the alumni alike.

In conclusion, we are reaching out to some of our long-lost alumni. The next year looks promising, but with increased alumni support there is little we can't do together. As always, we are available for any thing you may need at (215) 222-4425.

PENN STATE

We here at the lodge are still experiencing success and having a good time. Our Spring rush yielded eight quality men: Tim Bezio, Rochester, NY; Dylan Bucks, Palmyra, PA; Darren Conner, Southampton, NJ; Dave Ledbury, Malden, MA; Adam Lieb, Stroudsburg, PA; Steve Sassman, Beaver, PA; Ashish Shah, Reading, PA; and Matt Zelezen, Bethlehem, PA. We all look forward to having these fine men as brothers.

This year we teamed up with the lovely sisters of Gamma Phi Beta for Spring Week. Due to much participation from both sides, we anticipate one of the best Spring Weeks yet here at the lodge.

We are organizing the 27th annual Phi Psi 500 with help from the sisters of Delta Zeta. Due to a strong effort from the entire brotherhood to raise money, we are looking forward to the most successful 500 with the current format. The profits will go to the Association of Retarded Citizens.

As Penn State looks forward to another successful football season, we encourage alumni to pay a visit to the lodge.

PURDUE

This was an active semester for the brothers at Indiana Delta. We participated in many campus organizations and philanthropies. Many of our brothers participated in the Big Brother/Big Sister program at Purdue. Also, Jason Santiago was named to the Student National Pharmaceutical Association Golden Key National Honors Society. Brother Alexander Romero remained active in the Engineering Student Council and EE Curriculum Committee. Romero was also the recipient of the Air Products Academic Achievement Award. Numerous other brothers are members of various career-related organizations and committees.

Our chapter participated in philanthropies. We received second place in the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash, and we took an active role in running Alpha Chi Omega's Frisbee Fling philanthropy. The chapter is very excited about its own philanthropy, the Phi Psi 500, which will take place at the beginning of the fall semester.

The chapter is proud of its new initiates: Brian Alcala, Joliet, IL; David Blouin, Oak Lawn, IL; Michael DiSalvo, Allen Park, MI; Jerry Hall, Oak Lawn, IL; Kevin Lahey, Lockport, IL; Patrick Lecinski, Hawthorn Woods, IL; Jeremy McMahon, Chicago Hts., IL; Shawn O'Neill, Orlando, FL; Matthew Rose, Seymour, IN; Shane Ryan, Woodlands, TX; Jay Schmuck, Lafayette, IN; Stephen Timmer, Richland, MI; and Justin Webb, Franklin, IN.

STANFORD

California Beta has had a very active year, coming together as a tightly-bonded group over the past seven months. Due to a small membership, brothers have had to take increasingly large leadership roles, and the result has been many successful programs including community service and environmental action projects, formal social outings, and our fifth annual all-campus Phi Psi Battle of the Bands. Spring rush just netted five more pledges, to bring total chapter membership to 14.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

The spring of 1995 marked a period of rebuilding for California Delta.

With a row-high pledge class of 17 men, we are currently ranked fourth in the interfraternity intramural athletic competition and have earned the number three spot for fraternity scholarship. April 21st was the date of our Phi Psi 500 which raises money for the Orthopaedic Hospital's Children's Brace Fund. Our first annual Easter philanthropy was a great success. Local children enjoyed fun with the brothers and loved our Easter egg hunt.

This year also saw Phi Psi's return to Songfest. Collaborating with Delta Gamma, we brought home awards for Best Vocal Talent and Best Sets. For the first time in several years, one of our brothers was elected to the IFC, serving as Vice President for Athletics.

Alumni relations have vastly improved, as several prominent Phi Psis have been invited for dinner or to speak to the chapter. Stronger relations have also been established with our house corporation board, which has been instrumental in the rebuilding process.

New York Theta, while still a very young chapter, has earned a reputation for effective chapter operations and organization. The committees all meet regularly and do a great deal of work, which makes for an efficient and business-like chapter meeting. Rhode Island Beta is excited to put the recent past behind them and move forward with the dedicated

SOUTHERN METHODIST

Texas Delta has endured a challenging year. Unfortunately, the chapter's numbers are half what they were a year ago. This decline in membership has resulted in a strong spring rush effort with impressive alumni support. Three new pledges have already joined for fall 1995.

Phi Psi excelled in scholarship as usual at SMU, posting the highest overall GPA yet again. In addition, IFC recognized us with awards for both scholarship and chapter organization.

This fall, we held the 3rd annual Phi Psi 500 bed race. Proceeds went to Children's Medical Center of Dallas. We also participated in Dallas Acts Kind Week, doing random acts of kindness on the SMU campus.

Out recent initiates, all from Texas, are: Aaron Stendell, Dallas; Paul Riggs, Carrollton; and Steve Gerstung, Mesquite. Our current pledges, also from Texas, are: Kevin Blanchard, Flower Mound; and John Morris, Plano.

Texas Delta is headed into next fall highly motivated to increase its numbers and be an exemplary chapter at SMU. A good future lies ahead of us.

SUNY AT BUFFALO

Greetings from Buffalo! After seeing the demise of two fellow fraternal organizations from our Greek system, our chapter is optimistic and determined to prosper. We are currently getting ready for Greek Week here. Two years ago, Phi Psi dominated Greek Week and came out on top. Last year, Phi Psi took second to Kappa Sigma by a mere one-point difference. We are looking forward to getting back on top this year. Phi Psi also organized its first annual Foozapalooza Foosball Tournament. It was a great success.

We would like to congratulate our eight graduating seniors. We would like to thank them for all they have done for our chapter and wish them luck in their future endeavors. We would also like to congratulate the Chi pledge class. Best wishes to Adam Miller who recently got married.

TENNESSEE

Tennessee Epsilon has been a chapter on the move at the University of Tennessee. In the area of philanthropy, Tennessee Epsilon has done much to live up to the traditions of the Fraternity. The chapter has been involved with Lakeshore Mental Institute in aiding them to build a physical fitness course, and working the concessions stands at local professional hockey games for the Women's Sexual Assault Crisis Center. Also, we participated with Delta Zeta in Easter festivities for the Tennessee School for the Deaf.

The chapter has implemented several new changes that will enable it to become an even stronger presence on campus. Among these changes were the establishment of a Housing Corporation designed to raise funds and explore opportunities for building a new chapter house, and the formation of an alumni council designed to bring about more alumni involvement in chapter growth. Alumni relations have been on an upswing after a period of sporadic communication. This turnaround can be attributed to our holding special Alumni Day events every semester.

Our newest initiates are: Nicholas E. Sarris, Marietta, GA; William J. Lowe III, Stafford, VA; Christopher M. Brown, Bowling Green, KY; Roger D. Holt, Lenoir City, TN;

Everything is finally moving here now that our Alumni Supervisory Committee, chaired by Gregg Waddill III, is finally in place. The annual Zeta-Phi Psi Easter Egg Hunt for underprivileged children was bigger and better than last year.

We have eight pledges in our spring pledge class: Theodore W. Attel and Joel B. Effrussy, Dallas, TX; Charles B. Belson, Temple, TX; Daniel Jara, Tomball, TX; Christopher B. LaPoint, Kwajaleen, Marshal Islands; Wesley A. Mclesse, Vicksburg, MS; Mark A. Rankin, Spring, TX; Douglas M. Sayook, Katy, TX.

We are looking forward to a great rush this summer so if any brothers know of anyone attending UT Austin, please get in touch with us.

TEXAS TECH

Greetings from Lubbock, Texas. The brothers of Texas Beta would like to inform you about our exciting semester. Our chapter is pleased to recognize the initiation of ten new brothers. They are: Paul Wright, Robert Franklin, Rick King, Kirk Diovore, Steven Van Auker, Eric Day, Billy Weiper, Bart Oglesby, Ryan Waite and Shane Wilson. We are proud to finally call these men brothers.

We have had many exciting philanthropy and athletic activities this semester. Examples of these are garage sales and numerous car washes to raise money for the Lubbock Rape Crisis Center. In addition to these activities, we also participated in the annual Greek Weekend to raise money for the homeless. As you can see, Texas Beta is once again leading the way to promote a better environment for us all. Athletically, Texas Beta is in the running for the intramural championship. The semester has been full of exciting finishes, which include first place in indoor soccer, second place in basketball, first place in tennis and fourth place in football. We are currently ranked second in softball.

To top it off, the chapter was ranked eighth out of 22 other men's fraternities on campus in GPA. Strong brotherhood and commitment are what made all of these achievements possible and it goes to show that the ideals of Letterman and Moore are still alive at Texas Beta today.

We enjoyed a great Founders Day with the Greater Orange County Alumni Association. Cal Kappa took first place in the Winter Songfest, sponsored by the association. The brothers would like to thank Ray Garra for orchestrating such a great evening. We also had the good fortune of having Dud Daniel attend one of our chapter meetings.

The men of Indiana Epsilon enjoyed continued success this year in many areas of fraternity life. We maintained a strong academic standing on campus and had the third highest GPA among all fraternities. Many of our members are also actively involved in student government and hold several important positions, including student body president. Once again, we are excelling at intramural sports and expect to win the all-sports award for the fourth year in a row. Our members also continue to serve the community by taking part in food drives, highway cleanup, Christmas in April, and the city's new recycling program.

Much of the chapter's success has been due to the strong pledge classes that were taken this year. One of our goals for the future is to increase alumni support through better communication and by holding activities such as our annual alumni golf outing. As another academic year draws to a close, the brothers of Virginia Zeta can look back upon their accomplishments with pride. A renewed campaign of scholastic achievement, membership recruitment, and community involvement have provided the chapter with a foundation for continued success.

As part of our most recent community activities, the chapter volunteered nearly 100 man-hours repainting the university gymnasium. This activity brought us in close contact with university officials and other Greek and non-Greek organizations on campus. Virginia Zeta was also successful in raising nearly $1,000 for the family of a local police officer, killed in the line of duty. This money was directly applied to a trust fund on behalf of the children and employed as an aid for family expenses.

Virginia Zeta was pleased to accept five new brothers into our midst. These men were initiated with one of the highest cumulative GPAs in chapter history and a hearty congratulations is well deserved. We would like to invite all brothers passing through the Blacksburg area to visit.

WABASH

The Phi Psis of Indiana Gamma comprise a diverse and active group of men. With the addition of 20 new initiates, we included 5 national merit scholars, 7 varsity athletes, and a multitude of other special talents into an already diverse brotherhood. This year alone we have boasted brothers as the Inter-Fraternity Council President and the Student Senate Vice President. In addition, several brothers have earned leadership positions in the various clubs around campus.

Athletically, over 40% of the brothers participated in a varsity sport, including three who paced the cross country team to a fourth place finish at nationals. Also, we had individual national qualifiers in both swimming and track. In intramural action, we are in the lead pack as we try to defend our crown from last year.

Among other notable achievements, four members of Indiana Gamma guided the speech and debate team to a ninth place finish at their national competition this spring. In addition, four brothers received the coveted honor of being chosen to study abroad next year. As we approach the end of this school year, we eagerly await next year which will surely promise more success than ever.

Our new initiates include: Michael Mansfield, El Paso, TX; Eric Jaryszak, Lowell, IN; Jeffrey Pester, El Paso, TX; Timothy Graves, Steubenville, OH; Bradley Glass, Kokomo, IN; James Marietta, Rockville, IN; Matthew Mickelson, Anderson, IN; Peter Harter, Warsaw, IN; Kristofer Monson, London, England; Brian Tucker, Kokomo, IN; John Lubash, Crown Point, IN; Brian Ray, Kokomo, IN; Michael Vance, Greenwood, IN; Jason Bridges, Muncie, IN; Richard Hubbard, Chandlersville, OH; Dan Lackman, South Bend, IN; Roy Early, Culver, IN; Daniel Spomar, Munster, IN; Lance Clouse, Crawfordsville, IN; Jason Wiener, Bow, NH.

WASHINGTON

This has been a year of innovation and improvement here at Washington Alpha. We have seen some very generous contributions from our alumni, in terms of time, money and experience. Due to a very helpful alumnus, we are creating a modern library in the house. We have two state-of-the-art computers at our disposal and plans are in the works for more. By the time we are finished, we will have built a new room in the house for a library equipped with one of the best computer systems of any fraternity anywhere. Our alumni were also able to show their great support by attending our annual Founders Day banquet.

Our chapter is continuing in the tradition of giving back to the community. Our chapter has started to feed the homeless of Seattle. At least once a month we will make peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and pass them out downtown. We have been continuing to participate in the Adopt-a-Highway program. Many of our brothers have joined a "Books for Kids" program where students will go to local schools to read to young children.

The names of our new initiates are: Joshua Brown, Sammamish; Harold Tran, Michael Miller, Danny Trinh, Vancouver; Hamilton Gillespie, Littleton, CO; Thomas Hargan, Brandon Boynton, Troy Thomas, Dave Dammarell, Andy Lee, Kent; Pat Robinson, Stiliacoom; Pat Prynne, Longview; Kelly Kirn, Newport; Craig Wallace, Tacoma; and Mike Archuletta, Maple Valley.

Virginia Beta continues to excel within the Greek community at Washington and Lee. Members of the campus perceive Phi Kappa Psi as a true leader in a well-established system. The community expects excellence from the chapter, and the chapter fulfills such expectations by providing leaders to nearly all the academic and extracurricular organizations on campus.

Virginia Beta plans to position itself in a manner that will permit more participation within the Fraternity. Having missed the last three national gatherings of undergraduates, the chapter plans to attend the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School in July; the chapter intends to rectify its previous absences with a strong showing in Oxford.

WEST VIRGINIA No newsletter submitted

West Virginia Alpha has experienced a resurgence as one of the most outstanding chapters on campus. Having taken an entirely new approach to recruitment, the chapter led all fraternities with an impressive pledge class of 43 men this semester. Essentially, the chapter decided to no longer rely on rushees to find the chapter. Rather, each member aggressively sought out prospective members everywhere on campus. This newly found enthusiasm should ensure that West Virginia Alpha becomes, once again, the premiere chapter on campus. Additionally, the Phi Psis at WVU continue to strive for academic superiority. The chapter ranked eighth out of 21 fraternities academically; West Virginia Alpha surpassed the all men's average for the fourth consecutive semester.

WITTENBERG No newsletter submitted

The men of Ohio Beta continue to represent an integral segment of the Wittenberg Greek system. With 40 active members and 19 pledges, the chapter is again the largest fraternity on campus. The chapter fell just short of attaining an overall chapter GPA of 3.0. A 2.998 marked the first time in five semesters that Ohio Beta has been below 3.0. The chapter intends to make sure that never happens again.

Phi Psis dominate the campus's extracurricular activities and occupy positions of leadership in every major student organization. The chapter maintains a very successful social calendar as well. Ohio Beta's self imposed party patrols monitor every social function to ensure the provision of a safe, enjoyable atmosphere at all times. They are looking forward to an even more successful calendar next semester. Please stop in and enjoy the fellowship that the chapter encourages every day.

YORK

Greetings and salutations from the Pennsylvania Rho chapter. The Penn Rhoian have completed another community service packed year. We have continued to serve the York community through our traditional services and added a few.

The brothers continue to serve as leaders of the Adopt-A-Block program. The event occurs twice a semester, bringing both professional and social organizations together to clean the streets. This year, the event has grown to 400-plus students in nearly 30 organizations.

This past Christmas, we started a new tradition. The brothers sang Christmas carols at a local shopping mall. With the donations they received, the chapter was able to provide presents for the children of a homeless mothers' shelter.

The Phi Psis continued to collect coats for the homeless men of York. They helped serve meals at a local soup kitchen, and participated in its spring clean-up. The brothers also managed to continue their number one ranking on campus and acquire 16 excellent new brothers.

This fall, the brothers plan to start a tutorial program at a city junior high school named for a Phi Psi, Edgar Fahs Smith. We hope this program will lead to a great relationship with the students and administration of Edgar Fahs Smith.

In the upcoming year, the Pennsylvania Rho chapter plans to continue its work in the community and its excellent campus relations.

COLONY

SAN DIEGO STATE

This has been an interesting semester for the colony. We raised our GPA to over 2.5 which put us in third place among fraternities on our campus. We also have a current spring pledge class of 14 which brings the colony to 31 members. Our colony has also participated in many philanthropic events this year such as the Arthritis Foundation Jingle Bell Fun Run, and tutoring at a local elementary school. Our colony has totaled over 300 hours in community service so far this year.

In sports we beat Sigma Phi Epsilon in softball 10-4; this was a great upset considering that their chapter has been the undefeated softball champions for over three years. We have an excellent well-rounded colony, and we look forward to receiving our charter soon.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS & CLUBS

ATLANTA

Our annual Founders Day celebration was most successful in providing the renewal of friendships and the expansion of our association to brothers new to the area and new to our events. The combination of an excellent meal, some brief but cogent remarks from SWHi Flynn Brandley, South Carolina Alpha '72, and a productive business meeting lightened a rain-soaked evening. The presence of eight brothers from Georgia Alpha added to our festivities as did the awarding of several 25-year pins and two presentations of Gold Recognition pins: Frank Gleason, Pennsylvania Lambda '40, and John Bair, Pennsylvania Epsilon '46 (yes, we were a year early). As we enter another year, the Atlanta Alumni will be led by President Frank Gleason, VP John Mitchell, Ohio Delta '90, Treas. Bob Beal, West Virginia Alpha '49, and Sec. Flynn Brantley. Brothers Beal and Brantley will continue to direct the "cell" network to contact area alumni of upcoming events and to expand participation through the cell leaders.

Spring events include a golf tournament on May 13, in conjunction with the brothers of Georgia Alpha. The response following the November tournament was so positive that semi-annual divot-replacement has become almost mandatory. Craig Stephens, Ohio Delta '65, will again coordinate the event. And in August, we will return for the annual Pool Party at the home of Liz and John Bair. These are two great events you don't want to miss.

And if you can schedule your calendar to accommodate, brothers continue to meet for lunch on the last Friday of each month at Paisano's in Sandy Springs, 11:54 am. Details will be provided in our quarterly issue of the Phi Psi Phocus; to get on our mailing list, contact Flynn Brantley (404) 325-0595. We look forward to seeing you soon.

BATON ROUGE/NEW ORLEANS

The Louisiana Alpha Alumni Reunion Celebration was held at the Fairmont Hotel in New Orleans, Louisiana. This spectacular event, hosted by Louisiana Alpha on the evening of April 1, honored all of the present alumni, with appropriate presentations of 25- and 10-year membership recognition pins. A special thanks to all the alumni present for making this the largest event of its kind in the history of the chapter.

For the past six months, new life has been breathed into the local alumni association. A small interest group has recently been meeting every first Wednesday of each month with the intention of rejuvenating the association. Meetings will alternate between Baton Rouge and New Orleans. The Baton Rouge meetings will take place at Calendar's, located at 4350 Highland Road, and the New Orleans meetings will be at Bennigan's, located at 3434 Veterans Boulevard. The meetings will begin at 7:00 pm. The Alumni Association is a great way to enhance and renew your fraternal experience. Hope to see you in the near future.

Please be on the look-out for upcoming events. If you should have any questions, or would like some additional information, please contact Buster Lyons at (504) 947-3701.

CENTRAL JERSEY/JERSEY SHORE

Brunch at Larry Peroni's Waterfront in West Trenton. Former SWGP Walter Lee Sheppard, New York Alpha '29, entertained us with his familiar Fraternity folklore. Other speakers included District I Archon Rob Garagiola, New Jersey Gamma '91, and outgoing club president Chris Hammer, New Jersey Delta '91, who presented Dan Matthews, New Jersey Delta '90, with a recognition pin for his strength and perseverance in his rehabilitation process.

Other notable brothers in attendance were SWAG Tom Meisner, Pennsylvania Theta '68, and ELC Josh Mistler, Kansas Alpha '90. The club elected Neil Schloss, Bob Rooyakkers, and Scott Kinney to the offices of President, Vice President, and Treasurer, respectively, all New Jersey Delta '90.

The club is sponsoring Phi Psi Day at the Races on September 23 at Freehold Raceway. Mark your calendars! Details will follow by mail, but all alumni living in New Jersey are welcome. Plans are also in the works for golf outing this summer and a trip to a professional football or baseball game.

If you're interested in becoming a club member or would like to hear more about our upcoming events, please contact Neil Schloss (201) 994-9400, ext. 304, or Bob Rooyakkers (201) 802-5985. We're looking forward to seeing you one way or another this year!

CHICAGO

The Chicago Alumni Association has had a busy first quarter. Our first event, held at Boondocks down by the Chicago River, was quite a party. The second, our annual Founders Day celebration was held at the prestigious Chicago Athletic Association. The event drew quite a crowd of alumni from all over the state. SWVGP Greg Knapp delivered an inspirational speech to the troops.

We have some exciting things coming this summer. There are plans to have a baseball outing and our annual golf outing. Please join us for an informal gathering of brothers the last Thursday of every month from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at Jamesons on Clinton Street near Adams. It promises to be a great summer for Phi Psis in Chicagoland so watch your mail and get involved!

Our new officers are: President William Reynolds, Illinois Zeta '93; Vice President Clyde Patterson, Illinois Delta '78; Second Vice President John Munger, Illinois Delta '78; and Treasurer Pat Kirby, Minnesota Beta '62. Our thanks to all the past officers, and congratulations to all of the new ones. For questions or information on Alumni Association events please call Brother Reynolds at (312) 507-8274, or mail Pat Kirby at P.O. Box 957981, Hoffman Estates, IL 60195-7981.

CLEVELAND

The Greater Cleveland Alumni Association is alive once again. After a brief hiatus and regrouping we are ready to go forward into 1995. As of this issue of The Shield, we are 20 brothers strong and growing. With an alumni base of over 1,000 brothers we are looking to a bright future.

We welcome all to our weekly luncheon at John The Waiter restaurant. That's right, John The Waiter! It is located in the heart of downtown Cleveland at East 4th and Euclid, in the old arcade. We meet at 11:45 a.m. on Fridays for lunch. For those who cannot attend, we also hold happy hour socials once a month (more once we get going).

For more information, please contact Matt Wunderle at (216) 281-7277. Send email to tatonka1@aol.com. You can also contact Tim Schadolnik at (216) 230-9429 in the evenings or at (216) 575-3241 during the day.

GREATER ORANGE COUNTY

Southern California Phi Psis filled the Garden Room of Orange County's exclusive Center Club to capacity this past February 24 in exuberant celebration of Founders Day. One hundred and eighty alumni and undergraduates enjoyed an evening of robust and continuous entertainment featuring a Winter Sing contest among the California Epsilon, Delta and Kappa chapters and the fledgling California Lambda colony.

Alumni judges for the contest, headed by Richard Dickey, formed their own venerable Phi Psi Quartet at the outset of the event and set the tone with their seasoned renditions of old favorites, before rendering a decision that established UCI's Cal Kappa chapter as the winner of the area's very first Winter Sing.

Altogether, five chapters from the region were represented, along with Executive Director Terry Harper, former National President Bob Meserve and former Executive Director Dud Daniel, our keynote speaker.

Live piano cocktail music started the night's four hours, leading to an exceptional buffet dinner, chapter status reports and key addresses, the song fest, exuberant chorale responses from the active chapter groups and ending in specialty entertainment.

Greater Orange County Alumni Association President Ray Garra planned and emceed the affair with assistance from Vice President Gayl Whipple as liaison to the Center Club, Wendell Childs at check-in and receipts, and Scott Torrance, Jason Faries, Matt Shaw and Tony DeMarco as event staff.

Commentary during and after this spectacularly successful event record it as one of the best Founders Day events in recent times.

The Greater Orange County Alumni Association does not schedule regular meetings, but rather special events. Future activities under consideration are golfing, yachting, sporting and theatrical soirees, some being co-sponsored with other regional alumni associations, some planned for attendance with wives and girlfriends, and some special entertainment events with limited space available. To obtain information on participation and/or involvement with the association, contact: Ray Garra (714) 644-1473.

HOUSTON

Fifty Houston-area alumni and their guest listened as Tom James, Texas Alpha '48, past SWGP, delivered the keynote address at the Houston Founders Day banquet on February 18. The event marked the first Founders Day celebration in Houston for several years and was the keystone of efforts over the past few months to revitalize the Houston Alumni Association. Nelson Ebaugh, Texas Alpha '89, led the committee that planned the banquet.

Special recognition awards were presented to Dan Flowers, Tennessee Delta '49, for his single handed efforts to keep the association alive these past years; Dan Nelson, Nebraska Beta '77, for underwriting the initial mailings; and Chuck Brandman, Ohio Epsilon '70 and Ken Haveman, Michigan Beta '57, for leadership in the revitalization effort.

Officers for 1995 are: Charles Harrington, Texas Alpha '66, President; Todd Ivey, Texas Alpha '85, President-elect; Dan Churay, Texas Alpha '82, Secretary; Shane Merz, Oklahoma Alpha '85, Treasurer; Robin Holland, Texas Alpha '67, Director; Ken Haveman, Director; Chuck Brandman, Director.

The next major event will be the Houston Alumni Golf Tournament of June 12. A deep-sea fishing expedition is being planned for later in the summer

INDIANAPOLIS

The Indianapolis Alumni Association has seen its activity level grow through early 1995, and we have a number of activities planned through out the year.

The Association has a new schedule for monthly luncheons. For those on the north side of town, join us at noon at The Cooker restaurant located at Keystone at the Crossing on the first Tuesday of every month. For brothers in the downtown area, we have a noon luncheon at the Indianapolis Athletic Club on the third Tuesday of each month. We have reserved seating at both places so feel free to just drop in.

Finally, brothers enjoyed a fabulous Founders Day celebration at the Columbia Club on February 18. Milt Thompson, Ohio Beta '74, entertained us with his recollections of the fraternal experience and shared the effect Phi Psi has had on his life.

We had over 100 undergraduates join us, as well as a great group of area alumni.

Please contact any of the following Association officers if you would like to get involved in our activities: President Rick Michael, (317) 253-6600; Vice President Craig Hixon, (317) 634-4447; Treasurer C.J. McClanahan, (317) 635-7561; Secretary Rob Twitchell, (317) 262-4302; or Events Coordinator Matt Fox, (317) 843-5323.

KANSAS CITY

The annual Founders Day Dinner on February 17 at Hallbrook Country Club was a huge success. A record turnout of over 150 Phi Psis were on hand to celebrate the new year and listen to updates of undergraduate happenings at Kansas and Missouri. Frank Boal, a local sports newscaster, answered questions for almost an hour and added fuel to the long time Kansas-Missouri rivalry. Fun was had by everyone with many of the diners continuing to celebrate will into the night. Who says Jayhawks and Tigers can't get along?

The second annual golf tournament is being planned for this summer. If anyone is interested in working on and/or playing in the tournament, please contact George Kerdolff.

George Kerdolff

MORGANTOWN

Local alumni, members of the James Cochran House Association, and the undergraduates joined together to host a very enjoyable Founders Day celebration. David Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61 and current Fraternity President, gave the keynote address. President Woodrum is the sixth Fraternity President West Virginia Alpha has produced.

Michael Buchanan, West Virginia Alpha '70, who is the great-grandson of the founder of West Virginia Alpha delivered the Memorial Service address and recognized those brothers who passed into the Chapter Eternal over the last 12 months.

Following the Memorial Service, the day's activities then moved to the Erickson Alumni Center for the banquet. In addition to brothers Woodrum and Buchanan, other brothers who were part of the program included George "The Earl of Elkview" Daugherty, West Virginia Alpha '51, who entertained with wit, humor and song. Like fine wine, George gets better all the time!

Michael Hopkins, West Virginia Alpha '73, president of the James Cochran House Association, updated the brothers about the goings on at 780 Spruce Street. Ed Cadogan, West Virginia Alpha '86, a member of the House Association, revealed that plans were underway to implement an annual giving program and that more news would follow in the next Mountaineer Phi Psi.

NORTH TEXAS

Brotherhood is burgeoning in North Texas as the NTAA adds members to its roster and new programs to its agenda. The year was kicked off with sales of the Dallas Passbook, a coupon book filled with values for entertainment and living. The proceeds from our sales will be donated to Children's Medical Center.

Founders Day at Dave and Buster's was a success. Richard Bower, Oklahoma Alpha '56, reminded us what it means to be a Phi Psi, and two new officers were elected: Chuck Roehrig, Texas Delta '89, as Vice President; and Marc Winandy, Texas Delta '93, as Treasurer. Our thanks to brothers Shawn Wells, Texas Alpha '84, and Michael Chadima, Indiana Beta '76, for serving their posts so dutifully over the years.

The Phi Psi Faxnet has more than doubled in size since January. The Faxnet provides the NTAA with a cost-efficient and timely way to provide our members with event updates and schedule changes. If you're not on the Faxnet, call Chip Green at (214) 922-4SMU and we'll get you added on.

Other exciting events coming up include several Passbook Parties where those who invested in the '95 Passbook will have chances to cash in on discounts, the ever-present Third Thursday luncheon (call Chip for updates--we're debating a move), the Second Annual Happy Hour for Graduates & New Alumni (mid-June), and stay tuned for a philanthropic idea that will team us up with the Texas Delta group to blow the doors off the SMU campus and make a name for Phi Psi in Dallas!

Don't wait to get active again! There's no better time!

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

The NorCal Alumni Association has been studying the feasibility of re-establishing the California Gamma Chapter at the University of California, Berkeley. Cal Gamma alumni Ken Perscheid, Joe Jackson, and Ken Coatsworth traveled to the Executive Council meeting and successfully garnered support or bringing Cal Gamma back. Cal Gamma alumni and Fraternity staff will combine their efforts to rush interested undergraduates this fall. Brothers interested in helping should call Tom Godsey at (510) 653-7993.

All Cal Gammans & other local Phi Psis are invited to a reunion weekend in Monterey August 18, 19 and 20 to kick off the heated fall rush campaign. The agenda will be to have fun, renew old school ties, plan for the fall at Cal and discuss how best to support the Stanford chapter. A reservation has been made for a beach house for those who wish to spend the entire weekend. Food and drink will be provided to fuel your golf, tennis, volleyball and hot tubbing efforts. Further details will follow. Contact Blake Yeaman at (510) 336-4190 if you plan to attend.

OMAHA

All is well in the land of the National Champion Cornhuskers!

The year began with a festive salute to the Fraternity's birthday by celebrating Founders Day at the Venice Inn. Over 100 brothers from Nebraska Alpha, Beta and numerous other chapters gathered. Libation and sustenance provided a wonderful opportunity to renew and continue the bond of brotherhood that unites Phi Psis. Chapter reports provided by both Nebraska Alpha and Beta revealed that academics, philanthropy, athletics and social functions were keeping both entities busy during the current academic year. Also, both chapters are planning special events for this fall to coincide with milestones in their respective histories. Nebraska Alpha celebrates its 100th birthday while Nebraska Beta reaches 30 years on the campus of Creighton University. Both are planning significant alumni activities.

Recently several Nebraska Beta alums formed the Nebraska Beta Alumni Council with a stated intention of strengthening the relationship between Beta undergraduates and alumni. Under the guidance of John Fox, Nebraska Beta '83, and Bryan Mick, Nebraska Beta '83, approximately 15 area alumni have been recruited for this council. Fr. Dick Hauser, S.J., and Dr. Joe Phillips, Faculty Advisors, are responsible for the concept and have been recruiting members of the active chapter to participate!

A summer golf outing for area alumni will be planned with notification to follow. We also look forward to seeing some out-of-area alumni return for chapter birthday celebrations this fall.

RHODE ISLAND

Alumni of Rhode Island Beta chapter are in the middle of re-organizing their Association, following a Founders Day banquet in Lincoln, R.I. in early March.

The meeting elected six men to take over Association leadership: Dave Kehoe of Wakefield, Charlie Blanchette of Coventry, Bill Guglietta of Cranston, Phil Kostka of Attleboro, Mass., Dennis Angelone of North Scituate, and Joe Natale of Providence.

Only about 30 members attended Founders Day, and no undergraduates. The banquet was scheduled on the Friday beginning the University of Rhode Island's spring break, which undergrads said was the underlying cause for their absence. Association membership has hovered between 100 and 150 in recent years, although the chapter's initiates now number nearly 800. The new board is expected to make a membership drive its number one priority.

Both the Association and AHC plan to send representatives to the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School in Indianapolis this summer; and longtime alumni newsletter editor Rick Booth has said he plans to step down.

Through the foreseeable future, correspondence for the Association and The Link may be addressed to Brother Booth at 232 Washington St., Norwood, MA 02062, (617) 762-8371. Brother Booth may also be contacted by electronic mail: obooth@world.std.com, or obooth@aol.com.

SOUTH PLAINS

Developments within the Texas Beta Chapter have led to a dramatic show of support from the South Plains Alumni Association. The chapter, facing serious financial problems, agreed to management oversight from the SPAA including accounts receivable and debt recovery. The spring issue of The Phi Psi Rag was mailed to all alumni in Texas and a strong commitment was received. If you have yet to mail in your donation of you are not on the mailing list please let us know at (806) 795-3911 (Dr. Carr's office) or (806) 795-2315 (fax).

The unifying opinion of our alumni is that Texas Beta must go on but your help is essential. Your $25 SPAA dues are used efficiently and are critical to the effort for the chapter. The preferred model of alumni supervision has been achieved and a cooperative relationship exists. Do your part and call SPAA today. Remember "all that is needed for evil to succeed is for men of good character to do nothing".

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Greetings from the newly reformed Southern California/Los Angeles Alumni Association! Our numbers our slowly increasing and motivation is skyrocketing. Already we have planned a summer beach party and a fall barbecue for the USC vs. UCLA game for our local chapters, Cal Delta and Cal Epsilon, in any ways that we can offer. Since many brothers may not know of the association, I invite and encourage all Phi Psis living in Los Angeles and the surrounding areas to join and become active once again. We are always looking for activities and interest from alumni. I hope to see and hear from all of the brothers living in Southern California soon. For more information, contact Jason Faries at (310) 539-6440.

TWIN CITIES

The first foursome of the Phi Psi Golf Tournament '95 will tee-off at noon on Friday, July 21, at Braemar. Last year, limited tee times forced us to turn away brothers. This year we have a few more tee times. They are still limited so make your reservations NOW! Call Jay Sitko at (612) 667-1858. Post-golf festivities will be open and all Phi Psis are encouraged to attend.

Founders Day was another success of which to be proud. Brother Strohofer, on very short notice, pulled together an exciting and educational event. International cuisine was served and Brother Claussen lead an informative tasting of California wines. Phi Psi alumni, undergraduates and pledges related tales of the past, current successes and future opportunities to one another late into the night.

Finally, the MNBA Organization is getting organized. We are preparing a quarterly publication that will inform and unite all Phi Psi alumni in the area. If you do not receive yours by the end of July, call Rhys Parry at (612) 588-2360.

WESTERN NEW YORK

Phi Psis young and old were on hand for this year's Founders Day Celebration. The Western New York Alumni Association elected Thomas Patterson to the position of Vice President and Charles Kamienski to the position of Secretary. Mark Vroblefski and Kevin Yeager retained their positions as President and Treasurer, respectively.

Events for the coming year are still in the planning stages. Heading the list at this time is a clambake to take place at homecoming, October 14, 1995, when UMass comes to take on the UB Bulls. Ideas and interests may be sent to Mark Vroblefski, 51 Rounds Street, Buffalo, NY 14621, (716) 832-0575 or Charles S. Kamienski, 1865 Quaker Meeting House Road, Honeoye Falls, NY 14472, (716) 624-9265.

WANTED

Brothers to share their Fraternity stories since 1952!

The Executive Council has established the Sesquicentennial Commission to prepare the next volume in the Fraternity's history. The commission is anxious to get started and is soliciting input from Phi Psis who were active in their chapters in 1952 or later.

If you were:

- initiated prior to the Korean Conflict and returned to your chapter during or after the war...
- a veteran and pledged during or after the war...
- already pledged or initiated and remained in your chapter during the war...

...then we need you!

Since Phi Kappa Psi initiated more than 1,000 brothers in 1951, 1952 and 1954, and this fete was wasn't matched again until 1961, the Sesquicentennial Commission knows there are numerous stories that would be of interest to readers in the forthcoming, Third Volume of the History of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, 1952-2002.

You can help us by forwarding your stories or information to Executive Director Terry Harper at the Fraternity Headquarters, 510 Lockerbie Street, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202, or by email at 71332.2460@compuserve.com.

DERROUGH NAMED CEO OF HUNT MIDWEST

As Hunt Midwest Enterprises, Inc., celebrates its tenth anniversary, Jack W. Steadman, chairman of the board, has announced the promotion of company president Lee A. Derrough, Kansas Alpha '64, to president and chief executive officer. Derrough has been president and chief operating officer of Hunt Midwest since its creation in 1985.

As president and CEO, Derrough is responsible for the successful overall growth and profitability of all the Hunt companies: Hunt Midwest Entertainment, Inc., owner/operator of Kansas City's number one tourist attraction, the World's of Fun and Oceans of Fun theme park complex; Hunt Midwest Mining, Inc., the largest supplier of crushed limestone in the Kansas City metropolitan area; and Hunt Midwest Real Estate Development, Inc. with over 2,800 acres of commercial, industrial, retail and residential projects under management, including SubTropolis, the world's largest underground business complex. Hunt Midwest is owned by Lamar Hunt and his family. The Hunt family also owns the Kansas City Chiefs professional football club.

"I am pleased to announce the promotion of Lee Derrough to the position of president and CEO of Hunt Midwest Enterprises, Inc. Since becoming president in 1985, Lee has been instrumental in producing record growth for all three Hunt Midwest's wholly-owned subsidiaries," said Steadman.

Lee Derrough

Derrough has been involved with the Hunt family since 1967 when he first came to work for the Chiefs in advertising and promotions. He joined Hunt Midwest in 1972 as director of marketing for the newly-opened Worlds of Fun theme park. He was named general manager of the amusement park in 1974 and president in 1982. When Hunt Midwest Enterprises, Inc. was created in 1985 through the merger of two Hunt businesses, Great Midwest Corporation, which controlled the mining and real estate operations, and Mid-America Enterprises, operator of the theme park complex, Derrough was named president.

"Any success I enjoy is really due to the patience and perseverance of Jack Steadman, our chairman, and our owners, Lamar Hunt and his family. It is also a credit to my associates' dedication and desire to succeed at whatever we choose to pursue," said Derrough.

Derrough and his wife, Beth, are residents of Kansas City, Missouri.

FORMER SWGP TOM JAMES ELECTED TO THE BENCH

Tom James, Texas Alpha '48, was recently elected as a Justice to the Court of Appeals for the Fifth District of Texas at Dallas. In the November 1994 election, James was elected by a margin of more than 58%, receiving a wide majority in every county of the Fifth District of Texas. Although James has been in private practice in Dallas for many years, he is no stranger to public service.

In the early 1960s, James represented Dallas County in the Texas House of Representatives and headed investigations of organized crime by the House General Investigating Committee on the Gulf Coast and Panhandle of Texas. For his legislative service on behalf of youth, he received the Honorary Life Membership Award from the Texas Congress of PTA. James also served as Chairman of the Republican Party of Dallas County and served two terms as president of the North Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

A loyal member of Phi Kappa Psi, James was elected to lead the Fraternity as SWGP at the 1974 Grand Arch Council in New Orleans. Prior to becoming president, he served as Attorney General from 1972 to 1974, and before that as Deputy Attorney General. More recently, James was appointed in 1992 by President Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55, to chair the special Commission on the Unit Rule. The Commission studied the use of the Unit Rule in Phi Kappa Psi and made its report to the 1994 Grand Arch Council in Charleston, South Carolina. James is also a member of the ancient Order of the S.C. At the local level, James was instrumental in establishing the Texas Delta chapter at SMU in Dallas and currently serves on the board of the Texas Delta house corporation.

James and his wife, Bobbie, an interior designer, have five children and 11 grandchildren. In addition to his service on the Court of Appeals, James is engaged in ranching, manufacturing and oil and gas development.

SHAFER NAMED TO GEORGIA POST

David J. Shafer, Georgia Alpha '83 and District IV Archon from 1987 to 1989, has been named Chief Deputy Commissioner of Insurance and Deputy Comptroller General of the State of Georgia. Shafer resigned as Executive Director of the Georgia Republican Party in early 1994 to manage the gubernatorial campaign of businessman Guy Millner, who finished the race with 49% of the vote. Shafer was then tapped for his present post by the newly elected Commissioner of Insurance.

ERRATA

In the April 1995 issue of The Shield, on page 18, Craig M. Stewart, Ohio Delta '61, was erroneously listed as being a member of Ohio Beta.

On page 22 of the same issue, in the article about Chapter Scholarship Funds, the correct number of chapters in each matching gift category should have read: "In the one-for-two category, up to 12 chapters can qualify; in the one-for-one category, up to six chapters can qualify; and in the two-for-one category, up to four chapters can qualify."

Join the Career Networking Program!

Not long ago, a Phi Psi on the verge of graduation was considering a career in the field of medicine as a physician. He knew that medical school and residency would take at least eight years, but he didn't know what to expect afterward or how long it would take to establish himself. And so this young brother sought the advice of one of his trusted alumnus advisors. Unfortunately, the alum knew as much or less about being a doctor as the undergraduate; he was a real estate developer! But one of the advisor's chapter brothers was a physician. In fact, his doctor friend had been the personal physician of a former United States President for many, many years.

And so, the advisor put in a call to his friend the doctor and asked him if he might be willing to spend an hour or two with the undergraduate to talk about a career in medicine. The physician enthusiastically agreed to a meeting. After spending an afternoon hearing about what he could expect if were to try his hand at medical school, the undergraduate thought that perhaps it was not for him, but he was still interested in a career in health care. That undergraduate is now on his way to becoming a physical therapist.

And thus was born the idea of creating a career networking program for young Phi Psis looking to enter the job market or alumni looking for a career change.

HOW THE PROGRAM WORKS

At its March 4, 1995 meeting in Newport Beach, California, the Executive Council approved the creation of the Phi Kappa Psi Career Networking Program. The first step is to "enroll" alumni who are willing to serve as advisors and mentors. An enrollment form is included in this issue of The Shield on the back cover. Willing alumni are asked to update employment information, including the job code that best matches their chosen field. It is imperative that telephone numbers are included. Retired brothers are encouraged to participate, too!

Fraternity President David Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61, praised the program saying, "The Fraternity's greatest assets are its alumni. I hope brothers from all fields will sign up for the Career Networking Program and be willing to lend some of their time and expertise to a young brother trying to choose a career. It's tough enough choosing a career these days, especially when you're not sure what you want to do. We need to provide our young leaders with the guidance they need to make the right career choices."

Once enough alumni have enrolled, the program will be opened up to Phi Psis who are seeking some career counseling. Interested brothers will contact the Fraternity Headquarters and request a list of Phi Psis in their vicinity in a chosen field. It will then be up to the member to contact the alumnus to set up an appointment to meet. It is important to note that the purpose of this program is for networking and career advice only; it is not intended to be an employment agency. If the contact leads to a job, that's great, but members should not go into an appointment expecting to walk away with a job. It should be approached as an opportunity to find out more about a particular profession.

A VALUABLE SERVICE

Every year, chapters struggle to justify the benefits of Fraternity membership to potential members. The Career Networking Program will give Phi Kappa Psi chapters another arrow in their sling for rushees.

"The more alumni that participate, the more valuable this service will become to our members," said Executive Director Terry Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85. "More importantly, this is a tremendous membership benefit we can provide Phi Psis that will only cost the price of a telephone call to the Headquarters. And the benefit is twofold, in addition to helping out our members, the Fraternity gets valuable updates to its membership database."

SIGN UP NOW!

Please take a few moments to complete the enrollment form for the Career Networking Program on the back cover of this issue and drop it in the mail to the Fraternity Headquarters. In doing so, you'll be sharing in the founding principle of Phi Kappa Psi, the "great joy of serving others." And you'll be giving our young leaders, and the Fraternity in general, an edge in today's competitive society. ◆

It's not too late to Register!

July 19-23 at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio

The WWLS is held on alternate summers from the GAC. Phi Psi leaders from across the nation will gather to share ideas, hear popular speakers, discuss chapter problems and solutions, meet national officers and staff, and to experience the camaraderie and brotherhood that is Phi Kappa Psi. Think of it as a four day brotherhood retreat! You'll come away with a whole new vision of what Phi Kappa Psi can be.

Planned features this year include:

- full day of programs dedicated to chapter membership recruitment
- A Saturday Alumni Advisors' development program (9 am to 3 pm)
- Workshops on a wide variety of chapter management topics
- Officer and Advisor roundtable sessions to discuss chapter leadership concerns
- District Dinners, District Councils and Archon elections
- Grand closing reception and banquet

- Jeff Cuffaude, Executive Director, National Interfraternity Conference
- Mary Peterson, Assoc. Director for Campus Programs, University of Iowa
- Dr. Dennis Roberts, Asst. V. P. for Student Affairs, Miami University
- Barb Tootle, Special Asst. to the President, The Ohio State University
- David Westol, Executive Director, Theta Chi Fraternity

Tuition for this year's program will include all lodging, all meals, programs, program materials and workbooks, and WWLS t-shirt. We are also arranging transportation between 10 am and 4 pm, from Cincinnati Airport to Oxford on the first and last day of the School. Parking is available at the campus for those who wish to drive in. Until June 15, the cost is $200 for undergraduates and alumni, $135 for Chapter Advisors. After June 15, tuition goes up $25 for all attendees.

If you're a chapter leader, an alumnus involved with assisting a chapter, or anyone interested in the issues facing Phi Kappa Psi at college campuses, you'll benefit from this program. For more information, or to register and pay with a credit card (Visa, Master/Card, Discover), contact the Fraternity Headquarters at (317) 637-1852, extension 23.

Tuition to the Leadership School is not deductible as a charitable contribution for federal income tax purposes.

Overcoming Barriers

Alumni play an important role in the undergraduate experience but are often reluctant to get involved.

Dear Brothers:

Many alumni are reluctant to return to their "home," or another, chapter for a visit. They intellectually acknowledge that they are "Phi Psis for life," but they are reluctant to re-enter the Phi Psi continuum of development by interacting with undergraduates. I have spoken with a number of alumni about their reluctance, and the results of my unofficial poll on barriers to interacting with undergraduates are:

- Those who had visited the chapter had cited what they characterize as a lack of receptivity by the current members and pledges. "Oh, they were polite enough, but no one took the time to show me around," complained one alumnus. Others cited that everyone they knew was gone and that they did not know the chapter advisor, house corporation president, etc. Very few of the visiting alumni had called in advance to request someone to greet them and had just dropped in unannounced. When I explained that the alumnus may act the same if old acquaintances or strangers "dropped by their own house unannounced," they agreed that common courtesy dictated that they should make arrangements in advance. A few alumni stated that they wanted to arrive unannounced, because they wanted to see "what was really going on and how my money really was being spent."
- Another big reason cited by alumni was the cultural and philosophical differences between their generation and the current generation. They expressed horror at the way the young men of today dressed versus how they had to wear a coat and tie all the time to chapter meetings, dinner, chapel, etc. Etiquette, as they knew it, was gone. The young men wore hats in the presence of women while indoors; the table manners of the current undergraduates were non-existent or, at best, atrocious; and the current notions of cultural and racial diversity "certainly didn't exist in my day!"
- "Whatever happened to the traditions that we had to adhere to?" "I went to the house, and no one offered me a drink!" "I remember that all decisions were made 'by the number!'" "I called 'numbers,' and everyone just looked at me." "A pledge wanted me to sign his paddle, but I was restrained from 'whacking' him first."
- "I do not remember the Ritual. I wanted to go to initiation, but I did not want to be embarrassed. Boy, they do not pay as much attention to the detail of the Ritual as we used to. No one has memorized anything."

The big part that an alumnus plays in the continuum of Phi Psi development is to pass on the mores of their generation to exert a mature influence on the undergraduates and to interpret to the undergraduates what expectations await them when they enter the business world. How then are these barriers overcome when interacting with the undergraduates?

- Do call in advance. Show your courtesy and consideration to the undergraduates by making advanced contact—even if it is only 30-60 minutes in advance.
- Times are changing. Things are different—some good and some bad. Alcohol for underage drinking and hazing were never allowed in Phi Kappa Psi, although their use was tolerated more in the past. In today's litigious environment, there is zero tolerance to these and other practices. You do the undergraduates within Phi Kappa Psi a disservice when you expect a drink or engage in hazing "because that's the way we used to do it!" In the recently adopted statement of the Executive Council on January 1, 1995 entitled Phi Kappa Psi: Shaping Men to Shape the Future, one sentence sums it up:

"Traditions abound in Phi Kappa Psi, but we are linked to tradition, not bound by it."

- The local house corporation or chapter advisor should include a brief update on the Ritual for returning brothers. This can occur prior to entering a chapter meeting, and it should be advertised in the invitation to the alumni. It is a small, courteous gesture on the part of the chapter or local alumni to the returning alumni.

In summary, you alumni are needed, and your interaction with the undergraduates is good for them, you and the Fraternity. The last sentence of the recently adopted statement mentioned above says it best:

"Our best years are in the present and future: Shaping the lives of young men in a brotherhood that is based on scholarship, attuned to the principles of our Founders and guided always by the eternal truths of our faith."

Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi tops $5 million

The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi, the Fraternity and Endowment Fund's $7 million capital fund drive continues to gather momentum as outright gifts and pledges have reached the $5.4 million mark as of July. The Trustees of the Endowment Fund and the Executive Board of the Fraternity are optimistic about reaching the overall goal by the 1996 Grand Arch Council in Chicago next July.

"The enthusiasm we have been generating across the country is contagious," said Endowment Fund Trustee Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55. "It's thrilling to see alumni who haven't been very involved in the Fraternity over the years get excited when we talk about the future of Phi Kappa Psi and developing leaders for the 21st century."

The Trustees of the Endowment Fund are committed to preserving the corpus of the Fund in order to provide funding in perpetuity for leadership development programs. Under the Endowment Fund's "total return" philosophy, the Trustees will make approximately five percent of the Fund's total value available each year for leadership development programs and scholarships. Given that history has shown that a balanced portfolio will earn an average of eight to 10 percent each year over time, the corpus will continue to grow, providing more funds for programs every year.

The investment portfolio of the Endowment Fund now stands at a little under $1.5 million, the largest it's ever been. Total assets of the Endowment Fund now total just over $2 million. The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi will assist Phi Psi's undergraduates by providing more and improved scholarships and grants, leadership training and development, improved communication through computer networking and housing assistance.

Inaugural Presidents Leadership Academy in '96

Phi Kappa Psi's first-ever Presidents Leadership Academy is scheduled to take place in January 1996 in Indianapolis. A program of The Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi, the Academy will provide a weekend of intense leadership training for about half of Phi Psi's undergraduate chapter presidents. It is the goal of the Trustees of the Endowment Fund to provide funding at future sessions to include all chapter presidents.

"The idea behind the Academy is give our undergraduates the tools to be better leaders in their chapters, on their campuses and in their communities," said new Endowment Fund Chairman Wayne W. Wilson, Michigan Beta '59. "Our current funding allows us to get this important program started in 1996 on a slightly smaller scale, but we need a minimum endowment of $600,000 to fully fund the Presidents Leadership Academy annually."

The Trustees of the Endowment Fund have also provided funding for up to 10 Phi Psi undergraduates who are interfraternity council leaders on their campuses to attend the National Interfraternity Conference's Undergraduate Interfraternity Institute (UIFI), a series of week-long leadership training sessions held during the summer months. Like the Presidents Leadership Academy, UIFI is designed as an intensive living-learning experience. UIFI is a comprehensive leadership program focusing on skill development, critical issues and a commitment to planned change.

The Fraternity's Tutor-in-Residence program will be reborn in the 1996-1997 academic year with funding from the Endowment Fund for at least two positions. A Tutor-in-Residence (TIR) is a graduate student who lives and works with a chapter, different from his chapter of initiation, to improve scholastic achievement and develop leadership skills at the undergraduate level. The host chapter provides the TIR with room and board and the Endowment Fund will provide up to $2,500 per year in tuition reimbursement.

As the Endowment Fund grows, the Trustees intend to expand each of these programs annually.

Chapter Scholarship Funds Catching On

In 1992, Endowment Fund Vice Chairman Jerry Nelson, California Epsilon '48, decided that his chapter, California Epsilon at UCLA, needed to take control of its own destiny.

"If California Epsilon is to survive into the 21st century and be a leader on the UCLA campus, then it is up to the members of the chapter, both undergraduates and alumni, to secure the future of the chapter today," said Nelson. "And it's going to take money, a lot of it, to ensure that Cal Epsilon will be around at the turn of the century and beyond."

In less than three years, California Epsilon alumni and undergraduates have contributed over $200,000 to the Endowment Fund, restricted to the California Epsilon Scholarship Fund. During the 1995-1996 academic year, $15,000 in scholarships and grants will be given to deserving and needy undergraduates. The scholarships will be made through the income generated by the fund.

Last spring, an anonymous donor stepped forward with $100,000 in matching funds to encourage other chapters to join the parade and start their own Chapter Scholarship Funds. The Trustees of the Endowment Fund embraced the idea and developed some very simple policies and procedures for establishing Chapter Scholarship Funds across the board. Based on a chapter's size and strength, it can qualify for matching funds in one of three categories: $1 matched for every $2 raised; $1 for $1; and $2 for $1. The minimum amount a chapter must raise is $5,000 and the match is available on that initial $5,000 only.

Wisconsin Gamma at Beloit College was the first chapter to claim its share of the matching funds by sending in a check for $5,000 almost immediately. That contribution was matched with $10,000 from the available funds for a Wisconsin Gamma Scholarship Fund totaling $15,000.

The matching funds are available through December 31, 1995. In addition to Cal Epsilon and Wisconsin Gamma, Tennessee Epsilon, Arizona Beta, Indiana Epsilon, and Ohio Delta have established Chapter Scholarship Funds and are working toward the minimum balance to earn the matching funds.

Every brother is encouraged to contact his chapter and/or house corporation and encourage them to start a Chapter Scholarship Fund. Policies and procedures are available upon request from the Fraternity Headquarters by calling (800) 486-1852.

1995-1996 Scholarships To Total More Than $50,000

The upcoming academic year will bring with it increased opportunities for Phi Psi undergraduates and graduate students to win scholarships from the Endowment Fund. Through action of the Board of the Trustees, the total dollars available to Phi Psis from the general scholarship fund of the Endowment Fund will be $52,000.

The Solon E. Summerfield Scholarships have been restructured this year and the $100 scholarships given to one member of each chapter have been eliminated. It has become increasingly apparent by the decreasing number of applicants that the $100 awards are not as attractive today as they were in 1959 when the program was established. In its place, the Trustees have created 25 new $1,000 awards that will be given out this winter. All undergraduate and graduate student Phi Psis will be eligible to apply for the awards. Criteria for the awards are academic excellence and chapter leadership. Applications will be available in mid-September with a due date of December 15, 1995.

In addition, the prestigious $4,000 Ralph D. Daniel Leadership Award will be made in the winter, as well. Phi Kappa Psi's single biggest award, the Daniel Award winner will have a minimum 2.5 grade point average, with significant, demonstrated chapter, campus and community leadership. As with the Summerfield Scholarships, applications will be available in mid-September with a due date of December 15, 1995.

The spring awards include the three Outstanding Summerfield Awards at $3,000, $2,500, and $2,000; the six Founders Fellowships for graduate study at $2,000 each; the Ben King

Jerry Nelson
California Epsilon '48

Scholarship for an engineering student at $1,000; and the Mary Pickford-Rogers Scholarship for the arts at $1,500. Additionally, the $1,000 George R. Hofmann Award goes to a deserving member of the New York Alpha chapter at Cornell.

Four additional awards, the two Ruddick C. Lawrence Awards for Public Service at $1,500 and $1,000; the $1,500 Philip M. Cornelius Award; and the $1,500 Maurice C. Warnock Scholarship for a deserving member of Oregon Alpha are funded from special funds established by the namesakes of the respective scholarships.

Applications for spring awards are available in early February and are due in the Fraternity Headquarters on May 15, 1996.

Named scholarships can be endowed starting at $25,000. The Trustees are happy to work with donors to establish criteria for named scholarships. Contact Executive Director Terry Harper at (800) 486-1852, ext. 12 for details.

Scholarship Applications Available

Applications for the $4,000 Ralph D. Daniel Leadership Award and the twenty-five $1,000 Solon E. Summerfield Scholarships are available now from the Fraternity Headquarters. Application packets have been sent to the scholarship committee chairman of each undergraduate chapter and colony. Additional applications are available from the Fraternity Headquarters. Applications and supporting documentation must be complete and postmarked not later than December 15, 1995 to be eligible for consideration.

Oliphant Trust to Benefit the Endowment Fund

Judy Oliphant, wife of the late Hugh B. Oliphant, Oregon Alpha '61, has notified the Endowment Fund of the creation of the Oliphant Charitable Remainder Trust of which the Endowment Fund is a beneficiary. The Trust was created in December of 1994 following Brother Oliphant's untimely death in July.

"Phi Kappa Psi was a very meaningful experience for Hugh," said Mrs. Oliphant. "He so relished his Phi Psi affiliation—he was always proud and supportive of the Fraternity and especially the Oregon Alpha chapter."

During his lifetime, Brother Oliphant was an ardent supporter of the Fraternity through the Alumni Support Program. He was a member of the Lamplighter Trust, recognizing cumulative gifts of $2,500 - $5,000.

Emison Resigns from Board of Trustees—Wilson Elected Chairman

After five years as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Fund, James W. Emison, Indiana Alpha '49, resigned as chairman and a member of the Board at the August 15 Trustees meeting. Wayne W. Wilson, Michigan Beta '59, was elected by the Board to succeed Emison.

Although Wilson was only elected to the Board of Trustees in 1994 at the Endowment Fund meeting held in conjunction with the Grand Arch Council in Charleston, South Carolina, he is no stranger to involvement in the Fraternity at the highest level. He served on the Executive Council from 1984 to 1986 in the elected position of Secretary. Prior to that, he served as Attorney General to the Executive Council from 1974 to 1978, during which time he compiled the Digest of Decisions of the Attorneys General. In civilian life, Wilson is an attorney in Detroit, Michigan, where he lives with his wife, Marcia.

Although Emison's resignation would have left the Board of Trustees with only one vacancy, the Trustees voted to amend the Fund's bylaws and expand the Board to nine. Three vacancies now exist. Following similar action taken in 1994, the Trustees' reasoning in expanding the Board to nine is to increase member involvement and broaden the knowledge base of the Trustees. The Trustees invite nominations for the Board from any brother. Nominations, along with a curriculum vitae, should be sent to the Endowment Fund by way of the Fraternity Headquarters.

The governing documents of the Fund allow the Trustees to amend the bylaws by unanimous affirmative vote subject to ratification by the members at their next meeting. The next meeting of the Endowment Fund will occur in conjunction with the 68th Grand Arch Council on Friday, July 26, 1995, at the Chicago Hilton and Towers in Chicago, Illinois. ♦

How would you like to be a part of Phi Psi history?

The Executive Council has established the Sesquicentennial Commission to prepare the next volume in the Fraternity's history. The Fraternity is anxiously looking to include you and your stories in the commission's work. Please help us by sending any recollections or information to Executive Director Terry Harper at the Fraternity Headquarters, 510 Lockerbie Street, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202, (317) 632-1852, or by email at 71332.2460@compuserve.com.

Tell us about:

- your undergraduate Phi Psi experience
- the men who were a part of your chapter
- any interesting Fraternity anecdotes
- alumni events that were especially memorable

At this time, the commission is especially interested in information from brothers who were:

- initiated prior to the Korean Conflict and returned to their chapters during or after the war ended...
- veterans and pledged during or after the war...
- already pledged or initiated and remained in their chapters during the war...

But we'll take anything we can get!

The Sesquicentennial Commission is: Haldon C. Dick, Ohio Zeta '55, Chairman; Philip H. Davidson III, Arizona Alpha '59; John H. Masingill III, Alabama Alpha '68; John V. Ciccarelli, California Theta '72; John D. Watt III, North Carolina Alpha '74; Jordan Y. Owen, Indiana Beta '87; and Brian D. Bontempo, Pennsylvania Gamma '91.

Responding to the Call

by Cal McAllister, Ohio Delta '89

In early 1985, James Wade Emison, Indiana Alpha '49, pulled a yellow legal pad from his desk and drew a line down the center of the first page. At the top of one column, he wrote, "Need-$500,000." At the top of the other column, he wrote, "Have-$0."

Only a few minutes earlier his secretary pulled him from a meeting to take an urgent phone call. After hearing the caller's remarks, Emison knew his involvement with Western Petroleum Company would have to be put on hold for awhile. Apparently one of the planners of the Indiana Alpha chapter house renovation had gotten a bit eager — you weren't supposed to be able to see the attic from the basement, at least not quite yet.

It was Jerry Sweeney, Indiana Alpha '71, then president of the home association, who was on the phone. "Do you know what is going on back at Indiana Alpha?" Sweeney asked. "No," Emison responded, "but I know you're going to tell me." Sweeney went on, "Well, when you walk up the steps to the front door and the entry to the foyer, you can look down and see the basement and look up and see the attic rafters, presuming you don't fall into the basement first!"

Certainly it was true that a restoration of the chapter house had been generally planned. On the other hand, not one penny had been raised to pay for the $1.2 million project, and Jim Dillon, Indiana Alpha '59, a third member of the renovation project team, had just given the contractor the go ahead to gut the house and haul away the debris.

"As Jerry was talking," Emison said. "I was thinking, 'good glory, what do we do now?'"

Whether or not he started the fire, Jim Emison became the one in charge of putting it out.

"Legally, we could only receive $500,000 in investment contributions. The rest we had to finance through bank loans which, of course, we couldn't lay our hands on until we had raised the $500,000; so for the next five weeks I gave full attention to the house and organizing the teams necessary to raise the funds required to get the job done. I'll bet I made a thousand phone calls. It was quite an effort."

Often the best way to get things done is to just haul off and do them. Unfortunately, this doesn't often apply to the contracting business. On the other hand, all things considered, the initiative, though initially ill-conceived, certainly got the ball rolling.

"Perhaps Jim Dillon was a bit too aggressive getting the project started, but, by golly, he was a tiger staying with it and, in the final analysis, produced one heck of a restoration."

The undergraduate chapter spent a year in the vacant Delta Zeta sorority house while the renovation was being completed. When the final ribbon cutting day had arrived, Emison was amongst the first in line to show off the house he and his committee had rebuilt.

"We re-framed all the old photographs, refurbished the furniture and saved all the sacred relics and artifacts in the house," Emison said. "We didn't forget a thing. This wasn't 'a fresh coat of paint.' The whole house was redone beautifully in every respect from top to bottom."

As a businessman, Emison has earned the reputation of being a straight shooter, blending the creativity and discipline necessary for success. As a Phi Psi alumnus, he has emulated true brotherhood; a burning desire to help when called upon and a fierce dedication and loyalty to his chapter. Characteristics, he claims, that were molded through many evenings crowded around the fireplace and the dining room at the chapter house.

"It was such an honor to be a Phi Psi at DePauw," he said. "It was like joining a House of Lords. Half the varsity basketball team, half dozen on the football team. I was so proud to be a part of it all, and still am."

"In those days we would always have a reception after the Old Gold Day (DePauw's homecoming) game and laughed and sang for hours. Those were some of my best experiences in college — everybody came back to see how the chapter was doing and to talk to their old friends."

"Where else would I have been able to sit and talk with the Commissioner of Baseball? The President of J.C. Penney? The President of Indiana National Bank? We sang Fraternity songs and had long conversations with some of the most powerful people in the country. Rubbing shoulders with the great and near great was something that had a profound effect on me."

Whether it was the sharing of business secrets or simply being surrounded by success, those halcyon days proved to be a catalyst as Emison entered the business world. After a brief stint to active duty in the Marine Corps, Emison returned to Indiana and began his career with the C & C Oil Co. From there he moved to Oskey Brothers Petroleum in St. Paul, Minnesota. Two jobs later he would return to Oskey, where he became the founder, director and officer of Oskey Gasoline and Oil Company. In 1977, he became its president, and changed the name to Western Petroleum Company.

Today, from behind his desk at Western, he serves on the National Petroleum Council, as he has since 1970. He is a member of the American Petroleum Institute, the Board of Trustees of the Marine Corps Command and Staff College and a dozen other business and philanthropic organizations.

Furthermore, as promised, his college days have not been forgotten: He is the past president of the DePauw University Alumni Association, a member of the DePauw Board of Trustees and the co-founder for DePauw's Center for Management and Entrepreneurship. For his work and lifelong dedication and commitment to excellence in education, he was awarded the Old Gold Goblet, the university's most prestigious recognition given to alumni for "eminence in life's work and service to alma mater."

"I have always been a believer in the idea you

The Emison Legacy at DePauw

The Emison name is synonymous with DePauw University in Greencastle, Indiana. Although there have been many families that have attended DePauw through the generations, only the Emison clan has been there since the school's founding in 1837. Throughout DePauw's 158-year history, more than 40 Emisons have attended the institution; five Emisons have been Trustees, and for more than one-half of DePauw's history there has been an Emison trustee. Just recently, yet another Emison (James Wesley Emison, Indiana Alpha '68) joined the Alumni Association Board of Directors. The Emisons were recently featured in the summer 1995 issue of DePauw Magazine.

On the Grand Membership Rolls of Phi Kappa Psi, you will find 15 Emisons listed. All are members of Indiana Alpha. In fact, there has not been a male Emison that has graduated from DePauw that was not a Phi Psi. Listed below are the Indiana Alpha Emisons and their relationship to James Wade Emison, Indiana Alpha '49, the focus of our feature story:

There aren't any other families The Shield knows of with this kind Phi Psi heritage and tradition. If there are, we'd like to hear about them! By the way, Jim tells us there is a slew of Emison grandchildren that will be heading to DePauw in the not too distant future!

Jim Emison talks with undergraduates and alumni during Indiana Alpha's Old Gold Day Symposium in 1986. The Symposium was held in conjunction with the rededication of the chapter house following the $1.2 million renovation.

have to return a little bit to the well—you've got to support the things that got you where you are," Emison said. And with the crash-course in crisis management, Emison was a shoo-in for the Chairman's spot on the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity. Emison answered the call to duty in 1990. "I joined the Board of Trustees when there were only three of us, Jerry Nelson, John Buck, and myself," recalls Emison. "Those first few years were lean ones and we had to make some tough decisions. But our conservative approach has paid off and the Fund is now positioned to do great things for our Fraternity and our undergraduates."

"Rebuilding is simple when everyone is behind you," he said, "We stopped the engines and assessed where we were. We cleaned house a bit and made sure all the Trustees made it to all of the meetings. Our goal was to rebuild the assets of the Fund and rebuild our members' confidence in the Fund's management," he said.

Under Emison's leadership the Board has accomplished what it set out to do. Until his recent resignation from the Board after five years of service, Emison shepherded the Endowment Fund from its low point with only $350,000 in its investment portfolio to its recent all-time high of $1.5 million.

Despite Emison's ability and knack for the role of firefighter, he said that "next time I would just as soon skip right to the victory party after."

"After the Indiana Alpha chapter house was reopened, everyone gathered around a grand reunion and rededication party. It was one of those memories I won't soon forget. There were over 100 alums, and, of course, all of the undergraduates in attendance," he said.

And thanks to the efforts of Jim Emison and others, the members of Indiana Alpha will have a place to gather for many generations to come. ♦

Walter H. "Chip" Carstensen
Ohio Eta

Five years ago, Chip Carstensen, Ohio Eta '69, returned to his hometown of Toledo to be around family and friends after being on the corporate trail around the country. He naturally got in touch with his Phi Psi brothers at Fraternity functions in town. It was there that he learned of the need to help the chapter as an advisor. "I was a little apprehensive to take over the job, but with help from other alumni, I was convinced that the job would be a challenge that could be met—a burden shared is lightly borne."

Chip's role models for advising are Ed Schmakel and Jeff Hepner. Ed Schmakel, Ohio Eta '50, was the advisor when Chip was in college. Ed's oldest son, Bruce, became Chip's "little brother" and is a past advisor for Michigan Beta. Jeff Hepner, Ohio Eta '68, was advisor for six years and was an admired brother when Chip was a pledge. Both had the dedication and leadership ability it takes to be an outstanding advisor. There were big shoes to be filled.

Since the chapter moved into its beautiful new quarters on Greek Row on campus, Chip has been the advisor. It was a great help to him to have John Manore, Ohio Eta '77, who was working on his law degree, become the Greek Housing Coordinator for the university. "As many brothers know, keeping a vibrant, active brotherhood going takes a great rush tool and our house is that tool."

In addition to advising, Chip has overseen the Founders Day celebration and the annual Alumni Golf Outing for the past five years. The attendance has been high, as well as the spirit of the brotherhood. Another thing started during his tenure has been the renovation of the basement of the house as a recreation room and lounge.

"Many alumni in the local business community have helped to either donate or purchase items for the house. We are really blessed with a long and successful presence at the University of Toledo. Phi Psi has always been one of the top organizations on campus providing leadership through many years. This has led to a very strong and visible alumni group."

Chip and his wife, Linda, live in Sylvania, Ohio. They have two teenage sons, Dan and Case, and a daughter, Erica. Case will be a freshman at Miami University this fall.

"Being an advisor has been a labor of love for me. It's a pleasure to be around the brothers and share experiences that they will remember for the rest of their lives."

Kenneth E. Quarles
Georgia Alpha

Kenneth E. Quarles, Georgia Alpha '87, has been involved with the chapter at the University of Georgia since 1990 after a reorganization was initiated by local alumni in response to the deterioration of the chapter. At first, the alumni had their work cut out for them to meet financial obligations after going from a chapter of 60 members to one of twelve. His philosophy was to show the 12 brothers that it could be done. As a tribute to the work of Ken, other alumni and the dedicated undergraduates, Georgia Alpha received Phi Psi's Most Improved Chapter award at the 1994 GAC, as well as awards for academic excellence.

Over the years, Ken has emphasized that if the undergraduates strive to excel academically, the rest of the organization falls into place. In addition, the alumni have stressed the idea of a National Fraternity, not just an isolated group of guys hanging out. As part of this emphasis, the relationship with all alumni and the image of the chapter within Phi Kappa Psi have been focal points. Along the way, Ken has taught the idea of "have fun and get the job done." Through creative approaches to problems, Georgia Alpha has had fun and accomplished a tremendous amount over the years.

Other alumni from Georgia Alpha who help Ken in advising include Mike Augustine, '86, Alumni Relations; George Bennett, '90, Finance and Alumni Corporation Treasurer; Barton Kimsey, '90, Fraternity Education and Alumni Corporation Secretary. In addition, Jim Rockaway, '89, has been instrumental in assisting with financing much needed repairs on the 103-year-old chapter house.

The parents of the undergraduates have also assisted in the rebuilding of the chapter and with various projects around the house. At least two Alumni and Parents Days are held throughout the year to undertake work projects and discuss the direction of the chapter. Will Bosbyshell, Georgia Alpha '80, helps coordinate these events and makes the drive all the way from Charlotte, North Carolina.

Ken works for Reliance Heating & Air as a Sales and Service Manager. He and his wife, Stephanie, reside in Conyers, Georgia and are expecting their first child in October. In his spare time, Ken enjoys playing soccer, fishing and staying involved with Phi Kappa Psi.

Personal Responsibility To The Editor:

I was just reading the latest Shield and noticed your CompuServe number and wanted to respond. I was impressed with Brother Woodrum's article on the first page. It was very insightful and in tune with this new generation of college students. I echo his sentiments as I find it more and more difficult to find students who will take personal responsibility.

The frightening thing is—what happens to our society in a few years is determined by the development of responsible men and women at the collegiate level now. Hence, one of my reasons for "serving others" through the plight of Campus Crusade. Of course our focus is on spiritual development, but I think we are very much in sync when it comes to the goals of developing a better man. The direction you are taking is encouraging.

It was interesting to note that Brother Woodrum's observations were correct as reflected in the lack of participation in the Summerfield Scholarship nominations and the 30-some chapters that failed to submit a simple newsletter. Perhaps the "scholarship" apathy has resulted from students who aren't impressed with recognition, achievement, hard work and spirit of giving (as demonstrated by the brothers that contributed to that fund for the needs of undergraduates).

The missing newsletters were just as disappointing. As a former corresponding secretary, I remember the embarrassment that would result if our chapter wasn't included in the newsletter section. That seems to be missing now that "staff reports" are available. Maybe omitting the delinquent or missing chapter news completely will strike some fear in the current and future AGs and help them take their job seriously. Unfortunately, I doubt that it would, and moreover I understand your reasoning for including some remarks for the benefit of the alumni from that chapter.

Thanks for your work and for taking strides to address relevant and imperative issues that will shape the future of our society. Hoping for change. Proud to be a Phi Psi...

To the SWGP:

I read, and re-read, your message.

I so heartily endorse the "house mother" and "personal responsibility" concepts that I have been moved to write to you and express this endorsement. The success of "shaping up our newest brothers" could bring back many disillusioned old brothers and the support attendant thereto.

When I was at Pennsylvania Lambda, the university inaugurated a requirement for "house mothers" at all times that coeds were present in the house. I vividly remember Brother Delroy Heiser and I interviewing a wonderful lady for the job. Imagine us young boys undertaking such an awkward task with those who were so much older and wiser than we. To our great relief we "hired" the perfect person who affectionately became known to all as "Mom Ponzer." Believe me, she knew how gentlemen should behave and booked no exceptions nor nonsense. And actually, I think she made all of us feel a little more comfortable as we all lived quite a ways from home, due to the remote location of State College, Pennsylvania.

As to the "house manager" concept, my observation while at Penn State was that those fraternities with alumni in charge of their physical plant had much better living conditions. I would assume that their monthly house bills were higher, but I think it was worth it. Their members still had "work sessions" and "clean-up chores" but the managing of that effort was done by others which thereby lessened the load on the undergraduates. This oversight also instilled in those others that a clean and well maintained living place was expected of a "gentleman." This oversight must be a constant thing rather than a once or twice a year walk-through, e.g. Homecoming and the annual corporation meeting when the house has been "spruced-up" for those occasions.

So, I'm in full support and hope that all of our Brothers get the "message."

"Staff Reports" Misinformed To The SWGP:

Please look at the June 1995 issue of The Shield, page 14, Pennsylvania Zeta newsletter written by "staff reports."

Years ago, the old Pennsylvania Zeta fraternity house was torn down and fraternities were replaced with rooms. I was really disappointed when this occurred, since I have great memories of that old house. Needless to say the class of '43 was outstanding and to this day we come back with about 60 percent attendance every five years and truly support the college.

Lee Fritschler is president of Dickinson and to my way of thinking is a very fine individual and a great educator! Under his tutelage, Dickinson is doing very well and has a fine, outstanding endowment. I have talked to him and several of his entourage when they come to Naples each year. His feelings are that the college has not changed their attitude toward fraternities, but that with present day developments regarding education and this now "small world," fraternities are not as popular as in my day.

The late president of the alumni association told me years

Lee Fritschler told me that there is no rushing in the freshman year (and this probably has a distinct influence?). Also there are 500 students in the junior class and 50 percent go overseas to study.

Therefore, in all fairness to the college, I think the statement in The Shield, "Membership recruitment remains the single most dominant concern for the chapter; new members must be recruited from an increasingly anti-Greek community, and the college neither promotes nor permits continual recruitment by any chapter, etc. etc." is definitely unfair. Sounds like the present members of Penn Zeta would be pretty downhearted reading this.

Seems to me someone in your organization needs to go to Carlisle and attempt to find an advisor—then proceed with a positive attitude toward making the Penn Zeta chapter great again.

This is a vastly changed world since I was there over 50 years ago, but that shouldn't stop the development of the old chapters such as Penn Zeta. Obviously it will take a lot of hard leg work and sincere faith in the future of the young men!

E. Harvey Lenderman Jr.
Pennsylvania Zeta '40 — Naples, Florida

President Woodrum responds:

Dear Brother Lenderman:

You are right. Times are different now from when you and I were in school. The attitude of the schools and the values and mores of the students are different. As an example, when we were in school, the school administration assumed the role of in loco parentis, "in place of the parents." This was translated into action in different ways such as women having to be in the dormitories by 11 p.m. on week days and 1 a.m. on Saturdays. In some schools, there was compulsory chapel on Sunday mornings. In the early 1970's, the schools abandoned this role. The fraternities, in a like manner, had acted also in the place of the parent. No women were allowed above the first floor of the house at my chapter, and we had a house mother. You had to wear a coat and tie to dinner, stand when a woman would enter, etc. Today, the fraternities also abandoned their role, because "if we severed any supervisory role, then we could not be held liable in case of a lawsuit." Frankly, the abandonment of both roles has not worked well.

In today's politically correct environment, school administrators are down-playing the Greek system. The administrators realize that on many campuses the number of Greeks out of total student population approximate 14 percent. They also realize that the proportion of alumni who give to many schools (in total dollars) in terms of Greeks vs. non-Greeks is the reciprocal or approximately 86 percent Greeks. There has been a tremendous pressure on the school administrator to recruit a different student in terms of minority and ethnicity. (It will be interesting to see what effect the recent Supreme Court ruling on affirmative action will have on recruiting and admission.)

To date, many school administrators have worried that the Greek experience created a perception of disparity in the minds of recruits that would hurt the recruitment effort. As a result, the schools have not provided the prominence that they once did. As an example, my alma mater's alumni magazine never gives any coverage to the Greek system. The schools are not necessarily anti-Greek, but they are unwilling to divert important school resources to help the Greek system.

The concern about the Greek system interfering with a young student's schooling is not a recent phenomenon. When Founders Letterman and Moore started Phi Kappa Psi, there was no system of pledging. That concept did not commence until the early 1900's when school administrators deferred the entrance into a fraternity until the second semester or the sophomore year for this very reason. The Greek system's reaction to this "threat" was to institute the concept of pledging, whereby the young student promised, or pledged, to affiliate after the waiting period was completed. Now, some schools state that all rushing must be deferred.

My hesitation in writing the above is that I am generalizing. I am attempting to paint the big picture. I would not presume to interpret the policies and reasons for why the Dickinson administration specifically acts the way it does. I am pretty certain, however, that I am correct in saying that the Dickinson administration does prohibit any socializing between Greeks and first-year students. This is a pretty strong position. Additionally, with the large number of collegiate organizations vying for the student's loyalty and time, fraternities and sororities must continually rush year-round and not just during defined periods. Dickinson prohibits this practice.

Dickinson is a fine school, and it is one of the better liberal arts colleges in the Northeast. The actions by these small liberal arts schools as a group, however, has been perceived as anti-Greek within the interfraternity world. That is why The Shield report is worded the way it is.

You are right. We do need a chapter advisor at Dickinson. We are constantly looking for someone. In today's litigious society, it is difficult to obtain an advisor. In the old days, the chapter advisor would work with the brothers for a long time. Now we have exhausted alumni volunteers who are simply tired of working with students in an environment which the host school does not assist the Greek effort.

In summary, I have given you a long-winded response for which I apologize. I did want to describe the overall environment in which Phi Kappa Psi finds itself. If we are going to succeed as an organization, it must be with the cooperation of the school administration. In a like fashion, the Greek system has to be a contributing member to the school and to its community. Phi Kappa Psi is striving to work with the school administrators

The Creed To The Editor:

I just received the current issue of The Shield featuring the Phi Kappa Psi Creed. I don't ever recall reading The Creed before, but one statement jumped out at me like a glaring heading. It reads "to respect and emulate my Brothers who practice moderation in their manners and morals." That is a contradiction in terms. How can one be moderately moral? What is the difference between being moderately moral or moderately immoral? The basis of the whole Creed is morality. The vitality of the entire Creed is nullified in that statement.

At best the statement is a poor choice of words. Would it not have been better to have said "to respect and emulate my brother who are exemplary in their manners and morals"?

The other thing that concerns me is that Brother Owen makes specific reference to that statement in his article and I perceive it was taken from the Ritual, "Tom Campbell's eternal principles." Brother Owen states, "That admonition was for him central to right conduct, as it was for those noble pagans, Plato, Cicero and Marcus Aurelius." I submit that superior intellect and morality are not mutually inclusive. History is replete with individuals who were highly intellectual but were morally bankrupt.

I am confident that Letterman and Moore, when choosing the Bible passage from which Phi Kappa Psi derives its name, did not have moderation in morals in their vision for the Fraternity. I also get the impression from Brother Owen's article that writing The Creed was not a labor of love for any of the authors but a compulsion to write "the fool thing" and to "get the damned job done." Brother Owen devoted all of "two hours of reflection and rewriting." In spite of that it was accepted without amendment and recommended to the 1964 Grand Arch Council for adoption.

I would have a hard time using The Creed as a tool to convince a rushee that Phi Kappa Psi is the fraternity for him to join.

Am I missing something? Is there something I do not see? If that statement is in the Ritual, which I perceive from Brother Owen's article, it is hard for me to believe that over a century of brothers, including myself, glossed over or disregarded what now to me is so obviously a contradiction in terms. I would greatly appreciate your comments.

Thank you for your consideration of my feelings about The Creed.

Warren H. Olson
Illinois Delta '41 — La Grange, Illinois

Brother Owen responds:

Dear Brother Olson:

Executive Director Terry Harper sent me your recent letter about my Shield essay on the Phi Kappa Psi Creed. It's good of you to pay such searching attention, and I appreciate your helpful effort. You have rightly lighted on the one phrase that needs further explanation; even so, a footnote would seem rather pedantic. It is John Henry Frizzell's, word for word, and it became throughout his tenure as Mystagogue the main emphasis of his work. It still resonates.

His reading of the Ritual led him to teach that the virtue of moderation, avoidance of extremes and cultivation of reasonable balance, provided the most effective guide to moral judgment and action. His linking of manners and morals was, beyond being a rhetorical device, a means of emphasizing that outward conduct is organically connected to inward principle and conviction, that as a man does, so are his true beliefs revealed. From my many conversations with him and the many times I heard him speak, I can say that he was leery of self-righteousness and stiff-necked moralizing, Pharisaism, if you will. In his long experience he came to realize and affirm that the import of Phi Kappa Psi was about manliness, not saintliness.

I agree with you that the phrase, "who are exemplary in their manners and morals," is a more self-evident way of expressing the precept. All the same, although "who practice moderation" makes one blink, it implies the need for self-knowledge, self-understanding and self-discipline that ancient philosophy from Plato to Marcus Aurelius made its principal tenet. By the way, when I've talked with Phi Psis about The Creed, it's this passage that usually raises the most questions and leads to the liveliest discussions.

I don't want to leave you with the impression that John Henry and Andy Truxal despised the chore they were given, or that I, for that matter, tossed it off rather cavalierly. Both men had worked diligently at it, but Lou Corson may have goaded them overmuch to get the job done. Undoubtedly, they both felt some frustration, but they knew it needed to be done and was worth doing. I had already given considerable thought to the matter when Lou asked me to try my own hand, so that what I wrote in two hours was preceded by many more hours of reflection and conversation with various brothers.

In any case The Creed has evidently come to serve the purpose Lou Corson intended it to have, initially perhaps for fraternity education and later as a general statement of what Phi Psi stands for. Again, you have my thanks for your challenging letter.

The State of The Fraternity

by Terrence G. Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85
Executive Director

There's an old saying that goes, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." That may be well and good if you're talking about a tractor, but it certainly isn't true when you're talking about a membership organization. In order to stay abreast of emerging trends and meet the changing needs of the membership, an organization such as Phi Kappa Psi must continually evaluate its programs and services to ensure that it is in step with the times.

That reasoning led current president David L. Woodrum, West Virginia Alpha '61, to the creation of the Continuum of Development, the Fraternity's work plan for the 1994-1996 biennium. The Continuum is an aggressive plan that aims to re-examine almost every area of Fraternity operations from Fraternity Education to fund raising, from Projects in the works for this fall include the development of a model Fraternity Education program for pledges and initiated members. The pledge program will focus on acclimation and tradition, while the program for members will be in an easy-to-use lesson format that can be utilized during chapter meetings, retreats or other settings.

We will also be reviewing and redefining the role of the National Fraternity vis-à-vis its relationship to the individual chapters including corporate oversight, risk management, advocacy and membership services, among other things. The Educational Leadership Program will also be reevaluated. Membership communications, including The Shield and other ways we communicate to our alumni, will be audited.

Extension is another high priority for the upcoming year. With three colonies currently in place and a few more possibilities in the works, we will be looking at how we can improve our expansion efforts, as well as completing a thorough review of all inactive chapters to see where opportunities lie to "recycle" Phi Kappa Psi.

These are but a few of the areas that will be given attention in the coming months. And be sure to keep reading The Shield to learn the results of our efforts.

The following pages contain a record of the activities and programs of the fiscal year that ran from June 1, 1994 to May 31, 1995. You'll get a clearer picture of where Phi Kappa Psi has been in the last 12 months and where we are headed in the next 12 and beyond.

Phi Kappa Psi is successful only because of the efforts of its members... YOU! We need to hear from you to let us know how the Fraternity can better meet your needs, today and in the future.

CHAPTER SERVICES

The area of chapter services was very active this year, with the involvement of a number of volunteer alumni and the creation of several new programs. Director of Scholarship Dr. Thomas D. Myers, Ohio Zeta '58 and vice president for student affairs chapter services to chapter eternal. Much of the work has already been completed, such as the development and implementation of the Chapter Standards Program, introduced at the 1995 Woodrow Wilson Leadership School, and the creation of covenants of membership for pledging, initiation and graduation.

The foundation for the Continuum, however, was the restatement of the values and ethics of Phi Kappa Psi; in other words, what we stand for. The April 1995 issue of The Shield introduced Phi Kappa Psi: Shaping Men to Shape the Future, co-authored by Mystagogue David M. McDonald, Wisconsin Gamma '82 and Chaplain Flynn E. Brantley, South Carolina Alpha '72. Shaping Men restates the founding principles of Phi Kappa Psi in easy-to-understand, contemporary language. It's intended audience is not only the members of Phi Kappa Psi, but also, and most importantly, our many publics, including prospective members, colleges and universities, parents and the media.

at Eastern Kentucky University, provided us with the concept of 3RQ, which encourages our chapters to "Recruit Quality, Retain Quality and Reward Quality." This theme has been further developed to tie together a number of incentives including scholarships and awards, chapter recruitment and our new Chapter Standards program.

As reported in the April 1995 issue of The Shield, the Executive Council, at its March 1995 meeting, approved the Chapter Standards program for undergraduate chapters which express the expectations of the Fraternity, encourage and reward excellence and provide a means of self-assessment and resources for improvement. In conjunction with the visits of our Educational Leadership Consultants, these new program materials can help chapters see how they "rate" relative to other chapters and will assist them in setting goals and direction for the year. As reported above, the Chapter Standards program was introduced to the chapters at the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School in July and is currently being implemented.

With the goal of assisting and enhancing the undergraduate Phi Psi experience, the Chapter Services team at the Fraternity Headquarters, which includes the Executive Director, Director of Chapter Services, Coordinator of Alumni and Insurance Services and the three Educational Leadership Consultants, worked very hard to provide the support and services chapters needed to improve and succeed. Every chapter was visited at least once, with repeat visits to a number of groups. In all, this team made 183 visits to our chapters and one colony, to alumni association meetings and to prospective campuses. This number also includes several special visits that were made to facilitate retreats, address crisis situations or to reorganize problem chapters.

As in previous years, the Fraternity's goal has been to ensure the health and stability of the chapters for the future while assisting undergraduates to reach their potential as students, citizens, brothers and men. A significant part of each visit is spent in the process of evaluation and consulting, determining strengths and weaknesses, proposing ideas or changes that will help the chapter, assisting in the process of goal-setting or leadership development in officers and members and the provision of workshops and seminars to assist in chapter management. Educational Leadership Consultants are young professionals, trained to be resources in every area of chapter leadership and operations. They develop and maintain a client relationship with approximately 30 chapters each year.

Chapters Closed

Three Phi Kappa Psi chapters closed this report year—all voluntarily. The charters were suspended, not revoked, in each of these situations, allowing the Fraternity to reorganize without having to recolonize the campuses. We have negotiated with each of these campuses for the option to return as soon as the environment is conducive to a successful reorganization effort. Local and chapter alumni will be important factors to the success of these projects. The Executive Council received and accepted the requests for suspension in March.

New Jersey Gamma at Rutgers University closed after several semesters struggling to overcome low membership and financial burdens. California Iota requested a suspension of the charter when only three members were left at the University of California, Davis. Though several alumni were involved in a supervisory committee, the chapter situation and a very difficult campus Greek environment was simply untenable.

The brothers of California Theta at California State University, Northridge also requested charter suspension. Most of the members—in fact, most of the campus' student body—transferred to other colleges after 1994's earthquake left much of the Northridge campus inoperable. After two terms of hard work, with help from a number of loyal alumni, the chapter came to the decision that it could not survive further.

Expansion

On a brighter note, the expansion program of the Fraternity is developing nicely. While no new colonies were added during the fiscal year, we doubled our number of expansion visits and contacts, developed a more comprehensive expansion policy and have identified ideal prospect campuses. With this foundation and a greater emphasis on expansion from the Executive Council, the coming year should be a year of growth for Phi Kappa Psi.

Expansion information, presentations or visits were presented to the following campuses during the fiscal year: University of California, Riverside; Duquesne University; Philadelphia College of Pharmacy & Science; University of South Carolina (both the main campus at Columbia and the campus at Spartanburg); Boise State University; Denison University; Northern Kentucky University; University of South Dakota; Texas Woman's University (now co-ed); University of Maryland—College Park; St. Cloud State University; California State University, San Marcos; Baylor University; University of Houston; University of San Diego; San Jose State University; and West Chester University.

At the start of the 1995–1996 academic year, Phi Kappa Psi will have three active colonies: California Lambda at San Diego State University, Texas Epsilon at Texas Woman's University and Pennsylvania Sigma at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science. It is the goal of the Executive Council and Fraternity staff to work aggressively with these groups so that each earns its charter in the spring of 1996.

We doubled our number of expansion visits and contacts, developed a more comprehensive expansion policy, have identified ideal prospect campuses and have made a number of expansion presentations to campuses.

We invite alumni and undergraduates to inform us of any expansion opportunity in their area, as any colonization is more successful when there are a lot of Phi Psis there to help. Through members who transfer to campuses where there is no chapter of Phi Kappa Psi, alumni whose sons may be attending a campus where they want to found a chapter and alumni groups who have an interest in helping to create a chapter at a campus in their area, the Fraternity can add new campuses to the rolls and ensure that there are members there to help support them.

Undergraduate Membership

Having fewer chapters has had only a slight negative impact on membership. This year, 1,231 men have been reported and entered onto the Grand Membership Roll. This number is down only 8 men from the previous year. A total of 1,385 pledges were reported during the year, down 12 percent from 1,570 in 1993–1994. While these numbers are a concern to all, they reflect the down-sizing of campus Greek systems nationwide—an effect being felt by all men's fraternities. This means that membership recruitment and retention must continue to be a priority for all chapters, including a continuous open rush process (where allowed), Fraternity education programs which encourage scholarship and leadership and hands-on assistance from experienced alumni.

Equally unsettling is the fact that a number of chapters are still having difficulty reporting pledges and initiates in a timely manner, which delays their addition to the rolls of the Fraternity. We are working to overcome this challenge, but still find groups who collect the appropriate fees and use them to pay chapter bills rather than sending them directly to the Fraternity as our governing documents require. This often leads to chapter debt, initiates who do not receive their badges or certificates and even suspension of operations.

We continue to encourage alumni who work with chapters to take extra care to ensure that monies collected for pledge and initiation fees are remitted immediately to the Fraternity. In addition, we are examining several options which will assist chapters in the collection of accounts through payment by use of credit cards or through incentives for early payment.

The average chapter size was down by one member at approximately 44 members and pledges. This "average" chapter pledged 16 men and initiated 14 of those men. While the number of pledges was down, the initiation number is the same as last year, showing a growth in the retention rate. If we are able to attract more men to pledge our chapters and continue our excellent retention, we should be able to grow significantly in the coming years. This is the challenge to our undergraduate chapters and the alumni who work with them.

Scholarship and Leadership

Several chapters are excelling in scholarship, having attained a chapter grade point average which ranks them first or second among fraternities at their respective campuses. These chapters are: Arizona Alpha, Georgia Alpha, Indiana Epsilon, Indiana Zeta, Louisiana Gamma, Ohio Beta, Ohio Epsilon, Ohio Lambda, Pennsylvania Zeta and Texas Delta. We continue, however, to have a number of campuses which do not provide grade point information for our chapters. This makes it difficult to properly recognize many chapters who are doing quite well.

As mentioned earlier, the 3RQ and Chapter Standards programs have been developed to assist chapters in reaching their potential. A number of publications and resources are currently under production to help in this mission. Overall, however, there is a rededication to the concepts of scholarship, leadership and service and every chapter is encouraged to develop programs in each of these areas.

As chapters recruit men who show promise or who have experience as scholars and leaders, chapter programs will become stronger, as will the retention of pledges and members. Helping and encouraging those individuals to mature and develop within these areas through support and resources, planned programs to allow them to exercise their skills and rewards for those who excel, will ensure that our chapters remain leaders among their campus Greek systems and a true partner in the educational mission.

While a number of campuses are re-evaluating whether or not they want to be involved in Greek life, Phi Kappa Psi is making a new commitment to our chapters and alumni to support our undergraduates and help them reach their potential. We've broadened our scholarship programs, added financial incentives and awards, increased recognition for excellence and set policies and standards which clearly state the expectations of the Fraternity.

The recent success of the Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi will make possible greater resources, including a Presidents Academy and improved Woodrow Wilson Leadership School. In addition, scholarship moneys and Chapter Scholarship Funds for individual chapters will be increased and improved to help more Phi Psis achieve their educational goals. We are also working on a member development program which will encourage learning and skills development throughout the Phi Psi experience, rather than a short-term Fraternity Education process.

Membership recruitment and retention must continue to be a priority for all chapters, including a continuous open rush process . . .

ALUMNI AFFAIRS

One year into the implementation of the strategic plan developed last biennium, the support services offered to alumni associations and alumni volunteers have produced some very positive results. Four alumni associations have been rejuvenated and several new groups are forming. Special alumni mailings for chapters and associations, as well as "Phi Psi Nights" held around the country, have helped to increase the overall interest of alumni in the Fraternity. During the 1995-1996 year, look for Phi Psi to be coming to your neighborhood. With expansion opportunities, assistance offered to associations and recruitment of Chapter Advisory Committees, chances are you will be hearing from us.

The Alumni Induction Ceremony has met with enthusiastic support from chapters and associations with increased use during this year's Founders Day celebrations and other alumni events. This ceremony, along with the newly developed covenants of membership, are designed to strengthen the ties between our members and the ideals of the Fraternity.

At the heart of Phi Kappa Psi is volunteerism.

Becoming involved with the Fraternity can offer opportunities for community service, career networking, socializing, leadership development, expansion and growth of the Fraternity and an ideal way to welcome other alumni to a new community. We look forward to obtaining your input in the coming year as we conduct an audit of your needs and desires as alumni.

The success of the Chapter Advisory Committee approach to advising, has led to the development of a new program. The addition of Regional Coordinators, volunteers working with advisory committees, alumni corporations and chapter officers to recruit and train committee members, is helping to strengthen the program. The Fraternity will be conducting regional seminars to assist alumni volunteers during the upcoming year. Over 50 percent of our chapters have implemented this team approach to advising, however, we still have eight chapters with no advisors at all: California Delta, University of Southern California; California Epsilon, UCLA; Indiana Epsilon, Valparaiso University; Minnesota Beta, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities; Oregon Alpha, University of Oregon; Pennsylvania Alpha, Washington and Jefferson College; Pennsylvania Zeta, Dickinson College; and Tennessee Delta, Vanderbilt University.

The Career Networking Program, which was introduced in the June 1995 issue of The Shield, is helping us identify alumni successful in their chosen careers who are willing to share their expertise with a young Phi Psi who is just starting out. Phi Psi Leaders is a new addition to The Shield that highlights prominent Phi Psis across the country and recognizes them for their achievements. These programs are allowing Phi Kappa Psi to become familiar with its prominent alumni and create a network of opportunities throughout the country. If you or an alumnus you know is a Phi Psi Leader, let us know.

Phi Psi's strength and success is directly linked to the knowledge, experience and involvement of its alumni. Please consider becoming involved personally in the future of your chapter and the Fraternity.

MEMBER COMMUNICATIONS

The Shield of Phi Kappa Psi is the Fraternity's primary means of communicating with Phi Psi's more than 55,000 living members. With the publication of this issue, 115 volumes of The Shield have been published since the magazine first appeared in 1879. The Shield of Phi Kappa Psi is the fourth oldest fraternity magazine in continuous publication. Bound volumes of The Shield are available from the Fraternity Headquarters for a nominal charge.

Electronic mail, or e-mail, is catching on in Phi Kappa Psi. The Phi Kappa Psi e-mail exploder was established by Endowment Fund Trustee John F. Buck, Indiana Beta '75, in 1992 and now includes nearly 150 participants from most of our chapters. Lively and often serious dialogue about important Fraternity issues is exchanged daily. If you have an e-mail address and would like to join in the discussion, send an electronic mail message that includes your name and chapter to pkp-request@cs.indiana.edu and you will be added to the list.

The World Wide Web is Phi Kappa Psi's next frontier. The staff is in the process of seeking out a reputable service provider that can meet our needs, once we have determined exactly what those needs are. One of the primary targets of a home page on the Web would be campuses where we are looking to expand. Rather than placing an advertisement in the campus newspaper with the Headquarters' telephone number, a Web address can be added where prospective members can get detailed information about the Fraternity.

The Fraternity also publishes three newsletters: The Areopagus is primarily for chapter leaders; The Sentry is the Fraternity's risk management publication; and The Roundtable is for chapter advisors and advisory committees.

INSURANCE AND RISK MANAGEMENT

The insurance program offered by the Fraternity to our chapters, alumni volunteers, officers and staff continues to be one of the most comprehensive in the interfraternity world. Our goals with the insurance and risk management program are to prevent losses from occurring and reduce the risk associated with operating a fraternity. The health and safety of our members is the program's primary concern.

Assisting us in these goals is FIPG, Inc., a risk management association whose membership includes over 60 percent of all men's and women's fraternity chapters in the nation. Phi Psi continues to be dedicated to the risk management policies of FIPG and has become increasingly involved in the association. Executive Director Terry Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85, who has served on the FIPG Board of Directors for two years, is serving as FIPG's president through July, 1996.

The components of the insurance program include coverage in commercial liability, property, directors and officers and a fidelity bond program. Participation in the program is mandatory for all chapters. A general overview of the 1994-1995 insurance program includes:

Primary liability coverage through Landmark Insurance Company of $1 million per location per year, with excess coverage of $4 million. Total aggregate of $5 million with a $50,000 per occurrence and $150,000 aggregate self-insured retention (SIR).

Property coverage through Lexington Insurance Company covering in excess of $35 million of land, buildings, contents and loss of income.

Property inspections to evaluate overall safety and to perform an appraisal to ensure adequate coverage were conducted with completion scheduled for this fall.

Publication of a new risk management and insurance guide for distribution in fall 1995 to all chapter advisors, alumni corporations and chapter presidents.

Phi Psi's risk management newsletter, The Sentry, is in its fifth year of publication and continues to be recognized as one of the best in the interfraternity world.

Adjustments based on performance allow some chapters to receive discounts for excellence in risk management education, while other chapters with poor performance receive a surcharge.

Education efforts continued at all levels of operation, with the primary focus being our struggling chapters.

With the litigious society in which we operate, Phi Psi recognizes that a comprehensive and affordable insurance program is a necessity. Through the support and concerns of our undergraduate and alumni members, Phi Psi will continue to strengthen the services and coverage provided.

FRATERNITY HEADQUARTERS

Heritage Hall, located at 510 Lockerbie Street in downtown Indianapolis, Indiana, has been the Fraternity's Headquarters and Museum since June 1, 1978. The Headquarters houses an impressive collection of Fraternity memorabilia, as well as one of the most outstanding collections of Victorian-era arts and antiquities in the area. The Fraternity's central office was established in 1930 and was located in Cleveland, Ohio until its relocation to Indianapolis in 1978. The Fraternity was incorporated in the State of Indiana in 1987.

Ownership of Heritage Hall and other related real estate, was transferred by the Fraternity to the Endowment Fund in 1990. At the time of the transfer, the Fraternity entered into a long-term lease with the Fund to ensure the use of facilities by Phi Kappa Psi for many years to come.

Fraternity Staff

The Fraternity was well-served during the year under review by 10 full-time staff members. Terrence G. Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85, became the Fraternity's fourth Executive Director on June 11, 1990. Terry has served on the Fraternity staff in other capacities since November 1, 1986. The Executive Director is the Fraternity's chief operating officer and is responsible for managing and directing the staff in carrying out the policies established by the Grand Arch Council and the Executive Council. The Executive Director also edits The Shield and other Fraternity publications.

Thomas C. Pennington, Texas Alpha '80, became the Director of Chapter Services on September 12, 1994, following the departure of Douglas J. Pszczolkowski, Pennsylvania Beta '87. Until his appointment, Tom had been serving on the staff as the Coordinator of Alumni and Insurance Services since February of 1993. Tom also served on the Fraternity staff from 1984 to 1986 as an Educational Leadership Consultant.

The Director of Chapter Services' primary function is to oversee the Educational Leadership Consultant program, the Fraternity's most visible service to chapters and colonies. Membership reporting, as well as planning and developing leadership programs and conferences are two other priorities for the director.

James M. Acton, Indiana Epsilon '88, joined the staff for the second time on September 19, 1994 as the Coordinator of Alumni and Insurance Services. Jamie was an Educational Leadership Consultant from June of 1991 through May of 1993. As the coordinator, Jamie is responsible for administering the Fraternity's national insurance and risk management programs. The Fraternity provides coverage for chapters and alumni corporations in the areas of property, liability and directors and officers. Working with chapter advisory committees and alumni corporations, as well as helping alumni associations and clubs with programs are also primary responsibilities of the coordinator.

In her fourth year on the staff, Sandra E. Leddy serves as the Staff Accountant. Sandi is the Fraternity staff's chief financial officer and is responsible for the performance of all the accounting functions for the Fraternity and Endowment Fund. Sandi is a graduate of Purdue University.

The support staff includes Joy E. Bump as the System Administrator where she is responsible for the Fraternity's data processing needs and managing the day-to-day functions of the Endowment Fund's Alumni Support Program. Joy is in her 11th year with the Fraternity and is the most senior of the staff members. Completing her first year of service to the Fraternity in July, L. Monique Bonner is the Fraternity's Membership Coordinator where she is responsible for tracking membership trends and processing all new pledges and initiates the Fraternity. Rachel E. Dellinger joined the staff in May and serves as an Administrative Assistant.

Three Educational Leadership Consultants traveled the realm of Phi Kappa Psi during the report year: Christopher R. Partin, Tennessee Epsilon '91; Joshua M. Mistler, Kansas Alpha '90; and Mark M. Eckert, Ohio Delta '89. Josh and Mark have returned for a second year on the road, while Chris departed the staff in July to seek his fortunes in the Atlanta area. David S. Mehring, Michigan Beta '92, has joined Josh and Mark as the third ELC for the 1995-1996 academic year.

Another staff change that occurred during the report year was the departure of Director of Publications David R. Murray, Pennsylvania Gamma '91. David left the full-time staff as of December 31, 1994, but returns as needed for freelance work on some Fraternity and Endowment Fund publications.

FRATERNITY FINANCES

The Fraternity's net income increased $88,000 over the previous fiscal year. This increase was caused by a combination of increased revenue, reduced expenditures and a correction in an accounting policy. During the year under review, the Endowment Fund increased its grant to the Fraternity for educational expenditures by $26,000. In addition, the Fraternity staff was reduced from 11 to 10 employees and thereby reduced expenditures by $20,000. Finally, revenue was increased by $38,000 in the current year to eliminate the liability "Due to The Manual." The amount carried as a liability is cash set aside to reprint The Manual of Phi Kappa Psi. It is truly restricted cash and not a liability.

The Fraternity's unaudited, consolidated balance sheet and income statement can be found on the following pages. Copies of the complete, audited financial statements are available from the Fraternity Headquarters upon written request.

General Fund

The General Fund is just as it sounds, the general operating fund of the Fraternity. The General Fund receives income from membership fees, assessments to chapters, grants from the Endowment and Permanent Funds, conference registrations and other sources. These moneys are used to publish The Shield, fund the Educational Leadership Consultant program, provide assistance to chapters, pay employee salaries and conduct the Grand Arch Council and Woodrow Wilson Leadership School, among other things.

The General Fund revenues exceed expenditures by $91,842. This excess was caused by the increase in pledge revenue due to the elimination of the aforementioned liability "Due to The Manual." Other factors affecting the excess were an increase in the Endowment Fund grant and a reduction in personnel expenditures.

Insurance Fund

The Insurance Fund is the insurance and risk management program created by the Executive Council. All excesses of revenue over expenditures are retained to fund the Fraternity's insurance deductibles and offset any sudden increases in premiums. It is hoped that one day, when insurance reserve goals are met, a decrease in premiums charged to chapters and alumni corporations may result. Recent losses, however, have required the Fraternity to pay the entire per occurrence self-insured retention (SIR) of $50,000 on one claim, and we anticipate that two additional claims from different policy years will each consume the entire per occurrence SIR. Claim adjustment expenses are paid out of the reserve funds as billed by the Fraternity's adjuster.

The current year revenues exceeded expenditures by $38,160. This is an increase of approximately $11,000 over last year. This increase was caused by a reduction in investment losses over the prior year. Revenue is mainly generated from billings to chapters and alumni corporations for insurance premiums. Billings were calculated in accordance with the 1992 Grand Arch Council mandate that dictates that premiums charged must equal the actual premiums charged plus the SIR and no more than a seven and one half percent administrative surcharge. Expenditures are made up of premiums paid to insurance companies and reimbursements to the General Fund for administrative expenditures.

Permanent Fund

The Permanent, Scholastic, Educational, Charitable and Fraternal Fund was created in 1938 to fund life subscriptions to The Shield. Currently the income from the Permanent Fund is used to support the Fraternity's educational programs such as the Educational Leadership Consultant program and the Woodrow Wilson Leadership School. From its humble beginnings with just $43,000, the Permanent Fund's market value has grown over the years to its present value of just over $2.5 million. The Permanent Fund income was used to publish The Shield until the mid-1980s, when the Internal Revenue Service decided that the magazine had no educational value.

The Permanent Fund's assets are overseen by three Trustees, who are appointed by the Fraternity President. The Trustees serve without compensation and give generously of their time and professional expertise to help the Fraternity achieve its financial objectives. The makeup of the Board of Trustees has changed markedly during the report year. At the beginning of the year, the Trustees were John R. Donnell Jr., Ohio Epsilon '59, William M. Batten, Ohio State '29, and the late Dr. John W. Oswald, Indiana Alpha '35. Jack Oswald, who passed away in January of this year, resigned from the Board at the expiration of his term in August of 1994 after six years of service and Mil Batten tendered his resignation on March 1 of this year, having served on the Board since 1984. John Donnell, an entrepreneur and philanthropist residing in Atlanta, remains as the Board's de facto chairman.

Appointed by then president Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55, to replace Dr. Oswald was Fred H. Clay Jr., Alabama Alpha '67. Brother Clay served on the Executive Council as treasurer during the 1990-1992 biennium and in numerous appointed positions prior to that. He lives in Birmingham, Alabama and is the president of Clay-Greene, Inc., a firm engaged in the design and manufacture of equipment for public and private utilities. He is also active on the Alabama Alpha house corporation. Clay's term runs until the 2000 Grand Arch Council.

Thomas P. Rogers, West Virginia Alpha '53, was appointed by President Woodrum to fill Batten's unexpired term which runs until the 1996 Grand Arch Council next summer. Brother Rogers has been an entrepreneur his entire career and is currently the president and CEO of Thoughtfulness, Inc., a chain of retail stores offering greeting cards and giftware. He also serves on the board and executive committee of Huntington National Bank-West Virginia. He resides in Morgantown, West Virginia.

The Permanent Fund is made up of investments managed by Harris Investment Management of Chicago. The investment assets consist entirely of marketable securities which are split between equities (34 percent) and fixed income securities (66 percent). For the year under review, revenues exceeded expenses by $56,695. This is consistent with the previous year. ♦

The Endowment Fund

by Terrence G. Harper, Oklahoma Beta '85
Executive Director

Growth and change have been the buzzwords for the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, Inc. during the year under review, June 1, 1994 through May 31, 1995. The Endowment Fund, an Illinois not-for-profit corporation, is the Fraternity's educational foundation. The Fund is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as a 501(c)(3) educational foundation; and, as such, may receive tax deductible gifts. The objectives of the Fund are to promote academic excellence, leadership and moral responsibility among brothers. The Fund Campaign for Phi Kappa Psi, the Fraternity and Endowment Fund's $7 million capital fund drive. To date, more than $5.4 million has been raised in cash, pledges and deferred gifts.

The goals of The Campaign are to create an endowment large enough to support the educational and leadership development needs of the Fraternity well into the next century. Funds raised to date have already generated enough income to fund the Fraternity's inaugural Presidents Leadership Academy scheduled for winter 1996. The Academy will be an intense weekend of leadership training and development—not chapter management—for some of Phi Psi's best and brightest leaders. It is hoped that additional funding in future years will make it possible to fund the attendance of all chapter presidents and other emerging chapter leaders, as well.

Because of the success of The Campaign, the Endowment Fund also will be able to fund up to 10 scholarships for undergraduate interfraternity council officers to attend the National Interfraternity Conference's Undergraduate Interfraternity Institute, a leadership development program for campus leaders. Other programs are in the works for the coming year.

The Board of Trustees was expanded through action taken by the general membership of the Endowment Fund at its biennial meeting held in conjunction with the 1994 Grand Arch Council. It was determined, after 81 years, that the Endowment Fund and the needs of the Fraternity would be better served by expanding the Board to include broader participation and increase the knowledge base of the Trustees. Thus, the Board of Trustees was increased from three to seven.

The seven Trustees who served during the report year were: Chairman James W. Emison, Indiana Alpha '49; Vice Chairman Jerry Nelson, California accomplishes its goals by providing scholarships to deserving brothers and by providing the Fraternity with a grant to conduct educational programs.

The year began with the Fund being overseen by a board of three Trustees and assets totaling $1.25 million. By the end of the year, there were seven Trustees and the Fund's assets had grown to $1.99 million. The growth of the Fund during the year was due entirely to new cash in the investment portfolio. The unaudited, consolidated balance sheet and income statement of the Endowment Fund can be found on the following pages. The complete, audited financial statements of the Endowment Fund are available upon written request to the Fraternity Headquarters.

The Board of Trustees have been aggressively trekking across the country, meeting with alumni in several cities from Palm Desert, California to New York, New York, to spread the word about The Epsilon '48; Secretary-Treasurer John F. Buck, Indiana Beta '75; James E. Hagler, Tennessee Delta '58; D. Bruce McMahan, California Delta '57; Richard E. Ong, Oregon Beta '55; and Wayne W. Wilson, Michigan Beta '59. Like their counterparts on the Permanent Fund, the Trustees of the Endowment Fund serve without compensation and generously volunteer their time and expertise. On August 15, 1995, Chairman Jim Emison tendered his resignation from the Board of Trustees after five years of dedicated service. Wayne Wilson was unanimously elected to serve as the new chairman. The Fund's investments are professionally managed by PaineWebber in Indianapolis.

By supporting the Endowment Fund, you are ensuring the future of your Fraternity, your community and your country.

A new program launched during the year is the Chapter Scholarship Fund program. This new program enables chapters to create their own scholarship fund within the Endowment Fund. Donations are earmarked for specific chapters by the donor and each year a portion of the income is allocated to the chapter for scholarships or other educational programs. A $100,000 matching gift by an anonymous donor was made in March to encourage all chapters to participate. Information on the program has been sent to chapters, advisors and house corporations, as well as published in The Shield. Contact Executive Director Terry Harper for complete details.

The Alumni Support Program is the annual fund drive of the Endowment Fund. Alumni Support gifts are different from capital campaign gifts in that they are used to fund current educational programs of the Fraternity. Tax deductible gifts are solicited by the Endowment Fund via direct mail. After three years of increasing donations, contributions fell off during the report year and continue to be down in the current year. Generous brothers made 2,781 gifts to the Alumni Support Program totaling $141,765 during the year under review.

The leadership of the Endowment Fund and the Fraternity are exploring ways to increase gifts this year and return the program to a level that can better support the educational needs of the members. Competition from the capital campaign and the Chapter Scholarship Funds could be a factor. Although accounting for the Endowment Fund is done on a fiscal year basis, the Alumni Support "giving year" operates on the calendar year to better coincide with the donors' giving trends. Gifts received are acknowledged in the spring issue of The Shield for all gifts received during the previous calendar year.

Another ongoing program of the Endowment Fund is the scholarships and awards that are given annually to Phi Kappa Psi's best and brightest students. In the year under review, the Endowment Fund awarded nearly $50,000 in scholarships and grants.

The Endowment Fund is continually trying to increase its support to the Fraternity. But the Fund's support of the general Fraternity is directly dependent upon the generosity and loyalty of you, the membership. Whether you have the ability to make an outright cash gift, or would like to talk about making a deferred gift through your estate or a trust, by making a gift to the Endowment Fund of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity you are investing in the leaders of tomorrow. By supporting the leadership development and educational programs of the Fraternity through the Endowment Fund, you are ensuring the future of your Fraternity, your community and your country. Please contact the Fraternity Headquarters for more information about making a gift to the Endowment Fund. ♦

The 1994-95 Shield Dues Program

The Shield Dues Program was created in 1993 in an effort to offset the rising cost of publishing the Fraternity's journal. This year, brothers were asked to make a minimum contribution of $15. A direct mailing was done to every brother who gave to the program in its inaugural year. In addition, a reply form was printed in The Shield. Over 400 brothers responded to the call by donating just under $9,000.

All Phi Psis will continue to receive a life subscription to The Shield regardless of participation in the Dues Program. A reply form for the 1995-1996 Dues Program is included at the end of the donor listing. Gifts to The Shield Dues Program are received by the Fraternity and, therefore, are not tax deductible.

Lessons in Life and Leadership

by Thomas R. Goodwin, Indiana Zeta '84

As a freshman pledge at the University of West Virginia, Terry Bowden, West Virginia Alpha '75, never imagined that walking on the football team would be one of his greatest challenges and lessons in life.

Brother Bowden was committed to continuing his high school accolades and becoming an All-American player on his way to landing a career as a college football coach.

But size limited him as his 5'6" frame couldn't compete against the starters on his team.

"I mostly sat on the bench, but I took it very seriously, and I didn't quit for five years. I accepted the fact I wouldn't be a star, but I wanted to be a coach so bad that I wouldn't give up."

To Terry Bowden, never giving up became his greatest lesson in life and leadership, and his determination wouldn't let him stop. He was committed to his dream of being a head coach for college football, just like his father, Bobby Bowden, a college coach for five decades, now with the Florida State Seminoles.

Knowing his hopes for becoming an All-American were dim, he thought he could become an Academic All-American. All he would have to do would be to get the grades and start just one game in his career.

Although he lettered his junior and senior years, he was never allowed to start, even with his father as coach. This prevented him from even being considered for an All-American nomination.

Still he never gave up, and it paid off.

He graduated magna cum laude with the highest GPA on his team. After graduation he studied for a summer at Oxford University in England and then received his law degree at Florida State while being a Graduate Assistant.

His coaching career is just as impressive. At 26, he was the country's youngest head football coach at Salem College in Salem, West Virginia. Taking over a team who had just finished a 0-9-1 season, Bowden turned the tables and led this college team a WVIAC Conference Championship in his second year, winning 18 of the last 24 games he coached there.

Success was in his veins and winning was his game.

This track record landed him an assistant job at Akron for a year and then in 1986 he was named head coach at Samford University, his parents' Baptist alma mater in Birmingham. And he won again.

Samford was 9-1 his first year, tying the record for their best season ever, leading the nation in total offense and scoring offense. The team's 40 touchdown passes were also a national season record.

He led the Bulldogs from non-scholarship Division III to a national contender in Division IAA scholarship football.

In 1993, Bowden was named head coach at Auburn, and his bio began: "At 37, Terry Bowden, one of the youngest coaches in Division IA football, is poised on the threshold of greatness..."

No one knew how close to greatness he was. One writer noted: "That's a bold statement about a guy who has never won or coached his first game (in IA)."

Yet in five months that bio became reality as Bowden became the first Division IA coach to ever go undefeated and untied in his first year; a perfect 11-0 season, the best in Auburn's 101 year career. Unfortunately, NCAA sanctions prevented the Tigers from post-season play.

But that didn't keep Bowden from receiving almost every national coach of the year award including Walter Camp, Scripps Howard and Football News.

In his second year, Bowden extended the winning streak to 20 games and ended the season at 9-1-1.

The 1995 season looks promising as well, and the Tigers are thought to land in the top five in the country. Now that NCAA restrictions (imposed upon Auburn before Bowden's arrival) have been lifted, the Tigers hope to see some bowl game play.

As the head coach of the Auburn University Tigers, Bowden senses that his college years played a pivotal role in developing who he is today.

A student athlete, Bowden had most of his needs met: academic study halls, a real-life curriculum for leadership development, as well as good friendships. But what Bowden found missing was balance which led him to pursue Phi Psi.

"My most enjoyable moments in college were in the Fraternity. I pledged Phi Psi not because I needed a group, but because of the good people I enjoyed being with.

Terry Bowden

West Virginia Alpha '75

"I initially joined the Fraternity for fun, for a break from sports, but what I got out of it was strong friendships and bonds that still remain today.

"The Fraternity to me provided rest in the midst of a hectic academic and athletic schedule. It gave me a perspective I hope I'm applying to my life today—not to be so driven with tunnel vision that I forget to have balance in my life."

This perspective does more than just affect his schedule, it affects his character.

"We need to develop balance in all areas of our life: physical, mental, emotional and spiritual."

This is obvious both on and off the field as Bowden is a committed family man and community leader.

A well-known speaker at church revivals, Bowden often focuses on the spiritual side of life. "It must be the foundation to all other aspects; you can't leave it out, it affects every area of your life."

His wife, Shyrl spends most of the fall with their four girls traveling from game to game, but in the off-season, Bowden knows his limits and makes his family a priority. He was able to spare an hour for this interview between his time at home during the off-season and getting ready for a family vacation. He knows his limits.

He admits to having his own creed in life and never giving up is on the top of the list, but right below that is to be well-balanced.

"Because I'm so driven, I can have the tendency to lose perspective and have tunnel vision. I've learned the hard way that this doesn't work."

He knows the cost all too well. "I was so overly committed to my dream of coaching and doing the right things to accomplish it, that I forgot I had the responsibility to take care of my wife, and it cost me my first marriage."

That was six years into his coaching career and remains the one regret in Bowden's life.

"Everyone thought I was doing the right things, and I was, if all I wanted was to become a coach. I've decided to never look back and allow it to destroy my life, but I do carry the scars of not following my own creed."

It's the adversity in his life that has taught him the greatest lessons. Though he never looks back, he learns from his mistakes and never gives up.

His life creed is still being written, and his character goes deeper. He's the same man on the field as off.

This is evident in his passion to see character developed within his student athletes. His mottoes often reflect his priority on the development of character.

As a first year coach at Auburn, the buzz word was AttitUde. That's what it would take to make a winning team and his formula is simple:

1. I believe in myself.
2. I will give 100 percent.
3. I will succeed.

"Knowing those three things made all the difference for me in college. Although I didn't play ball much and was never made All-American, I was convinced that I could amount to something—that I could fulfill my dream. So I gave 100 percent and eventually success came my way."

"Sometimes we lose and don't reach our immediate goals, and it might take a few years to understand what success really is, but over the years, I did succeed."

Last fall, his second year at Auburn, the motto was AUdacity.

"I had to continue telling the team to have a positive attitude, to believe that they could go undefeated again. That was audacity, and it worked. Even though we lost one and tied one, we still won 20 straight games—a school record."

His winning spirit is contagious but his character goes deeper.

As far as creeds go, there are some things that Bowden is not willing to compromise.

"I will not compromise my belief in fair play, and doing what's right...(I don't) cut corners, or recruit illegally. There are so many indications that you have to do those things to succeed. I don't believe it."

"All the opportunities to cheat: academic scandals, cheating the IRS, shady deals... We need to have a sense of inner conscience and become honest with ourselves. My father has coached for five decades and he tells me 'you don't have to cheat to win.'"

That's good advice to anyone who really wants to succeed in life.

Alumni Center Honors Phi Psi

The University of Toledo recognizes the exemplary and tireless efforts of Ed Schmakel

by John James Manore III, Ohio Eta '77

Edward C. Schmakel

Ohio Eta '50

He has been known simply as "Brother Ed" to generations of Phi Psis at the Ohio Eta chapter at The University of Toledo. And after serving 24 years as The University of Toledo's first Director of Alumni Relations, the tireless and exemplary service of Edward C. Schmakel, Ohio Eta '50, has been recognized by the university and the Alumni Association, with the naming of The University of Toledo's Alumni Center in his honor.

A victim of polio at the age of seven months, Brother Ed overcame this disability to become a top scholar in high school. He earned a National Youth Administration Scholarship to the then Toledo University in the fall of 1935. Having a hard time mainstreaming on his own, the then Dean of Students, Donald Parks, encouraged Ed to get involved in school. In November 1935, Ed pledged to Sigma Beta Phi, which became the Ohio Eta chapter in 1950. Blessed with a photographic memory for names and places, a skill which would later aid him in his future endeavors as Alumni Director, Ed became the chapter secretary, and was called on to enlighten the brotherhood with the names and personal history of each potential rushee/pledge.

Returning to the University in 1963, after his graduation in 1939, Ed became the Director of Alumni Relations and was one of the University's most successful fund raisers. The University of Toledo Alumni Association dues-paying membership increased seven fold during his tenure. Ed started the University "Tower Club," the membership arm of the Alumni Foundation, which grew from 85 charter members to more than 1,000 annually at the time of his retirement as Director of Alumni Relations Emeritus. Brother Ed's success as Alumni Director was presaged in 1955 when he received the Alumni Association's first Blue T Award, which is given annually for outstanding service to the association and the university.

Brother Ed also served as faculty advisor to the Mortar Board Honor Society and Blue Key National Honor Society. At the time of his retirement in 1983, a scholarship fund was established in his name to honor outstanding student members of Blue Key. Ed also received his Master's Degree from Toledo in 1968.

Brother Ed's contribution to Phi Kappa Psi has been immeasurable, as he served as chapter advisor to the undergraduate chapter of Ohio Eta for over 24 years, and continues to be a integral part of the chapter's alumni association. The Edward C. Schmakel Outstanding Alumnus award has also been named in his honor, and is given by Ohio Eta to a deserving alumnus each year. In addition, Ed's son, Bruce, is a 1970 initiate of the Ohio Eta chapter.

The Edward C. Schmakel Alumni Center at The University of Toledo.

Brother Ed readily attributes his success over the years to his involvement in Sigma Beta Phi-Phi Kappa Psi, and when asked what the Fraternity means to him he states, "I owe so much to the Fraternity. As a brother I was accepted, they were encouraging and always supportive... the perpetuation of brotherhood was important."

The Edward C. Schmamel Alumni Center, located in the Driscoll Center for Continuing Education is a beautiful addition to The University of Toledo, and is designed to be a focal point for a wide range of alumni activities on campus and in the community. The center includes a fireplace, wet bar, conference facilities and a beautiful view of the campus. Of a special note, the wood used for the oak paneling in the room came from those trees which were cleared for the construction of the fraternity and sorority housing on the university campus.

The initial Edward C. Schmamel Alumni Center project was funded by $180,000 in contributions from supporters. However, The University of Toledo Alumni Association has recently approached Ohio Eta, asking for the chapter's assistance in raising an additional $20,000 to create an endowment fund to maintain this tribute to Brother Ed, and to Phi Kappa Psi's involvement and contribution to The University of Toledo. To raise this kind of money, we need the help of many people, and so we are contacting the special friends of Ed Schmamel, The University of Toledo and Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Ohio Eta is asking the brothers and chapters of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity for their assistance in this endowment project. We are presently seeking pledges to this worthy project and fitting tribute to

The plaque commemorating the Edward C. Schmamel Alumni Center.

Brother Ed Schmamel. The University of Toledo Alumni Association has committed to placing a bronze plaque which will be dedicated and placed in the Edward C. Schmamel Alumni Center at this year's Founders Day celebration, identifying all those brothers and chapters making contributions to this worthy project.

Those brothers and chapters wishing to make such a contribution or pledge, or desiring additional information, please contact The University of Toledo, Alumni Association-Edward C. Schmamel Alumni Center Endowment Fund, Driscoll Center, Toledo, Ohio 43606-3395, by telephone at (419) 530-ALUM (2586) or (800) 235-6766, or by fax at (419) 530-4994. Or contact John Manore at (419) 241-1150.

Brother Ed Schmamel is married to Helen, has two sons, Bruce, Ohio Eta '70, and Gary, and lives in Toledo. He is hard at work making the arrangements for this year's Founders Day celebration. ♦

THE Teens

James G. Thurber
Ohio Delta '18

The late author recently received his fourth honorary degree, this one from The Ohio State University. Thurber has received honorary degrees from Kenyon, Williams and Yale, as well. The degree was presented to Brother Thurber's daughter, Rosemary. Two grandchildren were also on hand. Norm Spain, Ohio Delta '33, and his wife, Ruth, were privileged to attend a small but elegant luncheon following the ceremonies for all the honorary degree recipients. Another ceremony was held later at Thurber Center where several dignitaries, including OSU President Gordon Gee, spoke warmly and enthusiastically about Thurber, his works and his legacy to the community and the entire literate world.

THE 30s

William C. MacPhail
Pennsylvania Kappa '38
(Wisconsin Gamma '38)

Bill was recently featured in The Atlanta Journal/The Atlanta Constitution upon his retirement at the age of 75 as senior vice president of CNN Sports. Bill came to CNN at the behest of Ted Turner when the network was created 15 years ago, but his involvement in sports has spanned more than five decades. Among Bill's many credits include helping to bring the National Football League to network television and introducing instant replay to sports coverage in the 1963 Army-Navy football game. Bill is also the first television executive to have been elected to pro football's Hall of Fame. Before going to CNN, he was head of the sports division for the CBS network and an aspiring baseball executive. Baseball being his first love, he held a number of baseball jobs, starting in the late 1940s as road secretary for the New York Yankees. Bill was also the general manager for the Class A Sky Sox in Colorado Springs and director of public relations for the Kansas City Athletics. When he isn't busy with sports, Bill is active with the Atlanta Alumni Association.

Dr. Edwin S. Munger
Illinois Beta '40

Ned has recently written and had published a novella entitled: Rwanda, A Fascinating Story of Man and Gorilla in Africa's Mountains of the Moon. Ned is a world-recognized authority on Africa. He has traveled there 86 times since 1947, visiting all the countries. In addition to serving as the president of the L.S.B. Leakey Foundation for 14 years, Ned launched the Baldwin Fellowships, which helped 40 Africans obtain advanced degrees in archaeology. Since 1985, he has been the president of the Cape of Good Hope Foundation, which has sent over $1 million worth of books to largely black universities in southern Africa. He is Professor Emeritus of African Studies at the California Institute of Technology and was the first Fulbright Scholar to Africa. His novella is available for $9.95 plus $2 shipping and appropriate sales tax for California residents from the CALTECH BOOKSTORE at (800) 514-BOOK or by e-mail at citbooks@caltech.edu.

THE 80s

Curtis Lee Cottle
South Carolina Alpha '83

Curt has been chosen to participate in the Kennedy School of Government mid-career program for public administration at Harvard University. He began the program in June. The year of post-graduate study, funded in part through a grant from Harvard, will culminate in an advanced degree in public administration for Curt, who has served the last nine years as public information director for the South Carolina Commerce Department.

C. Jerry Yang
California Beta '87

Jerry was recently featured in Entertainment Weekly magazine as one of the stars of the digital age. Yang and his partner, David Filo, both Ph.D. candidates in electrical engineering at Stanford, created Yahoo, the on-line list of cool sites on the World Wide Web. Yahoo now includes about 50,000 entries and has become the Web's de facto yellow pages. They help hundreds of thousands of people surf the Net every day and they maintain the directory in their spare time, for free.

SMike recently left his position as the Acting Director of Campus Activities at the University of California, Santa Barbara to accept a position as a Pharmaceutical/Health Care Consultant with Hoffman-La Roche, the Swiss pharmaceutical giant. In his new position, he will be servicing Beverly Hills, Hollywood, West Hollywood, Encino and Tarzana, California. SMike visits hospitals, physicians and pharmacists to educate them about the proper indications and dosing, among other things, of Hoffman-La Roche's product line. In his spare time, he is a budding screenwriter, writing scripts and short stories loosely based on his days at Wabash College and his junior year abroad. No takers yet, but SMike holds hope that one of his works will get picked up soon.

Bob has been promoted to market analyst for cancer therapies for Indianapolis-based Eli Lilly and Company. He also recently received a Lilly award for his role in a project which resulted in a greater understanding of and commitment to the treatment of clinical depression in cancer patients. Bob also serves as the chapter advisor to the Indiana Zeta chapter at Butler University.

Noonan Releases Second CD; Forms Independent Label

Peter T. Noonan, Indiana Alpha '79, has recently released his second compact disc of original piano works entitled The Orchard. The CD has been released on Noonan's own independent label, Wild Orchard Record Company, and follows up his 1990 debut release, Café at Arles.

"I founded Wild Orchard as an alternative to the traditional music creation and delivery system," says Noonan. "Wild Orchard is an artist-owned label which, over the coming years, will feature a variety of gifted artists with richly hand crafted recordings of deeply passionate music."

Noonan recently left behind a successful 12-year banking career to devote all of his energies to his dream of making music.

"It was scary leaving behind the security of my job to pursue music, but now was the right time," says Noonan. "I've been preparing myself both mentally and financially for this step for quite some time."

Noonan's next effort will be a collection of holiday music due out in the fall of 1996. And Phi Kappa Psi is fortunate to have "booked" Brother Noonan as the featured entertainment at the 1996 Grand Arch Council banquet in Chicago next July.

The Orchard and Café at Arles are available now from Wild Orchard. You can call 1-800-DEMO-A-CD to sample some of the music selections and leave your name, address and/or telephone number to place an order or receive more information. You can also place orders by e-mail at wildorch@aol.com.

Slager Named Vice President of Rotary International

Richard F. Slager, MD, Ohio Delta '47, retired orthopedic surgeon and a longtime member of the Rotary Club of Upper Arlington (Ohio), was recently appointed vice president of Rotary International. The announcement came at the service organization's annual convention in Nice, France in June. Slager assumed the one-year post on July 1, after completing a two-year term as a member of Rotary's board of directors. And Slager may have his Phi Kappa Psi membership to thank for many of his successes.

"The fellowship at Ohio Delta aided in my decision to go into medicine, a profession that I would recommend to anyone," said Slager. "The friends I made in the Fraternity have continued to be some of my best associates in medicine and social circles, as well as service organizations.

"In fact, it was a brother who encouraged me to join Rotary and to assume a role in the club leadership. It is easy to be proud of being counted with men who are making a major difference in the wide world of brother to brother and who call Phi Kappa Psi their Fraternity."

Richard F. Slager, MD, Ohio Delta '47, and his wife, Elaine, whom Slager calls "one of the better things that happened to me during my Fraternity days."

Sculley Promoted to Brigadier General

Col. Patrick D. Sculley, DDS, Pennsylvania Alpha '66, was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General on June 21, 1995 at ceremonies held in Fort Sam Houston, Texas. Since 1993, Sculley has been the commander of the U.S. Army Dental Command. Sculley credited the faith his colleagues, friends and family have in him, and their commitment for earning his advancement. And like so many other successful Phi Psis, Sculley credits his Fraternity experience for preparing him for life.

"When recalling my days at Pennsylvania Alpha, my first thoughts are of friendships," says Sculley. "My big brother was W. Robert Goldman, Jr., Ohio Lambda '72 (Pennsylvania Alpha '64), and I am proud to see that he is still actively supporting the Fraternity."

Many of the events of his college days had a direct bearing on Sculley's military and professional career.

"I learned to study from Fraternity brothers. Prior to joining the Fraternity, my academic career had been mediocre," recalls Sculley. "My brothers exemplified good study habits and I picked up skills that carried me through dental school, internship, residency and numerous military schools."

The sentinel event in his life also came about due to the Fraternity. It happened during the second week of fall football camp in 1966. The team had finally been given a few hours of free time by the coach, so Sculley and several Phi Psis made a beeline to the Washington Hospital School of Nursing in hopes of meeting some student nurses who would go out for some pizza.

"That night I met my future wife," Sculley fondly remembers. "We were 'pinned' in December and married the following summer. She has been my best friend and critic ever since."

Sculley was commissioned in the U.S. Army Reserves in 1969 and received his RA appointment in 1976. He is the recipient of numerous military awards and academic honors.

Phi Psi "Day at the Races" in Del Mar, California Wins, Places and Shows!

Over 50 Phi Psis and family members gathered at the newly renovated Del Mar Thoroughbred Club in San Diego County, California, on Saturday, August 5, for cocktails, lunch and an exciting afternoon of thoroughbred racing, which featured the running of the $300,000 Ramona Handicap.

Del Mar has been a favorite of Southern California since Bing Crosby and his cronies made it popular in the 1940s. The weather was perfect and enough winners were picked by the Phi Psi crowd to allow the majority to go away resolved to come back again next year!

This was a combined production by both the Orange County and San Diego Alumni Associations to set the stage for the area's next Founders Day celebration, to be held in San Clemente, a mid-way point handy to both Orange County and San Diego County alumni.

"Our spring survey showed that local Phi Psis were in favor of having at least two or three events other than Founders Day to bring wives and family to throughout the whole year," explained Ray Garra, California Epsilon '52, president of the Greater Orange County Alumni Association. "And this event was our first offering. The turnout proves the validity to the survey."

"With over 1,500 alumni in the San Diego/Orange County area, we want to come up with a year 'round program that gives everyone a chance for at least one event a year," concluded Garra.

Next up for Orange County: A gourmet dinner affair at the famous Ritz Restaurant in late fall.

Alumni that attended the Del Mar event hailed from chapters from Florida to Washington and Rhode Island to Arizona. J. Robert Meserve, California Beta '34 and SWGP from 1988-90, distinguished the gathering with his and wife Dottie's presence. Pledge years from the '40s to the '90s were also represented.

Phi Psis Earn Membership in Honor Societies

Omicron Delta Kappa National Leadership Honor Society and Gamma Sigma Alpha National Greek Academic Honor Society recently announced new initiates for the 1994-1995 academic year. Phi Kappa Psi undergraduates were honored with membership in both societies.

Omicron Delta Kappa brings together members of the faculty and student body who are of high academic caliber and who have shown considerable leadership skills. Membership honors graduate and undergraduate women and men who are in the top 35 percent of their class academically and who show leadership in one or more of five areas of college life: scholarship; athletics; campus or community service; social religious activities; and campus government; journalism, speech and the mass media; and creative and performing arts.

Unlike an "honorary," a membership into OAK demands further leadership on the part of its members whether they be initiated as undergraduates, graduate students, faculty/administration, alumni or "honoris causa."

This year, the following Phi Psis were inducted into Omicron Delta Kappa membership: Robert H. Miller, Ohio Alpha; Aaron F. Pulver, Tennessee Delta; Alex M. Cross, Justin M. Dardani, Jesse A. Taylor and Robert N. Turner, Virginia Beta; and Craig T. Callahan, Nebraska Beta.

To be a member of Gamma Sigma Alpha, a student must be a junior or above with a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 or higher, or earn a 3.5 g.p.a. during any semester of his or her junior or senior years. Membership selection is also based on demonstrated commitment to academic excellence.

Shown here are members of the Ohio Lambda chapter at Miami University at the Annual Greek Awards Reception after receiving the Academic Achievement Award, Membership Development Award, IFC All Sports Trophy and the Chapter Achievement Award. At the far right is Bradley L. Campbell, Ohio Lambda '93, who was recognized with the Outstanding Chapter President Award.

Members and pledges of the Ohio Delta chapter at The Ohio State University took part in a community service work session at the Thurber House in Columbus where they washed windows and trimmed vines and shrubbery one Saturday last May.

Pennsylvania Iota '36
Zoll, who served as District II Archon from 1938-1940, joined the Chapter Eternal on March 18, 1995 at the age of 79. A former vice president of Libby-Owens Ford Glass Co. and director of its Washington office, Zoll also served as president of the Business-Government Relations Council, the National Security Industrial Association, and the Washington chapter of the Producer's Council. He also had served on the board of directors of the American Ordnance Association and was a member of the National Defense Executive Review. He was an accomplished amateur painter and photographer, and was a member of the Burning Tree Country Club, where his frequent golfing partner was former President Gerald R. Ford.

Lawrence J. McCreary
Indiana Beta '38
The former head basketball coach at Louisiana State University, Lawrence J. "Jay" McCreary died on April 17 in Baton Rouge. He was 77. McCreary was the only person in the history of basketball to have played on and coached an Indiana high school state basketball champion, and to have started on high school state and NCAA championship teams. His coaching career in high school and college spanned four decades. With all his victories, his most famous coaching role was in defeat. McCreary coached the Muncie (Ind.) Central high school team that lost the state championship in 1954 to the team from the little Indiana town of Milan. This match-up was recreated, with some artistic license, in the 1986 movie Hoosiers. McCreary recounted the game in the Summer 1987 issue of The Shield. He retired from coaching in 1971, but stayed on at LSU as the head of the Club Sports Department. He is survived by his wife, Mary.
